CALCULATION OF REGISTRATION FEE

Title of each class of securities to be registered	Amount to be registered⁽¹⁾⁽²⁾	Proposed maximum offering price per share security	Proposed maximum aggregate offering price⁽³⁾	Amount of registration fee⁽⁴⁾
Shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share	646,133,747	N/A	$21,537.79	$2.35 ⁽⁵⁾

Based on the estimated maximum number of shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share (“BowX Class A Common Stock”), of the registrant (“BowX”) to be issued to Inc., a Delaware corporation (“WeWork”) in connection with the merger described herein in respect of outstanding WeWork common and preferred stock plus shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options (assuming the exercise price is paid for in cash) (regardless of whether such stock options are in or out of the money), restricted stock awards and warrants, respectively, at the closing of the business combination. The number of shares in this registration fee table are based on the exact expected exchange ratio as of the date of this registration statement, rounded to seven decimal places rather than four decimal places (the exchange ratio is expected to be 0.8256655) rather than the rounded expected exchange ratio of 0.8257 that is set forth in the registration statement. Specifically, this number includes the following number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock: (A) 558,455,857 shares to holders of WeWork common and preferred stock (including Class C common stock) and (B) 87,677,890 shares underlying unvested and/or unexercised stock options (assuming the exercise price is paid for in cash) (regardless of whether such stock options are in or out of the money), restricted stock units, restricted stock awards and warrants. The sum of (A) 558,455,857 plus (B) 87,677,890 equals the 646,133,747 shares that are being registered in this registration statement. The shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and 19,925,434 shares of Class C common stock to WeWork stockholders as of the closing of the business combination (not including shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants and WeWork partnerships profits interest units) will be registered subject to adjustment as further described in this registration statement.

(1) Pursuant to Rule 416(a) of Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”), there are also being registered an indeterminable number of additional securities as may be issued to WeWork stockholders from stock splits, stock dividends or similar transactions.

(2) Estimated solely for purposes of calculating the registration fee in accordance with Rule 457(f)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”). WeWork is a private company and has an accumulated deficit. Therefore, the proposed maximum aggregate offering price is one-third of the aggregate par value of the WeWork securities exchanged in the merger described herein, including WeWork securities convertible into WeWork capital stock.

(3) Calculated pursuant to Rule 457 of the Securities Act by calculating the product of (i) the proposed maximum aggregate offering price and (ii) 0.0001091.

(4) Previously paid.

The registrant hereby amends this registration statement on such date or dates as may be necessary to delay its effective date until the registrant shall file a further amendment to this registration statement which will then become effective in accordance with Section 8(a) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or until the registration statement becomes effective on such date as the SEC, acting pursuant to said Section 8(a), may determine.

PRELIMINARY PROXY STATEMENT AND PROSPECTUS

SUBJECT TO COMPLETION, DATED SEPTEMBER 16, 2021

BOWX ACQUISITION CORP.

2400 Sand Hill Rd., Suite 200
Menlo Park, CA 94025

Dear BowX Acquisition Corp. Stockholders:

On March 25, 2021, BowX Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation (“BowX”), BowX Merger Subsidiary Corp., a Delaware corporation (“Merger Sub”) and a direct, wholly owned subsidiary of BowX, and WeWork Inc., a Delaware corporation (“WeWork”), entered into the Plan of Merger (the “Merger Agreement”), pursuant to which, among other transactions, on the terms and conditions set forth therein, BowX will merge with and into WeWork (the “First Merger”), with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX in its capacity as the surviving corporation of the First Merger, is sometimes referred to as the “Surviving Corporation”; and as promptly thereafter, as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Corporation will be merged with and into BowX Merger Sub II, a Delaware limited liability company (“Merger Sub II”) and a direct wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “Second Merger” and, together with the First Merger, the “Mergers” and, collectively with the other transactions described in the Merger Agreement, the “Business Combination”). Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger (Merger Sub II, in its capacity as the surviving entity of the Second Merger, is sometimes referred to herein as the “Surviving Entity”). In connection with the Closing (as defined herein), BowX intends to change its name to WeWork (the “New WeWork”), which will be the surviving entity, “New WeWork”).

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock (as defined herein) in existence as of the Effective Time (as defined herein) of the First Merger (other than the Excluded Shares (as defined herein)) will be cancelled in exchange for shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (as defined herein) (at a deemed value per share) representing a portion of an aggregate of 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (as defined herein) (at a deemed value per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion (the “Aggregate Merger Consideration”). The shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued at the closing include shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in exchange for outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, WeWork Partnerships Profits Units (other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (including consideration of New WeWork Class C Common Stock), the WeWork Series C Convertible Note and in-the-money warrants, respectively, at the Closing), New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors (“PIPE Investors”), for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000 (the “PIPE Investment”). The proceeds of the PIPE Investment will be used to pay the amounts remaining in BowX’s trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time, will be retained by New WeWork after the Closing. See the section entitled “The BCA Proposal” of the attached proxy statement/prospectus for further information on the consideration to be paid to WeWork stockholders of WeWork.

On March 25, 2021, BowX Sponsor, LLC (the “Sponsor”), BowX, WeWork, and certain other officers and directors of BowX and their Affiliates (the “Other Persons”) entered into a Sponsor Support Agreement (the “Sponsor Support Agreement”), pursuant to which the Sponsor and Sponsors will, among other things, (i) cause to be forfeited 3,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share of BowX (the “Class B Common Stock” and, together with BowX Class A Common Stock, “BowX Common Stock”), held by them and (ii) vote at least 95% of the Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

Table of Contents

The BowX Units, BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants are currently listed on the Nasdaq Capital Market, under the symbols “BOWXU,” “BOWX,” and “BOWXW,” respectively. BowX intends to apply to continue the listing of the New WeWork Class A Common Stock and public warrants on the NYSE under the symbols “WE” and “WE WS,” respectively, upon the Closing. At the Closing, each unit will split into two components consisting of one share of common stock and one-third of one redeemable warrant and, as a result, will no longer trade as a security.

BowX cordially invites you to attend a special meeting of its stockholders in lieu of the 2021 annual meeting (the “special meeting”) to consider and vote on matters related to the proposed Business Combination. BowX and WeWork cannot complete the Mergers unless BowX’s stockholders approve of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the issuance of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and public warrants issued as the merger consideration. BowX is sending you this proxy statement/prospectus to ask you to vote in favor of these and other proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus in order to obtain stockholder approvals of the proposals necessary to complete the Business Combination. These proposals are described in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The special meeting will be held on [REDACTED], 2021, at [REDACTED] local time, via a virtual meeting. In light of the novel coronavirus (“COVID-19”) pandemic and to support the well-being of BowX’s stockholders and partners, the special meeting will be completely virtual. You must register to attend the special meeting and vote your shares electronically during the special meeting via live webcast by visiting <https://www.bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021>. You will need the 12-digit meeting control number that is printed on your proxy card to enter the special meeting. We recommend that you log in at least 15 minutes before the special meeting to ensure you are logged in when the special meeting starts. You will not be able to attend the special meeting in person.

As described in this proxy statement/prospectus, certain stockholders of WeWork are parties to a support agreement with BowX. These stockholders agreed to vote all of their WeWork Capital Stock in favor of approving the Business Combination.

In addition, WeWork will seek an irrevocable written consent of WeWork’s stockholders as required to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination contemplated thereunder. In the event WeWork determines it is not able to obtain written consent, WeWork will call a special meeting of WeWork stockholders for the purpose of voting to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination contemplated thereunder. Such approval requires (a) the holders of a majority of the shares of the WeWork Capital Stock outstanding; and (b) written consent to any transactions subject to Article Fifth, Part A, Section 3.17 of WeWork’s amended and restated certificate of incorporation (the “Relief Provision”), the affirmative vote or written consent of the holders of at least a majority of the outstanding WeWork Senior Preferred Stock held by any SoftBank Party to affirmatively vote in favor of any such transactions. On March 25, 2021, in connection with executing the Merger Agreement, BowX, WeWork and certain stockholders of WeWork entered into Stockholder Support Agreements, pursuant to which, and subject to the terms and conditions therein, such WeWork stockholders agreed to execute and deliver a written consent with respect to the outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by the signing WeWork stockholders adopting the Merger Agreement and related documents, in order to approve the Business Combination (including consenting to enter into the Merger Agreement effective on March 25, 2021 for purposes of the SoftBank Party Charter Provision (as defined herein), to the extent applicable). Such written consent must be delivered promptly, and in any event within eight (8) hours (or, in the case of SB WW Holdings (Cayman) Limited, WeWork’s largest stockholder, five (5) calendar days) after the date of this proxy statement/prospectus relating to the approval by BowX stockholders of the Business Combination is declared effective by the SEC and otherwise made available to BowX and WeWork stockholders, and (y) BowX or WeWork requests it. The shares of WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock that are owned by the Key Stockholders (as defined herein) and subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of WeWork Capital Stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis). The execution of such written consents by all of the stockholders of WeWork that have entered into Stockholder Support Agreements will constitute stockholder approval at the time of such delivery, and no further action will be required.

additional approval or vote from any holders of any class or series of stock of WeWork will be necessary to adopt and approve the Merger Agreement and the other proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus, and the Business Combination.

After careful consideration, the BowX board of directors has unanimously approved the Merger Agreement and the other proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus, and the BowX board of directors has determined that it is advisable to consummate the Business Combination. BowX board of directors recommends that you vote “FOR” the proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus (including all sub-proposals).

BowX is providing the accompanying proxy statement/prospectus and proxy card to you in connection with the solicitation of proxies at the special meeting and at any adjournments or postponements of the special meeting. Your vote is very important. If you are a stockholder, please vote your shares as soon as possible by signing, dating and returning the enclosed proxy card in the postage paid envelope provided. If you hold your shares in “street name” through a bank, broker or other nominee, you will need to follow the instructions provided to you by your bank, broker or other nominee to ensure that your shares are represented and voted at the special meeting.

More information about BowX, WeWork and the Business Combination is contained in this proxy statement/prospectus. BowX encourages you to read the accompanying proxy statement/prospectus, including the financial statements and annexes and other documents referred to therein, carefully and in their entirety. In particular, you should carefully consider the matters discussed in the section entitled “Risk Factors” on page 31 of this proxy statement/prospectus.

TO EXERCISE YOUR REDEMPTION RIGHTS, YOU MUST ELECT TO HAVE BOWX REDEEM YOUR SHARES FOR A PORTION OF THE FUNDS HELD IN THE TRUST ACCOUNT AND TENDER YOUR SHARES TO BOWX’S TRANSFER AGENT WITHIN TWO BUSINESS DAYS PRIOR TO THE VOTE AT THE SPECIAL MEETING. YOU MAY TENDER YOUR SHARES BY EITHER MAILING YOUR SHARE CERTIFICATE TO THE TRANSFER AGENT OR BY DELIVERING YOUR SHARES ELECTRONICALLY VIA THE DEPOSITORY TRUST COMPANY’S DWAC (DEPOSIT WITHDRAWAL AT CUSTODIAN) SYSTEM. IF THE BUSINESS COMBINATION IS NOT COMPLETED, THEN THESE SHARES WILL NOT BE REDEEMED FOR CASH. IF YOU HOLD THE SHARES IN STREET NAME, YOU WILL NEED TO INSTRUCT THE ACCOUNT EXECUTIVE AT YOUR BANK OR BROKER TO WITHDRAW THE SHARES FROM YOUR ACCOUNT IN ORDER TO EXERCISE YOUR REDEMPTION RIGHTS.

On behalf of our board of directors, I thank you for your support and look forward to the successful completion of the Business Combination.

Sincerely,

Vivek Ranadivé
Chairman of the Board and Co-Chief Executive Officer

herein, carefully and in their entirety. You should also carefully consider the risk factors described in the section entitled “Risk Factors” beginning on page 31 of this proxy statement/prospectus.

After careful consideration, the board of directors of BowX has unanimously approved the Business Combination and recommends that stockholders vote “FOR” adoption of the Merger Agreement, and approval of the transactions contemplated by the Business Combination, and “FOR” all other proposals presented to BowX’s stockholders in this proxy statement. When you consider the recommendation of these proposals by the board of directors of BowX, you should keep in mind that directors and officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section titled “Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” in this proxy statement/prospectus for a discussion of these considerations.

Pursuant to our Existing Charter, a holder of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock originally sold in our initial public offering, or part of the units issued in our initial public offering, (such stock the “public stock”) may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of the holder’s BowX Class A Common Stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated. As a holder of BowX Class A Common Stock, you will be entitled to receive cash for any such shares to be redeemed only if you:

- (a) hold BowX Class A Common Stock, or (b) if you hold BowX Class A Common Stock through units, you elect to separate your units into underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock;
- (ii) submit a written request to Continental Stock Transfer & Trust Company (“Continental”), BowX’s transfer agent, that BowX redeem a portion of your public stock for cash; and
- (iii) deliver your public stock to Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, physically or electronically through The Depository Trust Company.

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their BowX Class A Common Stock in the manner described above by 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on [REDACTED], 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their shares to be redeemed.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm, brokers must notify their broker or bank that they elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, and instruct them to do so. Public stockholders may elect to redeem BowX Class A Common Stock regardless of if or how they vote on the BCA Proposal. If the Business Combination is not consummated, the public stock will be returned to the respective holder.

If the Business Combination is consummated, and if a public stockholder properly exercises its right to redeem all or a portion of its BowX Class A Common Stock that it holds and timely delivers its shares to Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, New WeWork will redeem such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the pro rata portion of the trust account established at the consummation of the Business Combination, calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. For purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. If a public stockholder exercises its redemption rights in full, then it will be electing to exchange its shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for cash and will no longer own BowX Class A Common Stock. The redemption takes place following the Business Combination. Accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.

Stock that will be redeemed promptly after consummation of the Business Combination. See the section entitled “Special Meeting Redemption Rights” in this proxy statement/prospectus for a detailed description of the procedures to be followed if you wish to redeem public stock for cash.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, a public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person the public stockholder is acting in concert or as a “group” (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (“Act”)), will be restricted from redeeming its BowX Class A Common Stock with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the BowX Common Stock, without the consent of BowX. Accordingly, if a public stockholder, alone or acting in concert or as a group, seeks to redeem 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, then any such shares in excess of that 15% limit would not be redeemed for cash.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock held by them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased in a public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As a result, the parties to the Sponsor Support Agreement (as contemplated herein) agreed to, among other things, vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the terms and conditions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement. As of the date of this proxy statement, the initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock. Subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement, the BowX Class B Common Stock held by the Sponsor will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per-share redemption price. As of the date of this proxy statement, the Sponsor owns approximately 13% of the issued and outstanding BowX Common Stock.

The Merger Agreement provides that the obligations of WeWork to consummate the First Merger are conditioned on, among other things, the amount of cash available in the trust account as of the Closing, after deducting the amount required to satisfy BowX’s obligations to its stockholders (if any) that exercise their redemption rights (but prior to the payment of any (i) deferred underwriting commissions to the trust account and (ii) transaction expenses of WeWork and BowX, or their affiliates (such amount, the “Trust Amount”)) plus the PIPE Investment. The Trust Amount actually received by BowX at or prior to the Closing Date, is at least equal to $800.0 million (the “Minimum Available Cash Condition”). The Minimum Available Cash Condition is for the sole benefit of WeWork. If the Trust Amount when added to the PIPE Investment (such amount, the “Available Cash”) is equal to or greater than the Minimum Available Cash Condition amount, then the Minimum Available Cash Condition is deemed to have been satisfied. If such condition is not met, and such condition is not or cannot be waived under the terms of the Merger Agreement, then the Merger Agreement could terminate and the proposed Business Combination may not be consummated. In addition, pursuant to the Organizational Documents, in no event will BowX redeem shares of public stock in an amount that would cause New WeWork’s net assets (determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1(g)(1) of the Exchange Act) to be less than $5,000,001.

The Merger Agreement is also subject to the satisfaction or waiver of certain other closing conditions as described in this proxy statement and prospectus. There can be no assurance that the parties to the Merger Agreement would waive any such provision of the Merger Agreement.

The approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote. The Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date. The BCA Proposal and Adjournment Proposal require the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock (attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote. The Stock Issuance Proposal, Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal require the affirmative vote of shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting. The election of each director nominee pursuant to the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a plurality of shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and voted at the special meeting. Because the Director Election is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving just one “for” vote.

Your vote is very important. Whether or not you plan to virtually attend the special meeting, please vote as soon as possible. Instructions in this proxy statement/prospectus to make sure that your shares are represented at the special meeting. If you have shares held in “street name” through a bank, broker or other nominee, you will need to follow the instructions provided to you by your bank or broker or other nominee to ensure that your shares are represented and voted at the special meeting. The transactions contemplated by the M&A Agreement will be consummated only if the Condition Precedent Proposals are approved at the special meeting. Each of the Condition Precedent Proposals is cross-conditioned on the approval of each other. The Adjournment Proposal is not conditioned upon the approval of any other proposal contained in this proxy statement/prospectus.

If you sign, date and return your proxy card without indicating how you wish to vote, your proxy will be voted FOR each proposal presented at the special meeting. If you fail to return your proxy card or fail to instruct your bank, broker or other nominee how to vote, your shares will not be counted for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present at the special meeting and will not be voted. An abstention or broker non-vote on any proposal will be counted toward the quorum requirement for the special meeting. If you are a stockholder of record and you attend the special meeting and wish to vote virtually, you may do so by signing, dating and returning your proxy and vote while attending virtually.

Your attention is directed to the remainder of the proxy statement/prospectus following this notice (including the Annexes and other documents referred to herein) for a more complete description of the proposed Business Combination and related transactions and each of the proposals. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FOR STOCKHOLDERS OF BOWX

The questions and answers below highlight only selected information from this document and only briefly address some key questions about the proposals to be presented at the special meeting, including with respect to the proposed Business Combination. The questions and answers do not include all the information that is important to BowX's stockholders. BowX urges stockholders to carefully review the proxy statement/prospectus, including the financial statements and Annexes attached hereto and the other documents referred to therein.

Q: Why am I receiving this proxy statement/prospectus?

BowX has entered into the Merger Agreement with WeWork and the other parties thereto pursuant to which, among other transactional terms and conditions set forth therein, Merger Sub is to merge with and into WeWork, with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly-owned subsidiary of BowX; and as promptly as practicable and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Entity will be merged with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger. A copy of the Merger Agreement is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A.

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Closing (other than the Excluded Shares (as defined below)) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration (at a deemed value of $10.00 per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $800,000,000. Additionally, as a result of and upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as the WeWork Warrants in effect with respect to such WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share of such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest whole share). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the direction of the PIPE Investors, for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amount retained in BowX's trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Warrants — Aggregate Merger Consideration.”

BowX stockholders are being asked to consider and vote upon, among other proposals, a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and approve the Business Combination. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal” for more detail.

BowX Units, BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants are currently listed on the Nasdaq Capital Market, under the symbols “BOWXU,” “BOWX” and “BOWXW,” respectively. BowX intends to apply to continue the listing of BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants on the NYSE under the symbols “WE” and “WE WS,” respectively, upon the Closing. At the Closing, each unit will consist of one BowX Unit, which will be comprised of one share of BowX Class A Common Stock and one-third of one redeemable warrant, and therefore will no longer be listed on the Nasdaq Capital Market. The BowX Units will be delisted from the Nasdaq Capital Market following the consummation of the Business Combination.

THE VOTE OF STOCKHOLDERS IS IMPORTANT. STOCKHOLDERS ARE ENCOURAGED TO VOTE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE AFTER CAREFULLY REVIEWING THIS PROXY STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS, INCLUDING THE ANNEXES AND ACCOMPANYING FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF BOWX AND WEWORK, CAREFULLY AND IN ITS ENTIRETY.

Q: What matters will the stockholders consider at the special meeting?

A: At the special meeting, BowX is asking holders of BowX Common Stock to consider and vote upon:

- The BCA Proposal – a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination;
- The Organizational Documents Proposals – four proposals to amend the Existing Charter;
- The Director Election Proposal—a proposal to approve the election of nine directors, who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will serve as the directors of New WeWork;
- The Stock Issuance Proposal – a proposal to approve, for purposes of complying with applicable listing rules of Nasdaq, the issuance of (a) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) shares of New WeWork Common Stock to the WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement;
- The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal – a proposal to approve and adopt the 2021 Plan;
- The ESPP Proposal – a proposal to approve and adopt the ESPP; and
- The Adjournment Proposal – a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to solicitation and vote of proxies in the event that there are insufficient votes for the approval of one or more proposals at the special meeting.

If BowX’s stockholders do not approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals, then unless certain conditions in the Merger Agreement are met by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement could terminate and the Business Combination may not be completed. The applicable parties to the Merger Agreement would not be able to waive Organizational Documents Proposals A or D and still complete the terms contemplated by the Merger Agreement because there will not be a sufficient number of authorized shares of capital stock of BowX available for issuance. If shares required to be issued in the Merger if Organizational Documents Proposal A is not approved. See the sections entitled “BowX’s Board of Directors,” “Organizational Documents Proposals,” “Director Election Proposal,” “Stock Issuance Proposal,” “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal,” and “Adjournment Proposal.”

BowX will hold the special meeting to consider and vote upon these proposals. This proxy statement/prospectus contains important information about the Business Combination and the other matters to be acted upon at the special meeting. Stockholders of BowX should read this proxy statement/prospectus carefully before voting.

After careful consideration, BowX’s board of directors has determined that the BCA Proposal, each of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, the ESPP Proposal and the Adjournment Proposal are in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and unanimously recommends that you vote or abstain from voting “FOR” each of those proposals.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director. Directors may have conflicts of interest between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of himself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

Q: Are the proposals conditioned on one another?

A: Yes. Each of the Condition Precedent Proposals are cross-conditioned on the approval of one another. The Adjournment Proposal is conditioned on the approval of the other proposals, except that it is not conditioned on the approval of the Stock Issuance Proposal.

Q: What will happen upon the consummation of the Business Combination?

On the Closing Date, Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX; and as promptly as practicable and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Corporation A will merge with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger. A copy of the Merger Agreement and proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A.

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Closing (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration (the deemed value of $10.00 per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion. As a result of and upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect under such WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will reflect the number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time multiplied by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent). An additional amount of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in the trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. See the section titled “BCA Proposal” beginning of the attached proxy statement/prospectus for further information on the consideration payable to the stockholders of WeWork.

Q: Why is BowX proposing the Business Combination?

A: BowX was formed for the purpose of effecting a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, reorganization or similar business combination with one or more businesses or entities. BowX is not limited to any particular industry or sector.

BowX received $483,000,000 from its initial public offering (including net proceeds from the exercise by the underwriters of the option) and sale of the private placement warrants, which was placed into the trust account immediately following the initial public offering. In accordance with the Existing Charter, the funds held in the trust account will be released upon the consummation of the Business Combination.

See the question entitled “What happens to the funds deposited in the trust account after consummation of the Business Combination?”

There currently are 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding. In addition, there currently are 23,873,333 warrants issued and outstanding, consisting of 16,100,000 publicly traded warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants. Each whole warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one share of BowX Class A Common Stock at a price of $11.50 per share. The warrants will become exercisable 30 days after the completion of a business combination, and expire five years after the completion of a business combination or earlier upon redemption or liquidation. The publicly traded warrants, however, are non-redeemable so long as they are held by their initial purchasers or their permitted transferees.

Under the Existing Charter, BowX must provide all holders of public stock with the opportunity to have their public stock registered for resale within 120 days of the consummation of BowX’s initial business combination in conjunction with a stockholder vote.

Q: What will WeWork Stockholders receive in return for BowX's acquisition of all of the issued and outstanding equity interest?

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Closing (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration (with a value of $10.00 per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion. Additionally, upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by the holder of such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant will be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (with the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors, for a total aggregate amount of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX's trust account as of immediately prior to the Effective Time will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. See the section entitled "The BCA Proposal" in the accompanying statement/prospectus for further information on the consideration payable to stockholders of WeWork.

Q: What equity stake will current BowX stockholders and WeWork Stockholders hold in New WeWork immediately after the Business Combination?

A: It is anticipated that, based on the assumptions set forth below, upon the consummation of the Business Combination, the ownership of BowX's stockholders will be as follows:

	Share Ownership in New WeWork ⁽¹⁾
	No Additional Redemptions		Assuming Maximum Redemption
	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares
WeWork Stockholders	655,300,000	82.7 %	655,300,000	87.4 %
Initial Stockholders	9,075,000	1.1 %	9,075,000	1.2 %
BowX's Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares)	48,300,000	6.1 %	5,068,902	0.7 %
PIPE Investors	80,000,000	10.1 %	80,000,000	10.7 %
Total	792,675,000	100 %	749,443,902	100 %

The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amounts of stockholders' ownership interests in New WeWork following the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 3.5% ownership interest.

The numbers of shares of "New WeWork Common Stock Assuming No Redemption" set forth above assumes that no public stockholders have their public stock redeemed, and the numbers of shares of "New WeWork Common Stock Assuming Maximum Redemption" set forth above assumes that 43,231,098 shares of public stock are redeemed.

These numbers and percentages assume (i) (a) the vesting of all shares of New WeWork Common Stock received in respect of Restricted Stock Awards, (b) the vesting and exercise of all in-the-money New WeWork Options for shares of New WeWork C the vesting of all New WeWork Restricted Stock Units and the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in respect of vesting and net exercise of all in-the-money warrants, and (e) that New WeWork issues shares of New WeWork Common Stock Merger Consideration pursuant to the Merger Agreement, which in the aggregate equals 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork (assuming that all New WeWork Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment. In addition, the numbers of shares and percentage interests set forth take into account certain potential future exercises of warrants or grants or issuances pursuant to the equity incentive plan effective after the Closing, or any other equity issuances of New WeWork. See the section entitled “Risk Factors – Public stockholders may experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business combination, the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LC Warrant and the exercise of private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence that BowX’s current stockholders have over the management of New WeWork.” See the section entitled “Description of BowX Securities – Redeemable Warrants.” Shares of New A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in these numbers (or in the calculation of the Aggregate Merger Consideration). These numbers and percentages do not include both the number of WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.

If the actual facts are different from these assumptions, the percentage ownership retained by the Company's existing stockholders in the combined company will be different. For example, if we assume that all of the 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private warrants that will remain outstanding post-Business Combination were exercisable and exercised following completion of the Business Combination in accordance with their terms, then the anticipated ownership of New WeWork at the Closing would be approximately 50.0%.

	Share Ownership in New WeWork(1)
	No Additional Redemptions			Assuming Maximum Redemption
	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares		Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares
WeWork Stockholders	655,300,000	80.3 %		655,300,000	84.7 %
Initial Stockholders	16,848,333	2.1 %		16,848,333	2.2 %
BowX's Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares)	64,400,000	7.9 %		21,168,902	2.7 %
PIPE Investors	80,000,000	9.8 %		80,000,000	10.3 %
Total	816,548,333	100 %		773,317,235	100 %

For further details, see “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration — Aggregate Merger Consideration”.

The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination:

Q: Will the Company obtain new financing in connection with the Business Combination?

A: Yes. The PIPE Investors have agreed to purchase in the aggregate approximately 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock for $800,000,000 of gross proceeds, in the PIPE Investment. The PIPE Investment is contingent upon, among other things, the closing of the Combination. See “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — Subscription Agreements.”

Q: Did the board of directors of BowX obtain a third-party valuation or fairness opinion in determining whether or not to pursue the Business Combination?

- No. The BowX board of directors did not obtain a third-party valuation or fairness opinion in connection with its determination to pursue the Business Combination. The BowX board of directors believes that based upon the financial skills and background of its directors, A: conclude that the Business Combination was fair from a financial perspective to its stockholders. The BowX board of directors without seeking a valuation from a financial advisor, that WeWork's fair market value was at least 80% of BowX's net assets, excluding payable on interest earned. Accordingly, investors will be relying on the judgment of the BowX board of directors as described WeWork's business and assuming the risk that the BowX board of directors may not have properly valued such business.

Q: Who will be the officers and directors of New WeWork if the Business Combination is consummated?

- The Merger Agreement provides that, immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination, the New WeWork will be comprised of nine directors: Marcelo Cláure, Michel Combes, Bruce Dunlevie, Véronique Laury, Sandeep Mathrani, Dev Ranadivé, Kirthiga Reddy and Jeff Sine. Immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination, we expect that A: be the executive officers of New WeWork: Sandeep Mathrani, Benjamin "Ben" Dunham, Anthony Yazbeck, Jared DeMatteis, Laura Greenspan, Hamid Hashemi, Maral Kazanjian, Scott Morey and Roger Solé Rafols. Concurrently with the consummation of the Business Combination, BowX's officers and directors, other than Mr. Ranadivé (who will serve as a director of New WeWork following the Business Combination), will resign from their respective positions at BowX. For more information on the management of New WeWork following the Business Combination, see the section entitled "Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination".

Q: Do WeWork Stockholders need to approve the Business Combination?

- Yes. On March 25, 2021, in connection with execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX, WeWork and certain stockholders of WeWork entered into Stockholder Support Agreements, pursuant to which, among other things and subject to the terms and conditions therein, such WeWork Stockholders agreed to execute and deliver a written consent with respect to the outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by the signatory WeWork Stockholders adopting the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination (including consenting to the Merger Agreement effective on March 25, 2021 for purposes of any transactions subject to Article Fifth, Part A, Section 3.1 of the Merger Agreement, amending and restating the certificate of incorporation (the "Related Party Charter Provision"), to the extent applicable). Such written consents were delivered promptly, and in any event within forty-eight (48) hours (or, in the case of SBWW, WeWork's largest stockholder, five days after (x) the proxy statement/prospectus relating to the approval by BowX stockholders of the Business Combination is declared effective and delivered or otherwise made available to BowX and WeWork Stockholders, and (y) BowX or WeWork requests it. The shares of Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock that are owned by the Key Stockholders and subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of WeWork Capital Stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis). The delivery of such written consents by all of the stockholders of WeWork that have entered into Stockholder Support Agreements will provide WeWork stockholder approval at the time of such delivery, and no additional approval or vote from any holders of any class or series of WeWork will be necessary to adopt and approve the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination.

Q: May BowX or BowX's directors, officers or advisors, or their affiliates, purchase shares in connection with the Business Combination?

- In connection with the stockholder vote to approve the proposed Business Combination, the Sponsor, BowX's directors, BowX's A: advisors or any of their affiliates may privately negotiate transactions to purchase shares prior to the Closing from stockholders who have otherwise elected to have their shares redeemed in conjunction with a proxy solicitation pursuant to the proxy rules for the share pro rata portion of the trust account without the prior written consent of WeWork. None of the Sponsor, BowX's directors, BowX's advisors, or their respective affiliates, will make any such purchases when they are in possession of any material non-public disclosed to the seller of such shares. Such a purchase would include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although holder of such shares, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event directors, officers or advisors, or their affiliates, purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares. Privately negotiated purchases may be effected at purchase prices that are in excess of the per share pro rata portion of the trust account. The effect of these purchases would be to increase the amount of cash available to BowX for use in the Business Combination.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Propriety of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

Q: Do I have redemption rights?

If you are a holder of public stock, you may redeem your public stock for cash equal to your pro rata share of the aggregate amount in the trust account, which holds the proceeds of the initial public offering, as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination, including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to BowX to pay its franchise taxes and for working capital purposes, upon the consummation of the Business Combination. The per share amount BowX will determine who properly redeem their shares will not be reduced by the deferred underwriting commissions BowX will pay to the underwriters of the public offering if the Business Combination is consummated. Holders of the outstanding public warrants do not have redemption rights with respect to such warrants in connection with the Business Combination. Our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed to waive their redemption rights with respect to their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock that they may have acquired during or after the initial public offering in connection with the completion of BowX's initial business combination. The shares of BowX Class B Common Stock will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per share redemption price. For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of August 7, 2022, approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. This is greater than the initial public offering price of BowX Units. Additionally, public stock properly tendered for redemption will only be redeemed if the Business Combination is consummated; otherwise holders of such shares will only be entitled to a pro rata portion of the trust account (including net of taxes payable and dissolution expenses) in connection with the liquidation of the trust account. If the Business Combination is not consummated, BowX may enter into an alternative business combination and close such transaction by August 7, 2022 (subject to applicable law). The initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, have agreed to waive their redemption rights with respect to all of the Founder Shares in connection with the consummation of the Business Combination. The Founder Shares will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per-share redemption price.

Q: How do I exercise my redemption rights?

A: If you are a public stockholder and wish to exercise your right to redeem the public stock, you must:

- (i) (a) hold public stock, or (b) if you hold public stock through units, you elect to separate your units into the underlying public stock and sell the underlying public stock directly or through a public market or through warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the public stock;

Table of Contents

- (ii) submit a written request to Continental, BowX's transfer agent, that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash;
- (iii) deliver your public stock to Continental, BowX's transfer agent, physically or electronically through The Depository Trust Company.

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their shares of public stock in the manner described above prior to the Time, on [REDACTED], 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their stock to be redeemed.

The address of Continental, BowX's transfer agent, is listed under the question "Who can help answer my questions?" below. In order for any request for redemption include the identity as to the beneficial owner making such request. Electronic delivery of your stock will be faster than delivery of physical stock certificates.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising redemption rights with respect to the public stock. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, holders must notify their broker if they elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental directly and instruct them to do so.

Public stockholders will be entitled to request that their public stock be redeemed for a pro rata portion of the amount then on deposit in the trust account calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination including interest earned on the trust account and not previously released to us (net of taxes payable). For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00 per share. The proceeds deposited in the trust account could become subject to the claims of BowX's creditors, if any, which could have priority over the claims of the public stockholders, regardless of whether such public stockholder votes or, if they do vote, irrespective of if they voted in favor of the BCA Proposal.

BCA Proposal. Therefore, the per share distribution from the trust account in such a situation may be less than originally expected. Whether you vote, and if you do vote irrespective of how you vote, on any proposal, including the BCA Proposal, will determine the amount you will receive upon exercise of your redemption rights. It is expected that the funds to be distributed to public stockholders who elect to redeem their public stock will be distributed promptly after the consummation of the Business Combination.

Any request for redemption, once made by a holder of public stock, may be withdrawn at any time, with BowX's consent, up to and including the time when the vote on the BCA Proposal is taken with respect to the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. If you deliver your shares for redemption to Continental and do not vote in favor of the BCA Proposal at the special meeting not to elect redemption, you may request that BowX's transfer agent return the shares (physically or electronically) to you. You may make such request by contacting Continental, BowX's transfer agent, at the phone number or address listed at the end of this document.

Any corrected or changed written exercise of redemption rights must be received by Continental, BowX's transfer agent, prior to the time when the vote on the BCA Proposal is taken with respect to the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. No request for redemption will be honored unless the holder's public stock have been delivered to Continental, BowX's transfer agent, (physically or electronically) to Continental, at least two business days prior to the vote at the special meeting.

If a holder of public stock properly makes a request for redemption and the public stock are delivered as described above, the Business Combination is consummated, New WeWork will redeem the public stock for a pro rata portion of funds deposited in the trust account as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. The redemption will take place following the consummation of the Business Combination and, accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Common Stock that will be redeemed.

If you are a holder of public stock and you exercise your redemption rights, such exercise will not result in the loss of any warrants held.

Q: Is there a limit on the number of shares I may redeem?

- A public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person with whom such public stockholder acts in concert or as a "group" (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Exchange Act), will be restricted from redeeming its public stock without the consent of BowX. Accordingly, if a public stockholder, alone or acting as part of a group, seeks to redeem more than 15% of the public stock, then any such stock in excess of that 15% limit would not be redeemable without BowX's consent.

Q: Must I vote “No” in order to redeem my shares?

- A: No. You may exercise your redemption rights whether you vote your public stock for or against the BCA Proposal or do not vote. As a result, the BCA Proposal can be approved by stockholders who will redeem their public stock and no longer remain stockholders. Stockholders who choose not to redeem their public stock holding shares in a company with a less liquid trading market, fewer shareholders, less cash and the potential inability to meet stock exchange listing standards.

Q: If I am a holder of units, can I exercise redemption rights with respect to my units?

- A: No. Holders of issued and outstanding units must elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to the record date for the special meeting. If you hold your units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, you must notify that bank that you elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants, or if you hold units registered in your name, you must contact Continental, BowX's transfer agent, directly and instruct them to do so. You are requested to cause your public stock to be delivered to Continental by 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on [REDACTED], 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order to maintain your redemption rights with respect to your public stock.

Q: What are the U.S. federal income tax consequences of exercising my redemption rights?

- BowX stockholders who exercise their redemption rights to receive cash from the trust account in exchange for their public stock to specified exceptions) will be required to treat the transaction either as (1) a sale of such shares, in which case the redeeming stockholder will recognize gain or loss upon the redemption in an amount equal to the difference, if any, between the amount of cash received and the amount of public stock redeemed, or (2) a distribution in respect of such shares. If the redemption is treated as a sale of shares, the stockholder's taxable gain or loss will generally equal the cost of such shares. If the redemption is treated as a distribution in respect of the stock, the character of the stockholder's income will depend on whether BowX has current or accumulated earnings and profits, as determined under U.S. federal income tax purposes. A stockholder who purchased BowX Units will have to allocate the cost between the shares of Common Stock or warrants comprising the BowX Units based on their relative fair market values at the time of the purchase. See "Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations for Stockholders Exercising Redemption Rights."

Q: What are the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers to WeWork Stockholders?

- For U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers, taken together, are intended to constitute a single integrated transaction that “reorganization” within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code, and each of BowX and WeWork expects to receive a tax opinion from Cooley LLP (“Cooley”) and Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP (“Skadden”), respectively, to the effect that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers will constitute a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code. These opinions of counsel are based on customary assumptions, representations, covenants, and undertakings of WeWork, BowX, Merger Sub, and Merger Sub II. If any such representation, covenant or undertaking is incorrect, incomplete, inaccurate, or is breached, the validity of the opinions may be called into question, and the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers could differ materially from those described in this proxy statement/prospectus of each of WeWork and BowX to consummate the Mergers, however, is not conditioned upon the receipt of such opinions of Cooley, Skadden, or any other law firm. The parties request a ruling from the IRS regarding the qualification of the Mergers as a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code. Assuming that the Mergers qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code: (i) U.S. holders (as defined herein) of BowX Common Stock will generally not recognize gain or loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and (ii) under FIRPTA, Non-U.S. holders (as defined herein) of WeWork Capital Stock will generally recognize gain (but not loss) for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Further, U.S. holders will be subject to withholding of U.S. tax under FIRPTA in an amount equal to 15% of the amount realized on the exchange of WeWork Capital Stock in the Mergers.

The U.S. federal income tax consequences described above may not apply to all holders of WeWork Capital Stock. You should consult your tax advisor to determine the tax consequences of the Mergers to your particular tax situation. You should consult your tax advisor to determine the tax consequences of the Mergers to your particular tax situation.

Q: What happens to the funds deposited in the trust account after consummation of the Business Combination?

Upon consummation of the Business Combination, the funds deposited in the trust account will be released to pay holders of public stockholders who properly exercise their redemption rights; to pay transaction fees and expenses incurred by BowX and WeWork in connection with the Business Combination; and for working capital and general corporate purposes of New WeWork following the Business Combination. See

- A: “BCA Proposal — Sources and Uses of Funds for the Business Combination.”

Q: What happens if a substantial number of the public stockholders vote in favor of the BCA Proposal and exercise their redemption rights?

Our public stockholders are not required to vote in favor of the Business Combination in order to exercise their redemption rights. A substantial number of public stockholders voting in favor of the Business Combination may be consummated even though the funds available from the trust account and the number of public stockholders voting in favor of the Business Combination may be reduced as a result of redemptions by public stockholders. As a result of redemptions, holders of New WeWork Common Stock may have shares in a company with a less liquid trading market, fewer stockholders, less cash and the potential inability to meet stock exchange standards.

The Merger Agreement provides that the obligations of WeWork to consummate the First Merger are conditioned on, among other things, the availability of sufficient cash at the Closing. If the conditions of the Merger Agreement are not met, and such conditions are not or cannot be waived under the terms of the Merger Agreement, then the Merger Agreement will terminate and the proposed Business Combination may not be consummated. In addition, in no event will we redeem public stockholders that would cause New WeWork’s net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1 (g)(1) of the Exchange Act) to be less than $5,000,001.

Q: What conditions must be satisfied to complete the Business Combination?

A: There are a number of closing conditions in the Merger Agreement, including that BowX’s stockholders have approved and adopted the Merger Agreement.

For more information about conditions to the consummation of the Business Combination, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement.”

Q: When do you expect the Business Combination to be completed?

It is currently anticipated that the Business Combination will be consummated promptly following the special meeting of stockholders. A: all other conditions to the consummation of the Business Combination have been satisfied or waived. For a description of the conditions to the completion of the Business Combination, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement.”

Q: What happens if the Business Combination is not consummated?

- A: There are certain circumstances under which the Merger Agreement may be terminated. See the sections entitled “BCA Proposal — Closing Conditions” and “— Termination; Effectiveness” for information regarding the parties’ specific termination rights.
- If BowX is not able to complete the Business Combination with WeWork by August 7, 2022, and is not able to complete an initial business combination by such date, in each case, as such date may be extended pursuant to the Organizational Documents, BowX will redeem all of its outstanding public stock, at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account, including $100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses), divided by the number of then issued and outstanding shares of public stock, which will completely extinguish public stockholders’ rights as stockholders (including the right to receive further liquidating distributions subject to applicable law; and (iii) as promptly as reasonably possible following such redemption, subject to the approval of stockholders and our board of directors, dissolve and liquidate, subject in the case of clauses (i) and (ii) to our obligations under the BCA to provide for claims of creditors and the requirements of other applicable law. See the sections entitled “Risk Factors — Risk of Non-Completion of the Business Combination and BowX — BowX may not be able to complete an initial business combination within the prescribed time period, which would result in the liquidation of BowX” and “— BowX stockholders may only receive $10.00 per share, or less than such amount in certain circumstances, and the public warrants held by them may become worthless” and “— BowX stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against BowX to the extent of distribution upon redemption of their shares.” Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have waived their right to liquidation distribution with respect to the Founder Shares.

In the event of liquidation, there will be no distribution with respect to outstanding warrants. Accordingly, the warrants will not be exercisable.

Q: If I hold warrants, can I exercise redemption rights with respect to my warrants?

- A: No. There are no redemption rights with respect to the warrants.

Q: Do I have appraisal rights in connection with the proposed Business Combination?

- A: No. Neither BowX’s stockholders nor BowX’s warrant holders have appraisal rights in connection with the Business Combination.

Q: What do I need to do now?

- BowX urges you to read this proxy statement/prospectus, including the financial statements, Annexes and the documents referred to herein and in their entirety and to consider how the Business Combination will affect you as a stockholder or warrant holder. BowX’s stockholders are urged to vote as soon as possible in accordance with the instructions provided in this proxy statement/prospectus and on the enclosed voting instruction form, even if you hold your shares through a brokerage firm, bank or other nominee, on the voting instruction form provided by the broker, bank or other nominee.

You may submit your proxy by signing, dating and returning the enclosed proxy card, or by voting online via the Internet, or by telephone, or by mail, or by facsimile, or by electronic communication, or by any other method permitted by law.

postage-paid envelope. If you hold your shares in “street name,” which means your shares are held of record by a broker, bank or nominee, contact your broker, bank or nominee to ensure that votes related to the shares you beneficially own are properly counted. In this case, provide the broker, bank or nominee with instructions on how to vote your stock or, if you wish to attend the special meeting and vote virtually, obtain a valid proxy from your broker, bank or nominee.

Q: What will happen if I abstain from voting or fail to vote at the special meeting?

At the special meeting of stockholders, BowX will count a properly executed proxy marked “ABSTAIN” with respect to a particular proposal for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present. For purposes of approval, an abstention or failure to vote will have the same effect as a vote against each of the Business Combination Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals and the Adjournment Proposals, no effect on any of the other proposals.

Q: What will happen if I sign, date and return my proxy card without indicating how I wish to vote?

A: Signed and dated proxies received by BowX without an indication of how the stockholder intends to vote on a proposal will be voted as a vote against each of the Business Combination Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals and the Adjournment Proposals.

vote your shares. Instead, you may submit your proxy by signing, dating and returning the applicable enclosed proxy card(s) in the postage-paid envelope. Your vote is important. BowX encourages you to vote as soon as possible after carefully reading this prospectus.

Q: If I am not going to attend the special meeting of stockholders virtually, should I return my proxy card instead?

A: Yes. After carefully reading and considering the information contained in this proxy statement/prospectus, please submit your proxy by signing, dating and returning the enclosed proxy card in the postage-paid envelope provided.

Q: If my shares are held in “street name,” will my broker, bank or nominee automatically vote my shares for me?

No. If your shares are held in a stock brokerage account or by a bank or other nominee, you are considered the “beneficial holder” for you in what is known as “street name.” If this is the case, this proxy statement/prospectus may have been forwarded to you by your broker, bank or other nominee, or its agent, and you may need to obtain a proxy form from the institution that holds your shares. Under the instructions included on that form regarding how to instruct your broker, bank or nominee as to how to vote your shares. Under the national and regional securities exchanges, your broker, bank, or nominee cannot vote your shares with respect to non-discretionary proposals unless you provide instructions on how to vote in accordance with the information and procedures provided to you by your broker, bank or other nominee. A: I believe all the proposals presented to the stockholders will be considered non-discretionary and therefore your broker, bank, or other nominee will vote your shares without your instruction. Your bank, broker, or other nominee can vote your shares only if you provide instructions on how to vote your shares. As the beneficial holder, you have the right to direct your broker, bank or other nominee as to how to vote your shares and you should instruct your broker to vote your shares in accordance with directions you provide. If you do not provide voting instructions to your broker on a proposal, your broker does not have discretionary authority to vote, your shares will not be voted on that proposal. This is called a “broker non-vote.” Broker non-votes, while considered present for the purposes of establishing a quorum, will not count as votes cast at the special meeting. A proposal, and will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposal and will have no effect on any other proposals.

Q: What is the quorum requirement for the special meeting of stockholders?

A: A quorum will be present at the special meeting of stockholders if a majority of the BowX Common Stock outstanding and entitled to vote at the special meeting is attending virtually or by proxy. In the absence of a quorum, the chairman of the meeting has the power to adjourn the meeting.

Q: What vote is required to approve each proposal at the special meeting?

A: The following votes are required for each proposal at the special meeting:

Q: What are the recommendations of BowX's board of directors?

BowX's board of directors believes that the BCA Proposal and the other proposals to be presented at the special meeting are in the best interests of BowX's stockholders and unanimously recommends that its stockholders vote "FOR" the BCA Proposal, "FOR" each of the separate Organizational Documents Proposals, "FOR" the Director Election Proposal, "FOR" the Stock Issuance Proposal, "FOR" the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, "FOR" the ESPP Proposal and "FOR" the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of the director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's directors may have personal interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal and BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

Q: What interests do BowX's current officers and directors have in the Business Combination?

A: BowX's board of directors and executive officers may have interests in the Business Combination that are different from, in addition to, yours. These interests include:

- the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders paid $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such shares and warrants have a market value of approximately $ million and $ million, respectively, based on the closing price of BowX Class A Common Stock on Nasdaq on , 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders. Each of our officers and directors has a direct or indirect interest in the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor, and as such Mr. Ranadivé and Rode have investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held of record by the Sponsor;
- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder vote to approve the Business Combination;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately $11,660,000 for 7,773,333 private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement warrants would be worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants, will experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders experience a negative rate of return on their investment;
- that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and BowX's directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
- the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors' and officers' liability in connection with the Business Combination;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, though there have been no out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not consummated.

These interests may influence BowX's directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the approval of the Business Combination and the transactions contemplated thereby. BowX's directors were aware of and considered these interests, among other factors, in evaluating the Business Combination, and in recommending to BowX stockholders that they approve the Business Combination. BowX stockholders should take these interests into account in deciding whether to approve the Business Combination.

Q: How does the Sponsor intend to vote their shares?

A: Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchases made in a public offering (including in

A: Stockholders also may revoke their proxy by sending a notice of revocation to BowX's Secretary, which must be received by BowX prior to the vote at the special meeting. However, if your shares are held in "street name" by your broker, bank or another nominee, you may instruct your broker, bank or other nominee to change your vote.

Q: What happens if I fail to take any action with respect to the special meeting?

If you fail to take any action with respect to the special meeting and the Business Combination is approved by stockholders and the Business Combination is consummated, you will become a stockholder or warrant holder of New WeWork. If you fail to take any action with respect to the special meeting and the Business Combination is not approved, you will remain a stockholder or warrant holder of BowX. However, if you vote with respect to the special meeting, you will nonetheless be able to elect to redeem your public stock in connection with the Business Combination (if time permits).

Q: What should I do with my stock certificates, warrant certificates or unit certificates?

A: Our stockholders who exercise their redemption rights must deliver (either physically or electronically) their stock certificates to BowX's transfer agent, prior to the special meeting. Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their public stock in the manner described above prior to 5:00 p.m. on [REDACTED], 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their shares to be redeemed. Our warrant holders should not submit the certificates relating to their warrants. Public stockholders who do not elect to have their shares redeemed for the pro rata share of the trust account should not submit the certificates relating to their public stock.

Q: What should I do if I receive more than one set of voting materials?

Stockholders may receive more than one set of voting materials, including multiple copies of this proxy statement/prospectus and multiple voting instruction cards or voting instruction cards. For example, if you hold your shares in more than one brokerage account, you will receive a separate instruction card for each brokerage account in which you hold shares. If you are a holder of record and your shares are registered in your name, you will receive more than one proxy card. Please sign, date and return each proxy card and voting instruction card that you receive to cast a vote with respect to all of your BowX Common Stock.

The Business Combination

The Merger Agreement

This subsection of the proxy statement/prospectus describes the material provisions of the Merger Agreement, but does not describe all of the terms of the Merger Agreement. The following summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the complete text of the Merger Agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this proxy statement/prospectus. You are urged to read the Merger Agreement because it is the primary legal document that governs the Business Combination.

Structure of the Mergers

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which, among other things, Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and WeWork will be the surviving corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “First Merger”). Pursuant to and in accordance with the terms of a separate agreement and plan of merger to be entered into by BowX, the surviving corporation of the First Merger and Merger Sub II, as soon as practicable after the First Merger and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, the surviving corporation will merge with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of such merger (the “Second Merger” and together with the First Merger, the “Mergers”). In connection with the Mergers, BowX will change its name to WeWork Inc. (“New WeWork”).

Closing and Effective Time

In accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement, the closing of the First Merger (the “Closing”) will occur at a time and place on the date which is two (2) business days after the first date on which all conditions set forth in Article IX of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived (other than those conditions that by their terms are to be satisfied at the Closing, but subject to the satisfaction thereof) or such other time and place as BowX and WeWork may mutually agree to in writing. The date on which the Closing occurs is referred to in the Merger Agreement as the “Closing Date.” The date and time the First Merger becomes effective is referred to as the “Effective Time.”

Aggregate Merger Consideration

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, each outstanding share of WeWork Capital Stock (as defined herein) prior to the Effective Time (as defined herein) (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (as defined herein) determined by multiplying the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by a holder at the Effective Time by an exchange ratio determined by dividing the total number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock being issued in the First Merger (655,300,000) (the “Aggregate Merger Consideration”).

Consideration”) by the Aggregate Fully Diluted WeWork Capital Stock (as defined herein). The shares of New WeWork Class A being issued in the First Merger have a deemed value of $10.00 per share, which represents a pre-transaction equity value of approximately $6.553 billion. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration of Certain WeWork Securities — Aggregate Merger Consideration.”

Representations and Warranties

The Merger Agreement contains representations and warranties of BowX, Merger Sub and WeWork, certain of which are qualified by materiality and material adverse effect (as defined below) and may be further modified and limited by the disclosure letters. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Material Adverse Effect.” The representations and warranties of WeWork are also qualified by information included in BowX’s public filings, filed or submitted to the SEC on or prior to the date of the Merger Agreement (subject to certain exceptions contemplated by the Merger Agreement). The representations and warranties of WeWork are also qualified by information included in WeWork’s annual report for the year ended December 31, 2020, which annual report was made available to BowX prior to the Merger Agreement. Except in the case of claims against a person in respect of such person’s actual fraud, the representations and warranties of the respective parties to the Merger Agreement generally will not survive the Closing. For further details, see the section entitled “The Merger Agreement — Representations and Warranties.”

Covenants and Agreements

WeWork has made covenants relating to, among other things, the conduct of its business prior to Closing, inspection, pre-Closing delivery of certain WeWork financial statements, affiliate agreements, and acquisition proposals. BowX has made covenants relating to other things, employee matters, trust account proceeds and related available equity, listing, non-solicitation by BowX, BowX’s compensation of post-closing directors and officers, domestication, indemnification and insurance, BowX public filings, PIPE Investment subscriptions, stockholder litigation, and the Second Merger. Each of BowX and WeWork will (and, to the extent required, will cause its affiliates to) submit any notification required to obtain all consents, approvals and authorizations, including a filing with the COFECE. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Covenants and Agreements.”

Conditions to the Closing

The consummation of the Business Combination contemplated by the Merger Agreement is subject to certain conditions, including (i) approval by BowX’s stockholders and by WeWork’s stockholders, (ii) BowX having at least $5,000,001 of net tangible assets as of the time of the consummation of the Business Combination, (iii) the expiration or termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act (which will expire on May 10, 2021), (iv) the listing of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued in connection with the Closing on the Nasdaq Stock Market, (v) the effectiveness of the registration statement of which this proxy statement/prospectus forms a part, (vi) if a merger control filing is required in the United States or in any other jurisdiction, the relevant authorities having provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on June 1, 2020), (vii) the effectiveness or execution, as applicable, of the agreements and certificates relating to the Business Combination contained in the Merger Agreement. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Closing Conditions.”

Termination

The Merger Agreement may be terminated and the First Merger abandoned at any time prior to the Closing:

- by written consent of WeWork and BowX;
- by WeWork or BowX if any governmental order has become final and nonappealable which has the effect of making consummation of the Merger illegal or otherwise preventing or prohibiting the First Merger;
- by WeWork or BowX if the Condition Precedent Approvals have not been obtained by reason of the failure to obtain the required stockholder approvals at a meeting of BowX's stockholders duly convened therefor or at any adjournment thereof;
- by WeWork if there has been a BowX Modification in Recommendation with respect to any of the Condition Precedent Proposals;
- by BowX if there has been a WeWork Modification in Recommendation with respect to any of the Condition Precedent Proposals;
- by written notice to WeWork from BowX in the event of certain uncured breaches on the part of WeWork or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, unless BowX is in material breach of the Merger Agreement; provided that the applicable date will be extended automatically once for sixty (60) days, to December 29, 2021, if all of the conditions set forth in Section 9.1, Section 9.2 and Section 9.3 of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived as of October 31, 2021, other than (i) the condition, set forth above, that if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE has provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021), and (ii) those conditions which by their terms would be satisfied at the Closing;
- by BowX, if WeWork has not obtained approval from its stockholders of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby within ten (10) business days after the Registration Statement has been declared effective by the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to WeWork's stockholders; provided however, that the right to terminate the Merger Agreement under this section will terminate upon delivery of the WeWork Stockholder Approvals to BowX.
- by written notice to BowX from WeWork in the event of certain uncured breaches on the part of BowX or Merger Sub or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, unless WeWork is in material breach of the Merger Agreement, provided that the applicable date will be extended automatically once for sixty (60) days, to December 29, 2021, if all of the conditions set forth in Section 9.1, Section 9.2 and Section 9.3 of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived as of October 31, 2021, other than (i) the condition, set forth above, that if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE has provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021), and (ii) those conditions which by their terms would be satisfied at the Closing.

In the event of the termination of the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement will become void and have no effect, without prejudice to the part of any party thereto or its respective affiliates, officers, directors or stockholders, other than liability of WeWork, BowX or Merger Sub, as the case may be, for any willful and material breach of the Merger Agreement occurring prior to such termination, and other than to the extent of certain exceptions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (including the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement) that will survive the termination of the Merger Agreement.

Related Agreements

This section describes certain additional agreements entered into or to be entered into pursuant to the Merger Agreement. For more information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements.”

WeWork Stockholder Support Agreements

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into Stockholder Support Agreements (the “Stockholder Support Agreements”), by and among WeWork and certain stockholders of WeWork (the “Key Stockholders”). Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreements, the Key Stockholders agreed to, among other things, execute and deliver a written consent with respect to the outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by them, and to adopt the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination (including co-operation with SBWW) into the Merger Agreement effective on March 25, 2021, for purposes of the Related Party Charter Provision, to the extent applicable. Such written consents must be delivered promptly, and in any event within forty-eight (48) hours (or, in the case of SBWW, WeWork’s largest stockholder), (x) after the proxy statement/prospectus relating to the approval by BowX stockholders of the Business Combination is filed with the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to BowX and WeWork stockholders, and (y) BowX or WeWork has filed its annual report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2020 with the SEC. The Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of WeWork Capital Stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis). The execution and delivery of such written consents by all of the stockholders of WeWork that have entered into Stockholder Support Agreements will constitute the WeWork stockholder approval at the time of such delivery, and no additional approval or vote from any holder of any series of stock of WeWork will be necessary to adopt and approve the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination. Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreement with SBWW, any proposed amendment of the Merger Agreement, or waiver by WeWork of the prior written consent right of SBWW, requires the prior written consent of SBWW, and at such time that the Merger Agreement is amended, or any provisions therein are waived by WeWork, without the consent of SBWW, the obligations of SBWW under such Stockholder Support Agreement, including obligations to support and adopt the Mergers, expires. This consent right of SBWW continues even after it has fulfilled its obligations under the Stockholder Support Agreement.

Sponsor Support Agreement

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into a Sponsor Support Agreement (the “Sponsor Support Agreement”), by and among SBWW, BowX and the persons set forth on Schedule I attached thereto (the “Sponsor Persons”), pursuant to which the Sponsor and the Sponsor Persons agreed to, among other things, (i) cause to be forfeited 3,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, held by the Sponsor and certain other persons and (ii) vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

Registration Rights Agreement

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, BowX, Anchor PIPE Investors, the Sponsor and certain WeWork stockholders will enter into an Amended and Restated Registration Rights Agreement (the “Registration Rights Agreement”), pursuant to which BowX and the other parties will register for resale, pursuant to Rule 415 under the Securities Act, certain shares of BowX Common Stock and other equity securities that are held by the parties thereto from time to time. In certain circumstances, various parties in the Registration Rights Agreement will demand up to nine underwritten offerings in any twelve-month period, collectively demand no less than six underwritten block trades in any twelve-month period, and will be entitled to piggyback registration rights, in each case subject to certain limitations set forth in the Registration Rights Agreement.

PIPE Subscription Agreements

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX entered into subscription agreements ("Subscription Agreements") with certain existing stockholders of WeWork (the "Anchor PIPE Investors") and the Third-Party PIPE Investors pursuant to, and on the terms and subject to the conditions of which, the PIPE Investors have collectively subscribed for 80,000,000 "PIPE Shares" of the New WeWork Common Stock for $10.00 per share for an aggregate purchase price equal to $800,000,000 ("PIPE Investment"). The PIPE Investment will be consummated substantially concurrently with the Closing.

The Subscription Agreements for the PIPE Investors (other than the Anchor PIPE Investors, whose registration rights are governed by a Registration Rights Agreement) provide for certain registration rights. In particular, BowX is required to, as soon as practicable but no later than 60 calendar days following the Closing, file with the SEC a registration statement registering the resale of such shares. Additionally, BowX must use its commercially reasonable efforts to have the registration statement declared effective as soon as practicable after the filing of the registration statement, but no later than the earlier of (i) the 60th calendar day (or 90th calendar day if the SEC notifies BowX that it will "review" the registration statement) following the filing date thereof or (ii) the 10th business day after the date BowX is notified (orally or in writing, whichever is earlier) that the registration statement will not be "reviewed" or will not be subject to further review. BowX must use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the registration statement effective until the earliest of: (i) the date the PIPE Investors no longer hold any registrable shares, (ii) the date registrable shares held by the PIPE Investors may be sold without restriction under Rule 144 under the Securities Act, and without regard to whether BowX is in compliance with the current public information required under Rule 144(c)(1) or Rule 144(i)(2), as applicable, (iii) the third anniversary from the date of effectiveness of the registration statement.

The Subscription Agreements include a condition that (a) there shall have been no modifications, amendments or waivers to the Subscription Agreement that would reasonably be expected to be materially adverse to the economic benefits that the PIPE Investor would reasonably expect to receive under the Subscription Agreement, unless the PIPE Investor has consented to such amendment, modification or waiver; (b) there shall have been no amendment, modification or waiver of any other Subscription Agreement that materially benefits the other PIPE Investors, unless such PIPE Investor has been offered substantially the same benefits and (c) with respect to the Anchor PIPE Investors, there shall have been no amendment, waiver or modification to the investment of the Anchor PIPE Investors.

The Subscription Agreements will terminate with no further force and effect upon the earliest to occur of: (a) such date as the Merger Agreement is terminated in accordance with its terms; (b) the mutual written agreement of the parties to such Subscription Agreement; (c) if any of the conditions to closing set forth in such Subscription Agreement are not satisfied on or prior to the Closing and, as a result, the transactions contemplated by the Subscription Agreement fail to occur; or (d) the Agreement End Date.

BowX is relying on the exemption under Section 4(a)(2) of the Securities Act for the issuance of the PIPE Shares to the PIPE Investors. Pursuant to the Subscription Agreements, each PIPE Investor represented and warranted that it is either a "qualified purchaser" or an "accredited investor" as defined in the applicable SEC regulations.

Lock-Up Agreement

In connection with the Business Combination, the Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers and certain of WeWork's officers and employees entered into the Lock-Up Agreements pursuant to which they agreed not to (a) sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by such persons immediately after the Closing (the "Lock-Up Shares") and not to transfer, assign, pledge, hypothecate, encumber, lease, exchange, or otherwise dispose of, any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any of the Shares, or (c) publicly announce any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (a) or (b), for the duration of the applicable Period. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal—Related Agreements—Lock-Up Agreements”.

Credit Support Letter

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, the SoftBank Obligor, and BowX entered into the Credit Support Letter Agreement, to which the SoftBank Obligor commits to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2024, later than February 10, 2024, (the “LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any termination date of the 2020 LC Facility will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Commitment Letter for Secured Notes

Concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the “Note Purchaser”) delivered to BowX and WeWork Companies LLC a letter agreement (the “Commitment Letter”) regarding the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes.

Pursuant to the Commitment Letter, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser agreed to amend the senior secured purchase agreement, to provide for up to $550 million of 7.50% senior secured notes to be issued by WeWork Companies LLC, purchased by the Note Purchaser (the “Amended Senior Secured Notes”). The Amended Senior Secured Notes will be documented under the Restated Note Purchase Agreement (the “A&R NPA”) by and among WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser.

The parties will enter into the A&R NPA upon the earlier to occur of (a) the date of the Closing and (b) August 12, 2021. The Amended Senior Secured Notes will mature on the earlier to occur of: (a) 18 months from the date of the Closing; or (b) February 12, 2024.

Stockholders Agreement

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, BowX, the Sponsor, SBWW, SVFE and certain other holders of BowX Common Stock will enter into a Stockholders Agreement (the “Stockholders Agreement,” the form of which is attached to this proxy statement as Annex G), pursuant to which, so long as such holders of BowX Common Stock continue to hold a specified amount of BowX Common Stock, such holder will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors the number of candidates for election to the board specified in the Stockholders Agreement. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal—Related Agreements—Stockholders Agreement.”

Warrants

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the number of shares used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 39,115,176 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW’s, and its affiliates’, support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have a value of approximately $391,151.76.

fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank designees the LC Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to Softbank Obligor as consideration for the Softbank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-chair of WeWork's existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable Softbank to purchase 11,917,938 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have a fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (premium), which will be amortized to interest expense over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable manner to the commitment or access fee paid to obtain a revolving credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit B to the proxy statement/prospectus.

Ownership of New WeWork following the Business Combination

As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, there are 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, there are an aggregate of 23,873,333 warrants, which includes the 7,773,333 private placement warrants and the 16,100,000 public warrants. Each warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one share of BowX Class A Common Stock and, following the Business Combination, the holder thereof to purchase one share of New WeWork Common Stock.

It is anticipated that, based on the assumptions set forth below, upon the consummation of the Business Combination, the ownership of WeWork will be as follows:

	Share Ownership in New WeWork(1)
	No Additional Redemptions		Assuming Maximum Redemption
	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares

The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amounts in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination:

(1) if shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,350 WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 3.5% ownership interest.

“New WeWork Common Stock Assuming Maximum Redemption” set forth above assumes that 43,231,098 shares of public stock

These numbers and percentages assume (i) (a) the vesting of all shares of New WeWork Common Stock received in respect of WeWork Restricted Stock Awards, (b) the vesting and exercise of all in-the-money New WeWork Options for shares of New WeWork Common Stock, (c) the vesting of all New WeWork Restricted Stock Units and the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in respect of the vesting and net exercise of all in-the-money warrants, and (e) that New WeWork issues shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that all New WeWork Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock.

Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock under exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in these numbers and percentages (or in the calculation of the Aggregate Merger Consideration). These numbers and percentages do not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. In addition, the numbers of shares and percentages set forth above do not take into account certain potential future exercises of warrants or grants or issuances pursuant to the equity interests established to be effective after the Closing, or any other equity issuances of New WeWork. See the section entitled “Risk Factors” in the Prospectus. *stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LC Warrant and other public warrants and private warrants. If the actual facts are different from these assumptions, the percentage ownership retained by the Company's existing stockholders will be different. For example, if we assume that all of the 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private warrants that will remain outstanding post-Business Combination were exercisable and exercised following completion of the Business Combination in accordance with their terms, then the anticipated ownership of New WeWork at the Closing would be as follows:

WeWork Stockholders	655,300,000	80.3 %	655,300,000	84.7 %

Proposals to be Put to the Stakeholders of RowX at the Special Meeting

At the special meeting, the BowX stockholders will be asked to separately approve the following proposals:

- The BCA Proposal – a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination;

- The Organizational Documents Proposals – four proposals to amend BowX’s Existing Charter:
 - Organizational Documents Proposal A — to authorize the change in the authorized capital stock of BowX from 87,500,000 shares of common stock, par value $0.0001 per share (the “BowX Class A Common Stock”), 12,500,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.0001, to 1,500,000,000 shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Class A Common Stock”), 25,041,666 shares of Class C common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Class C Common Stock”); and, together with the WeWork Class A Common Stock, the “New WeWork Common Stock”), and (c) 100,000,000 shares of preferred stock, $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Preferred Stock” and, together with the New WeWork Common Stock, the “New WeWork Capital Stock”). Further, to authorize the WeWork Class C Common Stock as a non-economic voting security without rights to dividends or on liquidation;
 - Organizational Documents Proposal B — with respect to any vote or election submitted to the holders of shares of New WeWork:
 - for approval, to restrict the SoftBank Holders (as defined herein), for a period of at least two years, from exercising voting rights in excess of 49.9% of the voting securities present (in person or by proxy) and voting at any such meeting of the stockholders;
 - Organizational Documents Proposal C — to provide for only one class of board of directors and direct that board vacancies be filled by a majority of directors then in office, unless specified otherwise in the Stockholders Agreement (as defined below);
 - Organizational Documents Proposal D — to approve and adopt the additional changes in the Proposed Charter, including changing the name from “BowX Acquisition Corp.” to “WeWork Inc.,” which our board of directors believes are necessary to adequately adapt the Proposed Charter to the Business Combination and approval of the Proposed Charter;
 - The Director Election Proposal — a proposal to approve the election of nine directors, who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be the directors of New WeWork;
 - The Stock Issuance Proposal — a proposal to approve, for purposes of complying with applicable listing rules of Nasdaq, the issuance of (a) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to the WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement;
 - The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal — a proposal to approve and adopt the 2021 Plan;
 - The ESPP Proposal — a proposal to approve and adopt the ESPP; and
 - The Adjournment Proposal—a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to solicit and vote of proxies in the event that there are insufficient votes for the approval of one or more proposals at the special meeting.

If BowX’s stockholders do not approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals, then unless certain conditions in the Merger Agreement are waived by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement could terminate and the Business Combination would not be consummated. The applicable parties to the Merger Agreement would not be able to waive Organizational Documents Proposals if they complete the Merger on the terms contemplated by the Merger Agreement because there will not be a sufficient number of authorized capital stock of BowX to issue the shares required to be issued in the Merger if Organizational Documents Proposal A is not approved. The sections entitled “BCA Proposal,” “Organizational Documents Proposals,” “Director Election Proposal,” “Stock Issuance Proposal,” “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal,” “ESPP Proposal” and “Adjournment Proposal.”

Date, Time and Place of Special Meeting of BowX's Stockholders

The special meeting of the stockholders of BowX will be held at _____, Eastern Time, on _____, 2021, virtually via <https://www.cstproxy.com/bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021>, to consider and vote upon the proposals to be put to the special meeting necessary, the Adjournment Proposal, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies if, based upon the tabulated vote at the time of the meeting, each of the Condition Precedent Proposals have not been approved.

Voting Power; Record Date

BowX stockholders will be entitled to vote or direct votes to be cast at the special meeting if they owned BowX Common Stock of business on _____, 2021, which is the “record date” for the special meeting. Stockholders will have one vote for each share of Common Stock owned at the close of business on the record date. If your stock is held in “street name” or are in a margin or similar position, you should contact your broker to ensure that votes related to the stock you beneficially own are properly counted. Warrants do not have a record date.

As of the close of business on the record date, there were 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding.

Quorum and Vote of BowX Stockholders

A quorum of BowX stockholders is necessary to hold a valid meeting. A quorum will be present at the BowX special meeting if the issued and outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote at the special meeting are attending virtually or by proxy. At the record date for the special meeting, 30,187,501 shares of BowX Common Stock would be required to achieve a quorum.

The Sponsor has agreed to vote all of its BowX Common Stock in favor of the proposals being presented at the special meeting. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and the directors and officers own approximately 100% of the issued and outstanding BowX Common Stock.

The proposals presented at the special meeting require the following votes:

(i) BCA Proposal: The approval of the BCA Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting.

(ii) Organizational Documents Proposals: The separate approval of each of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock. (iii) Organizational Documents Proposals A and D: Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class B Common Stock on the record date.

(iv) Director Election Proposal: The approval of the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote of the plurality of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and who vote thereon at the special meeting. Because the Director Election Proposal is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving a majority of the votes.

(v) Stock Issuance Proposal: The approval of the Stock Issuance Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.

(vi) Equity Incentive Plan Proposal: The approval of the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.

Table of Contents

- (vi) ESPP Proposal: The approval of the ESPP Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.
- (vii) Adjournment Proposal: The approval of the Adjournment Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting.

Redemption Rights

Pursuant to the Organizational Documents, a public stockholder may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated. As a holder of public stock, you will be entitled to receive cash for any public stock redeemed only if you:

- (a) hold public stock or (b) if you hold public stock through units, you elect to separate your units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the public stock;
- submit a written request to Continental, that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash; and
- deliver your public stock to Continental physically or electronically through DTC.

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their public stock in the manner described above prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on [REDACTED], 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their stock to be redeemed. BowX requests for redemption include the identity as to the beneficial owner making such request. Electronic delivery of your stock generally will not require delivery of physical stock certificates.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising redemption rights with respect to the public stock. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, holders must notify their broker or bank if they elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental directly and instruct them to do so.

Public stockholders will be entitled to request that their public stock be redeemed for a pro rata portion of the amount then deposited in the trust account calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination including interest earned in the trust account and not previously released to us (net of taxes payable). For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. Any proceeds deposited in the trust account could become subject to the claims of BowX's creditors, if any, which could have priority over the public stockholders, regardless of whether such public stockholder votes or, if they do vote, irrespective of if they vote for or against the BCA Proposal. Therefore, the per share distribution from the trust account in such a situation may be less than originally expected due to the risk of creditor claims.

Whether you vote, and if you do vote irrespective of how you vote, on any proposal, including the BCA Proposal, will have no impact on the amount you will receive upon exercise of your redemption rights. It is expected that the funds to be distributed to public stockholders who redeem their public stock will be distributed promptly after the consummation of the Business Combination.

Any request for redemption, once made by a holder of public stock, may be withdrawn at any time, with BowX's consent, until a final vote is taken with respect to the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. If you deliver your shares for redemption to Continental prior to the special meeting not to elect redemption, you may request that BowX's transfer agent return the shares (physically or electronically) to you. You may make such request by contacting Continental, BowX's transfer agent, at the phone number or address listed at the end of this document.

Any corrected or changed written exercise of redemption rights must be received by Continental, BowX's transfer agent, prior to the final vote taken on the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. No request for redemption will be honored after the final vote.

be honored unless the holder's public stock have been delivered (either physically or electronically) to Continental, at least two business days prior to the vote at the special meeting.

If a holder of public stock properly makes a request for redemption and the public stock are delivered as described above, New WeWork will redeem the public stock for a pro rata portion of funds deposited in the Business Combination calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. The redemption will take place following the consummation of the Business Combination and, accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Common Stock that will be redeemed.

If you are a holder of public stock and you exercise your redemption rights, such exercise will not result in the loss of any warrants held by you. Holders of the warrants will not have redemption rights with respect to the warrants.

Appraisal Rights

Neither BowX stockholders nor Warrant holders have appraisal rights in connection with the Business Combination.

Proxy Solicitation

Proxies may be solicited by mail, telephone or in person. BowX has engaged Morrow to assist in the solicitation of proxies.

If a stockholder grants a proxy, it may still vote its stock at the meeting if it revokes its proxy before the special meeting. A stockholder may change its vote by submitting a later-dated proxy as described in the section entitled "Special Meeting of BowX—Revoking a Proxy".

Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination

When you consider the recommendation of BowX's board of directors in favor of approval of the BCA Proposal, you should know that the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests in such proposal that are different from, or in addition to, those of BowX stockholders and warrant holders generally. These interests include, among other things, the following:

the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and 1,660,000 private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the applicable time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders also own an aggregate of $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such warrants have an aggregate market value of approximately $ million and $ million, respectively, based on the last reported price of BowX Class A Common Stock of $ on Nasdaq on , 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders.

- our officers and directors are members of the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor. Such Messrs. Ranadivé and Rode have voting and investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held by the Sponsor;

- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder exchange in the Business Combination;

- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately their 7,773,333 private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement expire worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private warrants at the time of our IPO may experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders negative rate of return on their investment;
- that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
- the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors' and officers' liability the Business Combination;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with actions behalf, such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, thought no material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to the consummation of the Business Combination;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not consummated.

These interests may influence BowX's directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the BCA Proposals or other transactions contemplated thereby. These interests were considered by the BowX board of directors when it approved the Business Combination.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder.

Interests of WeWork's Executive Officers in the Business Combination

Certain of the officers of WeWork also have interests in the Business Combination, including eligibility for and entitlement to transaction bonuses and the commencement of vesting of certain equity awards.

WeWork previously established certain bonus arrangements that would result in payment(s) in connection with a qualifying transaction or the public listing of WeWork. Upon the consummation of the Business Combination, Sandeep Mathrani, WeWork's Chief Executive Officer, will be entitled to a payment of $10.0 million subject to repayment obligations that provide that the full after-tax amount of the payment will be repaid if Mr. Mathrani resigns without good reason or is terminated for cause on or prior to January 31, 2022, and 50% of such after-tax amount will be repaid in the event of such a termination after January 31, 2022, but on or before January 31, 2023. In addition, the following bonus amounts have been allocated to WeWork's other executive officers: Anthony Yazbeck ($2.0 million), Ben Dunham ($1.5 million), Jared DeMatteo ($1.0 million), Lauren Fritts ($1.0 million), Peter Greenspan ($1.0 million), Hamid Hashemi ($750,000), Scott Morey ($300,000), Maral Kazanjian ($250,000) and Roger Solé Rafols ($250,000). These amounts are subject to the same repayment obligations as are described above with respect to the payment to Mr. Mathrani, but are target amounts.

amounts only and may be adjusted up or down in the sole discretion of Mr. Mathrani (subject to an aggregate cap of $11.5 million) with his promotion to President & Chief Operating Officer, Anthony Yazbeck also received a one-time bonus of GBP 1.44 million payable within 30 days following the consummation of the Business Combination subject to his employment through the pay

WeWork's executive officers also hold certain WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards which have, as a condition to vesting, a liquidity event condition in addition to service- and/or performance-based vesting requirements. The consummation of the Business Combination will satisfy the liquidity event condition for those WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards. As of July 15, 2021, an

4,347,818 such restricted stock units (assuming performance metrics are achieved at the maximum level and not reflecting adjustment for the Business Combination) were held by executive officers, 8,863 of which will be fully vested upon the consummation of the Business Combination, with the remainder remaining subject to additional service- and/or performance-based vesting requirements.

Recommendation to Stockholders of BowX

BowX's board of directors believes that the BCA Proposal and the other proposals to be presented at the special meeting of stockholders in interest of BowX's stockholders and unanimously recommends that its stockholders vote "FOR" the BCA Proposal, "FOR" the Director Election Proposal, "FOR" each of the separate Organizational Documents Proposals, "FOR" the Director Election Proposal, "FOR" the Employee Benefit Plan Proposal, "FOR" the ESPP Proposal and "FOR" the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal and BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

BowX's Board of Directors' Reasons for the Business Combination

BowX was organized effecting a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, reorganization or similar business combination with one or more businesses or entities.

In evaluating the Business Combination, the BowX board of directors consulted with BowX's management and considered various factors. In particular, the BowX board of directors considered, among other things, the following factors, although not weighted equally in significance:

- The WeWork Business. The following factors related to WeWork and its business and operations:

Large and Growing Addressable Market. WeWork has an opportunity to grow flexible workspace market share in the multi-billion dollar U.S. office real estate market. As we believe the fallout from the COVID-19 pandemic continues to accelerate the shift away from traditional office space, information reviewed by the BowX board of directors suggested that flexible workspaces could potentially represent 50% of the U.S. office real-estate market by 2030, positioning WeWork for substantial revenue growth, even assuming WeWork's market share of the flexible workspace market share remains constant. WeWork also plans to continue to diversify across geographies, while maintaining a significant presence in the United States.

Portfolio of Product Offerings. WeWork offers solutions for companies of all sizes. WeWork's broad product offerings include WeWork Local Demand, which provides users pay-as-you-go access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations.

- All Access, a monthly subscription-based model that provides members with access to participating WeWork locations; and a remote workforce offering that provides business and technical service solutions, including professional employer organization ("PEO") and pa-
- remote workforce solutions, human resources benefits, dedicated bandwidth, and IT equipment co-location.

- Platform Business Opportunity. WeWork is currently developing a platform that would leverage its systems and established base to offer landlords and operators the ability to power and manage flexible spaces in their portfolio.

Experienced and Proven Management Team. WeWork's management team has decades of public market experience and has delivered proven results within their first 12 months at WeWork. WeWork's management team is led by Executive Chairman Marcelo Claure and Executive Officer Sandeep Mathrani, who joined WeWork in February 2020. Under their leadership, WeWork has refocused on its core model and applied a disciplined approach to costs. The BowX board of directors considered that WeWork's executives will continue to lead the combined company following the Business Combination. For additional information regarding WeWork's executive officers, see the section entitled "Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination — Executive Officers."

- Attractive Initial Valuation. WeWork will have an anticipated initial pre-transaction enterprise value of $8.8 billion.
- Results of Due Diligence. The results of a due diligence investigation conducted by BowX's management team and outside counsel from February 22, 2021 to March 23, 2021, such investigation including:
 - extensive virtual meetings and calls with WeWork's management team regarding its operations, business plan and the proposed transaction;
 - review of materials related to WeWork and its business, made available by WeWork and deemed appropriate for review in the context of the size of the transaction and the scope of WeWork's operations, including financial statements, material contracts, key metrics and performance indicators, benefit plans, employee compensation and labor matters, intellectual property matters, real property matters, information technology and privacy and personal data, litigation information, environmental matters and other regulatory and compliance matters and other business information.

Continued Ownership By Current WeWork Stockholders. WeWork's existing equityholders would be receiving a significant portion of BowX's common stock as its consideration and 100% of the existing equityholders of WeWork are "rolling over" their existing ownership interests.

- into equity interests in WeWork, which would represent approximately 82.4% of the pro forma ownership of the combined company at the Closing, after giving effect to the PIPE Investment and assuming none of BowX's current public shareholders exercise their rights to require WeWork to repurchase their shares in connection with the Business Combination. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal—Ownership of New WeWork After the Business Combination."

- Stockholder Liquidity. The obligation in the Merger Agreement to have the BowX Class A Common Stock issued as merger consideration listed on a major U.S. stock exchange, which the BowX board of directors believes has the potential to offer BowX stockholders liquidity.

- PIPE Investment. Certain third parties, including top-tier institutional investors, are investing an additional $800 million in the combined company pursuant to their participation in the PIPE.

Investment. The BowX board of directors considered this a strong sign of confidence in WeWork following the Business Combination benefits expected to be realized as a result of the Business Combination.

Use of Proceeds. The proceeds to be delivered to the combined company in connection with the Business Combination (in

- BowX's trust account and from the PIPE Investment) are expected to be used after Closing in order to fund WeWork's existing support new and existing growth initiatives.

Terms of the Merger Agreement. The terms of the Merger Agreement and the related agreements including the parties' con-

- respective obligations to complete the transactions contemplated therein and their ability to terminate such agreements. See the “BCA Proposal” for detailed discussions of the terms and conditions of these agreements.

Other Alternatives. The determination that the proposed Business Combination, after a thorough review of other business

- opportunities reasonably available to BowX, represents the best potential business combination for BowX. No opportunity came of any member of BowX's management or Board of Directors in his or her personal capacity, which impacted BowX's search for target.

This explanation of the BowX board of directors' reasons for its approval of the Business Combination, and all other information in this section, is forward-looking in nature and, therefore, should be read in light of the factors discussed under the section entitled

Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements.”

For a more complete description of the BowX board of directors' reasons for approving the Business Combination, including opportunities and risks considered by the BowX board of directors, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — BowX's Board of Directors' Reasons for Approving the Business Combination.”

For a discussion summarizing the U.S. federal income tax considerations of the Mergers for WeWork Stockholders, please see the section entitled “U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Mergers for WeWork Stockholders.”

Expected Accounting Treatment

We expect the Business Combination to be accounted for as a reverse recapitalization in accordance with the accounting principles accepted in the United States of America (“GAAP”). Under the guidance in ASC 805, BowX is expected to be treated as the “acquired company” for financial reporting purposes. This determination was primarily based on existing WeWork Stockholders comprising a relative majority of the voting power of the combined company, WeWork's operations prior to the acquisition comprising the only ongoing operations of the majority of New WeWork's board of directors being appointed by WeWork, and WeWork's senior management comprising a majority of the senior management of New WeWork. Accordingly, the Business Combination is expected to be reflected as the equivalent of WeWork for the net assets of BowX, accompanied by a recapitalization whereby no goodwill or other intangible assets are recorded. Operations of the Business Combination will be those of WeWork.

Regulatory Matters

Under the HSR Act and the rules that have been promulgated thereunder, certain transactions may not be consummated until such time as a waiting period has been furnished to the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice (“Antitrust Division”) and the Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”). If no such waiting period requirements have been satisfied, the Business Combination is subject to these requirements and may not be consummated until the expiration of a 30-day waiting period following the two filings of the required Notification and Report Forms with the Antitrust Division, the FTC or until early termination is granted. On April 8, 2021, the parties both filed their respective required forms under the HSR Act with respect to the Business Combination with the Antitrust Division and the FTC and requested early termination. The waiting period ended at 11:59 p.m. (ET) on May 10, 2021.

At any time before or after consummation of the Transaction, notwithstanding termination of the respective waiting periods under the HSR Act, the Department of Justice or the FTC, or any state or foreign governmental authority could take such action under applicable law as such authority deems necessary or desirable in the public interest, including seeking to enjoin the consummation of the Business Combination, conditionally approving the Business Combination upon divestiture of assets, subjecting the completion of the Business Combination to certain conditions or seeking other remedies. Private parties may also seek to take legal action under the antitrust laws under certain circumstances. WeWork cannot assure you that the Antitrust Division, the FTC, any state attorney general or any other government authority will not challenge the Business Combination on antitrust grounds, and, if such a challenge is made, BowX and WeWork cannot assure you that

A merger control filing may be required in Mexico by COFECE. WeWork submitted a filing to COFECE, jointly with BowX, on April 8, 2021. The filing would be withdrawn if COFECE takes the position that it is not required.

Neither of BowX nor WeWork are aware of any material regulatory approvals or actions that are required for completion of the Business Combination other than the expiration or early termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act and the filing to COFECE. WeWork has contemplated that if any such additional regulatory approvals or actions are required, those approvals or actions will be sought. There can be no assurance, however, that any additional approvals or actions will be obtained.

Emerging Growth Company

BowX is an “emerging growth company,” as defined in Section 2(a) of the Securities Act, as modified by the JOBS Act, and therefore is not subject to all of the reporting requirements applicable to other public companies. BowX is able to take advantage of certain exemptions from various reporting requirements that are applicable to other public companies that are not emerging growth companies, including, but not limited to, not being required to comply with the auditor attestation requirements of Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, reduced disclosure obligations regarding executive compensation in BowX’s periodic reports and proxy statements, and exemptions from the requirements of holding a nonbinding advisory vote on executive compensation and stockholder approval of any golden parachute payments not previously approved.

Further, section 102(b)(1) of the JOBS Act exempts emerging growth companies from being required to comply with new or revised financial accounting standards until private companies (that is, those that have not had a Securities Act registration statement declared effective or do not have a class of securities registered under the Exchange Act) are required to comply with the new or revised financial accounting standards. In addition, the JOBS Act provides that a company can elect to opt out of the extended transition period and comply with the requirements that otherwise apply to non-emerging growth companies but any such election to opt out is irrevocable. BowX has elected not to opt out of such extended transition period, which means that when a standard is issued or revised and it has different application dates for public or private companies, BowX, as an emerging growth company, can adopt the new or revised standard at any time private companies adopt the new or revised standard. This may make comparison of BowX's financial statements with certain other companies difficult or impossible because of the potential differences in accounting standards used.

We will remain an emerging growth company until the earlier of: (1) the last day of the fiscal year (a) following the fifth anniversary of the closing of BowX's initial public offering, (b) in which we have total annual gross revenue of at least $1.07 billion or (c) in which we become a large accelerated filer, which means the market value of our common equity that is held by non-affiliates exceeds $700 million during the prior fiscal year's second fiscal quarter; and (2) the date on which we have issued more than $1.00 billion in non-convertible debt securities during the prior three-year period. References herein to "emerging growth company" shall have the meaning associated with it in the Act.

Risk Factors

You should consider all the information contained in this proxy statement/prospectus in deciding how to vote for the proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus. These risks are discussed more fully in the section entitled "Risk Factors" following this summary. If any of these risks actually occur, WeWork's, BowX's or New WeWork's business, financial condition or results of operations would likely be adversely affected. These risks include, but are not limited to, the following:

- The price of New WeWork's Common Stock and warrants may be volatile.
- If analysts do not publish research about New WeWork's business or if they publish inaccurate or unfavorable research, New WeWork's price and trading volume could decline.
- New WeWork may be subject to securities litigation, which is expensive and could divert management attention.
- WeWork may not be able to continue to retain existing members, many of whom enter into membership agreements with long-term commitments, or to attract new members in sufficient numbers or at sufficient rates to sustain and increase its membership.
- WeWork has a history of losses and it may be unable to achieve profitability (as determined in accordance with GAAP).
- WeWork's success depends on its ability to maintain the value and reputation of its brand and the success of its strategic partners.
- WeWork has reduced and may continue to reduce the overall size of its organization and is likely to experience voluntary attrition, which may present challenges in managing its business.
- WeWork's internal controls, financial systems and procedures need further development for a public company and a company of its scale.
- WeWork relies on a combination of proprietary and third-party technology systems to support its business and member experience. If these systems experience difficulties, WeWork's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects may be materially affected.
- WeWork and its subsidiaries may not be able to generate sufficient cash to service all of their indebtedness and other obligations, which may force them to take other actions to satisfy their obligations, which may not be successful.
- Failure to comply with anti-money laundering requirements could subject WeWork to enforcement actions, fines, penalties, sanctions and other remedial actions.

WeWork's only material assets are its indirect interests in the WeWork Partnership (defined below), and WeWork is accordingly

- distributions from the WeWork Partnership to pay dividends and taxes and other expenses. WeWork's debt facilities also impose future impose certain restrictions on WeWork's subsidiaries making distributions to WeWork.
 - The announcement of the proposed Business Combination could disrupt New WeWork's relationships with its customers, suppliers and others, as well as its operating results and business generally.
 - Since the Sponsor and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests that are different than the interests of BowX's stockholders, a conflict of interest may have existed in determining whether the Business Combination with WeWork is appropriate.
 - The exercise of BowX's directors' and executive officers' discretion in agreeing to changes or waivers in the terms of the Business Combination may result in a conflict of interest.
 - The NYSE, may not list New WeWork's securities on its exchange, which could limit investors' ability to make transactions in New WeWork's securities and subject New WeWork to additional trading restrictions.
 - BowX is not obtaining an opinion from an independent valuation provider, and consequently, you have no assurance from an independent source that the Business Combination is fair to BowX from a financial point of view.
 - BowX does not have a specified maximum redemption threshold, but cannot consummate the Business Combination if its net assets fall below $5,000,001. This threshold and the Minimum Available Cash Condition (as defined below) may make it more difficult to complete the Business Combination as contemplated.
- Public stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as a result of the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the Second Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence current stockholders have on the management of New WeWork.
- Warrants will become exercisable for New WeWork Common Stock, which would increase the number of shares eligible for future trading in the public market and result in dilution to our stockholders. Such dilution will increase if more of our shares are redeemed.

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

To evaluate the performance of its business, WeWork relies on both its results of operations recorded in accordance with GAAP and non-GAAP financial measures, including Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow. These measures, as defined below, are not defined under principles, standards or rules that comprise GAAP. Accordingly, the non-GAAP financial measures WeWork uses and refer to are not viewed as a substitute for net loss or any other performance measure derived in accordance with GAAP or as a substitute for cash provided by operating activities as a measure of liquidity, and we encourage you not to rely on any single financial measure to evaluate our business condition or results of operations. WeWork's definitions of Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow described below are specific to us and you should not assume that they are comparable to similarly titled financial measures of other companies.

WeWork defines "Adjusted EBITDA" as net loss before income tax (benefit) provision, interest and other (income) expense, amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense, expense related to stock-based payments for services rendered by consumers, expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets and liabilities remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, expense related to costs associated with mergers, acquisitions, divestitures and capital raising activities, legal, tax and regulatory reserves or settlements, and other costs incurred by WeWork in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding WeWork's 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions, as defined in Note 1 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, net of any insurance or other recoveries, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment and, to the extent applicable, any impact of discontinued operations, restructuring charges, and other gains and losses on operations.

WeWork defines Free Cash Flow as cash flow from operating activities less cash purchases of property and equipment, each determined in accordance with WeWork's consolidated statements of cash flows calculated in accordance with GAAP.

RISK FACTORS

In addition to the other information contained in this proxy statement/prospectus, including the matters addressed under the heading "Looking Statements," you should carefully consider the following risk factors in deciding how to vote on the proposals presented in this proxy statement/prospectus. The risk factors described below disclose both material and other risks, and are not intended to be exhaustive and are not facing us. Additional risks not currently known to us or that we currently deem to be immaterial also may materially adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations and cash flows in future periods or are not identified because they are generally common to all companies.

Unless otherwise noted or the context otherwise requires, all references in this section to the “Company,” “we,” “us” or “our” shall refer to the business of WeWork and its subsidiaries prior to the consummation of the Business Combination, which will be the business of NewCo and its subsidiaries following the consummation of the Business Combination; except that, with respect to references to the Company’s leases, the term “Company” refers to the WeWork subsidiary that is a party to such lease.

Risks Relating to the Company's Business

The COVID-19 pandemic had a significant impact on the Company's business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flow. The recovery from the pandemic may take longer than anticipated.

The global spread and unprecedented impact of COVID-19, including variants of the virus (particularly the Delta variant), significant disruption and has created additional risks to the Company's and its joint ventures partners' businesses, the industry and March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a global pandemic. Since that time, COVID-19 has resulted in governments imposing numerous restrictions at different times, including travel bans and restrictions, quarantines, stay-at-home orders, requirements and mandatory closure of “non-essential” businesses.

As a result, the Company's and its joint ventures partners' businesses were significantly disrupted, and their operations have been reduced. In particular, markets in which the Company and its joint venture partners operate both in the United States and internationally and local governments in these areas, among others, have in the past implemented stay-at-home orders, social distancing requirements, closures of all "non-essential" businesses, and have either re-implemented or may in the future re-implement these or other restrictions to curb the spread of COVID-19. In response to these measures, the Company and its joint venture partners have temporarily closed certain various U.S. and international markets and may do so in the future, in an effort to adhere to local guidance, help protect the health of employees and members, and various planned new location openings have been delayed. In addition, the spread of COVID-19 has caused the Company to modify its business practices (including employee travel, employee work locations and cancellation of physical participation in meetings and conferences), and the Company may take further actions as may be required by government authorities or that the Company determines interests of the Company's employees and members. There is no certainty that such measures will be sufficient to mitigate the risk of COVID-19 pandemic, and the Company's and its joint ventures partners' ability to perform critical functions, including operating its further adversely affected.

The Company also experienced a reduction in new sales volume at its locations, which negatively affected, and may continue to affect, the Company's results of operations. The Company had also been, and may continue to be, adversely impacted by member churn, delayed payment) from members or members seeking payment concessions or deferrals or cancellations as a result of the COVID-19

Specifically, between the quarter ended June 30, 2020 and the quarter ended June 30, 2021, the Company's total memberships, including IndiaCo and Israel locations, declined 16%. There is no guarantee that membership numbers will return to pre- COVID-19 pandemic levels. In relation to non-payment, the Company recorded $17.2 million and $67.5 million in bad debt expense during the six months ended December 31, 2020, respectively, compared to $21.0 million and $22.2 million during the six months ended June 30, 2020 and year ended December 31, 2019. The Company also determined collectability was not probable to recognize revenue on certain contracts totaling $2.1 million and $53.1 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, respectively. See the section entitled “WeWork’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations for the Six Months Ended June 30, 2021 and the Year Ended December 31, 2020” and “Covid-19 and Impact on our Business.”

The Company expects the COVID-19 pandemic, particularly in light of the spread of variants of the virus, such as the Delta variant, to have an impact on its business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows, but the Company is unable to predict how long the impact will continue. In particular, even after state and local governments lift mandatory restrictions, the Company’s business could be adversely affected by:

the following: public perception of the risk of the COVID-19 pandemic; the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on its members, employees and customers’ financial situation and ability to meet their financial and contractual obligations to the Company; unemployment rates; reduction in demand for office space;

the foregoing; or due to customers or potential customers deferring return-to-office plans, as well as considering remote and hybrid office arrangements; increased costs as a result of measures required to be taken, or that the Company elects to take, to protect the health and safety of employees and members, including costs of potential health screenings, enhanced cleaning and disinfecting protocols and compliance with regulations or policies regarding reduced occupancy or social distancing, which could require reconfiguration of spaces at the Company’s facilities;

The extent to which the Company is affected by the COVID-19 pandemic will largely depend on future developments, which are uncertain and cannot be predicted, including, but not limited to, the duration and spread of the outbreak (including variants of the virus), its severity, how effectively it can be contained or treated, the development of vaccines and rollout of effective immunization programs, and how quickly a return to normal economic and operating conditions can resume, including how quickly the Company can resume normal operations and how quickly the Company can return to pre-COVID-19 pandemic levels of operations.

The COVID-19 pandemic also had, and may continue to have, an adverse impact on the Company’s cash flow and liquidity. The continued impact will depend in part on the Company’s continued ability to implement its transformation efforts. Additionally, the COVID-19 pandemic has caused, and may continue to cause, significant disruption of financial markets, which could reduce the Company’s ability to access capital, and could further negatively affect its liquidity. In addition, the value of some of the Company’s assets have declined, and may continue to decline, which may result in material non-cash impairment charges in future periods. As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting decline in operating income experienced by certain locations during 2020 and 2021, we identified certain assets whose carrying value was no longer recoverable and were partially impaired. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, WeWork recorded $31.5 million and $10.5 million, respectively, in impairments, primarily as a result of decreases in projected cash flows primarily attributable to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. Note 3 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. In addition, the Company has experienced and may continue to experience pricing challenges in the market place for the supply of commercial real estate available to customers or potential customers as a result of companies deferring their return-to-office plans and businesses considering remote and hybrid office space arrangements.

The current and future potential effects of the COVID-19 pandemic also could have the effect of heightening many of the other risks described under this section entitled “Risk Factors” in this proxy statement/prospectus, including, among others, those relating to the Company’s level of indebtedness and need to generate sufficient cash flows to service its indebtedness, and the Company’s ability to comply with the covenants contained in the agreements that govern its indebtedness and other obligations.

The Company may not be able to continue to retain existing members, many of whom enter into membership agreements with short-term terms or to attract new members in sufficient numbers or at sufficient rates to sustain and increase its memberships or at current levels.

The Company principally generates revenues through the sale of memberships. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Company has experienced, and may continue to experience, higher levels of membership renewals.

agreement terminations. Specifically, between the quarter ended June 30, 2020 and the quarter ended June 30, 2021, the Company's including ChinaCo, IndiaCo and Israel locations, declined 16%. In addition, in many cases, members may terminate their membership the Company at any time upon as little notice as one calendar month, generally for a fee. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, approximately 10% of physical memberships were month-to-month commitments and could be terminated in a given month. Similar longer-term or multi-year memberships that come up for renewal each month pursuant to the ordinary course terms of the contract, throughout the year. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, approximately 6% of physical memberships (excluding month-to-month) came up for renewal each month on average. Members may cancel their memberships for many reasons, including a perception that sufficient use of the Company's solutions and services, that they need to reduce their expenses or that alternative work environments value or a better experience. Negative publicity surrounding the Company may also result in an increase in membership agreements and a decrease in the Company's ability to attract new members or weaker sales and slower ramp-up of the Company's new locations.

The Company's results of operations could be adversely affected by declines in demand for its memberships. Demand for its memberships has been and may continue to be negatively affected by public health concerns, and could also be affected by a number of factors, including uncertainty, competition, cybersecurity incidents, decline in the Company's reputation and saturation in the markets where the Company operates. For example, reduced sales volume as a result of COVID-19, have negatively affected and may continue to affect the Company's results of operations. Prevailing general and local economic conditions may also negatively affect the demand for its memberships, particularly from current members that are small- and mid-sized businesses and may be disproportionately affected by adverse economic conditions.

If the Company is unable to replace members who may terminate their membership agreements, the Company's cash flows and the Company's ability to make payments under their lease agreements may be adversely affected. These same factors that reduce demand for its memberships will have the same impact on a landlord that has longer commitments from its tenants than the Company has from its members.

The Company must continually add new members both to replace departing members and to expand its current member base. The Company may not be able to attract new members in sufficient numbers to fully replace departing members. In addition, the revenue the Company generates from new members may not be as high as the revenue generated from existing members because of discounts the Company may offer to these new members which have increased in recent periods, and the Company may incur marketing or other expenses, including referral fees, to attract new members. These factors may further offset its revenues from these new members. For these and other reasons, the Company could continue to experience a decline in revenue growth, which could adversely affect its results of operations.

An economic downturn or subsequent declines in market rents may result in increased member terminations and could adversely affect the Company's results of operations.

While the Company believes that it has a durable business model in all economic cycles, there can be no assurance that this will be the case. A significant portion of the Company's member base consists of small- and mid-sized businesses and freelancers who may be disproportionately affected by adverse economic conditions. In addition, the Company's concentration in specific cities magnifies the risk to the Company of adverse economic conditions in those cities or the surrounding regions. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company generated the majority of its revenue from locations in the United States and the United Kingdom. The majority of the Company's 2021 revenue from locations in the United States was generated from locations in the greater New York City, San Francisco, Boston, San Jose and Seattle markets. A majority of its revenue from locations in the United Kingdom are in London. Economic downturns in these markets or other markets in which the Company is growing its number of members may have a disproportionate effect on the Company's revenue and its ability to retain members, in particular among members that are small- and mid-sized businesses, and thereby require the Company to expend time and resources on sales and marketing activities that may not be successful.

impair its results of operations. Additionally, an outbreak of a contagious disease, such as the current COVID-19 pandemic or any similar event, could have a significant impact on the Company's business. Such an event could result in a reduction in demand for the Company's products and services, which could lead to lower revenues and profits. The Company may also experience challenges in managing its operations during such an event, such as difficulties in maintaining its facilities and ensuring the safety of its employees and customers. The Company may also experience challenges in managing its operations during such an event, such as difficulties in maintaining its facilities and ensuring the safety of its employees and customers.

The long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company's leases may limit the Company's operating flexibility and could adversely affect the results of operations.

The Company's leases are primarily entered into by and through special purpose entity subsidiaries. The Company currently leases a majority of its locations under long-term leases that, with limited exceptions, do not contain early termination provisions. The Company's landlords under these agreements extend for periods that generally significantly exceed the length of its membership agreements which in certain cases may be terminated by the Company's members upon as little notice as one calendar month. The average length of its leases is approximately 15 years, and the average term of its membership agreements is 15 months. As of June 30, 2021, the Company's subsidiaries' future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations under signed operating and finance leases was $36.6 billion. Sales contracts to be recognized as revenue in the future totaled approximately $3 billion. However, as of June 30, 2021, the total sales contracts including in the form of corporate guarantees, outstanding letters of credit, cash security deposits to landlords and surety bonds issued by the Company and its subsidiaries in respect of those lease obligations was approximately $6.5 billion, representing less than 20% of future minimum lease cost payment obligations. In addition, individual property lease security obligations on any given lease typically decrease over the lease, although the Company or its subsidiaries may continue to enter into new leases in the ordinary course of business.

The Company's leases generally provide for fixed monthly or quarterly payments that are not tied to space utilization or the size of the base, and nearly all of its leases contain minimum rental payment obligations. There are a small number of leases under a revenue sharing arrangement where the Company receives a percentage of sales from the lessee. If the Company does not generate sufficient revenue from members at a particular location, if members terminate their membership agreements with the Company and the Company is not able to replace these departing members, or if the Company ceases to operate at leased spaces, the Company's lease cost expense exceeds its revenue. In addition, the Company may not be able to negotiate fixed monthly payments under its leases at rates which are commensurate with the rates at which the Company may agree to lower its membership fees, which may also result in its rent expense exceeding its membership and service revenue. At certain locations, the Company may not be able to, and may not be able to, reduce its rent under the lease or otherwise terminate the lease, whether in accordance with the lease terms or through negotiation.

If the Company experiences a prolonged reduction in revenues at a particular leased location, including as a result of the current COVID-19 pandemic, its results of operations in respect of that space would be adversely affected unless and until the lease expires or the Company is able to assign the lease or sublease the space to a third party or otherwise renegotiate the terms of the lease or an exit from that space. The Company may not be able to assign a lease or sublease for a particular space to a third party may be constrained by provisions in the lease that restrict these transactions without the prior consent of, the landlord. Additionally, the Company could incur significant costs if it decides to assign or sublease unoccupied space. The Company may incur transaction costs associated with finding and negotiating with potential transferees, and the ultimate transaction may require upfront payments or other inducements. The Company is also party to a variety of lease agreements and other occupancy arrangements, including management agreements and participating leases, containing a variety of contractual rights and obligations that may be subject to interpretation by the Company's interpretation.

of such contracts may be disputed by its landlords or members, which could result in litigation, damage to its reputation or contractual remedies becoming available to such landlords and members and may impact its results of operations.

While the Company's leases are often held by special purpose entities, the Company's consolidated financial condition and results of operations depend on the ability of its subsidiaries to perform their obligations under these leases over time. The Company's business, reputation and results of operations depend on the Company's ongoing compliance with its leases. In addition, the Company provides respect of its leases in the form of letters of credit, limited corporate guarantees (mostly from a subsidiary of WeWork), cash security bonds. See the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations — Capital Resources — Lease Obligations." The applicable landlords have and could draw under the letters of credit or demand payment of bonds, which amounts would need to be funded by the Company or one of its subsidiaries, which has and could further adversely affect the Company's financial condition and liquidity. In addition, under the Company's surety bonds, the applicable surety has the right to increase their amount of the outstanding bond amounts, including cash collateral or letters of credit, at any time the surety bonds are outstanding. Some sureties have exercised this option. In certain circumstances, landlords have drawn under the letters of credit or demanded payment under the surety bonds in accordance with the terms of the applicable lease and security instrument. In addition, a small number of landlords have sued to enforce the surety guarantees. The Company is also increasingly pursuing strategic alternatives to pure leasing arrangements, including management participating leases and other occupancy arrangements with respect to spaces. Some of the Company's agreements contain penalties for terminating the arrangement in the event the Company terminates the arrangement.

The Company has a history of losses and it may be unable to achieve profitability (as determined in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles)

The Company had an accumulated deficit as of June 30, 2021, December 31, 2020 and 2019 and had net losses of $3.0 billion, $3.8 billion and $1.9 billion for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively. The Company's accumulated deficit and net losses, which are GAAP financial metrics, historically resulted primarily from the substantial resources required to grow its business, including a significant increase in the number of locations in which the Company operates. The operating of businesses in the past has also contributed to accumulated deficit and net loss historically. The Company's rapid growth placed a significant strain on the Company's resources. In addition, the Company has in recent periods incurred restructuring and other related costs in connection with termination charges and lease amendment or exit costs resulting from the Company's global real estate portfolio optimization efforts and employee-related payments resulting from the Company's workforce realignment. The impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Company's operations have also contributed to the losses incurred during 2020 and the six months ended June 30, 2021.

While the Company has initiated and substantially completed a strategic restructuring with the goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization to support its long-term goal of sustainable growth, there is no assurance that the Company will be successful in realizing this plan. The Company's operating costs and other expenses may be greater than it anticipates, and its investments to make its business operations more efficient may not be successful. Increases in the Company's costs, expenses and investments may reduce its margins and adversely affect its business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Company's success depends on its ability to maintain the value and reputation of its brand and the success of its strategic partners

The Company's brand is integral to its business. Maintaining, promoting and positioning the Company's brand will depend on the Company's ability to provide a consistently high-quality member experience.

and on its marketing and community-building efforts. To the extent its locations, workspace solutions or product or service offerings of low quality or otherwise are not compelling to new and existing members, the Company's ability to maintain a positive brand may be adversely affected.

In addition, failure by third parties on whom the Company relies but whose actions it cannot control, such as joint venture partners, contractors and construction managers who oversee its construction activities, or their respective facilities management staff, to uphold standards of workmanship, ethics, conduct and legal compliance could subject the Company to reputational harm based on their association with those parties.

The Company believes that much of its reputation depends on word-of-mouth and other non-paid sources of opinion, including favorable and unfavorable publicity or consumer perception or experience of the Company's solutions, practices, products or services. Unfavorable publicity or consumer perception or experience of the Company's solutions, practices, products or services could adversely affect the Company's reputation, resulting in difficulties in attracting and retaining members, landlords and business partners (including joint venture partners), difficulties in attracting and retaining employees, regulatory scrutiny, litigation, and limiting the success of the Company's communications and the range of solutions, products and services the Company is able to offer.

To the extent that the Company is unable to maintain a positive brand reputation organically and to contend with increased competition, the Company may need to increase or enhance its marketing efforts to attract new members, which would increase its sales and marketing costs in absolute terms and as a percentage of its revenue.

The Company may be unable to adequately protect or prevent unauthorized use of its intellectual property rights and the Company may be unable to stop third parties from using or registering its intellectual property.

To protect its intellectual property rights, the Company relies on a combination of trademark, copyright, trade dress, patent and trademark protection laws, protective agreements with its employees and third parties and physical and electronic security measures. The Company maintains a strategic set of intellectual property registrations and applications, including for the WeWork brand, in certain jurisdictions throughout the world. Nevertheless, these applications may not proceed to registration or issuance or otherwise be granted protection. We may not be able to protect or enforce our intellectual property rights or prevent others from copying or using the Company's intellectual property in certain countries or throughout the world and in jurisdictions where intellectual property laws may not be adequately developed or favorable to the Company. Third parties may attack the Company's trademarks, including the WeWork brand, by opposing said applications or canceling registrations or challenging validity or non-use. Third parties have in the past and may, from time to time in the future, claim that the Company's intellectual property rights or challenge the validity or enforceability of the Company's intellectual property rights, and the Company may not be successful in defending these claims. These claims, even without merit, could result in the prevention of the Company registering its intellectual property. These claims can also cause the Company to stop using certain intellectual property and force the Company to change its marketing, product, or technology. Additionally, the agreements and security measures the Company has in place may be inadequate or fail to effectively accomplish their protective purposes. In some cases, the Company may need to litigate these claims or negotiate a license agreement that may include a monetary payment, license arrangement or cause WeWork to stop using certain intellectual property. This may also trigger indemnification provisions in third-party license agreements. The Company may be unable to defend its proprietary rights or prevent third parties from misappropriation without substantial expense to it and negatively impact its intellectual property rights.

Third parties may also infringe or misappropriate the Company's intellectual property rights, including the WeWork brand, and the Company may not be successful in asserting intellectual property rights against third parties. There may be instances where we may need to resort to legal proceedings to enforce our intellectual property rights. Enforcement of this type can be costly and result in counterclaims or other legal proceedings against the Company, including action against our trademark applications and registrations.

In addition, we license certain intellectual property rights, including the WeWork brand, to joint venture partners and other third parties. If a licensee fails to maintain the quality of the services used in connection with our trademarks, the Company's rights to and the value of our trademarks could be diminished. Failure to maintain, control and protect the WeWork brand and other intellectual property could negatively affect the Company's ability to acquire members, and ultimately, negatively affect our business. If the licensees misuse our intellectual property, then this could lead to claims against the Company and could negatively affect the WeWork brand.

Many companies have encountered significant problems in protecting and defending intellectual property rights in foreign jurisdictions. The legal system in certain foreign jurisdictions, particularly those in certain developing countries, do not favor the enforcement of trademarks, trade secrets and other intellectual property protection which could make it difficult for the Company to stop the infringement, misappropriation or violation of its intellectual property rights, or the marketing of competing products or services in violation of its proprietary rights in such countries. The Company may not prevail in any such proceedings that it initiates and the damages or other remedies awarded to the Company, if any, may not be commercially meaningful.

If the measures the Company has taken to protect the WeWork brand and its other proprietary rights are inadequate to prevent unauthorized use, misappropriation by third parties or if the Company is prevented from using intellectual property due to successful third-party claims, the WeWork brand and other intangible assets may be diminished and its business and results of operations may be adversely affected.

Cyber-attacks could negatively affect the Company's business.

The Company has in the past and may be, from time to time in the future, subject to attempted or actual cyber-attacks or similar acts that could compromise the security of the Company and its information technology systems. This could result in a loss of proprietary business information or member information, or personal information of third parties.

Although we have implemented security measures designed to protect our information technology systems and the information contained therein, we still may not be able to prevent cyber-attacks and security breaches. This is, in part, due to the increased sophistication of cyber-attacks. A breach, theft, loss, or fraudulent use of member or employee data could cause members to lose confidence in the security of our websites, mobile applications and other information technology systems. Security breaches could expose us to risks of data loss, regulatory review, financial loss and could negatively affect the Company's business.

The Company is undergoing a transformation in its business plan under new management and there can be no assurances that the strategy will be successful.

Following the withdrawal of the Company's registration statement on Form S-1 in connection with its attempted initial public offering, there have been substantial changes in the Company's management and business plan. The Company's new strategic plan emphasizes increasing Adjusted EBITDA through expense management and streamlined operations, focusing on optimizing the Company's existing real estate portfolio across domestic and international locations and executing well on its current pipeline of locations before seeking growth opportunities.

As part of this plan, beginning in the fall of 2019, the Company began a global review of its locations to optimize its real estate portfolio. The review resulted in strategically executing full or partial lease exits for locations with more limited prospects of profitability. As of June 30, 2020, the Company and its joint venture partners have negotiated over 500 lease amendments and/or exits with landlord partners around the world, resulting in an approximately $6.9 billion reduction to future lease payments and a reduction in total lease security of approximately $1.1 Billion, including ChinaCo prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, since December 31, 2019. However, this process is ongoing and there can be no assurance that these efforts will continue to be successful or result in a reduction of the Company's overall lease costs. In connection with these optimization efforts, at certain locations the Company has withheld, is withholding or will withhold rent payments for some period of time. In a small number of cases, the Company's real estate portfolio optimization process has resulted in litigation filed by landlords. As the process continues, additional litigation could result and the Company could be exposed to contract, eviction or other claims that could result in direct and indirect costs to the Company and could result in other operational disruptions that could harm its reputation, brand and results of operations. During the year ended December 31, 2020 and the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company incurred lease-related termination costs in connection with the aforementioned strategic lease terminations, substantially all being equal to or less than the security coverage of each lease. The Company continues to incur such costs and the Company anticipates that there will be additional termination fees paid in the future, substantially all of which are expected to be equal to or less than the security coverage of each applicable lease.

the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations – Restructuring and Impairments." In addition, as a result of these lease amendments and/or exits, there is a risk of potential churn or disruption in the member community for those that are relocated to a nearby building. As of June 30, 2021, the Company has retained approximately 90% of relocated members. There can be no assurance this relocation retention pattern will continue. See the section entitled "Risk Factors — Risks relating to the Company's business, including the long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company's leases may limit its operating flexibility and could adversely affect its liquidity and results of operations."

The Company's business depends on hiring, developing, retaining and motivating highly skilled and dedicated team members. Turnover in senior management, and failure to do so, including turnover in the Company's senior management and other key personnel, could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business.

The Company strives to attract, motivate, and retain team members who share a dedication to the member community and the Company's mission, but may not be successful in doing so. The Company's U.S.-based team members, including most of its senior management, work for the Company on an at-will basis. Other companies, including competitors, may be successful in recruiting and hiring team members away from the Company. It may be difficult for the Company to find suitable replacements on a timely basis, on competitive terms or at all. These difficulties may arise following the negative publicity and organizational changes the Company experienced in late 2019.

In addition, the Company has experienced and may continue to experience operational disruptions in the process of building and maintaining its management team. Changes to or turnover among senior management or other key personnel could disrupt the Company's strategic planning and cause uncertainty for management, employees, members, partners, landlords and stockholders. These changes, and the potential failure to hire suitable replacements for senior management and other key employees, could have a material adverse effect on the Company's operations and ability to manage various aspects of its business. Unexpected or abrupt departures may result in the failure to effectively transfer institutional knowledge and expertise and the Company's ability to act quickly and efficiently in executing our business strategy as we devote resources to recruiting new personnel or transitioning existing personnel to fill those roles.

If the Company is unable to effectively manage employee turnover and retain existing key personnel or timely address its challenges, it may not successfully integrate new hires, its employee morale, productivity and retention could suffer, which could adversely affect its business condition and results of operations. Additionally, the success of each of the Company's new and existing locations depends on its ability to hire and retain dedicated community managers and community team members. If the Company enters new geographic markets and launches new products and services, the Company may experience difficulty attracting employees in the areas it requires.

The Company has reduced and may continue to reduce the overall size of its organization and is likely to experience voluntary attrition and present challenges in managing its business.

During and since the third quarter of 2019, the Company has implemented reductions in its workforce and may consider further reductions in the future. Since then, WeWork has reduced its global workforce by approximately 70% through reductions in force, voluntary attrition, divestitures and joint venture arrangements. These workforce reductions have resulted in and may result in the loss of some longer-term expertise and the reallocation and combination of certain roles and responsibilities across the organization, all of which could adversely affect the Company's operations.

Given the complexity and nature of the Company's business, it must continue to implement and improve its operational and financial systems, manage its locations and continue to recruit and retain qualified personnel. This could be made more difficult by the workforce reductions and additional measures the Company may take to reduce costs. As a result, the Company's management may devote a disproportionate amount of its attention away from day-to-day strategic and operational activities and devote a substantial amount of time to these organizational changes. Further, workforce reductions and additional cost containment measures may have unintended consequences such as attrition beyond the Company's intended workforce reductions, reduced employee morale and employment-related litigation. Employees affected by the workforce reductions may seek alternate employment, which could require the Company to obtain additional support and incur additional expense.

The Company has significantly moderated and may continue to moderate its growth.

The Company's historical growth rates prior to the end of 2019 are not expected to be indicative of its future growth. The Company's growth has significantly moderated and may continue to moderate its growth. The Company plans to continue to open locations in which it has not previously operated while also negotiating strategic lease restructurings and exits as part of its real estate optimization efforts. The Company's future growth will be driven by a variety of factors, including member demand and the availability of new locations priced at a level that would enable the Company to construct the location and operate it profitably on an individual location basis. As the Company optimizes its real estate portfolio, such expansion in new and existing geographies may become more limited.

If the Company is unable to maintain or negotiate satisfactory arrangements in respect of spaces that it occupies, its ability to service its members may be impaired.

Subsidiaries of the Company currently lease real estate for the majority of its locations while the Company is pursuing asset-light models such as management agreements, regional joint ventures and other occupancy arrangements with real estate owners. The Company retains the same possessory rights under such alternative arrangements as it does in a traditional landlord-tenant relationship. Instead, the Company continues to serve its members at spaces occupied pursuant to these alternative arrangements depends on its relationships with landlords.

With respect to leases, the Company's renewal options are typically tied to the then-prevailing net effective rent in the open market (i.e., leases include a floor of the then rent in effect under the lease). As a result, increases in rental rates in the markets in which the Company operates, particularly in those markets where initial terms under its leases are shorter, could adversely affect the Company's business, financial condition and prospects.

In addition, the Company's ability to extend an expiring lease on favorable terms or to secure an alternate location will depend on conditions in the real estate market, such as overall rental cost increases, competition from other would-be tenants for desirable locations, relationships with current and prospective building owners and landlords, and may depend on other factors that are not within its control.

If the Company is not able to renew or replace an expiring lease, it may incur significant costs related to vacating that space.

space, surrendering or restoring any tenant improvements, and redeveloping whatever alternative space it is able to find in such sub-

Company's ability to extend an expiring lease on favorable terms may be more difficult following the negative publicity the Company

In addition, if the Company elects to or is forced to vacate a space, it could lose members who purchased memberships based on the location or other attributes of that particular space and may not be interested in relocating to the other spaces it has available. As of June 30, 2021, the Company has retained approximately 90% of relocated members but there can be no assurance this relocation retention pattern will continue.

the landlord could re-lease the vacated space in competition with the Company's other locations.

The Company has engaged in transactions with related parties, and such transactions present possible conflicts of interest and could have an effect on its business and results of operations.

The Company has historically entered into transactions with related parties, including its significant stockholders, former executive officers, current and former directors and other employees. In particular, all transactions between the Company and SoftBank Obligor (including the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG (described below)) are related party transactions. As of June 30, 2021, the amount outstanding under the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG included $1.7 billion in outstanding letters of credit issued under the 2019 Credit Agreement, $2.2 billion in outstanding indebtedness under the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Debt (defined below), in addition to the ability to issue up to $1.1 billion under the SoftBank Senior Secured Debt (defined below) subject to applicable restrictive covenants in the agreement governing the Company's indebtedness. See “—Risks Relating to the Company's Financial Condition—The terms of the Company's indebtedness and future operations, particularly its ability to respond to changes or take certain actions, including some of which may affect the Company's strategic plan.” for additional information.

The significant amount of indebtedness owed by the Company to SoftBank Obligor and the related party nature of the Company's commitments from SoftBank Obligor to or for the benefit of the Company could present possible conflicts of interest that could have an effect on the Company's business and results of operations. In addition, as described above, SBWW is expected to receive warrants to purchase stock in connection with certain modifications to the debt financings described above and in connection with the consummation of the Transaction. There are and are likely to continue to be other arrangements in which New WeWork and SBG entities are participants in corporate governance, debt financings, expense reimbursement and other operations. SBWW (and other affiliates of SBG) is expected to be a stockholder of New WeWork and will have substantial influence of matters of corporate governance for New WeWork, resulting in potential conflicts of interest.

In addition, the Company has in the past entered into several transactions with landlord entities in which Adam Neumann, the chief executive officer and former member of the Company's board of directors, or WeCap Investment Group, which is operated in part by Rhône Group, an investment entity run in part by Steven Langman, a former member of the Company's board of directors, has or had an interest. See “Related Party Transactions – WeWork” for additional information. As part of the Company's restructuring, the Company will enter into discussions to exit certain leases with related parties. Transactions with any landlord entity in which related parties hold ownership interests have potential for conflicts of interest, as the interests of the landlord entity and its stockholders may not align with the interests of the Company. For example, the exercise of contractual remedies under these leases, such as the treatment of events of default. As is the case with terminations where there are outstanding tenant improvements amounts owed, any forgiveness of tenant improvements owed for early termination is treated as consideration for the terminations.

Pursuant to WeWork's related party transactions policy, all additional material related party transactions that we enter into require either (i) unanimous consent of our audit committee or (ii) the approval of a majority of the independent members of our board of directors when considering a transaction with respect to such related party transaction. Upon the closing of the Business Combination, New WeWork will have a new related party transactions policy. See “Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions—WeWork's Policies and Procedures for Related Party Transactions” for additional information.

Transactions.” Nevertheless, the Company may have achieved more favorable terms if such transactions had not been entered into and these transactions, individually or in the aggregate, may have an adverse effect on the Company’s business and results of operations, government enforcement actions, investigations or other litigation.

Additionally, the Company has agreed to indemnify certain of its current and former directors and executive officers and shareholders under the WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation and various other agreements. The Company has agreed to reimburse its shareholders for certain legal expenses incurred and, in 2020, paid approximately $14 million in legal fees related to these indemnifications, out-of-pocket and not covered by insurance. The Company may be required to pay more in legal fees related to these indemnifications in the future and the arrangements and associated payments may have an adverse effect on the Company’s business and results of operations.

The Company has entered into an agreement that grants Mr. Neumann board observer rights. Beginning on February 26, 2022, requested by SBG, a designee of Mr. Neumann’s (who shall be subject to SBG’s approval), shall have the right to observe meetings of the board of directors (and certain committees thereof) in a non-voting observer capacity. Mr. Neumann, or his designee, is also entitled to receive materials provided to directors, subject to certain conditions as set forth in the agreement. Mr. Neumann’s observer rights shall terminate when he no longer beneficially owns equity securities of WeWork (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) representing at least 19,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock (on an as-converted basis and as adjusted for stock splits, dividends and the like).

Although WeWork expects that Mr. Neumann or his representative may express views or may ask questions, there is no substantive entitlement beyond attending in a customary nonvoting observer capacity, and New WeWork’s board and committee meetings would be controlled by the relevant chairpersons and subject to such procedures governing conduct of the meeting as may be adopted by the board or relevant committee.

The agreement governing the observer right does not entitle Mr. Neumann to participate in any conversations among directors or committees of the New WeWork board and its applicable committees. Similarly, the agreement does not give Mr. Neumann the right to make recommendations or to be made or actions to be taken by the New WeWork board or committees. Mr. Neumann will participate in meetings of the New WeWork board and its applicable committees as a nonvoting board observer — not as a director.

The agreement governing the observer right requires that Mr. Neumann or his representative agree to hold in confidence all information received under such agreement. New WeWork has also reserved the right under such agreement to withhold information and exclude Mr. Neumann or his representative from any meeting or portion thereof to the extent reasonably likely to adversely affect the attorney-client privilege between the Company and its counsel or result in disclosure of trade secrets or a conflict of interest, or if there has been a violation of Mr. Neumann’s responsibilities or obligations to New WeWork.

A significant part of the Company’s international growth strategy and international operations may be conducted through joint ventures and management arrangements.

The Company’s international growth strategy historically included entering into joint ventures in non-U.S. jurisdictions, such as Japan and the broader Asia-Pacific region. The Company’s success in these regions is therefore partially dependent on third parties that the Company cannot control. Certain changes to those arrangements have occurred during 2020. In April 2020, the Company closed a “Roll-up” and issued 34,482,759 shares of convertible WeWork Series H-1 Preferred Stock to SVFE, making WeWork Asia Holding (“PacificCo”) a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company. On September 3, 2020, affiliates of Trustbridge Partners signed definitive documentation with WeWork Greater China Holding Company B.V. (“ChinaCo”) and its shareholders pursuant to which (i) certain shareholders of ChinaCo agreed to invest $200 million in ChinaCo in exchange for newly issued preference shares in ChinaCo and (ii) the remaining shareholders (including the Company and SVFE) agreed to have their interests converted into preference shares in ChinaCo.

in ChinaCo restructured (the “Trustbridge Transaction”). The initial closing of the Trustbridge Transaction occurred on October 2, 2020, with affiliates of Trustbridge Partners becoming the controlling and largest shareholders of ChinaCo. The Company’s joint venture with a fund managed by SVFE in Japan is expected to continue.

Separately, the Company intends, as part of its strategic plan, to pursue additional joint ventures and other strategic partnerships, management agreements and alternative deal structures with variable rent. In particular, the Company is building a framework to further develop joint venture arrangements under which it may transfer a controlling equity interest in its operations in certain markets to a local partner with minority ownership in, and a percentage of revenue from, such operations. For example, in June 2021, WeWork closed a transaction with Ampa (“Ampa”), one of the leading real estate companies in Israel, pursuant to which Ampa will have the exclusive right to operate WeWork offices in Israel (the “Israel Transaction”).

The Company’s partners in these joint ventures and other arrangements may have interests that differ from the Company’s, and the Company and its partners may disagree with its partners as to the resolution of a particular issue or as to the management or conduct of the business in general. The Company may also carry high inherent anti-corruption compliance risk and lead to anti-corruption violations and related enforcement actions. The Company has entered into and may continue to enter into agreements that provide its partners with exclusivity or other preemptive rights in specific geographic areas, which may limit the Company’s ability to pursue business opportunities in the manner that the Company desires. In addition, in connection with its joint venture relationship, WeWork has undertaken not to operate its business in the specific region other than through the party who has entered into an agreement with WeWork. These agreements also generally contain non-compete provisions whereby WeWork agrees not to compete with its counterparty in the applicable region and agrees to provide an opportunity for the counterparty to participate in new ventures launched in the applicable region.

The Company’s strategic business plan includes, among others optimization of our real estate portfolio and the development of a regional model, and any such optimization and joint venture efforts may not be successful.

As part of the Company’s strategic plan, it intends to pursue growth through localized, market-driven models. In particular, the Company plans to pursue regional joint venture arrangements in which the Company licenses, for a fee to an operator of flexible space in a location where the Company does not operate, the use of the WeWork technology and services for managing and powering flexible work spaces and access to WeWork members in that location. These business models are unproven and there can be no assurance that the Company will be successful in these efforts.

Some of the counterparty risks the Company faces with respect to its members are heightened in the case of Enterprise Members.

Enterprise Members, which often sign membership agreements with longer terms and for a greater number of memberships than non-Enterprise members, accounted for 50%, 49%, 40% and 32% of the Company’s total membership and service revenue for the years ended June 30, 2021 and the year ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively. Memberships attributable to Enterprise Members account for a high proportion of the Company’s revenue at a particular location, and some of its locations are occupied by just one Enterprise Member. In addition, increasing Enterprise Members is a continuing part of the Company’s overall strategy. A default by an Enterprise Member who has a significant relationship with the Company could cause a significant reduction in the operating cash flow generated by the location where that Enterprise Member resides. The Company would also incur certain costs following an unexpected vacancy by an Enterprise Member. Given the greater amount of time and effort required to execute a definitive agreement with an Enterprise Member relative to the Company’s other members, the time and effort required to execute a definitive agreement with an Enterprise Member is greater than the time and effort required to execute membership agreements with individuals or small- or mid-size businesses and accordingly, replacing an Enterprise Member after an unexpected vacancy by such Enterprise Member could be costly.

require a significant amount of the Company's time, energy and resources. In addition, in some instances, the Company offers configurations that require it to customize the workspace to the specific needs and brand aesthetics of the Enterprise Member, which may increase its budgeted net capital expenditures per workstation added. If Enterprise Members were to delay commencement of their membership agreements or fail to make membership fee payments when due, declare bankruptcy or otherwise default on their obligations to the Company, the Company may terminate their membership agreements with the Company, which could result in sunk costs and transaction costs that are difficult or expensive for the Company to recover.

The Company is exposed to risks associated with the development and construction of the spaces it occupies.

Opening new locations subjects the Company to risks that are associated with development projects in general, such as delays in contract disputes and claims, fines or penalties levied by government authorities relating to the Company's construction activities, and claims against the Company or third parties for products used in the Company's locations. The Company may also experience delays opening a new location as a result of zoning, land-use, building, occupancy and other required governmental permits and authorizations. The Company traditionally has selected locations on the first day of a month and delays, even if the delay only lasts a few days, can cause it to defer opening a new location. Failure to open a location on schedule may damage the Company's reputation and brand and may also cause it to incur expenses in providing temporary space for its members or to provide those members with discounted membership fees.

In developing its spaces, the Company generally relies on the continued availability and satisfactory performance of unaffiliated general contractors and subcontractors to perform the actual construction work and, in many cases, to select and obtain certain building materials, including in some cases from sole-source suppliers of such materials. As a result, the timing and quality of the development of its spaces depends on the performance of these third parties on the Company's behalf.

The Company does not have long-term contractual commitments with general contractors, subcontractors or materials suppliers, but it does have agreements with certain major materials suppliers. The prices the Company pays for the labor or materials provided by these third parties, as well as the Company's own construction-related costs, could unexpectedly increase, which could have an adverse effect on the viability of the projects the Company is involved in and its results of operations and liquidity. Skilled parties and high-quality materials may not continue to be available at reasonable rates, which the Company pursues its construction activities.

In addition, the Company sources some of the products that it uses in its spaces from third-party suppliers. Although the Company may be able to identify any or all defects associated with the products it purchases from these third-party suppliers, the Company may not be able to identify any or all defects associated with the products it purchases from these third-party suppliers. If a member or other third party were to suffer an injury from the products the Company uses in its space, the Company may suffer damages and may be exposed to possible liability.

The people the Company engages in connection with a construction project are subject to the usual hazards associated with projects and related services on construction project sites, which can cause personal injury and loss of life, damage to or destruction of property, equipment, and environmental damage. The Company's insurance coverage may be inadequate in scope or coverage amount to fully protect the Company from any losses it may incur arising from any such events at a construction site it operates or oversees. In some cases, general contractors and subcontractors may use improper construction practices or defective materials. Improper construction practices or defective materials may require the Company to perform extensive repairs to the Company's spaces, loss of revenue during the repairs and, potentially, personal injury or death. The Company also can suffer damage to its reputation, and may be exposed to possible liability, if these third parties fail to comply with applicable laws and regulations.

The Company incurs costs relating to the maintenance, refurbishment and remediation of its spaces.

The terms of its leases generally require that the Company ensure that the spaces it occupies are kept in good repair throughout the lease. The terms of its leases may also require that the Company remove certain fixtures and improvements to the space or return the landlord at the end of the lease term in the same condition it was delivered to the Company, which, in such instances, will require removal and improvements to the space at the end of the lease term. The costs associated with this maintenance, removal and repair work may vary depending on the lease.

The Company also anticipates that it will be required to periodically refurbish its spaces to keep pace with the changing needs. Extensive refurbishments may be more costly and time-consuming than the Company expects and may adversely affect the Company's operations and financial condition. The Company's member experience may be adversely affected if extensive refurbishments disrupt its locations.

Supply chain interruptions and certain payment processes may increase the Company's costs or reduce its revenues.

The Company depends on the effectiveness of its supply chain management systems to ensure reliable and sufficient supply of favorable terms, of materials used in its construction and development and operating activities, such as furniture, lighting, millwork, security equipment and consumables. The materials the Company purchases and uses in the ordinary course of its business are sourced from a variety of suppliers around the world. Disruptions in the supply chain have resulted and may continue to result from COVID-19, and other factors, such as weather-related events, natural disasters, pandemics, trade restrictions, tariffs, border controls, acts of war, terrorist attacks, third-party inefficiencies, ineffective cross dock operations, work stoppages or slowdowns, shipping capacity constraints, supply or shipping interruptions or other factors beyond the Company's control. In the event of disruptions in the Company's existing supply chain, the labor and materials it relies on in the ordinary course of its business may not be available at reasonable rates or at all. In some cases, the Company may rely on a single source for procurement of construction services or other supplies in a given region. Any disruption in the supply of certain materials could disrupt operations at the Company's locations or significantly delay its opening of a new location, which may cause harm to its reputation and results of operations.

In addition, third-party suppliers may require payment upfront or deposits. As a result, the Company may not be able to obtain the required materials at the desired price, which may increase the Company's costs or reduce its revenues. Additionally, lowered credit limits provided by a number of suppliers may limit its purchasing power.

If the Company's pricing and related promotional and marketing plans are not effective, its business and prospects may be negatively impacted.

The Company's business and prospects depend on the impact of pricing and related promotional and marketing plans and its ability to respond quickly to economic and competitive conditions. If the Company's pricing and related promotional and marketing plans are not successful, or are not as successful as those of competitors, its revenue, membership base and market share could decrease, thereby adversely impacting its results of operations.

The Company's internal controls, financial systems and procedures need further development for a public company and a company that is subject to Sarbanes-Oxley Act requirements.

Pursuant to Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act ("Section 404") and the related rules adopted by the SEC and the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, after the closing of the Business Combination, our management will be required to report on the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and internal control over financial reporting, and be required to deliver an attestation report on the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and internal control over financial reporting in our second annual report that we file with the SEC after the completion of this offering. Because we are not currently required to comply with Section 404, we are not currently required to make an assessment of the effectiveness of our internal controls, or to deliver a report that assesses the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting. We have not yet determined whether our existing internal controls over financial reporting with Section 404. This process will require the investment of substantial time and resources, including by our Chief Financial Officer and other members of our senior management. In addition, we cannot predict the outcome of this determination and whether we will need to implement any remedial actions. Management's assessment of our internal control systems and procedures may identify weaknesses and conditions that need to be addressed in other matters that may raise concerns for investors. The determination and any remedial actions required could result in us incurring additional costs that we did not anticipate. Additionally, any actual or perceived weakness or condition that needs to be addressed in our internal control system could have an adverse impact on our business.

Irrespective of compliance with Section 404, given the Company's previous growth rate, we will need to further develop our internal control systems and procedures to keep pace with our growth and we are currently working to improve our controls. As part of the strategic plan to support the transition to new management, the Company believes that it has stabilized its growth and it continues to focus on further development of internal control systems to accommodate the Company's global scale. Some of the Company's internal controls, financial systems and procedures are still in the process of being updated. However, the planned development of our internal controls may not proceed smoothly or on the Company's projected timeline. Our current framework may not fully protect it against operational risks and losses. If we are unable to implement any of the changes to our internal control systems and financial systems and procedures effectively or efficiently, it could adversely affect our operations, financial reporting and results of operations.

We have made, and will continue to make, changes to our financial management control systems and other areas to manage our risk as a public company, including corporate governance, corporate controls, disclosure controls and procedures and financial reporting and audit committee. However, these and other measures that we might take may not be sufficient to allow us to satisfy our obligations as a public company. If we fail to maintain effective systems, controls and procedures, including disclosure controls and internal controls over financial reporting, which are designed to produce timely and accurate financial statements or comply with applicable regulations and prevent fraud could be adversely impacted. We may experience higher than anticipated operating expenses, as well as higher independent auditor fees, during and after the implementation of these changes.

If we are unable to implement any of the changes to our internal controls over financial reporting effectively or efficiently or as planned, or earlier than anticipated, it could adversely affect our operations, financial reporting and results of operations. Additionally, we do not believe that internal control systems, even if timely and well established, will prevent all errors and all fraud. Internal control systems, no matter how well designed and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurance that the control system's objectives will be met.

The Company relies on a combination of proprietary and third-party technology systems to support its business and member experience. If these systems experience difficulties, the Company's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects may be materially and adversely affected.

The Company uses a combination of proprietary technology and technology provided by third-party service providers to support its member experience. For example, the WeWork app, which the Company developed in-house but which incorporates third-party software, connects local communities and develops and deepens connections among its members, both at particular spaces and across cities.

The Company also uses technology of third-party service providers to help manage the daily operations of its business. For example, the Company relies on its own internal systems as well as those of third-party service providers to process membership payments and other payments from members.

To the extent the Company experiences difficulties in the operation of technologies and systems the Company uses to manage its business or that the Company makes available to its members, the Company's ability to operate its business, retain existing members and attract new members may be impaired. The Company may not be able to attract and retain sufficiently skilled and experienced technical personnel and third-party contractors to operate and maintain these technologies and systems, and its current product and service offerings may not continue to be, and new product and service offerings may not be, supported by the applicable third-party service providers on commercially reasonable terms or at all.

Moreover, the Company may be subject to claims by third parties who maintain that its service providers' technology infringes their intellectual property rights. Although the Company's agreements with its third-party service providers often contain indemnities in favor of the Company with respect to these eventualities, the Company may not be indemnified for these claims or the Company may not be successful in its efforts to obtain indemnification to which the Company is entitled.

Also, any harm to its members' personal computers or other devices caused by its software, such as the WeWork app, wifi or other network equipment, could have an adverse effect on the member experience, the Company's reputation and its operations and financial condition.

The Company uses third-party open source software components, which may pose particular risks to its proprietary software, technology and services in a manner that could negatively affect the Company's business.

The Company uses open source software in its WeWork app and other services and will continue to use open source software. The use and distribution of open source software may entail greater risks than use of third-party commercial software, as open source licensors do not provide support, warranties, indemnification or other contractual protections regarding infringement claims or the quality of the code. The Company's services depend upon the successful operation of open source software, any undetected errors or defects in this open source software could prevent the deployment or impair the functionality of our app or other services and injure our reputation.

Some open source licenses contain requirements that licensees make available source code for modifications or derivative works based upon the type of open source software used, or grant other licenses to intellectual property. If the Company combines its proprietary source code with such open source software in a certain manner, it could, under certain open source licenses, be required to release or license the source code of the Company's software to the public. From time to time, the Company may be subject to claims claiming ownership of, or demanding release of, the Company's software. Such claims could result in litigation, require the Company to purchase a costly license or require the Company to expend additional resources to re-engineer its software or change its products or services, any of which could have an adverse effect on the Company's operations and results of operations.

If the Company's proprietary information and/or data it collects and stores, particularly billing and personal data, were to be accessed by unauthorized persons, the Company's reputation, competitive advantage and relationships with its members could be harmed and its business could be adversely affected.

The Company generates significant amounts of proprietary, sensitive and otherwise confidential information relating to its operations, and the Company collects, stores and processes confidential and personal data regarding its members, including member names and billing data. Its proprietary information and data are maintained on the systems as well as the systems of third-party service providers.

Similar to other companies, the Company's information technology systems face the threat of insider threats or cyber-attacks, breaches, exfiltration, phishing scams, malware and denial-of-service attacks. The Company's systems or the systems of its third-parties could experience unauthorized intrusions or inadvertent data breaches, which could result in the exposure or destruction of the Company's information and/or members' data and the disruption of business operations.

Because techniques used to obtain unauthorized access to systems or sabotage systems change frequently and may not be known against the Company or its service providers, the Company and its service providers may be unable to anticipate these attacks or implement preventative measures. In addition, any party who is able to illicitly obtain identification and password credentials could potentially gain access to the Company's systems or the systems of its third-party service providers. If any such event occurs, the Company may incur significant capital and other resources to notify affected individuals, regulators and others as required under applicable law, mitigate the event and develop and implement protections to prevent future events of that nature from occurring. From time to time, employees may violate respect to security policies that are not always immediately detected by compliance policies and procedures. These can include errors in implementation or a failure to follow protocols and patch systems. Employee errors, even if promptly discovered and remediated, may affect operations or result in unauthorized disclosure of confidential information. The Company has experienced unauthorized breaches of its systems in the past, which the Company believes did not have a material effect on its business.

If a data security incident occurs, or is perceived to occur, the Company may be the subject of negative publicity and the perception of the effectiveness of its security measures and its reputation may be harmed, which could damage the Company's relationships and reputation with existing or potential members and adversely affect its results of operations and financial condition. In addition, even if there is no breach of member information, the Company could incur significant regulatory fines, be the subject of litigation or enforcement proceedings or face other legal consequences. In addition, the Company's insurance coverage may not be sufficient in type or amount to cover it against claims related to security attacks and other related data and system incidents.

If new operating rules or interpretations of existing rules are adopted regarding the processing of credit cards that the Company is unable to comply with, the Company could lose the ability to give members the option to make electronic payments, which could result in the loss of potential members and adversely affect its business.

The Company's reputation, competitive advantage, financial position and relationships with its members could be materially harmed if the Company is unable to comply with complex and evolving data protection and privacy laws and regulations, and the costs and resources required to achieve compliance may have a materially adverse impact on its business.

The Company's reputation, competitive advantage, financial position and relationships with its members could be materially harmed if the Company is unable to comply with complex and evolving data protection and privacy laws and regulations, and the costs and resources required to achieve compliance may have a materially adverse impact on its business.

The collection, protection and use of personal data are governed by privacy laws and regulations enacted in the United States, Canada, America and other jurisdictions around the world in which the Company operates. These laws and regulations continue to evolve and may be inconsistent from one jurisdiction to another. Compliance with applicable privacy laws and regulations may increase the Company's costs and negatively impact its business and adversely impact its ability to conduct its business and market its solutions, products and services to its members and potential members.

For example, the Company is subject to the European Union's General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679 ("GDPR"), members of the European Economic Area ("EEA") and, in some circumstances, to processors in a state outside the EEA including regardless of its location, that provides goods or services to individuals located in the EEA. The GDPR imposes significant obligations on controllers and data processors, requiring the implementation of more stringent requirements for the processing of personal data. If the Company fails to comply with the GDPR, it may lead to regulatory investigation with possible enforcement of monetary penalties ranging from 10 million euro, or 2% to 4% of annual worldwide revenue (whichever is higher), private or class action lawsuits and/or reputational damage.

Further, withdrawal of the United Kingdom ("UK") from the European Union ("EU") and the unknown financial, trade, regulatory and implications could lead to legal uncertainty and potentially divergent national laws and regulations. In particular, while the Data Protection Directive, which supplements the GDPR, is now effective in the UK alongside the UK GDPR, it is still unclear whether transfer of data from the UK will remain lawful under the GDPR without additional safeguards. Under the EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement signed on 31 December 2020, (a) if the European Commission reaches an adequacy decision with respect to the UK; or (b) a period of four months (which may be extended by six months) from the date the EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement enters into force (the "Specified Period"). In the meantime, the European Commission published its draft adequacy decision, finding that the UK does ensure an adequate level of data protection. Before the UK leaves the EU, the European Data Protection Board will need to issue a non-binding opinion on the draft and each Member State must approve it.

There is currently uncertainty as to how long this process will take. In the interim, transfers of personal data from the EEA to the UK may be restricted to transfers to a third country. Should approval not be obtained prior to the expiry of the Specified Period, organizations will need to implement a valid data transfer mechanism for data transfers from the EEA to the UK. The Company may incur costs to comply with applicable laws and restrictions for data transfers between the EEA and the UK based on applicable regulations.

EU legislators are preparing a new privacy Regulation to amend and replace the ePrivacy Directive (2002/58/EC). This change at the EU level may have significant impact on the legal requirements for electronic communication including the operation of and user consent for cookies and tracking technologies on websites (such as possibly requiring browsers to block access and use of device data and storage by default) and the placement of cookies on websites. It is currently still unclear if and when the proposed ePrivacy Regulation will enter into effect, European regulators and courts tend to apply the regulation more restrictively in a way which effectively anticipates opt-in requirements under the proposed ePrivacy Regulation. Other governments and the markets in which the Company operate are also considering additional and potentially diverging legislative and regulatory proposals to increase the level and complexity of regulation on Internet display, disclosure and advertising activities. Additionally, there is currently increased attention on cookies and tracking technologies in Europe, with EU regulators taking a strict approach to enforcement in this area. These changes may lead to substantial costs, require system changes, limit the effectiveness of the Company's marketing activities and subject the Company to potential liabilities.

EU laws regulate transfers of EEA personal data to third countries, such as the United States, that have not been found to provide an adequate level of protection to such personal data. Recent legal developments in the EU have created complexity and uncertainty regarding transfers of personal data from the EEA and the UK to the United States and other jurisdictions. For example, on July 16, 2020, the European Court of Justice ("CJEU") struck down the EU-U.S. Privacy Shield framework ("Privacy Shield"), which provided companies with a mechanism to comply with data protection requirements when transferring personal data from the EEA/UK to the United States. The same decision also cast doubt on the ability to use one of the primary mechanisms available to transfer personal data from Europe to the United States and most other countries (through the Standard Contractual Clauses ("SCCs")), to lawfully transfer personal data from Europe to the United States and most other countries (through the SCCs currently remain a valid data transfer mechanism under the UK GDPR). At present, there is no clear alternative mechanism for transfers of personal data from the EEA/UK to the United States and most other countries.

are few if any viable alternatives to the Privacy Shield Frameworks and the SCCs for the foregoing purposes, which may lead to enforcement actions, litigation, fines and penalties or adverse publicity which could have an adverse effect on our reputation and business.

Additionally, in June 2018, California passed the California Consumer Privacy Act (“CCPA”), which provides new data protection rights for consumers and new operational requirements for companies, effective in 2020. The CCPA gives California residents new rights to access, delete and correct their personal information, opt out of certain personal information sharing, and receive detailed information about how their personal information is collected, used, and shared. The CCPA provides for civil penalties for violations, and creates a private right of action for consumers that could lead to consumer class actions and other litigation against the Company. As CCPA enforcement began on July 1, 2020, it is unclear what, if any, modifications will be made to the regulations implementing the CCPA or how the CCPA and its implementing regulations will be interpreted. Varied interpretations of or modifications to the CCPA and its implementing regulations may have a significant effect on our business.

Other U.S. states and the U.S. Congress have adopted or are in the process of considering legislation similar to California’s legislation. Such laws may add additional complexity, variation in requirements, restrictions and potential legal risk, require additional investment in resources and programs, and could impact strategies and availability of previously useful data and could result in increased compliance costs and expenses in our business practices and policies. If the Company fails to comply with the CCPA or other federal or state data protection and data privacy laws, regulators or plaintiffs assert the Company has failed to comply with them, it may lead to regulatory enforcement actions, private lawsuits or reputational damage. Additionally, a new California ballot initiative, the California Privacy Rights Act, or the CPRA, passed in California in November 2020. The CPRA will impose additional data protection obligations on companies doing business in California, including additional processes and opt outs for certain uses of sensitive data. The majority of the provisions will go into effect on January 1, 2023, and additional investment and changes to business processes may be required.

In Canada, the Company is subject to Canada’s Personal Information and Protection of Electronic Documents Act (“PIPEDA”), which protects Canadian residents with privacy protections and sets out rules for how companies may collect, use and disclose personal information in the course of commercial activities. The costs of compliance with, and other burdens imposed by, these and other international data privacy and security laws may limit the use and adoption of the Company’s solutions, products and services and could have a materially adverse impact on its business. A perceived failure by the Company or third-party service providers to comply with international data privacy and security laws may result in regulatory enforcement actions, fines, private lawsuits or reputational damage.

Failure to comply with marketing, consumer protection, and data privacy laws could result in fines or restrict the Company’s business.

The Company is expanding its business through new digital and e-commerce products. The Company may not be in compliance with consumer protection laws (such as ROSCA PROFECO), unfair contract clauses, sales, marketing and advertising laws or other similar laws in countries where it operates. These laws, as well as any changes in these laws, could negatively affect current or planned digital and e-commerce product offerings, subject the Company to regulatory review and fines and an increase in lawsuits. Consumer protection laws may be interpreted or applied by regulators in a manner that could require the Company to make changes to its operations or incur fines, penalties, litigation or settlement expenses, which may result in harm to its business.

The Company has not obtained and may not obtain all regulatory approvals from government agencies and may not be in compliance with telecommunications laws associated with the Company’s anticipated product offerings prior to marketing and launching these products in certain jurisdictions. If the Company does not comply with any current or future state regulations that apply to its business, the Company could be subject to substantial fines and penalties, which may require the Company to change its operations, such as to restructure its product offerings, exit certain markets, or raise the price of its products, any of which could ultimately harm its business. Any enforcement action by the regulators, which may be a public process, could hurt the Company's reputation in the industry and impair its ability to sell products to its customers and harm its business.

The Company plans to continue operating its business in markets outside the United States, which will subject it to risks associated with foreign jurisdictions.

Expanding operations into markets outside the United States was historically an important part of the Company's growth strategy. The Company expects that operations in markets outside the United States will continue to represent a significant portion of its business in the future.

While the Company plans to prioritize operating internationally in certain markets through localized, market-driven models, joint ventures, in line with its new business strategy, the success and profitability of its business in non-U.S. markets will continue to depend on the Company's ability to attract local members. The solutions, products and services the Company, or its joint venture partners, offers or determines to attract local members may not appeal to potential members in all markets in the same way it appeals to its members in markets where the Company currently operates. In addition, local competitors may have a substantial competitive advantage over the Company in a given market because of their greater knowledge of and focus on, individuals and organizations in that market, as well as their more established local infrastructure and brands. The Company may be unable to hire, train, retain and manage the personnel the Company requires in order to manage its international operations effectively, if at all, which may limit the Company's ability to operate effectively in these markets and negatively impact its financial performance. Further, the Company may experience variability in the terms of its leases (including rent per square foot) and in its capital expenditures as it moves into new markets.

Operating in international markets, which may require operating through new localized, market-driven models in accordance with the Company's strategic plan, requires significant resources and management attention and subjects the Company to regulatory, economic and political risks that are different from and incremental to those that the Company faces in the United States, including:

- the need to adapt the design and features of its locations and products and services to accommodate specific cultural norms and laws;
- difficulties in understanding and complying with local laws and regulations in foreign jurisdictions, including local labor laws, environmental regulations and rules and regulations related to occupancy of its locations;
- varying local building codes and regulations relating to building design, construction, safety, environmental protection and related issues;
- significant reliance on third parties with whom the Company may engage in joint ventures, strategic alliances or ordinary course of business relationships whose interests and incentives may be adverse to or different from the Company's or may be unknown to the Company;
- varying laws, rules, regulations and practices regarding protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights, including trademarks, patents, copyrights and trade secrets;
- varying marketing and consumer protection laws, regulations and related practices;
- laws and regulations regarding consumer and data protection, telecommunications requirements, privacy and security, and encryption that are more restrictive than comparable laws and regulations in the United States;

Table of Contents

- corrupt or unethical practices in foreign jurisdictions that may subject the Company to compliance costs, including competitive exposure under applicable anti-corruption and anti-bribery laws, including the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, as “FCPA”);
- compliance with applicable export and import controls and economic and trade sanctions, such as sanctions administered by the U.S. Treasury’s Office of Foreign Assets Control;
- fluctuations in currency exchange rates and compliance with foreign exchange controls and limitations on repatriation of funds; and
- unpredictable disruptions as a result of security threats or political or social unrest and economic instability.

Finally, continued expansion in markets outside the United States may require significant financial and other investments. These risks include developing relationships with local partners and third-party service providers, property sourcing and leasing, marketing to attract new members, developing localized infrastructure and services, further developing corporate capabilities able to support operations and compliance in multiple countries, and potentially entering into strategic transactions with companies based outside the United States and those companies with the Company’s existing operations. If the Company continues to invest time and resources to expand its operations outside the United States, but cannot manage these risks effectively, the costs of doing business in those markets, including the investment of money in those markets, may be prohibitive, or the Company’s expenses may increase disproportionately to the revenue generated in those markets.

As the Company continues to grow in new and existing markets using varying models, certain metrics may be impacted by the Company’s growth in different markets and its locations. While the Company intends to pursue profitable growth in accordance with its strategic plan, the Company’s overall revenue and margins could be negatively impacted if lower margin markets, including markets such as Latin America and Southeast Asia, were to become a larger portion of the Company’s real estate portfolio. Margins may also be negatively impacted by an increase in the percentage of the real estate portfolio dedicated to joint venture arrangements, which may reduce the Company’s down-side risk but could also limit up-side potential as we share in profits from those arrangements.

The Company faces risks arising from strategic transactions such as acquisitions, divestitures, investments and regional joint ventures that it evaluates, pursues and undertakes.

The Company has historically evaluated potential strategic acquisition or investment opportunities, and it has pursued and undertaken some of those opportunities. The process of acquiring and integrating another company or technology could create unforeseen operating costs and expenditures and could entail unforeseen liabilities that are not recoverable under the relevant transaction agreements or otherwise.

WeWork and Cushman entered into a non-binding exclusive strategic partnership to market both landlords and businesses that have management experience platform and on new jointly developed solutions. The material terms of the partnership are non-binding and subject to finalization of definitive documentation. There can be no assurance that WeWork will enter into definitive documentation or complete the transactions with Cushman, or that WeWork will realize the anticipated benefits of its partnership with Cushman.

The Company has recently divested certain assets or businesses that no longer fit with its strategic direction or growth targets. These businesses that the Company had recently acquired. For example, the Company has divested several non-core businesses, including Flatiron, SpaceIQ, Teem, Conductor and Fieldlens. Furthermore, the Company intends to pursue regional joint venture arrangements, under which the Company licenses, for a fee to an operator of flexible space in a location in which WeWork does not operate, the use of WeWork’s services for managing and powering flexible work spaces and access to WeWork’s customer base. In 2021, an affiliate of SBG and WeWork entered into an agreement with respect to the formation of a regional joint venture for certain of WeWork’s Latin American operations.

The transactions described above involve significant risks and uncertainties, including:

- inability to find potential partners;
- inability to obtain favorable terms for the Company's regional joint venture agreements;
- failure to effectively transfer liabilities, contracts, facilities and employees to buyers or partners;
- requirements that the Company retain or indemnify buyers or partners against certain liabilities and obligations;
- the possibility that the Company will become subject to third-party claims arising out of such divestitures or regional joint ventures;
- inability to reduce fixed costs previously associated with the divested assets or business or in markets where the Company enters a venture arrangement;
- disruption of the Company's ongoing business and distraction of management;
- loss of key employees who leave as a result of a divestiture or regional joint venture arrangement; and
- loss of members from WeWork locations to other flex workspace providers in similar locations.

Because acquisitions and divestitures as well as regional joint venture arrangements are inherently risky, the transactions may and may, in some cases, harm the Company's operating results or financial condition.

The Company has entered into certain agreements that may limit its ability to directly acquire ownership interests in properties, and ownership of certain properties with third-party investors may create conflicts of interest.

The Company holds an ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group (formerly known as ARK), its real estate acquisition platform, through its majority ownership of the general partner and manager entities that manage the activities of real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group. In connection with the establishment of the real estate investment platform, the Company agreed that WeCap Holdings Partnership would be the exclusive general partner and the WeWork Capital Advisors LLC would be the exclusive investment manager for any real estate acquisition vehicles managed by, or otherwise affiliated with, the Company and its affiliates and associated persons. The Company also agreed to make commercial real estate and other real estate-related investments available to meet WeCap Investment Group's mandate available to the WeCap Investment Group on a first-look basis, with certain limited exceptions. These requirements, which are in effect at least until there are no real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group that are actively deploying capital, the Company may be required to acquire ownership interests in properties through the WeCap Investment Group otherwise could have acquired through one of its operating subsidiaries, which may prevent the Company from realizing certain attractive real estate opportunities.

Additionally, the WeCap Investment Group primarily focuses on acquiring, developing and managing properties that the WeCap Investment Group believes could benefit from the Company's occupancy or involvement, and the Company expects a subsidiary to occupy or be involved in a meaningful portion of the properties acquired by real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group. The Company's ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group may create situations where its interests with respect to the exercise of the WeCap Investment Group's management rights in respect of assets owned or controlled by the WeCap Investment Group, as well as the WeCap Investment Group's duties to limited partners or similar members in real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group, are in conflict with the Company's own independent economic interests as a tenant and operator of its properties.

locations. For example, conflicts may arise in connection with decisions regarding the structure and terms of the leases entered into by the Company and the WeCap Investment Group, tenant improvement allowances, or guarantee or termination provisions. Conflicts of interest may also arise in connection with the exercise of contractual remedies under such leases, such as treatment of events of default.

The Company's ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group may impact its financial condition and results of operations.

WeCap Investment Group's financial performance is significantly correlated with the activities of real estate acquisition vehicles sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group, and a significant portion of any income to the WeCap Investment Group is expected to be received at the end of the holding period for one or more given assets or the term of one or more given real estate acquisition vehicles. In addition, changes in the value of assets held by real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group or other events or circumstances could cause any real estate acquisition vehicle managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group to deviate from its objectives. In light of the long-dated and uncertain nature of any income to the WeCap Investment Group, the WeCap Investment Group's financial performance may be more variable than the Company expects, both from period to period and overall. Accordingly, because of the Company's ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group, the WeCap Investment Group's performance and activities, including the nature of WeCap Investment Group transactions, may affect the comparability of the Company's financial condition and results of operations for each period, in each case to the extent required to be directly included in its consolidated financial statements in accordance with GAAP.

Additionally, although the Company does not generally expect this to be the case, investments through real estate acquisition vehicles sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group may require that the Company directly incur or guarantee debt, which the Company expects to do through loans secured by assets or properties that the WeCap Investment Group acquires. For example, an entity in which the Company has an interest with the WeCap Investment Group and others incurred a secured loan to purchase certain property in New York City in which the Company had leased from that entity. Until the secured loan was repaid in connection with the sale of the property in March 2020, WeWork Companies LLC and WeWork in certain limited circumstances, and WeWork Companies LLC and WeWork also provided guarantees relating to the lease and development of that property.

The Company may not be able to compete effectively with others.

While the Company considers itself to be a leader in the flexible space market, with the largest real estate portfolio on a square foot basis, the Company's core competencies in finding, building, filling and operating new locations, the growing shift towards flexible office space may encourage other companies to launch competing flexible workspace offerings. If new companies decide to launch competing solutions in the markets in which the Company operates, or if any existing competitors obtain a large-scale capital investment, the Company may face increased competition for members.

In addition, some of the services the Company offers or plans to offer are provided by one or more large, national or international companies, as well as by regional and local companies of varying sizes and resources, some of which may have accumulated substantial goodwill. Some of the Company's competitors may also be better capitalized than it is, have access to better lease terms than it does, have operations in more jurisdictions than it does or be able or willing to provide services at a lower price than it is. The Company's inability to compete effectively or maintain its membership base could hinder its growth or adversely impact its operating results.

The Company's limited operating history and evolving business make it difficult to evaluate its current business and future prospects.

The Company's limited operating history and the evolution of its business make it difficult to accurately assess its future prospects. It is not possible to discern fully the economic and other business trends that the Company may experience.

Table of Contents

Company is subject to. Elements of its business strategy are new and subject to ongoing development as its operations mature. In addition, it is difficult to evaluate the Company's business because there are few other companies that offer the same or a similar range of solutions and services as the Company does.

Certain of the measures the Company uses to evaluate its financial and operating performance, including the Projections (defined below), reflect inherent challenges in measurement and may be impacted by subjective determinations and not necessarily by changes in its underlying assumptions.

The Company tracks certain operational metrics, including key performance indicators such as memberships and projection systems and tools that are not independently verified by any third party. Certain of the Company's operational metrics are also based on estimates of future events. In particular, the number of open locations, pre-opening locations and pipeline locations is compiled from various sources depending on the phase of the location within the lifecycle that the Company attributes to its locations. For open locations, which include locations for shared workspace offerings, which account for a subset of its standard workspace solutions, is estimated on a location-by-location basis and regional community teams based on demand and the characteristics and distinct local personality of the relevant community. For pre-opening and pipeline locations, workstation capacity is estimated by its real estate and design teams based on its building information management software, and includes estimated workstation capacity for locations that are the subject of a draft term sheet or lease that may not result in an agreement or an open location.

The Company's internal systems and tools have a number of limitations, and its methodologies for tracking these metrics may have inherent limitations or errors with respect to how the Company measures data or with respect to the data that the Company measures. In addition, limitations or errors with respect to how the Company measures data or with respect to the data that the Company measures may affect the Company's understanding of certain details of its business, which could affect its long-term strategies. If the internal systems and tools the Company uses to track these metrics understate or overstate performance or contain algorithmic or other technical errors, the data the Company reports may be inaccurate. If the Company discovers material inaccuracies with respect to these figures, its reputation may be significantly harmed, and its results and financial condition could be adversely affected.

The Company does not, as a matter of general practice, publicly disclose long-term forecasts or internal projections of its future revenue, financial condition or other results. The Projections included in this proxy statement/prospectus were prepared solely for informational purposes and do not purport to represent actual results. In accordance with a view toward public disclosure, the published guidelines of the SEC regarding projections or the guidelines established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants for preparation and presentation of prospective financial information. The Projections are forward-looking statements that are inherently subject to significant uncertainties and contingencies, many of which are beyond the Company's control. The Projections are based on numerous estimates and assumptions, including, but not limited to, general business, economic, regulatory, market and financial conditions, assumptions about competition, future industry performance and matters specific to WeWork's business. There can be no assurance that the Company's financial condition, including its cash flows or results of operations will be consistent with those set forth in the Projections, which could have an adverse impact on the market price of New WeWork Common Stock or the financial position of New WeWork following the closing of the Transaction.

If the Company's employees were to engage in a strike or other work stoppage or interruption or seek to unionize, the Company's business, results of operations, financial condition and liquidity could be materially adversely affected.

If disputes with the Company's employees arise, or if its workers engage in a strike or other work stoppage or interruption or seek to unionize, the Company could experience a significant disruption of, or inefficiencies in, its operations or incur higher labor costs, which could have an adverse effect on its business, results of operations, financial condition and liquidity. In addition, some of the Company's employees outside of the United States are represented or may seek to be represented by a labor union or workers' council.

The Company is subject to litigation, investigations and other legal proceedings which could adversely affect its business, financial results of operations.

The Company has in the past been, is currently and expects to continue in the future to be a party to or involved in pre-litigation individual actions, putative class actions or other collective actions, U.S. and foreign government regulatory inquiries and investigations, other legal proceedings arising in the normal course of its business, including with members, employees, landlords and other commercial securityholders, third-party license holders, competitors, government agencies and regulatory agencies, among others. For a description of pending legal proceedings and ongoing regulatory matters not in the ordinary course of business, see the section entitled “Legal Matters” in the notes to WeWork’s consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus and the sections entitled — Risks Relating to the Company’s Business — The long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company’s leases may limit the Company’s flexibility and could adversely affect its liquidity and results of operations.” and “— Risks Relating to the Company’s Business — undergoing a transformation in its business plan under new management and there can be no assurances that this new business plan will be successful.”

Management intends to vigorously defend these cases and cooperate in these investigations. However, there is a reasonable possibility that the Company could be unsuccessful in defending these claims and could incur a loss. It is not currently possible to estimate a range of reasonably possible loss above the aggregated reserves. The Company also cannot offer any assurances regarding the scope of these investigations, the nature of the defense, the outcome of the investigation or the steps that these or other regulatory parties will take, or the timing within which they will be resolved.

Negative publicity may lead to additional investigations or lawsuits. Often these cases raise complex factual and legal issues, and such litigation, investigation or other legal proceeding is inherently unpredictable. Claims against the Company, whether meritorious or not, require significant amounts of management’s time and attention and the Company’s resources to defend, could result in significant negative publicity and could be harmful to the Company’s reputation, its brand and its business. If any of these legal proceedings or inquiries were to be determined adversely to the Company or result in an enforcement action or judgment against the Company, or if the Company were to enter into settlement arrangements, the Company could be exposed to monetary damages or be forced to change the way in which it does business, which could have an adverse effect on the Company’s business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows. The Company may incur substantial legal fees and related expenses in connection with defending any investigations or lawsuits and fulfill indemnification obligations.

The Company’s business could be adversely affected by natural disasters, public health crises, political crises or other unexpected events. The Company may not be sufficiently insured.

Natural disasters and other adverse weather and climate conditions, public health crises, political crises, terrorist attacks, war instability or other unexpected events could disrupt the Company’s operations, damage one or more of its locations or prevent short-term access to one or more of its locations. In particular, another outbreak of a contagious disease or similar public health threat as was experienced during the COVID-19 outbreak, particularly as it may impact the Company’s operations and supply chain, may have a material impact on the Company’s results of operations and financial condition.

Many of the Company’s locations are located in the vicinity of disaster zones, including flood zones in New York City and parts of the San Francisco Bay Area and Mexico City, and many of its locations are concentrated in metropolitan areas of prominent buildings, which may be the target of terrorist or other attacks. Although the Company carries comprehensive liability coverage and business interruption insurance with respect to all of its consolidated locations, there are certain types of losses that the Company insures against because they are either uninsurable or not insurable on commercially reasonable terms. Should an uninsured event occur, the Company’s insured limits occur, the Company could lose some or all of the capital invested in, and anticipated future revenues from, the affected locations, and nevertheless continue to be subject to obligations related to those locations.

Economic and political instability and potential unfavorable changes in laws and regulations in international markets could adversely affect the Company's results of operations and financial condition.

The Company's business may be affected by political instability and potential unfavorable changes in laws and regulations in the markets in which it operates. For example, the United Kingdom's withdrawal from the European Union, known as "Brexit," that occurred on January 31, 2020, could impact the Company's operations in the United Kingdom. In particular, the real estate industry generally faces uncertainty regarding the impact of Brexit. Adverse consequences could include, but are not limited to: global economic uncertainty, volatility in currency exchange rates, adverse changes in regulation of the real estate industry, disruptions to the markets the Company operates in (which may adversely impact tax benefits or liabilities in these or other jurisdictions), and/or negative impact on the operations and financial conditions of the Company's tenants. In addition, Brexit could lead to legal uncertainty and potentially divergent laws and regulations as the United Kingdom determines which European Union laws to replace or replicate. Given the ongoing uncertainty in the transition period negotiations, the Company cannot predict how the Brexit process will finally be implemented and is continuing to assess the impact, if any, of these events on its operations, financial condition, and results of operations.

Additionally, there are concerns regarding potential changes in the future relationship between the United States and various other countries, particularly the United Kingdom and China. There are also concerns regarding potential changes in the future relationship between the United States and significantly China, with respect to trade policies, treaties, government regulations and tariffs. It remains unclear how the United States and Chinese governments will act with respect to tariffs, international trade agreements and policies. The implementation by China or other countries of new tariffs, capital controls, new adverse trade policies or other barriers to entry could have an adverse impact on the Company's business condition and results of operations.

Risks Relating to the Company's Financial Condition

The Company's indebtedness and other obligations could adversely affect its financial condition and liquidity.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had $669.0 million of outstanding principal on the Senior Notes (defined below). In addition, as of June 30, 2021, the amounts outstanding under the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG included $1.7 billion in outstanding letters of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility, under which SBG is a co-obligor, and $2.2 billion in outstanding indebtedness under the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (defined below) and $349.0 million in principal outstanding under the LC Debt Facility (defined below). As of June 30, 2021 there remained $84.7 million in outstanding principal under the LC Debt Facility, $1.1 billion in outstanding principal under the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes, and $1.1 billion in letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility, and $1.1 billion available to be drawn under the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes. If the Company makes additional draws on the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG, the Company's total indebtedness will be substantially increased, which could intensify the risks related to its high level of debt. In addition, the Company has $38.92 million of outstanding principal under the Senior Notes.

The Company's high level of debt could have important consequences, including the following:

- limiting its ability to obtain additional financing to fund future working capital, capital expenditures, acquisitions or other general corporate requirements, and increasing its cost of borrowing;
- requiring a substantial portion of its cash flows to be dedicated to payments on its obligations instead of for other purposes; and
- increasing its vulnerability to general adverse economic and industry conditions and limiting its flexibility in planning for and reacting to changes in the industry in which the Company competes.

Table of Contents

Subject to the limits contained in the indenture governing the Senior Notes and the Company's other debt agreements and covenants, the Company and its subsidiaries will also be able to incur substantial additional debt, lease obligations and other obligations from time to time. If the Company or its subsidiaries do so, the risks related to its high level of debt could intensify.

The Company and its subsidiaries may not be able to generate sufficient cash to service all of their indebtedness and other obligations, which may force them to take other actions to satisfy their obligations, which may not be successful.

The Company and its subsidiaries' ability to make scheduled payments or refinance its obligations depends on their financial condition, operating performance, which are subject to prevailing economic and competitive conditions and to certain financial, business, legal and other factors beyond the Company's control. The Company and its subsidiaries may be unable to maintain a level of cash flow and other activities sufficient to permit them to pay the principal, premium, if any, and interest on its indebtedness and to pay their lease obligations.

If the Company and its subsidiaries' cash flows and capital resources are insufficient to fund their obligations, the Company and its subsidiaries could face substantial liquidity problems and could be forced to reduce or delay investments and capital expenditures or to dispose of assets, seek additional debt or equity capital or restructure or refinance their indebtedness and other obligations. The Company and its subsidiaries may not be able to effect any such alternative measures, if necessary, on commercially reasonable terms or at all and, even if such measures are taken, alternative actions may not allow them to meet their scheduled debt obligations. The agreements that govern the Company and its subsidiaries' indebtedness restrict their ability to dispose of certain assets and use the proceeds from those dispositions and may also restrict their ability to use certain types of equity capital to be used to repay other indebtedness when it becomes due. The Company or its subsidiaries may not be able to consummate those dispositions or to obtain proceeds in an amount sufficient to meet any obligations then due. See the section entitled Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations — Liquidity and Capital Resources.

In addition, the Company conducts a substantial portion of its operations through its subsidiaries. Accordingly, repayment of its obligations is dependent on the generation of cash flow by its subsidiaries and their ability to make such cash available to the Company by dividends or otherwise. In the event that the Company's subsidiaries are unable to generate sufficient cash flow, the Company may be unable to make principal and interest payments on its indebtedness.

If the Company or its subsidiaries cannot make scheduled payments on their debt, the Company or its subsidiaries will be in default under their debt instruments, which could result in the termination of their commitments to issue letters of credit, their secured lenders could foreclose against them, their landlords could terminate their leases, they could be required to vacate those properties or pay compensatory or consequential damages to the landlord, which could adversely affect its business, prospects and results of operations. However, as of June 30, 2021, the total security packages provided by the Company and its subsidiaries in respect of those leases was approximately $6.5 billion, representing less than 20% of future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations. See the section entitled

"Risk Factors — Risks relating to the Company's Business — The long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company's leases may limit the Company's ability to adjust its lease obligations to changing market conditions, which may affect its liquidity and results of operations."

In addition, the Company's $844.0 million in cash and cash equivalents as of June 30, 2021, included cash and cash equivalents of its consolidated variable interest entities ("VIEs"), which will be used first to settle obligations of the VIE. Remaining assets may be distributed to the VIEs' owners, including the Company, subject to the liquidation preferences of certain noncontrolling interest holders and any distribution provisions contained within the operating agreements of the relevant VIEs. In addition to these amounts, the Company had $11.5 million as of June 30, 2021. The Company Credit Agreement requires the Company and its Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) to maintain substantially all cash and cash equivalents in accounts with the administrative agent, subject to certain exceptions, and to maintain a certain amount of cash and cash equivalents in accounts that are subject to an account control agreement in favor of the administrative agent.

Some of the cash that appears on the Company's balance sheet may not be available for use in the Company's business or to meet the Company's obligations.

Although the Company may be permitted to use cash deposits from members in the operation of its business until such members return, if required by local law, the Company may need to place cash deposits in separate accounts. In these instances, these cash deposits are not available for other uses in the Company's business. In addition, at times the Company is required to make cash deposits to bank guarantees and outstanding letters of credit supporting its obligations under certain office leases or amounts the Company owes to certain persons whom it purchases goods and services. These cash deposits are not available for other uses as long as the bank guarantees are outstanding.

The Company Credit Agreement requires the Company and its Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) to maintain cash and cash equivalents in accounts with the administrative agent, subject to certain exceptions, and to maintain a certain amount of cash and cash equivalents in accounts that are subject to an account control agreement in favor of the administrative agent.

Further, total assets of consolidated variable interest entities ("VIEs") included $102.6 million of cash and cash equivalents and restricted cash as of June 30, 2021. The assets of consolidated VIEs can only be used to settle obligations of the VIE. Finally, certain countries where the Company does business have regulations that restrict the Company's ability to send cash out of the country without tax permission requirements. In light of the foregoing factors, the amount of cash that appears on the Company's balance sheet may overstate the amount of cash the Company has available to meet its business needs or debt obligations, including obligations under the Senior Notes.

The Company may require additional capital, particularly if the Business Combination does not close, which may not be available or accessible to it or at all.

The Company incurred net losses in the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018. The primary source of funding since late 2019 is through agreements with SBG, including the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes and the Company Credit Agreement. If the Company is not able to achieve its goals to become profitable and cash flow positive in the near-term, it may require additional capital. The Company's future financing requirements will also depend on many factors, including the number of new locations to open, the membership retention rate, the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on its business, the timing and extent of spending to support the Company's business, its ability to reduce capital expenditures and the expansion of its sales and marketing activities, and potential joint venture arrangements. The Company's ability to obtain financing will depend on, among other things, its business plans, operating performance, investor demand and availability of the capital markets at the time the Company seeks financing. Additional capital may not be available to the Company from SBG or other sources or, if available, may not be available on terms acceptable to the Company or on a timely basis.

The terms of the Company's indebtedness restrict its current and future operations, particularly its ability to respond to changes or to include some of which may affect completion of the Company's strategic plan.

The agreements governing the Company's indebtedness contain a number of restrictive covenants that impose significant operational restrictions on the Company and may limit its ability to engage in acts that may be in its long-term best interest, including restrictions on incurring indebtedness (including guarantee obligations), incur liens, enter into mergers or consolidations, dispose of assets, pay dividends, make acquisitions and make investments, loans and advances.

These restrictions may affect the Company's ability to execute on its business strategy, limit its ability to raise additional debt or to operate its business, including during economic or business downturns, and limit its ability to compete effectively or take advantage of opportunities.

The Company has incurred and may incur in the future significant costs related to the development of its workspaces, which the Company may be unable to recover in a timely manner or at all.

Development of a workspace for members typically takes several months from the date the Company takes possession of the relevant lease to the opening date. During this time, the Company incurs substantial upfront costs without recognizing any revenue.

To the extent that our members (in particular Enterprise Members) require configured solutions, we generally enter into multi-year agreements to help offset any increased upfront costs related to the development of these workspaces. The Company expects the costs associated with the development of its workspaces to continue to be one of the primary costs of its business. See the section entitled "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Liquidity and Capital Resources." If the Company is unable to complete its development and construction activities for any reason, including an inability to secure adequate funding, or if the market or the broader economy change in ways that are unfavorable, the Company may be unable to recover these costs in a timely manner. The Company's development activities are also subject to cost and schedule overruns as a result of many factors some of which are beyond the Company's control, including increases in the cost of materials and labor.

While many of the Company's existing leases provide for reimbursement by the landlord or building owner of a portion of the development expenses the Company incurs, the Company may not continue to be granted these provisions in future leases that the Company enters into.

Additionally, the Company's landlords or building owners may not reimburse the Company for these expenses in a timely manner in the event the Company could exercise its available remedies under the lease. To be eligible for reimbursement of these development expenses, the Company is also required to compile invoices, lien releases and other paperwork from its contractors, which is a time-consuming process that requires the cooperation of third parties whom the Company does not control. The Company has a tracking mechanism and process for enforcing these reimbursements, however, it may make errors in pursuing these reimbursement entitlements in accordance with the strict requirements of the landlords or building owners the Company deals with. In addition, the Company is subject to counterparty risk with respect to these landlords or building owners.

Changes to accounting rules or regulations and the Company's assumptions, estimates and judgments may adversely affect the results of the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Company's consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP. New accounting rules or regulations or interpretations of existing accounting rules or regulations have occurred and may occur in the future. For example, in February 2016, the FASB issued ASU No. 2016-02, Leases ("ASU 2016-02"), codified as ASC 842, Leases. This update required a lessee to recognize on its balance sheet assets and lease liabilities for any leases with a lease term of more than twelve months. The Company adopted ASC 842 early in connection with the preparation of its financial statements as of and for the twelve months ended December 31, 2019, and the adoption had a material impact on the Company's consolidated balance sheet. The Company had lease right-of-use assets of approximately $13.9 billion and lease obligations totaling approximately $19.9 billion included on its consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019.

Other future changes to accounting rules or regulations could have a material adverse effect on the reporting of the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Additionally, the Company's assumptions, estimates and judgments related to complex accounting matters could significantly affect the Company's financial statements. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions about amounts reported and related disclosures. The Company bases its estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions it believes to be reasonable under the circumstances. These estimates form the basis for judgments about the carrying values of assets and equity, as well as the amount of revenue and expenses that are not readily apparent from other sources. As the COVID-19 pandemic has affected and may continue to adversely affect the Company's revenues and expenditures, the extent and duration of restrictions and the macroeconomic impact of the pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of our financial statements. The Company's business, financial condition and results of operations may be adversely affected if its assumptions change or if actual circumstances differ from those assumed.

Fluctuations in exchange rates may adversely affect the Company.

The Company's international businesses typically earn revenue and incur expenses in local currencies, primarily the British Pound, Euro, Yen and Chinese Yuan (prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation (defined below)). For example, the Company earned approximately 58% of its revenues from subsidiaries whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018 respectively. Because its consolidated financial statements are reported in U.S. dollars, the Company faces currency translation risk when the Company translates the financial results of its consolidated non-U.S. subsidiaries from their local currencies into U.S. dollars. As foreign currency exchange rates change, translation of the statements of operations of the Company's international businesses into U.S. dollars affects period-over-period comparability of its operating results. Any strengthening of the U.S. dollar against one or more of the Company's functional currencies could materially adversely affect the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Risks Relating to Laws and Regulations Affecting the Company's Business

The Company's extensive foreign operations and contacts with landlords and other parties in a variety of countries subject it to risks associated with anti-corruption laws, other anti-corruption laws, as well as applicable export controls and economic sanctions.

The Company is subject to various domestic and international anti-corruption laws, such as the FCPA, as well as other similar anti-kickback laws and regulations. There may in the future be allegations of corruption against the Company and its employees. These regulations prohibit the Company's employees, representatives, contractors, business partners and agents from authorizing, offering or accepting payment or benefits for the purpose of improperly influencing the recipient or intended recipient. These laws also require the Company to keep accurate books and records and maintain compliance procedures designed to prevent any such actions. Under these laws, the Company may become liable for the actions of its directors, officers, employees, agents or other strategic or local partners or representatives over whom they may have little actual control.

The Company uses third-party representatives to perform services such as obtaining or retaining business, permits, approvals and licenses. Additionally, the Company is continuously engaged in sourcing and negotiating new locations in high-risk jurisdictions around the world, including the United States, Canada, Mexico, Australia, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Portugal, the Netherlands, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Austria, Switzerland, Greece, Turkey, Russia, India, China, Japan, South Korea, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia, Philippines, Hong Kong, Macau, and Mongolia. The Company's business, financial condition and results of operations may be adversely affected by changes in laws and regulations, including changes in laws and regulations relating to the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

agents or other parties with whom the Company interacts may be government officials or agents, even without its knowledge. The Company could be liable for the corrupt or other illegal activities of its employees, representatives, contractors, business partners, and agents, even if it does not authorize or have actual knowledge of such activities.

The Company's potential exposure to liability under anti-corruption laws, including the FCPA, will increase as the Company continues to expand its international sales and business operations, and, consequently, its contacts with foreign government officials or agents.

Additionally, as the Company pursues its strategy of entering into management agreements, joint ventures and other partnerships with non-U.S. partners in non-U.S. jurisdictions, its use of intermediaries, and therefore its potential exposure to liability under anti-corruption laws, could increase.

FCPA, are likely to increase. Noncompliance with these laws, including any activities over the past five years, could subject the Company to investigations, sanctions, settlements, prosecution, other enforcement actions, disgorgement of profits, significant fines, damages, criminal penalties or injunctions, adverse media coverage and other consequences.

Similarly, the Company's international sales and business operations expose it to potential liability under a wide variety of U.S. laws and regulations relating to economic sanctions and export and import controls and economic and trade sanctions, such as those administered by the U.S. Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control. In the event that the Company engages in any conduct, intentional or otherwise, that facilitates money laundering, terrorist financing, or certain other unlawful activities, or that violates sanctions or otherwise constitutes a violation of economic or trade controls, the Company could be subject to substantial fines, sanctions, civil or criminal penalties, competitive or reputational harm, litigation or regulatory action and other consequences that might adversely affect its results of operations or financial condition.

Failure to comply with anti-money laundering (“AML”) requirements could subject the Company to enforcement actions, fines, penalties, or other remedial actions.

The Company is subject to AML laws and regulations in various jurisdictions. Violations of such laws or regulations, even unintentional, could result in fines, sanctions or other penalties, including consent orders against the Company, which could have significant or other consequences and could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial condition and results of operations. The Company is in the process of improving and, in some instances, implementing controls pursuant to AML legal and regulatory requirements and will continue to do so as and when new applicable requirements are enacted. The expenses associated with implementing, improving and maintaining AML controls are not yet fully known, but may prove to be significant. Moreover, regulators have broad authority to enforce AML laws and may challenge whether the Company's controls comply with AML requirements or whether the Company maintains an adequate compliance program, either of which could lead to one or more of the consequences described above.

The Company's business is subject to a variety of U.S. and non-U.S. laws, many of which are evolving and could limit or otherwise restrict the Company's ability to operate its business.

Laws and regulations are continuously evolving, and compliance is costly and can require changes to the Company's business model, significant management time and effort. It is not always clear how existing laws apply to the Company's business model. The Company may not be able to comply with all applicable laws, but the scope and interpretation of the laws that are or may be applicable to it is often uncertain and varies from jurisdiction to jurisdiction.

Existing local building codes and regulations, and any future changes to these codes or regulations, may increase its development costs and affect the Company’s ability to develop its workspaces.

The Company’s development activities are subject to local, state and federal laws, as well as the oversight and regulation in accordance with building codes and regulations relating to building design, construction, safety, environmental protection and related matters. The Company is responsible for complying with the requirements of individual jurisdictions and must ensure that its development activities comply with applicable standards by jurisdiction. Any existing or new government regulations or ordinances that relate to the Company’s development activities could result in significant additional expenses to the Company and, as a result, might adversely affect its results of operations.

Changes in tax laws and unanticipated tax liabilities could adversely affect the taxes the Company pays and therefore its financial condition and results of operations.

As a global company, the Company is subject to taxation in numerous countries, states and other jurisdictions. Tax laws, regulations and administrative practices in various jurisdictions may be subject to significant change, with or without notice, due to economic, political conditions, and significant judgment is required in applying the relevant provisions of tax law.

If such changes were to be adopted or if the tax authorities in the jurisdictions where the Company operates were to challenge its application of provisions of applicable tax laws, its financial condition and results of operations could be adversely affected.

Acquisitions of the Company’s or New WeWork’s stock, including pursuant to the Business Combination, may limit the Company’s ability to use some or all of its net operating loss carryforwards in the future.

As of December 31, 2020, the Company had net operating loss carryforwards for U.S. federal income tax purposes of approximately $4.1 billion, of which approximately $4.1 billion may be carried forward indefinitely and $0.8 billion will begin to expire starting in 2033 if not used. The Company also had capital loss carryforward of $193.7 million, which if unused, will expire in 2026. Under Section 382 of the Code, if the Company undergoes an “ownership change” it may be subject to limitations on its ability to utilize its pre-change net operating loss carryforwards against taxable income. In general, an ownership change occurs if the aggregate stock ownership of certain stockholders (generally 5% stockholders) under Section 382 of the Code (including certain look-through and aggregation rules) increases by more than 50% over such stockholders’ lowest percentage ownership during the three-year period preceding the date of the ownership change (generally three years). As a result of transactions occurring in 2019, an ownership change of the Company occurred for purposes of Section 382 of the Code, imposing limitations on the use of our net operating loss carryforward amounts. The ownership change may impact the timing of, or our ability to use, these losses. It is possible that the Business Combination, as well as other acquisitions of the Company’s (or New WeWork’s) Capital Stock will cause another ownership change or increase the likelihood that the Company (or New WeWork) may undergo an ownership change for purposes of Section 382 of the Code in the future. Limitations imposed on the Company’s (or New WeWork’s) ability to use its net operating loss carryforwards could cause U.S. federal income taxes to be paid earlier than such taxes would be paid if such limitations were not imposed, causing certain of such net operating loss carryforwards to expire unused, in each case reducing or eliminating the benefit of such net operating loss carryforwards.

Failure by certain of the Company’s subsidiaries in complying with laws and regulations applicable to investment platforms, including the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “Investment Company Act”), the Advisers Act, and the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (“ERISA”), could result in substantial harm to its reputation and results of operations.

Certain of the Company’s subsidiaries are subject to laws and regulations applicable to investment platforms, including those of investment advisers under the Advisers Act. The Advisers Act imposes numerous obligations and duties on registered investment advisers, including record-keeping, operating and marketing requirements, obligations and prohibitions on self-dealing. The failure of any of these subsidiaries to comply with the Advisers Act could cause the SEC to commence proceedings and impose sanctions for violations, including censure, or to terminate the registration of its subsidiaries as investment adviser, which would prohibit them from serving as an investment adviser to SEC-registered funds. Similarly, these subsidiaries rely on exemptions from various provisions of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, or ERISA to the extent these subsidiaries receive investments by benefit plan investors. The failure of the Company's relevant subsidiaries to comply with these laws and regulations could irreparably harm its reputation or lead to litigation or regulatory or other legal proceedings, any of which could have a material adverse effect on the results of operations.

Risks Relating to the Company's Organizational Structure

The Company's only material assets are its indirect interests in The We Company Management Holdings L.P. (the "WeWork Partnership"). The Company is accordingly dependent upon distributions from the WeWork Partnership to pay dividends and taxes and other expenses. The Company's debt facilities also impose or may in the future impose certain restrictions on the Company's subsidiaries making distributions to the Company.

WeWork is a holding company and has no material assets other than an indirect general partner interest and indirect limited partner interest in the WeWork Partnership and various intercompany receivables from other consolidated subsidiaries. WeWork has no independent means of generating revenue. The Company intends to cause its subsidiaries (including the WeWork Partnership) to make distributions in an amount sufficient to satisfy applicable taxes and other expenses payable and dividends, if any, declared by it. The agreements governing the Company's debt facilities and the agreements governing the Company's future debt facilities are expected to impose, certain restrictions on distributions by WeWork.

WeWork, and may limit its ability to pay cash dividends. The terms of any credit agreements or other borrowing arrangements that WeWork's subsidiaries enter into in the future may impose similar restrictions. To the extent that WeWork needs funds, and any of its direct or indirect subsidiaries is restricted from making such distributions under these debt agreements or applicable law or regulation, or is otherwise unable to provide such funds, it could materially adversely affect the Company's liquidity and financial condition.

If WeWork were deemed an "investment company" under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "1940 Act") as a result of its ownership of the WeWork Partnership, applicable restrictions could make it impractical for it to continue its business as contemplated and could have a material adverse effect on its business.

A person may be deemed to be an "investment company" for purposes of the 1940 Act if it owns investment securities having more than 40% of the value of its total assets (exclusive of U.S. government securities and cash items), absent an applicable exemption. WeWork does not own assets other than its interest in the WeWork Partnership. Through its interests in the general partner of the WeWork Partnership, WeWork controls the management of the WeWork Partnership. Furthermore, the general partner of the WeWork Partnership may be removed as general partner of the WeWork Partnership without the approval of WeWork. On the basis of WeWork's control over the WeWork Partnership, the Company believes that the indirect interest of WeWork in the WeWork Partnership is not an "investment security" within the meaning of the 1940 Act. If WeWork were to cease participation in the management of the WeWork Partnership, however, its interest in the WeWork Partnership could be deemed an "investment security," which could result in WeWork being required to register as an investment company under the 1940 Act, becoming subject to the registration and other requirements of the 1940 Act.

The 1940 Act and the rules thereunder contain detailed parameters for the organization and operations of investment companies. Among other things, the 1940 Act and the rules thereunder limit or prohibit transactions with affiliates, impose limitations on the issuance of investment securities, prohibit the issuance of stock options and impose certain governance requirements. The Company intends to conduct its business in a manner that will not result in WeWork being deemed an investment company under the 1940 Act. However, if anything were to occur that would result in WeWork being deemed an investment company under the 1940 Act, WeWork would be required to register as an investment company under the 1940 Act, becoming subject to the registration and other requirements of the 1940 Act.

happen which would require WeWork to register as an investment company under the 1940 Act, requirements imposed by the 1940 Act could make it difficult for WeWork to continue its business as currently conducted, impair the agreements and arrangements between and among WeWork, its Partnership, members of its management team and related entities or any combination thereof and materially adversely affect its business condition and results of operations.

Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX

The initial stockholders have agreed to vote in favor of the Business Combination, regardless of how BowX's public stockholders vote.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock they own in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased in a public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock.

As a result, only another 18,112,501, or 37.5% (assuming all outstanding shares are voted), of the remaining 48,300,000 shares of BowX Common Stock issued and outstanding as of May 24, 2021 need to be voted in favor of a transaction in order to have the proposed Business Combination approved. However, because BowX only needs a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote at the special meeting to be voted in favor of the proposed Business Combination to have such transaction approved, the number of shares of public stock needed to be voted in favor of the Business Combination decreases as the overall number of shares of public stock voted decreases. Accordingly, BowX will be forced to close the Business Combination if only 3,018,751, or 17.1%, of the remaining 17,687,501 shares of public stock issued and outstanding as of May 24, 2021 to be voted in favor of the Business Combination if only the minimum number of shares representing a quorum are voted in order to have the proposed Business Combination approved.

BowX may be forced to close the Business Combination even if BowX's board of directors determines it is no longer in the best interest of BowX's stockholders.

BowX's public stockholders are protected from a material adverse event of WeWork arising between the date of the Merger Agreement and the Closing primarily by (i) the right to redeem their public stock for a pro rata portion of the funds held in the trust account, calculated as of the record date, three days prior to the vote at the special meeting, and (ii) the closing condition in the Merger Agreement that there be no material adverse event occurring during the period from the date of the Merger Agreement to the date of the special meeting. However, if an event occurs and BowX's board of directors determines it is no longer in the best interest of BowX's stockholders to close the Business Combination but the event does not constitute a material adverse event under the Merger Agreement, then BowX may be forced to close the Business Combination even if BowX determines it is no longer in BowX's stockholders' best interest to do so (as a result of such event) without a significant negative impact on our business, financial condition or results of operations.

Additionally, if BowX does not obtain stockholder approval at the special meeting, WeWork can continually obligate BowX to call special meetings to vote on the Condition Precedent Proposals until the earlier of such stockholder approval being obtained and three months after the date of the special meeting, or October 31, 2021, (the "Agreement End Date"). BowX is also restricted from seeking, soliciting, negotiating or consummating a business combination while the Merger Agreement is still in effect.

Since the Sponsor and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests that are different, or in addition to (and which may conflict with) the interests of BowX's stockholders, a conflict of interest may have existed in determining whether the Business Combination with WeWork was in the best interests of BowX's stockholders. Such interests include that Sponsor could lose its entire investment in BowX if the Business Combination is not consummated.

When considering the BowX board's recommendation that BowX's stockholders vote in favor of the approval of the Business Combination, BowX's stockholders should be aware that certain of BowX's Sponsor, directors and executive officers have interests in the Business Combination that may be different from or in addition to (and which may conflict with) the interests of BowX's stockholders. These interests include:

- the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders paid $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such shares and warrants had a market value of approximately $ million and $ million, respectively, based on the closing price of BowX Class B Common Stock of $ on Nasdaq on , 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders. Each of our officers and directors is a managing member of the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor, and as such Messrs. Ranadivé and Rode will exercise investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held of record by the Sponsor;
- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder vote to approve the Business Combination;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately $11,660,000 for 7,773,333 private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement warrants would be worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants at the time of our IPO may experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders experience a negative rate of return on their investment;
- that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and BowX's directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
- the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors' and officers' liability for acts taken prior to the Closing in connection with the Business Combination;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, though there have been no out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not consummated.

These interests may influence BowX's directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the approval of the Business Combination and the transactions contemplated thereby. BowX's directors were aware of and considered these interests, among other factors, in evaluating the Business Combination, and in recommending to BowX stockholders that they approve the Business Combination. BowX's stockholders should take these interests into account in deciding whether to approve the Business Combination.

Neither BowX nor its stockholders will have the protection of any indemnification, escrow, price adjustment or other provisions that closing adjustment to be made to the total merger consideration in the event that any of the representations and warranties made by the parties in the Merger Agreement ultimately proves to be inaccurate or incorrect.

The representations and warranties made by WeWork and BowX to each other in the Merger Agreement will not survive the completion of the Business Combination. As a result, BowX and its stockholders will not have the protection of any indemnification, escrow, price adjustment or other provisions that allow for a post-closing adjustment to be made to the total merger consideration if any representation or warranty made by the parties in the Merger Agreement proves to be inaccurate or incorrect. Accordingly, to the extent such representations or warranties are inaccurate or incorrect, BowX and its stockholders will have no indemnification claim with respect thereto and its financial condition or results of operations could be adversely affected.

We may waive one or more of the conditions to the Business Combination.

We may agree to waive, in whole or in part, some of the conditions to our obligations to complete the Business Combination as permitted by the Existing Charter and applicable laws. For example, it is a condition to our obligations to close the Business Combination that WeWork's representations and warranties are true and correct in all respects as of the Closing Date, except where the failure of such representations and warranties to be true and correct, taken as a whole, does not result in a material adverse effect. However, if the BowX board determines that the stockholders' best interest to waive any such breach, then the BowX board may elect to waive that condition and consummate the Business Combination. Notwithstanding the foregoing, certain closing conditions may not be waived due to the parties' charters or organizational documents, applicable law, or otherwise. The following closing conditions may not be waived: receipt of the requisite stockholder approvals; compliance with applicable waiting period under any antitrust laws; the absence of any law or order that would prohibit the consummation of the Business Combination; upon the Closing, after giving effect to the completion of the redemption, BowX having at least $5,000,001 of net tangible assets following the completion of the redemption rights; the effectiveness of this registration statement; and the shares of New WeWork Common Stock to be issued in connection with the First Merger being approved for listing on the NYSE.

The exercise of BowX's directors' and executive officers' discretion in agreeing to changes or waivers in the terms of the Business Combination may result in a conflict of interest when determining whether such changes to the terms of the Business Combination or waivers of certain obligations are appropriate and in BowX's stockholder's best interest.

In the period leading up to the Closing, events may occur that, pursuant to the Merger Agreement, would require BowX to change its actions taken by WeWork or to waive rights that BowX is entitled to under the Merger Agreement. Such events could arise because of a change in course of WeWork's business or a request by WeWork to undertake actions that would otherwise be prohibited by the terms of the Merger Agreement. In any of such circumstances, it would be at BowX's discretion, acting through its board of directors, to grant its consent or waive those rights (subject to the requirement that certain consent rights are not to be unreasonably withheld, conditioned, delayed or denied). The existence of financial and personal relationships between one or more of the directors described in the preceding risk factors (and described elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is best for BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining whether or not to take the requested action. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, BowX does not believe there will be any changes or waivers that BowX's directors and executive officers would be likely to propose. If any such changes or waivers are proposed, BowX will seek stockholder approval of the BCA Proposal. While certain changes could be made without further stockholder approval, BowX will likely circulate a new or amended proxy statement/prospectus and resolicit BowX's stockholders if changes to the terms of the transaction have a material impact on its stockholders and stockholder approval is required prior to the vote on the BCA Proposal.

The NYSE may not list New WeWork’s securities on its exchange, which could limit investors’ ability to make transactions in New WeWork’s securities and subject New WeWork to additional trading restrictions.

In connection with the Business Combination, in order to continue to maintain the listing of its securities on a stock exchange required to demonstrate compliance with the NYSE initial listing requirements, which are more rigorous than continued listing requirements, BowX would be required to have New WeWork’s securities listed on the NYSE upon consummation of the Business Combination. BowX cannot assure that it will be able to meet all initial listing requirements. Even if New WeWork’s securities are listed on the NYSE, New WeWork may be unable to maintain the listing of its securities in the future.

If New WeWork fails to meet the initial listing requirements and the NYSE does not list its securities on its exchange, WeWork would be required to consummate the Business Combination. In the event that WeWork elected to waive this condition, and the Business Combination was consummated without New WeWork’s securities being listed on the NYSE or on another national securities exchange, New WeWork would face significant material adverse consequences, including:

- a limited availability of market quotations for New WeWork’s securities;
- reduced liquidity for New WeWork’s securities;
- a determination that New WeWork Common Stock is a “penny stock” which will require brokers trading in New WeWork Common Stock to adhere to more stringent rules and possibly result in a reduced level of trading activity in the secondary trading market for New WeWork Common Stock;
- a limited amount of news and analyst coverage; and
- a decreased ability to issue additional securities or obtain additional financing in the future.

The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996, which is a federal statute, prevents or preempts the states from regulating certain securities, which are referred to as “covered securities.” If New WeWork’s securities were not listed on the NYSE, such securities would qualify as covered securities and BowX would be subject to regulation in each state in which BowX offers our securities because states generally prohibit companies from regulating the sale of securities that are not covered securities.

Following the consummation of the Business Combination, BowX’s only significant asset will be its ownership interest in the Company. The Company’s ownership may not be sufficient to pay dividends or make distributions or loans to enable it to pay any dividends on New WeWork Common Stock or satisfy other financial obligations.

Following the consummation of the Business Combination, BowX will have no direct operations and no significant assets other than its ownership interest in the Company (which will own all of the assets of WeWork after the Mergers). BowX and certain investors, the WeWork Stockholders and officers of WeWork and its affiliates will become stockholders of New WeWork. BowX will depend on the Company for distributions and other payments to generate the funds necessary to meet our financial obligations, including its expenses as a publicly traded company. BowX will not receive dividends with respect to New WeWork Common Stock. The financial condition and operating requirements of the Company may limit BowX’s ability to obtain cash from the Company. The earnings from, or other available assets of, the Company may not be sufficient to pay dividends, distributions or loans to enable it to pay any dividends on New WeWork Common Stock or satisfy other financial obligations.

This lack of diversification may subject BowX to numerous economic, competitive and regulatory risks, any or all of which could have a substantial adverse impact upon the particular industry in which BowX may operate subsequent to the Business Combination.

We may become subject to tax withholding and remittance obligations in the Business Combination based on WeWork's status as a property holding corporation.

WeWork believes that it might have been, as of December 31, 2019, and as of the date of the Business Combination might be, FIRPTA. Generally, a corporation is a USRPHC if the fair market value of its U.S. real property interests equals or exceeds 50% of market value of its worldwide real property interests and its other assets used or held for use in a trade or business (all as determined for income tax purposes). If WeWork is unable to certify, proximate to the time of the Business Combination, that it has not been a USRPHC, shorter of a non-U.S. holder's holding period for its equity interests in WeWork or the five-year period preceding a non-U.S. holder's holding period for its equity interests in WeWork.

Business Combination of such equity interests, we will be required to withhold and pay over to the Internal Revenue Service (the amount equal to 15% of the amount realized in the Business Combination on such disposition by non-U.S. holders (and will be liable to do not withhold and pay it), unless certain exceptions apply. We believe that WeWork will not be able to provide the applicable certification. WeWork will therefore be required to withhold such tax from New WeWork stock paid to certain non-U.S. holders of WeWork equity interests. WeWork will be required to remit any amounts withheld under FIRPTA to the IRS in cash, we may withhold the tax in the form of New WeWork stock.

own cash to satisfy the tax payment obligation. This would reduce cash otherwise available to fund our business, which may impact our operations. We also may sell shares of New WeWork to generate cash to satisfy our FIRPTA withholding and remittance obligations, at the market price of New WeWork stock. We anticipate that New WeWork will become subject to tax withholding and remittance obligations under FIRPTA as a result of the Business Combination with respect to non-U.S. WeWork Stockholders other than SBWW, which our preliminary analysis indicate could require us to withhold, and remit cash with a value equivalent to, between approximately 3,000,000 and 3,500,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. The foregoing is an estimate based on informal data regarding the amount of WeWork Capital Stock held by WeWork Stockholders other than SBWW, which is subject to change upon further analysis or changes in facts. Accordingly, no assurance can be given as to the amount of our potential withholding and remittance obligations under FIRPTA as a result of the Business Combination.

An exception to the withholding and remittance requirements described above may apply to non-U.S. WeWork Stockholders that own less than 5% of New WeWork stock following the Business Combination, including in particular SBWW and SVFE, significant stockholders of WeWork.

We have entered into an agreement with WeWork, SBWW and SVFE regarding, among other things, procedures for determining whether WeWork is entitled to an exemption from, and satisfying potential, FIRPTA withholding with respect to SBWW's exchange of WeWork equity interests for Non-U.S. WeWork Stockholders' interests in the Business Combination. If SBWW fails to perform its obligations under the FIRPTA Letter, such exemption may be unavailable. WeWork may be obligated to sell a portion of the New WeWork equity interests withheld with respect to SBWW, with an aggregate value determined by WeWork to satisfy potential FIRPTA liabilities relating to its exchange of WeWork equity interests in the Business Combination, which may reduce the price of New WeWork's stock. We may also use our own cash to satisfy the tax payment obligation, which would reduce cash otherwise available to fund our business, and may therefore impact our results of operations. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements" for a further discussion of this arrangement.

BowX is not obtaining an opinion from an independent valuation provider; and consequently, you have no assurance from an independent valuation provider that the Business Combination is fair to BowX from a financial point of view.

The BowX board of directors did not obtain a third-party valuation or fairness opinion in connection with its determination that the Business Combination was fair from a financial perspective to its stockholders. The BowX board of directors believes that based upon the financial skills and background of its directors, it concluded that the Business Combination was fair from a financial perspective to its stockholders. The BowX board of directors also considered the fact that WeWork's fair market value was at least 80% of BowX's net assets.

assets, excluding any taxes payable on interest earned. Accordingly, investors will be relying on the judgment of the BowX board described above in valuing WeWork's business and assuming the risk that the BowX board of directors may not have properly valued

The announcement of the proposed Business Combination could disrupt New WeWork's relationships with its customers, suppliers, and others, as well as its operating results and business generally.

Whether or not the Business Combination and related transactions are ultimately consummated, as a result of uncertainty relating to the transactions, risks relating to the impact of the announcement of the Business Combination on New WeWork's business include:

- its employees may experience uncertainty about their future roles, which might adversely affect New WeWork's ability to retain personnel and other employees;
- customers, suppliers, business partners and other parties with which New WeWork maintains business relationships may experience uncertainty about their future relationships with New WeWork;
- about its future and seek alternative relationships with third parties, seek to alter their business relationships with New WeWork or terminate their existing relationship with New WeWork; and
- WeWork has expended and New WeWork will continue to expend significant costs, fees and expenses for professional services and other expenses in connection with the proposed Business Combination.

If any of the aforementioned risks were to materialize, they could lead to significant costs which may impact New WeWork's results of operations and cash available to fund its businesses.

BowX and WeWork will incur significant transaction and transition costs in connection with the Business Combination.

BowX and WeWork have both incurred and expect to incur significant, non-recurring and recurring costs in connection with the Business Combination and operating as a public company following the consummation of the Business Combination. BowX and WeWork will incur additional costs to retain key employees. Certain transaction expenses incurred in connection with the Merger Agreement (including the Business Combination), including all legal, accounting, consulting, investment banking and other fees, expenses and costs, will be paid by our respective companies prior to the closing of the Business Combination or by New WeWork following the closing of the Business Combination.

The directors and officers of BowX and WeWork officers could still be subject to potential liability from claims arising from conduct that may have occurred prior to the Business Combination. As a result, in order to protect the directors and officers of BowX and WeWork, the surviving Business Combination entity is required to purchase additional insurance with respect to any such claims ("run-off insurance"). The need for run-off insurance would be an added expense for New WeWork.

BowX's ability to successfully effect the Business Combination and New WeWork's ability to successfully operate the business thereafter will be dependent upon the efforts of certain key personnel of WeWork, all of whom BowX expects to stay with New WeWork following the closing of the Business Combination. Such key personnel could negatively impact the operations and financial results of the combined business.

BowX's ability to successfully effect the Business Combination and New WeWork's ability to successfully operate the business thereafter will be dependent upon the efforts of certain key personnel of WeWork. Although WeWork has entered into employment agreements with certain key employees in connection with the Business Combination, there can be no assurance that any of WeWork's key management personnel will remain employed by New WeWork following the closing of the Business Combination. It is possible that WeWork will lose some key personnel, loss of which could negatively impact the operations and profitability of the combined business.

of New WeWork. WeWork's success depends to a significant degree upon the continued contributions of senior management, certain difficult to replace. Departure by certain of WeWork's officers could have a material adverse effect on WeWork's business, financial operating results. The services of such personnel may not continue to be available to New WeWork. Furthermore, following the Closing, key personnel of WeWork may be unfamiliar with the requirements of operating a company regulated by the SEC, which could cause them to have to expend time and resources helping them become familiar with such requirements.

Subsequent to consummation of the Business Combination, BowX may be exposed to unknown or contingent liabilities and may subsequently take write-downs or write-offs, restructuring and impairment or other charges that could have a significant negative effect on our financial condition, results of operations and stock price, which could cause you to lose some or all of your investment.

BowX cannot assure you that the due diligence conducted in relation to WeWork has identified all material issues or risks associated with WeWork, its business or the industry in which it competes.

Furthermore, BowX cannot assure you that factors outside of WeWork's and its control will not later arise. As a result of these factors, BowX may be exposed to liabilities and incur additional costs and expenses and BowX may be forced to later write-down or write-off assets used in operations, or incur impairment or other charges that could result in our reporting losses. Even if BowX's due diligence has identified no material risks, unexpected risks may arise and previously known risks may materialize in a manner not consistent with our preliminary risk analysis. If any of these risks materialize, this could have a material adverse effect on its financial condition and results of operations and could contribute to a decline in the market price of its securities. Additionally, BowX has no indemnification rights against WeWork or the WeWork under the Merger Agreement and all of the Aggregate Merger Consideration will be delivered at the Closing.

Accordingly, any stockholders or warrant holders of BowX who choose to remain New WeWork Stockholders or warrant holders after the Business Combination could suffer a reduction in the value of their stock, warrants and units. Such stockholders or warrant holders are not entitled to a remedy for such reduction in value unless they are able to successfully claim that the reduction was due to the breach by our directors of their duty of care or other fiduciary duty owed to them, or if they are able to successfully bring a private claim under securities laws that the historical financial statement or proxy statement/prospectus relating to the Business Combination contained an actionable material misstatement or omission.

The historical financial results of WeWork and unaudited pro forma financial information included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus are not necessarily indicative of what New WeWork's actual financial position or results of operations would have been.

The historical financial results of WeWork included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus do not reflect the financial condition, results of operations or cash flows they would have achieved as a public company during the periods presented or those New WeWork will achieve in the future.

This is primarily the result of the following factors: (i) New WeWork will incur additional ongoing costs as a result of the Business Combination, including costs related to public company reporting, investor relations and compliance with the Sarbanes Oxley Act; and (ii) New WeWork's financial condition and results of operations could be materially different from amounts reflected in its historical financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement or prospectus, so it may be difficult for investors to compare New WeWork's future results to historical results or to evaluate its relative performance trends in its business.

Similarly, the unaudited pro forma financial information in this proxy statement/prospectus is presented for illustrative purposes only and is prepared based on a number of assumptions, including, but not limited to,

BowX being treated as the “acquired” company for financial reporting purposes in the Business Combination, the total debt obligation and cash equivalents of WeWork on the Closing Date and the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination.

Accordingly, such pro forma financial information may not be indicative of New WeWork’s future operating performance and New WeWork’s actual financial condition and results of operations may vary materially from New WeWork’s pro forma operations and balance sheet included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, including as a result of such assumptions not being reflected in the section entitled “Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Information.”

Unanticipated changes in effective tax rates or adverse outcomes resulting from examination of New WeWork’s income or other tax positions could have an adverse effect on New WeWork’s financial condition and results of operations.

New WeWork will be subject to income taxes in the United States, and its tax liabilities will be subject to the allocation of expenses among various jurisdictions. New WeWork’s future effective tax rates could be subject to volatility or adversely affected by a number of factors, including:

- changes in the valuation of New WeWork’s deferred tax assets and liabilities;
- expected timing and amount of the release of any tax valuation allowances;
- tax effects of stock-based compensation;
- costs related to intercompany restructurings;
- changes in tax laws, regulations or interpretations thereof; or
- lower than anticipated future earnings in jurisdictions where New WeWork has lower statutory tax rates and higher than anticipated future earnings in jurisdictions where New WeWork has higher statutory tax rates.

In addition, New WeWork may be subject to audits of income, sales and other transaction taxes by taxing authorities. Outcomes of such audits could have an adverse effect on New WeWork’s financial condition and results of operations.

BowX does not have a specified maximum redemption threshold, but cannot consummate the Business Combination if its net tangible assets are less than $5,000,001. This threshold and the Minimum Available Cash Condition (as defined below) may make it more difficult for it to complete the Business Combination as contemplated.

The Merger Agreement provides that the obligations of WeWork to consummate the First Merger are conditioned on, among other things, the amount of cash available in the trust account as of the Closing, after deducting the amount required to satisfy BowX’s obligations to its stockholders (if any) that exercise their redemption rights (but prior to the payment of any (i) deferred underwriting commissions and fees payable by WeWork to the PIPE Investors and (ii) transaction expenses of WeWork and BowX, or their affiliates (such amount, the “trust amount”) plus the PIPE Investment amount actually received by BowX substantially concurrently with or prior to the Closing, is at least equal to the Minimum Available Cash Condition.

The Minimum Available Cash Condition is for the sole benefit of WeWork. If the trust amount when added to the PIPE Investment amount, the “Available Cash”) is equal to or greater than the Minimum Available Cash Condition amount, then the Minimum Available Cash Condition will be deemed to have been satisfied. If such condition is not met, and such condition is not or cannot be waived under the terms of the Merger Agreement, then the Merger Agreement could be terminated and the proposed Business Combination may not be consummated. In addition, the Organizational Documents, in no event will BowX redeem public stock in an amount that would cause New WeWork’s net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1(g)(1) of the Exchange Act) to be less than $5,000,001.

If such conditions are waived and the Business Combination is consummated with less than the Minimum Available Cash Condition, the cash held by New WeWork and its subsidiaries (including WeWork) in the aggregate, after the Closing may not be sufficient to operate and pay its bills as they become due. Furthermore, our affiliates are not obligated to make loans to us in the future. The additional redemption rights with respect to a large number of our public stockholders may make BowX unable to take such actions as may be necessary to optimize the capital structure of New WeWork after consummation of the Business Combination and New WeWork may not be able to obtain financing from unaffiliated parties necessary to fund our expenses and liabilities after the Closing. Any such event in the future may affect the analysis regarding New WeWork's ability to continue as a going concern at such time.

BowX cannot be certain as to the number of shares of public stock that will be redeemed and the potential impact to public stockholders who elect to redeem their public stock.

There is no guarantee that a stockholder's decision whether to redeem its shares for a pro rata portion of the trust account will result in a better future economic position. We can give no assurance as to the price at which a stockholder may be able to sell its public stock following the closing or any alternative business combination. Certain events following the consummation of any initial business combination, including the Business Combination, and including redemptions of public stock may cause an increase or decrease in our share price, and may result in a value realized now than a stockholder of BowX might realize in the future had the stockholder not redeemed its shares. Similarly, if a stockholder does not redeem its shares, the stockholder will bear the risk of ownership of the public stock after the consummation of any initial business combination, there can be no assurance that a stockholder can sell its shares in the future for a greater amount than the redemption price set forth in the proxy statement/prospectus. A stockholder should consult the stockholder's own tax and/or financial advisor for assistance on how this may affect its individual situation.

On [REDACTED], 2021, the most recent practicable date prior to the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, the closing price per share of Class A Common Stock was $ [REDACTED]. Public stockholders should be aware that, while we are unable to predict the price per share of Class A Common Stock following the consummation of the Business Combination—and accordingly we are unable to predict the potential impact of increased redemptions on the per share value of public stock owned by non-redeeming shareholder—increased levels of redemptions by public stockholders may be a result of the price per share of BowX common stock falling below the redemption price. We expect that more public stockholders will redeem their public stock if the share price of the BowX Class A Common Stock is below the projected redemption price of $10.00 per share. We also expect that more public stockholders may elect not to redeem their public stock if the share price of the BowX Class A Common Stock is above the projected redemption price of $10.00 per share. Each share of public stock that is redeemed will represent both (i) a reduction, equal to the redemption price, of the cash that will be available to BowX from the trust account and (ii) a corresponding increase in each public stockholder's pro rata ownership interest in New WeWork following the consummation of the Business Combination. In addition, in the event that more than 90% of the shares of public stock are redeemed, the minimum cash condition in favor of WeWork as set forth in the Merger Agreement may not be met and the Business Combination may not be consummated.

The Sponsor may elect to purchase stock or warrants from public stockholders prior to the consummation of the Business Combination to influence the vote on the Business Combination and reduce the public "float" of BowX securities.

In connection with the stockholder vote to approve the proposed Business Combination, the Sponsor, BowX's or WeWork's directors, officers, advisors or any of their affiliates may privately negotiate transactions to purchase shares prior to the Closing from stockholders who have otherwise elected to have their shares redeemed in conjunction with a proxy solicitation pursuant to the proxy rules for a per share price of $10.00.

the trust account without the prior written consent of WeWork. None of the Sponsor, BowX's directors, BowX's officers or BowX's respective affiliates, will make any such purchases when they are in possession of any material non-public information not disclosed to shares. Such a purchase would include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of such shares, is the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event that the Sponsor or BowX's or WeWork's officers or advisors, or their respective affiliates, purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have agreed not to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares.

negotiated purchases may be effected at purchase prices that are in excess of the per share pro rata portion of the trust account. The purchases would be to increase the amount of cash available to BowX for use in the Business Combination. If such transactions are consummated, the consequence could be to cause the Business Combination to be consummated in circumstances where such consummation could not be completed.

Entering into any such arrangements may have a depressive effect on the BowX Common Stock (e.g., by giving an investor or holder the ability to effectively purchase stock or warrants at a price lower than market, such investor or holder may therefore become more likely to sell their shares, either at or prior to the Business Combination). In addition, if such purchases are made, the public "float" of BowX Class A Common Stock, public warrants and the number of beneficial holders of BowX's securities may be reduced, possibly making it difficult to obtain the necessary quotation, listing or trading of BowX's securities on a national securities exchange.

BowX is not registering the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants under the Securities Act or state securities laws at this time, and such registration may not be in place when an investor desires to exercise warrants, thus precluding such investors from being able to exercise its warrants except on a cashless basis and potentially causing such warrants to expire worthless.

BowX is not registering the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants under the Securities Act or state securities laws at this time. However, under the terms of the Warrant Agreement, BowX has agreed that as soon as practicable, but no later than 15 business days after the closing of the Business Combination, New WeWork will use its reasonable best efforts to file, and within 10 business days following the Business Combination to have declared effective, a registration statement covering the issuance of the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants. New WeWork will use its reasonable best efforts to maintain the effectiveness of the registration statement and a current prospectus relating to those shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock until the warrants are redeemed. BowX cannot assure you that BowX or New WeWork will be able to do so if, for example, any facts or events arise which would result in a fundamental change in the information set forth in the registration statement or prospectus, the financial statements contained or referred to therein are not current, complete or correct or the SEC issues a stop order. If the shares issuable upon exercise of the warrants are not registered under the Securities Act, New WeWork is required to permit holders to exercise their warrants on a cashless basis. However, the warrants may be exercisable for cash or on a cashless basis, and New WeWork will not be obligated to issue any shares to holders seeking to exercise the warrants unless the issuance of the shares upon such exercise is registered or qualified under the securities laws of the state of the exercise or unless an exemption from registration is available. Notwithstanding the above, if New WeWork Class A Common Stock is at the time of any exercise not listed on a national securities exchange such that it satisfies the definition of a "covered security" under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act, New WeWork may, at its option, require holders of public warrants who exercise their warrants to do so on a "cashless basis" in accordance with Rule 144A under the Securities Act or Rule 144 under the Securities Act. In the event New WeWork so elects, it will not be required to file or maintain in effect a registration statement covering the issuance of the shares upon exercise of the warrants. However, if New WeWork so elects, it will be required to use its best efforts to register or qualify the shares under applicable blue sky laws to the extent an exemption is not available under such laws. In addition, if New WeWork so elects, it will be required to net cash settle any warrant. If the issuance of the shares upon exercise of the warrants is not so registered or exempt from registration or qualification, the holder of such warrant shall not be entitled to exercise such warrant and such warrant may have no value and expire worthless. In such event, holders of their warrants as part of a purchase of units will have paid the full unit purchase price solely for the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock included in the units. There may be a circumstance where an exemption from registration exists for holders of private placement warrants.

their warrants while a corresponding exemption does not exist for holders of the public warrants included as part of units sold in the offering. In such an instance, the initial purchasers and their permitted transferees (which may include BowX's directors and executives) will be able to exercise their warrants and sell the New WeWork Common Stock underlying their warrants while holders of public warrants will not be able to exercise their warrants and sell the underlying common stock. If and when the warrants become redeemable, New WeWork will have the right to require the holders of its warrants to sell their warrants to New WeWork at a price equal to the per share redemption right even if it is unable to register or qualify the underlying shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock for sale under state securities laws. As a result, New WeWork may redeem the warrants as set forth above even if the holders are otherwise unable to exercise their warrants.

If third parties bring claims against BowX, the proceeds held in the trust account could be reduced and the per share redemption amount received by stockholders may be less than $10.00 per share (which was the offering price per unit in the initial public offering).

BowX's placement of funds in the trust account may not protect those funds from third-party claims. Although BowX seeks to enter into agreements with service providers (other than its independent auditors), prospective target businesses and other entities with which BowX does business waiving any right, title, interest or claim of any kind in or to any monies held in the trust account, there is nevertheless a risk that they would be prevented from bringing claims against the trust account, including, but not limited to, fraudulent inducement, breach of fiduciary responsibility or other similar claims, as well as claims challenging the enforceability of the waiver, in each case in order to gain advantage to a claim against BowX's assets, including the funds held in the trust account. If any third party refuses to execute an agreement waiving the monies held in the trust account, BowX's management will perform an analysis of the alternatives available to it and will enter into an agreement with a third party that has not executed a waiver only if management believes that such third party's engagement would be significantly more beneficial to than any alternative.

Examples of possible instances where BowX may engage a third party that refuses to execute a waiver include the engagement of a consultant whose particular expertise or skills are believed by management to be significantly superior to those of other consultants that would be willing to execute a waiver or in cases where management is unable to find a service provider willing to execute a waiver. In addition, there is a risk that such entities will agree to waive any claims they may have in the future as a result of, or arising out of, any negotiations, contracts or other arrangements that BowX may enter into in the future. BowX will not seek recourse against the trust account for any reason. Upon redemption of its public stock, if BowX has not completed a Business Combination within the required time period, or upon the exercise of a redemption right in connection with our Business Combination, BowX will be required to provide for payment of claims of creditors that were not waived that may be brought against us within the 10 years following the completion of the Business Combination. Accordingly, the per share redemption amount received by public stockholders could be less than the $10.00 per share of public stock held in the trust account, due to claims of such creditors.

The Sponsor has agreed that it will be liable to BowX if and to the extent any claims by a third party (other than our independent auditors) for services rendered or products sold to BowX, or a prospective target business with which BowX has discussed entering into a transaction, reduce the amount of funds in the trust account to below (i) $10.00 per share of public stock or (ii) such lesser amount per share of public stock held in the trust account as of the date of the liquidation of the trust account due to reductions in the value of the trust assets, in each case net of taxes which may be withdrawn to pay taxes, except as to any claims by a third party who executed a waiver of any and all rights to seek indemnification of the Sponsor, the Sponsor's affiliates and any underwriters of the public offering, and except as to any claims under our indemnity of the underwriters against certain liabilities, including liabilities under the prospectus.

Moreover, in the event that an executed waiver is deemed to be unenforceable against a third party, the Sponsor will not be responsible for any liability for such third-party claims. BowX has not independently verified whether the Sponsor has sufficient funds to satisfy its obligations and believes that the Sponsor's only assets are securities of our company. The Sponsor may not have sufficient funds available to satisfy those obligations. BowX has not asked the Sponsor to reserve for such obligations, and therefore, no funds are currently set aside to satisfy those obligations. As a result, if any such claims were successfully made against the trust account, the funds available for the Business Combination could be reduced to less than $10.00 per share of public stock. In such event, BowX may not be able to complete the Business Combination, and you would receive such lesser amount per share in connection with any redemption of your public stock. None of BowX's officers will indemnify it for claims by third parties including, without limitation, claims by vendors and prospective target companies.

BowX's independent directors may decide not to enforce the indemnification obligations of the Sponsor, resulting in a reduction in the amount of funds in the trust account available for distribution to BowX's public stockholders.

In the event that the proceeds in the trust account are reduced below the lesser of (i) $10.00 per share of public stock or (ii) such share of public stock held in the trust account as of the date of the liquidation of the trust account due to reductions in the value of the trust account in each case net of the amount of interest which may be withdrawn to pay taxes, and the Sponsor asserts that it is unable to satisfy its obligations to its officers and directors under its indemnification obligations, BowX's independent directors would determine whether to take legal action against the Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations.

While BowX currently expects that BowX's independent directors would take legal action on its behalf against the Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations to BowX, it is possible that BowX's independent directors in exercising their business judgment may choose not to do so, for example, the cost of such legal action is deemed by the independent directors to be too high relative to the amount recoverable on behalf of the officers and directors. Accordingly, if BowX's independent directors determine that a favorable outcome is not likely. If BowX's independent directors choose not to enforce these indemnification obligations, the amount of funds in the trust account available for distribution to BowX's public stockholders may be reduced below $10.00 per share.

BowX may not have sufficient funds to satisfy indemnification claims of its directors and executive officers.

BowX has agreed to indemnify its officers and directors to the fullest extent permitted by law. However, BowX's officers and directors have agreed to waive (and any other persons who may become an officer or director prior to the initial business combination will also be bound by) any right, title, interest or claim of any kind in or to any monies in the trust account and not to seek recourse against the trust account or the assets held therein for any purpose whatsoever. Accordingly, any indemnification provided will be able to be satisfied by BowX only if (i) BowX has sufficient funds on deposit in the trust account or (ii) BowX consummates an initial business combination. BowX's obligation to indemnify its officers and directors may limit stockholders from bringing a lawsuit against its officers or directors for breach of their fiduciary duty. These provisions also may have the effect of reducing the likelihood of derivative litigation against BowX's officers and directors, even though such an action, if successful, might otherwise provide a windfall to BowX and its stockholders. Furthermore, a stockholder's investment may be adversely affected to the extent BowX pays the costs of defense and damage awards against its officers and directors pursuant to these indemnification provisions.

We may issue additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock or preferred shares under an employee incentive plan upon or after completion of the Business Combination, which would dilute the interest of our stockholders.

Our Existing Charter authorizes the issuance of up to 87,500,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, par value $0.0001 per share, 12,500,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock, par value $0.0001 per share, and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.0001 per share. There are currently 12,064,167 and 425,000 shares of BowX Class A and Class B Common Stock, respectively.

This table also takes into account the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock reserved for issuance upon exercise of outstanding warrants but not the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon conversion of BowX Class B Common Stock. There are currently no shares of preferred stock outstanding.

Shares of BowX Class B Common Stock are convertible into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock initially at a one-for-one ratio and subject to adjustment as set forth herein, including in certain circumstances in which we issue BowX Class A Common Stock or equity-linked securities in connection with our initial business combination. Shares of BowX Class B Common Stock are convertible at the option of the holder at any time.

We may issue a substantial number of additional shares of common or preferred stock to complete our initial business combination (such as pursuant to a specified future issuance) or under an employee incentive plan after completion of our initial business combination. We may issue shares of Class A common stock to redeem the warrants or upon conversion of the Class B common stock at a ratio greater than one share of Class A common stock for each share of Class B common stock issued by us in connection with our initial business combination as a result of the anti-dilution provisions contained in our certificate of incorporation. Our Class A common stock shall only be convertible at the time of our initial business combination. However, our certificate of incorporation will provide, among other things, that prior to our initial business combination, we may not issue additional securities that would entitle the holders thereof, to (1) receive funds or assets in our account or (2) vote as a class with our public shares (a) on any initial business combination or (b) to approve an amendment to our certificate of incorporation. The restriction on issuing additional shares of capital stock described in the prior sentence will expire upon consummation of our initial business combination. The issuance of additional shares of common or preferred stock:

- may significantly dilute the equity interest of investors from the initial public offering;
- may subordinate the rights of existing holders of BowX Common Stock if preferred stock is issued with rights senior to those of BowX Common Stock;
- could cause a change of control if a substantial number of shares of BowX Common Stock are issued, which may affect, among other things, our ability to use our net operating loss carry forwards, if any, and could result in the resignation or removal of our present officers and directors;
- may adversely affect prevailing market prices for our BowX Units, BowX Class A Common Stock and/or BowX warrants; and
- may have the effect of delaying or preventing a change of control of us by diluting the stock ownership or voting rights of a person or group seeking to obtain control of us.

Our Existing Charter requires, to the fullest extent permitted by law, that derivative actions brought in our name, actions against our officers, other employees or stockholders for breach of fiduciary duty and other similar actions may be brought only in the Court of Chancery in the State of Delaware and, if brought outside of Delaware, the stockholder bringing the suit will be deemed to have consented to service of process upon the stockholder's counsel, which may have the effect of discouraging lawsuits against our directors, officers, other employees or stockholders. The Proposed Charter includes a substantially similar choice of law forum provision, except the Proposed Charter provides that, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the federal district courts of the United States of America shall be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint arising under the Securities Act.

Our Existing Charter requires, to the fullest extent permitted by law, that derivative actions brought in our name, actions against our officers, other employees or stockholders for breach of fiduciary duty and other similar actions may be brought only in the Court of Chancery in the State of Delaware and, if brought outside of Delaware, the stockholder bringing the suit will be deemed to have consented to service of process upon the stockholder's counsel except any action (A) as to which the Court of Chancery in the State of Delaware determines that the indispensable party not subject to the jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery (and the indispensable party does not consent to the personal service of process in the Court of Chancery within ten days following such determination), (B) which is vested in the exclusive jurisdiction of a court or forum other than the Court of Chancery, (C) for which the Court of Chancery does not have subject matter jurisdiction, or (D) any action arising under the laws of a state to which the Court of Chancery and the federal district court for the District of Delaware will have concurrent jurisdiction. Any person purchasing or otherwise acquiring any interest in shares of our capital stock will be deemed to have notice of and consented to the following choice of forum provision contained in our Existing Charter.

This choice of forum provision may limit a stockholder's ability to bring a claim in a judicial forum that it finds favorable for disputes with us or any of our directors, officers, other employees or stockholders, which may discourage lawsuits with respect to such claims. Although New WeWork's stockholders will not be deemed to have waived our compliance with federal securities laws and the rules and regulations thereunder, we cannot be certain that a court will decide that this provision is either applicable or enforceable, and if a court were to find the choice of forum provision contained in our Existing Charter to be inapplicable or unenforceable in an action, we may incur additional costs associated with resolving such disputes in other jurisdictions, which could harm our business, operating results and financial condition.

Our Existing Charter provides that the exclusive forum provision will be applicable to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law. The Exchange Act creates exclusive federal jurisdiction over all suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Exchange Act or any other claim for which the federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction.

The Proposed Charter includes a substantially similar choice of law forum provision, except the Proposed Charter provides to the extent permitted by law, the federal district courts of the United States of America shall be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any dispute by a stockholder asserting a cause of action arising under the Securities Act. The choice of forum provision in the Proposed Charter may limit a stockholder's ability to bring a claim in a judicial forum that it finds favorable for disputes with New WeWork or any of its directors, officers, other employees or stockholders, which may discourage lawsuits with respect to such claims, although New WeWork's stockholders will not be deemed to have waived our compliance with federal securities laws and the rules and regulations thereunder. We cannot be certain that a court will decide that this provision is either applicable or enforceable, and if a court were to find the choice of forum provision contained in our Proposed Charter to be inapplicable or unenforceable in an action, we may incur additional costs associated with resolving such action in other jurisdictions, which could harm our business, operating results and financial condition. In addition, although the Delaware Supreme Court ruled in March 2018 that forum selection provisions purporting to require claims under the Securities Act be brought in federal court were facially valid under Delaware law, there is uncertainty as to whether other courts will enforce New WeWork's federal forum selection clause.

BowX stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against it to the extent of distributions received by them upon receiving shares.

If BowX enters into an insolvency proceeding, any distributions received by stockholders could be viewed as an unlawful preference. It has not been proved that, for example, immediately following the distribution, BowX was unable to pay its debts as they fall due in the ordinary course of business.

As a result, a liquidator could seek to recover all amounts received by its stockholders. Furthermore, its directors may be viewed as failing in their fiduciary duties to BowX or its creditors or may have acted in bad faith, and thereby exposing themselves and BowX to claims by creditors against their stockholders from the trust account prior to addressing the claims of creditors. BowX cannot assure you that claims will not be brought against its stockholders for these reasons.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to BowX's public stockholders, BowX files a bankruptcy petition or an involuntary bankruptcy petition is filed against us that is not dismissed, the claims of creditors in such proceeding may have priority over the claims of BowX stockholders to the per-share amount that would otherwise be received by BowX's stockholders in connection with BowX's liquidation.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to BowX's public stockholders, BowX file a bankruptcy petition or bankruptcy petition is filed against us that is not dismissed, the proceeds held in the trust account could be subject to applicable bankruptcy laws and may be included in BowX's bankruptcy estate and subject to the claims of third parties with priority over the claims of BowX's stockholders. To the extent any bankruptcy claims deplete the trust account, the per-share amount that would otherwise be received by BowX's stockholders with BowX's liquidation may be reduced.

Public stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LCWU Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence that Public stockholders have on the management of New WeWork.

Public stockholders who do not redeem their public stock will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and may experience dilution from several additional sources to varying degrees in connection with and after the Business Combination, including the following:

Approximately 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock are anticipated to be issued as consideration in the Business Combination.

- valued at $10.00 per share. This represents approximately 82.7% or 87.6% of the number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock outstanding following the consummation of the Business Combination, assuming the no redemption scenario and the maximum redemption scenario, respectively.

80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock are anticipated to be issued to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investors' rights.

- $10.00 per share. This represents approximately 10.1% or 10.7% of the number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock that will be outstanding following the consummation of the Business Combination, assuming the no redemption scenario and the maximum redemption scenario, respectively.

23,873,333 warrants will be outstanding following the Business Combination. The warrants, which will not be redeemed in connection with the Business Combination, will be exercisable at any time commencing on the later of 30 days after the Business Combination or 112 months from the closing of the initial public offering. The 1,000,000 S-114 W-W-1 Class A Common Stock will be listed on the Nasdaq Capital Market under the symbol "W-W-1".

- consummation of the Business Combination, assuming the no redemption scenario and the maximum redemption scenario, respectively. Warrants will become exercisable for New WeWork Common Stock, which would increase the number of shares eligible for future market and result in dilution to our stockholders. The New WeWork Warrants outstanding after the Business Combination will be warrants held by our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, which are not redeemable. As such, New WeWork will have no obligation to manage the dilution therefrom.

New WeWork will reserve 5% of the number of outstanding shares of New WeWork Common Stock on a fully diluted basis (as

- New WeWork will reserve 5% of the number of outstanding shares of New WeWork Common Stock on a fully diluted basis (as follows the Business Combination) pursuant to the 2021 Plan and expects to grant equity awards under the 2021 Plan. The granted and settled or exercisable, may result in the issuance of additional shares up to the amount of the share reserve under the 2021 Plan.

New WeWork will reserve 1% of the number of outstanding shares of New WeWork Common Stock on a fully diluted basis (as

- following the Business Combination) pursuant to the ESPP, and New WeWork expects that holders of purchase rights under the ESPP will be entitled to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock pursuant to the ESPP. As a result, New WeWork may issue additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock up to the amount of the share reserve under the ESPP.

- Certain former members of WeWork's senior management hold approximately 24,132,575 WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Units.
- the Business Combination can be exchanged for New WeWork Common Stock pursuant to their terms as further described in "Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions—WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Units."

BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees and the SoftBank Obligor or its designees the First Warrant and the LC Warrant, respectively, the issuance of the LC Warrant contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, as described in "Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions—WeWork—SoftBank Transactions—Warrants." Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant that would purchase 47,366,404 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The issuance of additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock (or other equity securities of equal or senior rank) including the exercise of warrants or options, could have the following effects for public shareholders who elect not to redeem their shares:

- your proportionate ownership interest in New WeWork will decrease;
- the relative voting strength of each previously outstanding share of New WeWork Common Stock will be diminished; or
- the market price of New WeWork Common Stock may decline.

Following the Business Combination, SBG will continue to own a significant portion of New WeWork's stock.

Following the completion of the Business Combination, as a result of its share ownership, SBWW is expected to own approximately 49.0% of the pro forma outstanding shares of capital stock of New WeWork and SVFE is expected to own approximately 11% of the pro forma outstanding capital stock of New WeWork, and representatives of SBWW will comprise a meaningful portion of New WeWork's board following the Business Combination, with SBWW entitled to designate three members of the New WeWork board and SVFE entitled to designate one member of the New WeWork board, so long as they continue to hold a requisite amount of capital stock of New WeWork. While following the Business Combination, SoftBank Holders (as defined herein) will be subject to restrictions on the ability to vote shares of WeWork's stock in excess of 49.0%. In addition, other holders of New WeWork capital stock may have limited ability to influence matters requiring stockholder approval, such that SBG will have considerable influence over the election of directors to the New WeWork board. SBG's interests may not be the same as the interests of the WeWork or New WeWork's other stockholders, which could result in a conflict with the interests of the WeWork or New WeWork's other stockholders.

Warrants will become exercisable for New WeWork Common Stock, which would increase the number of shares eligible for future repurchase in the market and result in dilution to our stockholders. Such dilution will increase if more of our shares are redeemed.

Outstanding warrants to purchase an aggregate of 23,873,333 shares of New WeWork Common Stock will become exercisable under the terms of the Warrant Agreement governing those securities, comprising 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants. The public warrants will become exercisable 30 days after the completion of the Business Combination. The likelihood that those warrants will be exercised increases if the trading price of BowX Class A Common Stock exceeds the exercise price of the warrants. The exercise price of these warrants is $11.50 per share. Based on the closing price of BowX Class A Common Stock of $ on Nasdaq on , 2021, such public warrants have an aggregate market value of approximately $. However, there is no guarantee that the warrants will ever be in the money after they become exercisable but prior to their expiration, and as such, the warrants may expire worthless.

To the extent such public warrants are exercised, additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock will be issued, which will increase the number of shares eligible for future repurchase in the market and result in dilution to our stockholders. Such dilution will increase if more of our shares are redeemed.

shares eligible for resale in the public market. The dilution caused by the exercise of the public warrants will increase if a large stockholder's elect to redeem their shares in connection with the Business Combination. Holders of public warrants do not have a right to require BowX or New WeWork to redeem their warrants. Further, the redemption of BowX Class A Stock without any accompanying redemption of public warrants will increase the exercise price of BowX Class A Stock. Sales of substantial numbers of shares issued upon the exercise of warrants in the public market or such warrants may be exercised could also adversely affect the market price of New WeWork Common Stock.

Your unexpired warrants may be redeemed prior to their exercise at a time that is disadvantageous to you, thereby making your warrants less valuable.

BowX has, and New WeWork will have, the ability to redeem outstanding warrants at any time after they become exercisable upon expiration, at a price of $0.01 per warrant provided that the last reported sales price of the underlying Class A common stock equals $0.10 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) for any 20 trading days within a 30-day period commencing once the warrants become exercisable and ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which BowX or New WeWork sends the notice of redemption to the warrant holders and provided certain other conditions are met. If and when the warrants become redeemable,

New WeWork, such party may exercise its redemption right even if it is unable to register or qualify the underlying securities for listing on an applicable state securities laws. As a result, BowX or New WeWork may redeem the public warrants as set forth above even if the holders of the warrants are unable to exercise the warrants. Redemption of the outstanding warrants could force you (i) to exercise your warrants and pay the exercise price at a time when it may be disadvantageous for you to do so, (ii) to sell your warrants at the then-current market price when you might prefer to hold your warrants or (iii) to accept the nominal redemption price which, at the time the outstanding warrants are called for redemption, would be substantially less than the market value of your warrants. None of the private placement warrants will be redeemable by New WeWork under certain circumstances.

In addition, unlike many other similarly structured blank check companies, BowX has the ability to redeem outstanding warrants before they become exercisable for $0.10 per warrant upon a minimum of 30 days' prior written notice of redemption provided that holders of the warrants can exercise their warrants prior to redemption for a number of New WeWork Class A Common Stock determined based on the redemption price and the market value of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and provided certain other conditions are met. BowX may only redeem such warrants in accordance with the foregoing sentence if, and only if, the last reported sale price of BowX's Class A Common Stock exceeds $10.00 per share on a 20-trading-day period ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent. As of [REDACTED], 2021, the last reported sale price of BowX's Class A Common Stock was $[REDACTED] per share, which exceeds the threshold required for redemption. New WeWork would redeem the warrants in this manner if it believes it is in its best interest to update its capital structure to remove the warrants and pay fair market value to the warrant holders.

WeWork can also redeem the warrants in this manner if it believes it will provide certainty with respect to New WeWork's capital structure and position while providing warrant holders with fair market value in the form of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Any such redemption may have similar consequences to the redemption described in the above paragraph. In addition, such redemption may occur at a time when the warrants are "out-of-the-money," in which case you would lose any potential embedded value from a subsequent increase in the value of the underlying New WeWork Class A Common Stock had your warrants remained outstanding. Finally, this redemption feature provides a ceiling to the value of your investment in New WeWork. See "Description of BowX Securities—Public Warrants" and "Description of BowX Securities—Private Placement Warrants" for further information on the warrants.

Because each BowX Unit contains one-third of one redeemable warrant and only a whole warrant may be exercised, the BowX Units are less valuable than units of other blank check companies.

Each BowX Unit contains one-third of one redeemable warrant. No fractional shares will be issued upon exercise of the public warrants. Whole warrants will trade. If, upon exercise of the public warrants, a holder would be entitled to receive a fractional interest in a share, we will, upon exercise, round down to the nearest whole number the of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued to the warrant holder. Accordingly, unless you purchase at least three BowX Units, you receive or trade a whole warrant. This is different from other offerings, similar to our initial public offering whose units include one stock and one warrant to purchase one whole share. We have established the components of the BowX Units in this way in order to effect the warrants upon completion of an initial business combination since the warrants will be exercisable in the aggregate for a number of shares compared to units that each contain a warrant to purchase one whole share, thus making us, we believe, a more attractive partner for target businesses. Nevertheless, this unit structure may cause our units to be worth less than if they included a warrant to purchase one share.

BowX may amend the terms of the warrants in a manner that may be adverse to holders of public warrants with the approval by the holders of at least 50% of the then outstanding public warrants. As a result, the exercise price of your warrants could be increased, the exercise period could be shortened, and the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock purchasable upon exercise of a warrant could be decreased, all without your approval.

The warrants are issued in registered form under a Warrant Agreement between Continental, as warrant agent, and BowX. The agreement provides that the terms of the warrants may be amended without the consent of any holder to cure any ambiguity or correct any defect, provided that such amendment does not adversely affect the rights of the registered holders of public warrants. Accordingly, BowX or New WeWork may amend the terms of the public warrants in a manner that affects the rights of the registered holders of public warrants if holders of at least 50% of the then outstanding public warrants approve of such amendment. Although BowX's or New WeWork's ability to amend the terms of the public warrants with the consent of at least 50% of the then outstanding public warrants is unlimited, examples of such amendments may include, among other things, increase the exercise price of the warrants, convert the warrants into cash or stock, shorten the term of the warrants, decrease the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock purchasable upon exercise of a warrant.

We have identified a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting. This material weakness could continue to affect our ability to report our results of operations and financial condition accurately and in a timely manner.

Our management is responsible for establishing and maintaining adequate internal control over financial reporting designed to provide assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Our management is likewise required, on a quarterly basis, to evaluate the effectiveness of our internal controls and to disclose any changes in those internal controls that occurred during the quarter. Management's annual evaluation of the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of our annual or interim financial statements will not be prevented or detected on a timely basis.

As described elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, we identified a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting related to the accounting for a significant and unusual transaction related to the warrants we issued in connection with our private placement on May 19, 2020. As a result of this material weakness, our management concluded that our internal control over financial reporting was not effective as of December 31, 2020. This material weakness resulted in a material misstatement of our warrant liabilities, change in fair value of warrants, additional paid-in capital, accumulated deficit and related financial disclosures for the period from May 19 (inception) through December 31, 2020, in the unaudited interim periods ending September 30, 2020 (the "Affected Periods").

To respond to this material weakness, we have devoted, and plan to continue to devote, significant effort and resources to the improvement of our internal control over financial reporting. While we have processes to identify and appropriately apply applicable accounting requirements, we plan to enhance these processes to better research and understanding of the nuances of the complex accounting standards that apply to our financial statements. Our plans at this time include providing enhanced access to accounting literature, research materials and documents and increased communication among our personnel and third party professionals with whom we consult regarding complex accounting applications. The elements of our remediation plan can only be described as preliminary at this time, and over time, and we can offer no assurance that these initiatives will ultimately have the intended effects. For a discussion of BowX's remediation plan and consideration of the material weakness identified related to our accounting for a significant and unusual transaction related to the warrants issued in connection with the private placements in August 2020, see Note 2 of the notes to BowX's consolidated financial statements included in this report.

Any failure to maintain such internal control could adversely impact our ability to report our financial position and results from a timely and accurate basis. If our financial statements are not accurate, investors may not have a complete understanding of our operations. If our financial statements are not filed on a timely basis, we could be subject to sanctions or investigations by the stock exchange on which our stock is listed, the SEC or other regulatory authorities. In either case, there could result a material adverse effect on our business. Failure to maintain effective internal controls will cause us to be ineligible to utilize short form registration statements on Form S-3 or Form S-4, which may impair our ability to do so in a timely fashion to execute our business strategies or issue shares to effect an acquisition. Ineffective internal controls could also cause a loss of confidence in our reported financial information, which could have a negative effect on the trading price of our stock.

We can give no assurance that the measures we have taken and plan to take in the future will remediate the material weakness. We can give no assurance that any additional material weaknesses or restatements of financial results will not arise in the future due to a failure to implement and maintain effective internal control over financial reporting or circumvention of these controls. In addition, even if we are successful in strengthening our internal control procedures, in the future those controls and procedures may not be adequate to prevent or identify irregularities or errors or to fairly present our financial statements.

We may face litigation and other risks as a result of the material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting.

On April 12, 2021, the Acting Director of the Division of Corporation Finance and Acting Chief Accountant of the SEC issued a statement regarding the accounting and reporting considerations for warrants issued by special purpose acquisition companies entitled "Statement on Accounting and Reporting Considerations for Warrants Issued by Special Purpose Acquisition Companies ("SPACs")" (the "SEC Statement").

Following the issuance of the SEC Statement, our audit committee, in consultation with management and after discussions with our auditors, concluded that we should have classified our private placement warrants as liabilities measured at fair value upon issuance in our previously issued financial statements, and it was appropriate to correct errors in our previously issued audited financial statements by restating our financial information.

As part of this restatement, our management, including our principal executive and financial officers, have evaluated the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting and concluded that we did not maintain effective internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2020 because of a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting related to the accounting for the significant and unusual transaction related to the warrants we issued in connection with our initial public offering in August 2020. Please see "—What is a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting. This material weakness could continue to adversely affect our ability to present our financial results of operations and financial condition accurately and in a timely manner". As a result of such material weakness, the change in our accounting for private placement warrants, and other matters raised or that may in the future be raised by the SEC, we face potential for litigation which may include, among others, claims invoking the federal and state securities laws, contractual claims or other claims arising from the restatement and material weaknesses in our internal control over financial reporting and the preparation of our financial statements. As of the date of this report, we are not aware of any specific legal proceedings or claims that have been filed against us.

proxy statement/prospectus, we have no knowledge of any such litigation or dispute. However, we can provide no assurance that such dispute will not arise in the future. Any such litigation or dispute, whether successful or not, could have a material adverse effect on our operations and financial condition or our ability to complete the Business Combination.

The provisions of the Existing Charter that relate to BowX's pre-Business Combination activity (and corresponding provisions of the governing the release of funds from the trust account) may be amended with the approval of holders of at least 65% of outstanding BowX Common Stock, which is a lower amendment threshold than that of some other blank check companies. It may be easier for BowX, therefore, to amend the Existing Charter and the Trust Agreement to facilitate the completion of the Business Combination without broad support from stockholders.

Some other blank check companies have a provision in their charter which prohibits the amendment of certain of its provisions which relate to a company's pre-business combination activity, without approval by holders of a certain percentage of the company's public stock. The Existing Charter provides that any of its provisions related to pre-business combination activity (including the requirement to provide redemption rights to public stockholders as described herein) may be amended if approved by holders of at least 65% of our Common Stock entitled to vote thereon, and corresponding provisions of the Trust Agreement governing the release of funds from BowX's trust account may be amended if approved by holders of at least 65% of outstanding BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon. In all other respects, the Existing Charter may be amended by holders of a majority of outstanding BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon, subject to the provisions of the DGCL or applicable stock exchange rules. BowX may not issue additional securities that would entitle the holders of BowX's public stock to receive funds from the trust account or to vote as a class with BowX's public stock (a) on any matter relating to the Business Combination or (b) to approve an amendment to the Existing Charter. The Sponsor and Sponsor Persons, who collectively beneficially own approximately 18.6% of BowX Common Stock, may participate in any vote to amend the Existing Charter and/or Trust Agreement and have the discretion to vote in any manner they choose. As a result, BowX may be able to amend the provisions of the Existing Charter which govern pre-business combination behavior more easily than some other blank check companies, and this may increase BowX's ability to consummate the Business Combination. BowX's stockholders may pursue remedies against BowX for any breach of the Existing Charter.

BowX will not propose any amendment to the Existing Charter (A) to modify the substance or timing of BowX's obligation to consummate the Business Combination or certain amendments to the Existing Charter or to redeem 100% of BowX's public stock unless BowX fails to complete the Business Combination within 24 months from the closing of the initial public offering or (B) with respect to any amendment relating to stockholders' rights or pre-initial business combination activity, unless BowX provides its public stockholders with the option to require BowX to repurchase their public stock upon approval of any such amendment at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account, including interest (which interest shall be net of taxes payable) divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock. BowX's officers and directors are not parties to, or third-party beneficiaries of, these agreements and, as a result, will not have the ability to pursue them for any breach of these agreements. As a result, in the event of a breach, BowX's public stockholders will have the right to file a stockholder derivative action, subject to applicable law.

BowX's and WeWork's ability to consummate the Business Combination, and the operations of New WeWork following the Business Combination, may be materially adversely affected by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted, and other infectious diseases could result, in a widespread health crisis that has affected and will continue to adversely affect the economies and financial markets worldwide, which may delay or prevent the consummation of the Business Combination, and the business of WeWork, or

New WeWork following the Business Combination, could be materially and adversely affected. The extent of such impact will depend on developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be predicted, including new information which may emerge concerning the severity of the COVID-19 pandemic and the actions to contain COVID-19 or treat its impact, among others.

The parties will be required to consummate the Business Combination even if WeWork, its business, financial condition and results of operations are materially affected by COVID-19. The disruptions posed by COVID-19 have continued, and other matters of global concern may continue for an extensive period of time, and if WeWork is unable to recover from business disruptions due to COVID-19 or other matters of global concern on a timely basis, WeWork's ability to consummate the Business Combination and New WeWork's financial condition and results of operations following the Business Combination may be materially adversely affected. Each of WeWork and New WeWork may also incur additional costs due to the impact of COVID-19, which could adversely affect New WeWork's financial condition and results of operations.

Additional Risks Related to Ownership of New WeWork Common Stock Following the Business Combination and New WeWork as a Public Company

The price of New WeWork's Common Stock and warrants may be volatile.

Upon consummation of the Business Combination, the price of New WeWork Common Stock, as well as warrants, may fluctuate based on a variety of factors, including:

- changes in the industries in which New WeWork and its customers operate;
- developments involving New WeWork's competitors;
- changes in laws and regulations affecting its business;
- variations in its operating performance and the performance of its competitors in general;
- actual or anticipated fluctuations in New WeWork's quarterly or annual operating results;
- publication of research reports by securities analysts about New WeWork or its competitors or its industry;
- the public's reaction to New WeWork's press releases, its other public announcements and its filings with the SEC;
- actions by stockholders, including the sale by the PIPE Investors of any of their shares of our common stock;
- additions and departures of key personnel;
- commencement of, or involvement in, litigation involving the combined company;
- changes in its capital structure, such as future issuances of securities or the incurrence of additional debt;
- the volume of shares of New WeWork Common Stock available for public sale; and
- general economic and political conditions, such as the effects of the COVID-19 outbreak, recessions, interest rates, local and national energy prices, international currency fluctuations, corruption, political instability and acts of war or terrorism.

These market and industry factors may materially reduce the market price of New WeWork Common Stock and warrants regardless of the performance of New WeWork.

New WeWork does not intend to pay cash dividends for the foreseeable future.

Following the Business Combination, New WeWork currently intends to retain its future earnings, if any, to finance the further expansion of its business and does not intend to pay cash dividends in the future.

foreseeable future. Any future determination to pay dividends will be at the discretion of New WeWork's board of directors and will depend on New WeWork's financial condition, results of operations, capital requirements, restrictions contained in future agreements and financing instruments, and such other factors as its board of directors deems relevant. As a result, you may not receive any return on an investment in BowX Stock unless you sell BowX Class A Common Stock for a price greater than that which you paid for it. See the section entitled "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Dividend Information."

If analysts do not publish research about New WeWork's business or if they publish inaccurate or unfavorable research, New WeWork's trading volume could decline.

The trading market for the common stock of New WeWork will depend in part on the research and reports that analysts publish about New WeWork. New WeWork does not have any control over these analysts. If one or more of the analysts who cover New WeWork downgrade its rating or publish inaccurate or unfavorable research about its business, the price of its common stock would likely decline. If few analysts cover New WeWork, demand for its common stock could decrease and its common stock price and trading volume may decline. Similar results may occur if these analysts stop covering New WeWork in the future or fail to publish reports on it regularly.

New WeWork may be subject to securities litigation, which is expensive and could divert management attention.

The market price of New WeWork Common Stock may be volatile and, in the past, companies that have experienced volatility in the price of their stock have been subject to securities class action litigation. New WeWork may be the target of this type of litigation and investigations and litigation may resurface in the future. Securities litigation against New WeWork could result in substantial costs and diversion of management's attention from other business concerns, which could seriously harm its business.

Future resales of common stock after the consummation of the Business Combination may cause the market price of New WeWork's common stock to decline significantly, even if New WeWork's business is doing well.

Pursuant to the Lock-Up Agreements, after the consummation of the Business Combination and subject to certain exceptions, the Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers, certain of WeWork's officers and certain WeWork Stockholders will be contractually restricted from selling or otherwise disposing of their Lock-Up Shares during the Lock-Up Period. However, following the expiration of such Lock-Up Period, the Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers, certain of WeWork's officers and certain WeWork Stockholders will not be restricted from selling shares of New WeWork Common Stock other than by applicable securities laws. Additionally, the PIPE Investors will not be restricted from selling any of their shares of New WeWork Common Stock following the closing of the Business Combination, other than by applicable securities laws, and we may sell shares of our common stock to generate cash to satisfy our tax withholding and remittance obligations under FIRPTA in connection with the Business Combination. A substantial number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in the public market could occur at any time. These sales, or the perception that the holders of a large number of shares intend to sell shares, could reduce the market price of New WeWork Common Stock.

The shares held by Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers, certain of WeWork's officers and certain WeWork Stockholders may be resold after the expiration of the applicable lock-up period under the Lock-Up Agreements. As restrictions on resale end and registration statements (including the Registration Statement on Form S-4 filed with the SEC on April 17, 2019, and the prospectus supplement dated April 17, 2019, relating thereto, which was filed with the SEC on April 17, 2019) become available for use, the sale or possibility of sale of these shares could have the effect of increasing the volatility in New WeWork's share price or the market price of New WeWork Common Stock could decline if currently restricted shares sell them or are perceived by the market as intending to sell them.

The obligations associated with being a public company will involve significant expenses and will require significant resources and attention, which may divert from New WeWork's business operations.

As a public company, New WeWork will become subject to the reporting requirements of the Exchange Act and the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. The Exchange Act requires the filing of annual, quarterly and current reports with respect to a public company's business and financial results. The Sarbanes-Oxley Act requires, among other things, that a public company establish and maintain effective internal control over financial reporting. As a result, New WeWork will incur significant legal, accounting and other expenses that WeWork did not previously incur. New WeWork's management team and many of its other employees will need to devote substantial time to compliance, and may not effectively or efficiently transition into a public company.

These rules and regulations will result in New WeWork incurring substantial legal and financial compliance costs and will make it more time-consuming and costly. For example, these rules and regulations will likely make it more difficult and more expensive for New WeWork to obtain director and officer liability insurance, and it may be required to accept reduced policy limits and coverage or incur substantially more expense to obtain the same or similar coverage. As a result, it may be difficult for New WeWork to attract and retain qualified people to serve as directors, its board committees or as executive officers.

Compliance obligations under the Sarbanes Oxley Act may make it more difficult for BowX to effectuate the Business Combination, financial and management resources and increase the time and costs of completing the Business Combination.

The fact that BowX is a blank check company makes compliance with the requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act particularly challenging as compared to other public companies because WeWork is not currently subject to Section 404 of the Sarbanes Oxley Act. The standards for a public company under Section 404 of the Sarbanes Oxley Act are significantly more stringent than those required of WeWork as an emerging growth company. Management may not be able to effectively and timely implement controls and procedures that adequately respond to the increased compliance and reporting requirements that will be applicable to New WeWork after the Business Combination. If New WeWork fails to implement the requirements of Section 404, including any additional requirements once New WeWork is no longer an emerging growth company in a timely manner or with adequate compliance, New WeWork may not be able to assess whether its internal controls over financial reporting are effective, which may subject New WeWork to adverse regulatory consequences and could harm investor confidence and the market price of New WeWork's Common Stock. Additionally, once New WeWork is no longer an emerging growth company, New WeWork will be required to comply with the independent registered public accounting firm attestation requirement on its internal control over financial reporting.

In particular, New WeWork will be required to perform system and process evaluation and testing of its internal control over financial reporting to allow management to report on the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting. As a private company, WeWork has not been required to do such an analysis, and its current testing as a private company has revealed a number of deficiencies and material weaknesses in its internal control over financial reporting that it may not be able to remedy by the time it is required to do a Section 404 assessment. These include issues such as:

- limited review controls currently in place and lack of sufficient accounting personnel with proper experience and qualification to handle complex transactions;
- accounting for impairment testing of its intangible assets;
- accounting for the valuation of warrant liabilities;
- accounting for valuation of contingent consideration; and
- accounting for income taxes.

WeWork cannot assure you that it will be able to remedy its existing deficiencies and material weaknesses, that it will not have deficiencies or material weaknesses in its initial Section 404 assessment, or that even if identified in such initial assessment, such material weaknesses will not occur in the future. Accordingly, material weaknesses may still exist when New WeWork reports on the internal control over financial reporting.

New WeWork's independent registered public accounting firm will not be required to attest to the effectiveness of the New WeWork internal control over financial reporting for so long as New WeWork remains a non-accelerated filer as defined in applicable SEC regulations. Once the requirements of its financial statements become those of New WeWork following the Business Combination, New WeWork will take various actions, such as implementing new internal controls and procedures and hiring additional accounting or internal audit staff. WeWork will begin the costly and challenging process of compiling the system and processing documentation necessary to perform the evaluation of the internal control over financial reporting needed to comply with Section 404, and New WeWork may not be able to complete its evaluation and required remediation in a timely fashion. Moreover, if New WeWork is not able to comply with the requirements of Section 404 in a timely manner, it identifies or its independent registered public accounting firm identifies deficiencies in WeWork's internal control over financial reporting deemed to be material weaknesses, the market price of New WeWork Common Stock could decline and New WeWork could be subject to investigations by the NYSE, the SEC or other regulatory authorities, which would require additional financial and management resources.

Certain non-U.S. holders of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities, in certain situations, could be subject to U.S. federal income tax on gain from the sale, exchange or other disposition of New WeWork Capital Stock or equity securities.

WeWork believes that it might have been, as of December 31, 2019, and as of the date of the Business Combination might be, a USRPHC under FIRPTA. Generally, a corporation is a USRPHC if the fair market value of its U.S. real property interests equals or exceeds 50% of the market value of its worldwide real property interests and its other assets used or held for use in a trade or business (all as determined for income tax purposes). As a result of the Business Combination, we believe we might become a USRPHC. If New WeWork has been a USRPHC, the shorter of a non-U.S. holder's holding period for shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities or the five-year period during which such non-U.S. holder's disposition of such shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or equity securities, such non-U.S. holder may be subject to U.S. federal income tax on gain from disposition of those shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or equity securities under FIRPTA at general U.S. federal income tax rates, in which case such non-U.S. holder would also be required to file U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such gain. In addition, if New WeWork is unable to certify, proximate to the time of such disposition, that it has not been a USRPHC during the non-U.S. holder's holding period for shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities or the five-year period preceding such disposition, such non-U.S. holder may be required to withhold U.S. tax in an amount equal to 15% of the gross proceeds from such a purchase. No assurances can be given that WeWork will be able to give the applicable certification at a given time.

If, at any time during the calendar year, any class of stock of New WeWork is regularly traded on an established securities market described above applies only in the case of a non-U.S. holder who beneficially owned more than 5% of the total fair market value of its interests at any time during the five-year period ending either on the date of disposition of such interest or other applicable determination, the withholding requirements described above would not apply. No assurances can be given that, at any given time, our stock will be traded on an established securities market" for purposes of FIRPTA.

Non-U.S. holders of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities should consult with their own tax advisors concerning the income tax consequences of the sale, exchange or other disposition of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities.

Risks Related to the Redemption

There is no guarantee that a BowX stockholder's decision whether to redeem their stock for a pro rata portion of the trust account will result in a better future economic position.

No assurance can be given as to the price at which a stockholder may be able to sell his, her or its public stock in the future upon completion of the Business Combination. Certain events following the consummation of any business combination, including the Business Combination, may cause an increase in our stock price, and may result in a lower value realized now than a BowX stockholder might have received if he, she or it had the stockholder not elected to redeem such stockholder's public stock. Similarly, if a BowX public stockholder does not redeem his, her or its stock, such stockholder will bear the risk of ownership of New WeWork Common Stock after the consummation of the Business Combination. There can be no assurance that a stockholder can sell his, her or its shares in the future for a greater amount than the redemption price set forth in this proxy statement/prospectus. A BowX stockholder should consult his, her or its own tax and/or financial advisors for assistance on how this may affect his, her or its individual situation.

If BowX stockholders fail to comply with the redemption requirements specified in this proxy statement/prospectus, they will not be entitled to receive their shares of public stock for a pro rata portion of the funds held in the trust account.

To exercise their redemption rights, holders are required to deliver their stock, either physically or electronically using the Company's DWAC System, to BowX's transfer agent prior to the vote at the special meeting. If a holder properly seeks redemption and satisfies the proxy statement/prospectus and the Business Combination with WeWork is consummated, BowX will redeem these shares for a pro rata portion of the funds deposited in the trust account and the holder will no longer own such shares following the Business Combination. See the section titled "Meeting of BowX—Redemption Rights" for additional information on how to exercise your redemption rights.

If you or a "group" of stockholders of which you are a part are deemed to hold an aggregate of more than 15% of the public stock, you and all members of such group (and all other members of such group) will lose the ability to redeem all such stock in excess of 15% of the public stock unless BowX consents to such redemption.

A public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person with whom such public stockholder acts in concert or as a "group" (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Exchange Act) will be restricted from redeeming its public stock with respect to an aggregate of 15% of the public stock, unless BowX consents to such excess redemption. Your inability to redeem any such excess stock will result in you suffering a material loss on your investment in BowX if you sell such excess public stock in open market transactions. We assure you that the value of such excess public stock will appreciate over time following the Business Combination or that the market price of such stock will exceed the per-share redemption price. The inability of a stockholder to redeem an aggregate of more than 15% of the public stock sold in the initial public offering will reduce its influence over BowX's ability to consummate its initial business combination. A stockholder could suffer a material loss on its investment in BowX if it sells such excess shares in open market transactions. Additionally, a stockholder will not receive redemption distributions with respect to the excess shares if we complete the Business Combination. Such stockholders will continue to hold that number of shares exceeding 15% and, in order to dispose of such shares, would be required to do so in open market transactions, potentially at a loss.

However, BowX's stockholders' ability to vote all of their public stock (including such excess shares) for or against the BCA Proposal will be limited by this limitation on redemption.

There is uncertainty regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the redemption to the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock who exercise their redemption rights.

There is uncertainty regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences to holders of BowX Class A Common Stock who exercise their redemption rights. The uncertainty of tax consequences relates primarily to the individual circumstances of the taxpayer and includes (i) whether the redemption is treated as a distribution from BowX, which would be taxable in the same manner that distributions are taxed, or as a sale taxable as capital gain or loss, and (ii) whether capital gain is “long-term” or “short-term.” Whether the redemption qualifies for sale treatment in taxation as capital gain or loss, will depend largely on whether the holder owns (or is deemed to own) any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock following the redemption, and if so, the total number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held by the holder both before and after the redemption relative to all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding both before and after the redemption. The redemption generally will not qualify for sale treatment if the redemption (i) is “substantially disproportionate” with respect to the holder, (ii) results in a “conversion” of the holder’s interest in BowX or (iii) is “not essentially equivalent to a dividend” with respect to the holder. Due to the personal nature of such tests and the absence of clear guidance from the IRS, there is uncertainty as to whether a holder who elects to exercise its redemption rights will be taxed on any proceeds from the redemption as a distribution potentially giving rise to dividend income or sale proceeds treated as capital gains.

section entitled “Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations for Stockholders Exercising Redemption Rights.”

Risks if the Adjournment Proposal is Not Approved

If the Adjournment Proposal is not approved, and an insufficient number of votes have been obtained to authorize the consummation of the Business Combination, and BowX’s presiding officer does not adjourn the special meeting to a later date in order to solicit further votes, the Business Combination will not be approved, and, therefore, the Business Combination may not be consummated.

BowX’s board of directors is seeking approval to adjourn the special meeting to a later date or dates if, at the special meeting, the tabulated votes, there are insufficient votes to approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals. If the Adjournment Proposal is not approved, the BowX board of directors will not have the ability to adjourn the special meeting to a later date and, if the BowX presiding officer does not adjourn the special meeting to a later date in order to solicit further votes, will not have more time to solicit votes to approve the Condition Precedent Proposals. In such events, the Business Combination would not be completed.

Risks if the Business Combination is not Consummated

You will not have any rights or interests in funds from the trust account, except under certain limited circumstances. To liquidate your investment, you may be forced to sell your public stock and/or public warrants, potentially at a loss.

BowX’s public stockholders will be entitled to receive funds from the trust account only upon the earliest to occur of: (a) the consummation of the Business Combination, and then only in connection with those shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that such stockholder properly submitted in connection with the Business Combination for redemption, subject to the limitations described herein, (b) the redemption of any public stock properly submitted in connection with a special meeting of stockholders to amend the Existing Charter (i) to modify the substance or timing of BowX’s obligation to allow redemption in connection with the consummation of the Business Combination or certain amendments to the Existing Charter or to redeem 100% of BowX’s public stock if BowX does not complete the Business Combination within 24 months from the closing of the initial public offering or (ii) with respect to any other provisions relating to stockholders or activity prior to the Business Combination and (c) the redemption of BowX’s public stock if BowX has not completed an initial public offering within 24 months from the closing of the initial public offering, subject to applicable law. In no other circumstances will a public stockholder have any right or interest of any kind in the trust account. Holders of public warrants and private placement warrants will not have any right to withdraw from the trust account with respect to such warrants. Accordingly, to liquidate your investment, you may be forced to sell your public stock and/or public warrants, potentially at a loss.

If BowX is not able to complete the Business Combination with WeWork by August 7, 2022, nor able to complete another business combination by such date, in each case, as such date may be further extended pursuant to the Organizational Documents, it would cease all operations except those necessary for the purpose of winding up and BowX would redeem BowX's public stock and liquidate, in which case BowX's public stockholders may only receive $10.00 per share, or less than such amount in certain circumstances, and any public warrants or private placement warrants will expire worthless.

BowX's ability to complete the Business Combination or another initial business combination may be negatively impacted by market conditions, volatility in the capital and debt markets and the other risks described herein, including as a result of terrorist attacks, natural disasters, significant outbreak of infectious diseases. For example, the outbreak of COVID-19 continues in the U.S. and, while the extent of the current outbreak on BowX will depend on future developments, it could limit our ability to complete the Business Combination, including increased market volatility, decreased market liquidity and third-party financing being unavailable on terms acceptable to us.

If BowX is not able to complete the Business Combination with WeWork by August 7, 2022, nor able to complete another business combination by such date, in each case, as such date may be extended pursuant to BowX's Organizational Documents, BowX will: (i) cease all operations except those necessary for the purpose of winding up; (ii) as promptly as reasonably possible but not more than ten business days thereafter, redeem the public stock held by BowX's stockholders at a price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to us to pay BowX's taxes (less up to $100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses), divided by the number of outstanding shares of public stock, which redemption will completely extinguish public stockholders' rights as stockholders (including the right to receive further liquidating distributions, if any); and (iii) as promptly as reasonably possible following such redemption, subject to BowX's remaining stockholders and BowX's board of directors, dissolve and liquidate, subject in the case of clauses (i) and (ii) to BowX's obligation under the DGCL to provide for claims of creditors and the requirements of other applicable law. In such case, public stockholders will receive $10.00 per share, and any public warrants or private placement warrants will expire worthless. In certain circumstances, public stockholders will receive less than $10.00 per share on the redemption of their shares.

If the net proceeds of the initial public offering and the sale of the private placement warrants not being held in the trust account are insufficient to cover our operating expenses for at least the 24 months following the closing of the initial public offering, BowX may be unable to complete another business combination, in which case BowX's public stockholders may only receive $10.00 per share, or less than such amount in certain circumstances. BowX's warrants will expire worthless.

As of June 30, 2021, BowX had cash of approximately $0.5 million held outside the trust account, which is available for use to cover costs associated with identifying a target business and negotiating a business combination and other general corporate uses. In addition, as of December 31, 2021, BowX had total current liabilities of approximately $3.7 million.

The funds available to BowX outside of the trust account may not be sufficient to allow BowX to operate until August 7, 2022. If the Business Combination or another similar transaction is not completed during that time. Of the funds available to it, BowX could use such funds available to pay fees to consultants to assist us with our search for a target business. BowX could also use a portion of the funds for payment or to fund a "no-shop" provision (a provision in letters of intent designed to keep target businesses from "shopping" around with other companies on terms more favorable to such target businesses) with respect to a particular proposed business combination. BowX does not have any current intention to do so. If BowX entered into a letter of intent where it paid for the right to receive exclusivity from a target business and was subsequently required to forfeit such funds (whether as a result of its breach or otherwise), BowX might not have the resources to continue searching for, or conduct due diligence with respect to, a target business.

If BowX is required to seek additional capital, it would need to borrow funds from Sponsor, members of its management team or parties to operate or may be forced to liquidate. Neither the members of its management team nor any of their affiliates is under any financial obligation to advance funds to BowX in such circumstances. Any such advances would be repaid only from funds held outside the trust account released to us upon completion of its initial business combination. If BowX is unable to obtain additional financing, we may be unable to complete its initial business combination. If BowX is unable to complete its initial business combination because it does not have sufficient funds, BowX will be forced to cease operations and liquidate the trust account. Consequently, BowX's public stockholders may only receive approximately one share on its redemption of the shares of public stock and the public warrants will expire worthless.

If, after BowX distributes the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or a winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, a bankruptcy court may seek to recover such proceeds, and our board of directors may be exposed to claims of punitive damages.

If, after BowX distributes the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or an involuntary winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, any distributions received by stockholders could be set aside by an applicable debtor/creditor and/or insolvency laws as a voidable transfer. As a result, a liquidator could seek to recover all amounts paid to stockholders. In addition, its board of directors may be viewed as having breached its fiduciary duty to our creditors or having acted in bad faith, exposing it and BowX to claims of punitive damages, by paying public stockholders from the trust account prior to addressing the claim. BowX cannot assure you that claims will not be brought against it for these reasons.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or a winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, the claims of creditors in such proceeding may have priority over the claims of our stockholders and the per share amount that would otherwise be received by our stockholders in connection with our liquidation.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or an involuntary winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, the proceeds held in the trust account could be set aside by an applicable insolvency law, and may be included in its estate and subject to the claims of third parties with priority over the claims of stockholders. To the extent any claims deplete the trust account, the per share amount that would otherwise be received by BowX stockholders in connection with the liquidation may be reduced.

If BowX fails to consummate an initial business combination, BowX's stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against them to the extent of distributions received by them upon redemption of their shares.

Under the DGCL, stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against a corporation to the extent of distributions received by them in a dissolution. The pro rata portion of the trust account distributed to the public stockholders upon the redemption of the shares of BowX in the event BowX does not complete an initial business combination within the allotted time period may be considered a liquidating distribution under Delaware law. If a corporation complies with certain procedures set forth in Section 280 of the DGCL intended to ensure that it makes a provision for all claims against it, including a 60-day notice period during which any third-party claims can be brought against the corporation, a 30-day period during which the corporation may reject any claims brought, and an additional 150-day waiting period before any liquidating distribution is made to stockholders, any liability of stockholders with respect to a liquidating distribution is limited to the lesser of such stockholder's pro rata share of the claim or the amount distributed to the stockholder, and any liability of the stockholder would be barred after the third anniversary of the date of the initial public offering (or the end of any extension period) in the event BowX do not complete BowX's initial business combination. However, it is BowX's intention to redeem BowX's shares of public stock as soon as reasonably possible following the 24th month following the initial public offering (or the end of any extension period) in the event BowX do not complete BowX's initial business combination. BowX do not intend to comply with the foregoing procedures.

Because BowX will not be complying with Section 280, Section 281(b) of the DGCL requires it to adopt a plan, based on facts known at such time that will provide for BowX’s payment of all existing and pending claims or claims that may be potentially brought against BowX three years following BowX’s dissolution. However, because BowX is a blank check company, rather than an operating company, and BowX is limited to searching for prospective target businesses to acquire, the only likely claims to arise would be from BowX’s vendors (such as investment bankers, etc.) or prospective target businesses. If BowX’s plan of distribution complies with Section 281(b) of the DGCL, stockholders with respect to a liquidating distribution is limited to the lesser of such stockholder’s pro rata share of the claim or the amount of the claim. Any liability of the stockholder would likely be barred after the third anniversary of the dissolution. BowX cannot assess all claims that may be potentially brought against BowX. As such, BowX’s stockholders could potentially be liable for claims to the extent of distributions received by them (but no more) and any liability of BowX’s stockholders may extend beyond the third anniversary of the dissolution. Furthermore, if the pro rata portion of BowX’s trust account distributed to BowX’s public stockholders upon the redemption of such date. Public stock in the event BowX does not complete BowX’s initial business combination within the allotted time period is not considered a distribution under Delaware law and such redemption distribution is deemed to be unlawful, then pursuant to Section 174 of the DGCL, the limitations for claims of creditors could then be six years after the unlawful redemption distribution, instead of three years, as in the case of a distribution.

You may not have the same benefits as an investor in an underwritten public offering.

New WeWork will become a publicly listed company upon the completion of the Business Combination. The Business Combination transactions described in this proxy statement/prospectus are not an underwritten initial public offering of New WeWork’s securities. Compared to an underwritten initial public offering in several significant ways, which include, but are not limited to, the following:

Like other business combinations and spin-offs, in connection with the Business Combination, you will not receive the benefits typically provided by the underwriters in an underwritten public offering. Investors in an underwritten public offering may benefit from the services of underwriters in such an offering. In an underwritten public offering, an issuer initially sells its securities to the public market via underwriters, who distribute or resell such securities to the public. Underwriters have liability under the U.S. securities laws for material misstatements or omissions in a registration statement pursuant to which an issuer sells securities. Because the underwriters have a “due diligence” obligation to the issuer by, among other things, conducting a reasonable investigation, the underwriters and their counsel conduct a due diligence investigation of the issuer. Due diligence entails engaging legal, financial and/or other experts to perform an investigation as to the accuracy of an issuer’s representations regarding, among other things, its business and financial results. Auditors of the issuer will also deliver a “comfort” letter with respect to the information contained in the registration statement. In making their investment decision, investors have the benefit of such diligences in underwritten offerings. In contrast, BowX and WeWork have each engaged a financial advisor (rather than underwriters) in connection with the Business Combination. While such financial advisors or their respective affiliates may act as underwriters in underwritten public offerings, the role of the advisor differs from that of an underwriter. For example, financial advisors do not act as intermediaries in the sale of securities and therefore do not bear the same potential liability under the U.S. securities laws as underwriters. As a result, financial advisors typically do not undertake the responsibility of any, due diligence investigation of the issuer as is typically undertaken by underwriters.

In addition, because there are no underwriters engaged in connection with the Business Combination, prior to the opening of trading on the NYSE on the trading day immediately following the closing, there will be no book building process and no price at which underwriters initially offer the public to help inform efficient and sufficient price discovery with respect to the initial post-closing trades on the NYSE. Therefore, investors will not be able to place orders submitted prior to and at the opening of initial post-closing trading of the New WeWork Common Stock on Nasdaq without being informed by a published price range or a price at which the underwriters initially offered the stock.

sold shares to the public, as would be the case in an underwritten initial public offering. There will be no underwriters assuming risk of an initial resale of shares of the New WeWork Common Stock or helping to stabilize, maintain or affect the public price of the New WeWork Common Stock following the closing. Moreover, we will not engage in, and have not and will not, directly or indirectly, request the financial advisor to conduct, in any special selling efforts or stabilization or price support activities in connection with the New WeWork Common Stock that would occur immediately following the closing. All of these differences from an underwritten public offering of WeWork’s securities could result in a more volatile price for the New WeWork Common Stock.

Further, we will not conduct a traditional “roadshow” with underwriters prior to the opening of initial post-closing trading of the New WeWork Common Stock on the NYSE. There can be no guarantee that any information made available in this proxy statement/prospectus and any documents disclosed or filed with the SEC will have the same impact on investor education as a traditional “roadshow” conducted in connection with an underwritten initial public offering. As a result, there may not be efficient or sufficient price discovery with respect to the New WeWork Common Stock or sufficient demand among potential investors immediately after the closing, which could result in a more volatile price for the New WeWork Common Stock.

In addition, our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, as well as their respective affiliates and permitted transferees, have interests in the Business Combination that are different from or are in addition to our shareholders and that would not be present in an underwritten public offering of WeWork’s securities. Such interests may have influenced our board of directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the Business Combination Proposal and the other proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Such differences from an underwritten public offering may present material risks to unaffiliated investors that would not exist if the merger were completed by a publicly listed company through an underwritten initial public offering instead of upon completion of the merger.

In addition, in connection with the special meeting, we are also providing you with our Annual Report on Form 10-K, as amended, for the year ended [REDACTED] 2020.

Date, Time and Place

The special meeting will be held on [REDACTED], 2021, at [REDACTED], Eastern Time, or via live webcast at <https://www.cstpc.com>, bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021, or such other date, time and place to which such meeting may be adjourned or virtually postponed, to consider and vote upon the proposals.

Purpose of the BowX Special Meeting

- The BCA Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination;
- The Organizational Documents Proposals — to consider and vote upon the following four separate proposals to amend the Company's Organizational Documents:

Organizational Documents Proposal A — to authorize the change in the authorized capital stock of BowX from 87,500,000 shares of Class A Common Stock, 12,500,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock, and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.01 per share, to 1,500,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock; (b) 25,041,666 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock; and 100,000,000 shares of New WeWork Preferred Stock. Further, to authorize the New WeWork Class C Common Stock as a non-voting class of stock without rights to dividends or on liquidation;

- Organizational Documents Proposal B — with respect to any vote or election submitted to the holders of shares of New WeWork:
- approval, to restrict the SoftBank Holders (as defined herein), for a period of at least two years, from exercising voting rights over 10% of the voting securities present (virtually or by proxy) and voting at any such meeting of the stockholders;

- Organizational Documents Proposal C — to provide for only one class of board directors and direct that board vacancies be filled by the directors then in office, unless specified otherwise in the Stockholders Agreement or Proposed Bylaws (each, as defined below).

- Organizational Documents Proposal D — to approve and adopt the additional changes in the Proposed Charter, including changing the name of the company from "BowX Acquisition Corp." to "WeWork Inc.," which our board of directors believes are necessary to adequately address the needs of WeWork immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination and approval of the Proposed Charter.

- The Director Election Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to elect, effective at Closing, assuming the BCA Proposal is approved, nine directors who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be members of the board of directors of New WeWork;

- The Stock Issuance Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt, for purposes of complying with applicable Nasdaq rules, the issuance of up to 10,000,000 shares of common stock of New WeWork;

Table of Contents

- issuance of (a) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) shares of Common Stock to the WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement;
- The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the 2021 Plan;
 - The ESPP Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the ESPP; and
- The Adjournment Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date if necessary, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies in the event that there are insufficient votes for the approval of one or more of the proposals.

If BowX’s stockholders do not approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals, then unless certain conditions in the Merger Agreement are waived by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement could terminate and the Business Combination would not be consummated. The applicable parties to the Merger Agreement would not be able to waive Organizational Documents Proposals to complete the Merger on the terms contemplated by the Merger Agreement because there will not be a sufficient number of authorized shares of BowX to issue the shares required to be issued in the Merger if Organizational Documents Proposal A is not approved. See “BCA Proposal,” “Organizational Documents Proposals,” “Director Election Proposal,” “Stock Issuance Proposal,” “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal” and “Adjournment Proposal.”

Recommendation of BowX Board of Directors

BowX’s board of directors believes that the BCA Proposal and the other proposals to be presented at the special meeting are in the best interests of BowX’s stockholders and unanimously recommends that its stockholders vote “FOR” the BCA Proposal, “FOR” each of the separate Organizational Documents Proposals, “FOR” the Director Election Proposal, “FOR” the Stock Issuance Proposal, “FOR” the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, “FOR” the ESPP Proposal and “FOR” the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of the director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is in his, her or their own best interests in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers and employees may have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

Record Date; Who is Entitled to Vote

BowX stockholders will be entitled to vote or direct votes to be cast at the special meeting if they owned BowX Common Stock as of business on [REDACTED], 2021, which is the “record date” for the special meeting. Stockholders will have one vote for each share of BowX Common Stock owned at the close of business on the record date. If your stock is held in “street name” or are in a margin or similar account, you should contact your broker to ensure that votes related to the stock you beneficially own are properly counted. Warrants do not have voting rights. As of business on the record date, there were 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock they beneficially own in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased in a public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock.

Quorum

A quorum of BowX stockholders is necessary to hold a valid meeting. A quorum will be present at the special meeting if the holders of the issued and outstanding BowX Common Stock entitled to vote at the special meeting are attending virtually or by proxy. As of the close of the special meeting, 30,187,501 shares of BowX Common Stock would be required to achieve a quorum.

Abstentions and Broker Non-Votes

Proxies that are marked “abstain” and proxies relating to “street name” shares that are returned to BowX but marked by brokers will be treated as shares present for purposes of determining the presence of a quorum on all matters. Under the rules of various national securities exchanges, your broker, bank, or nominee cannot vote your shares with respect to non-discretionary matters unless you provide instructions to your broker, bank, or nominee on how to vote in accordance with the information and procedures provided to you by your broker, bank, or nominee. We believe all shares presented to the stockholders will be considered non-discretionary and therefore your broker, bank, or nominee cannot vote your shares without your instruction.

If you do not provide voting instructions to your broker on a particular proposal on which your broker does not have discretionary power to vote, your shares will not be voted on that proposal. This is called a “broker non-vote.” Broker non-votes, while considered present for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present, will not count as votes cast at the special meeting, will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposals and will have no effect on any of the other proposals.

At the special meeting of stockholders, BowX will count a properly executed proxy marked “ABSTAIN” with respect to a particular proposal as a vote against any proposal, except that an abstention will have no effect on the Director Election Proposal, Stock Issuance Proposal, Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote. The Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date. The BCA Proposal and Adjournment Proposal require the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote at the special meeting. The Stock Issuance Proposal, Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and ESPP Proposal require the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote and who vote the proposal at the special meeting. The approval of the election of each director nominee pursuant to the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a plurality of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and voted at the special meeting. Because the Director Election Proposal is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving a plurality of the votes cast.

Voting Your Shares

Each share of BowX Common Stock that you own in your name entitles you to one vote. Your proxy card shows the number of shares of BowX Common Stock that you own. If your shares are held in “street name” or are in a margin or similar account, you should contact your broker or bank to determine how many shares that votes related to the shares you beneficially own are properly counted.

There are two ways to vote your shares of BowX Common Stock at the special meeting:

- You can vote by signing and returning the enclosed proxy card. If you vote by proxy card, your “proxy,” whose name is listed on the proxy card, will vote your shares as you instruct on the proxy card. If you sign and return the proxy card but do not give instructions on how to vote, shares will be voted as recommended by BowX's board "FOR" the BCA Proposal, "FOR" each of the separate Organizational Document Proposals, "FOR" the Director Election Proposal, "FOR" the Stock Issuance Proposal, "FOR" the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, "FOR" the Business Combination Proposal, and "FOR" the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting. Votes received after a matter has been voted upon at the special meeting will not be counted.

- You can attend the special meeting and vote virtually. You will receive a ballot when you arrive. However, if your shares are held by:
- broker, bank or another nominee, you must get a valid legal proxy from the broker, bank or other nominee. That is the only way to ensure that the broker, bank or nominee has not already voted your shares.

Revoking Your Proxy

If you are a BowX stockholder and you give a proxy, you may revoke it at any time before it is exercised by doing any one of the following:

- you may send another proxy card with a later date;
- you may notify BowX's Secretary in writing before the special meeting that you have revoked your proxy; or
- you may attend the special meeting online, revoke your proxy, and vote virtually, as indicated above.

Who Can Answer Your Questions About Voting Your Shares

If you are a stockholder and have any questions about how to vote or direct a vote in respect of your BowX Common Stock, you may contact BowX's proxy solicitor, BowX Investor Relations, at 230-658-9400, or via email at bowx.info@investor.morrowsodali.com.

Redemption Rights

Pursuant to our Existing Charter, a holder of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock originally sold in our initial public offering, or part of the units issued in our initial public offering, may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of such holder's BowX Class A Common Stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated. As a holder of BowX Class A Common Stock, you will be entitled to request the redemption of such shares to be redeemed only if you:

- (i) (a) hold BowX Class A Common Stock, or (b) if you hold BowX Class A Common Stock through units, you elect to separate your underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the BowX Class A Common Stock;
- (ii) submit a written request to Continental, BowX's transfer agent, that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash;
- (iii) deliver your public stock to Continental, physically or electronically through DTC.

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their BowX Class A Common Stock in the manner described below by 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on [REDACTED], 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their shares to be redeemed.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to the special meeting. Holders of BowX Class A Common Stock must exercise their redemption rights with respect to the BowX Class A Common Stock. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm, they must notify their broker or bank that they elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental, BowX's transfer agent.

BowX's transfer agent, directly and instruct them to do so. Public stockholders may elect to redeem BowX Class A Common Stock if or how they vote with respect to the BCA Proposal. If the Business Combination is not consummated, the public stock will be held by the respective holder, broker or bank.

If the Business Combination is consummated, and if a public stockholder properly exercises its right to redeem all or a portion of its Class A Common Stock that it holds and timely delivers its shares to Continental, BowX's transfer agent, New WeWork will redeem such Class A Common Stock for a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the pro rata portion of the trust account established at the consummation of the Business Combination, plus interest thereon from the date of the public offering (the "trust account"), calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. For purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. If a public stockholder exercises its redemption rights in full, then it will be electing to exchange its BowX Class A Common Stock for cash and will no longer own BowX Class A Common Stock. The redemption takes place following the Business Combination. Accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock that will be redeemed promptly after consummation of the Business Combination. See the section entitled "Special Meeting of BowX—Redemption Rights" in this proxy statement/prospectus for a detailed description of the process to be followed if you wish to redeem your shares of public stock for cash.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, a public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person or persons acting in concert with such public stockholder or as a "group" (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Exchange Act), will be restricted from redeeming more than 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, without the consent of BowX.

Class A Common Stock with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, without the consent of BowX. Accordingly, if a public stockholder, alone or acting in concert or as a group, seeks to redeem more than 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, any such shares in excess of that 15% limit would not be redeemed for cash.

Sponsor and Sponsor Persons have agreed to, among other things, vote in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transaction contemplated thereby, and to waive their redemption rights in connection with the consummation of the Business Combination with respect to any BowX Class A Common Stock held by them, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement. As a result of the Sponsor Support Agreement agreed to, among other things, vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

The BowX Common Stock held by the Sponsor will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per-share redemption price. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, the Sponsor owns approximately 13% of the issued and outstanding BowX Class A Common Stock.

Holders of the warrants will not have redemption rights with respect to the warrants.

The closing price of public stock on [REDACTED], 2021, the most recent practicable date prior to the date of this proxy statement, was $[REDACTED]. As of [REDACTED], 2021, funds in the trust account totaled $[REDACTED] and were comprised entirely of U.S. government treasury obligations, with a maturity of 185 days or less or of money market funds meeting certain conditions under Rule 2a-7 under the Investment Company Act of 1940, which permits investment only in direct U.S. government treasury obligations, or approximately $10.00 per issued and outstanding share of public stock.

Prior to exercising redemption rights, public stockholders should verify the market price of the public stock as they may receive from the sale of their public stock in the public market than from exercising their redemption rights if the market price per share is higher than the redemption price stated above, as there may not be sufficient liquidity in its securities when its stockholders attempt to sell their stock.

Appraisal Rights

Neither BowX's stockholders nor BowX's warrant holders have appraisal rights in connection with the Business Combination.

Proxy Solicitation Costs

BowX will pay the cost of soliciting proxies for the special meeting. BowX has engaged Morrow to assist in the solicitation of special meeting. BowX has agreed to pay Morrow a fee of $37,500, plus disbursements (to be paid with non-trust account funds). reimburse banks, brokers and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries representing beneficial owners of BowX Class A Common Stock expenses in forwarding soliciting materials to beneficial owners of BowX Class A Common Stock and in obtaining voting instructions from owners. BowX's directors and officers may also solicit proxies by telephone, by facsimile, by mail, on the Internet or in person. There are no additional amounts for soliciting proxies.

BowX Initial Stockholders

As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, there are 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding. In addition, there currently are 23,873,333 warrants issued and outstanding of 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants. Each whole warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one share of Class A Common Stock at a price of $11.50 per share. The warrants will become exercisable 30 days after the completion of a business combination and expire at 5:00 p.m., New York City time, five years after the completion of a business combination or earlier upon redemption or conversion. Private placement warrants, however, are non-redeemable so long as they are held by their initial purchasers or their permitted transferees.

At any time at or prior to the Business Combination, subject to applicable securities laws (including with respect to material non-public information), the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors or representatives may:

- (i) purchase shares of public stock from institutional and other investors who vote, or indicate an intention to vote, against any of the Condition Precedent Proposals, or elect to redeem, or indicate an intention to redeem, shares of public stock, (ii) execute agreements to purchase shares of public stock from such investors in the future, or (iii) enter into transactions with such investors and others to provide them with incentives to acquire shares of public stock, vote their shares of public stock in favor of the Condition Precedent Proposals or not redeem their shares of public stock. Such arrangements would include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of BowX's shares, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event that the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors, or respective affiliates purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares. The purpose of such share purchases and other transactions would be to increase the likelihood of (1) satisfaction of the votes required for the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Compensation Plan Proposal, the ESPP Proposal and the Adjournment Proposal, (2) satisfaction of the Minimum Available Cash Condition, (3) otherwise increasing the number of shares of public stock electing to redeem and (4) BowX's net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a-9 of the Exchange Act) being at least $5,000,001. Entering into any such arrangements may have a depressive effect on the BowX Common Stock price, giving an investor or holder the ability to effectively purchase shares at a price lower than market, such investor or holder may therefore be more likely to sell the shares he or she owns, either at or prior to the Business Combination).

If such transactions are effected, the consequence could be to cause the Business Combination to be consummated in circumstances where the consummation could not otherwise occur. Purchases of shares by the persons described above would allow them to exert more influence over the outcome of the vote on the proposals to be presented at the special meeting and would likely increase the chances that such proposals would be approved. The persons described above may file or submit a Current Report on Form 8-K to disclose any material arrangements entered into or significant purchases made by the aforementioned persons that would affect the vote on the proposals to be put to the special meeting or the redemption threshold. An amendment to the proxy statement will include descriptions of any arrangements entered into or significant purchases by any of the aforementioned persons.

BCA PROPOSAL

BowX is asking its stockholders to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement. BowX stockholders should read carefully this prospectus in its entirety for more detailed information concerning the Merger Agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this proxy statement/prospectus. Please see the section entitled “The Merger Agreement” below for additional information and a summary of certain key provisions of the Merger Agreement. You are urged to read carefully the Merger Agreement in its entirety before voting on this proposal.

Because BowX is holding a stockholder vote on the First Merger, BowX may consummate the First Merger only if it is approved by the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of shares of BowX Common Stock that are entitled to vote at the special meeting.

The Merger Agreement

This subsection of the proxy statement/prospectus describes the material provisions of the Merger Agreement, but does not purport to be a complete description of all of the terms of the Merger Agreement. The following summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the complete text of the Merger Agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this proxy statement/prospectus. You are urged to read the Merger Agreement in its entirety as the primary legal document that governs the Business Combination.

The Merger Agreement contains representations, warranties and covenants that the respective parties made to each other as of the date of the Merger Agreement or other specific dates. The assertions embodied in those representations, warranties and covenants were made for the purpose of establishing a binding contract among the respective parties and are subject to important qualifications and limitations agreed to by the parties in connection with the Merger Agreement. The representations, warranties and covenants in the Merger Agreement are also modified in part by the unaudited financial statements and disclosure letters (the “disclosure letters”), which are not filed publicly and which are subject to a contractual standard of materiality different from that applicable to stockholders and were used for the purpose of allocating risk among the parties rather than establishing matters as of a specific date. We believe that the disclosure letters contain information that is material to an investment decision. Additionally, the representations and warranties made by the parties to the Merger Agreement may or may not have been accurate as of any specific date and do not purport to be accurate as of any date later than the date of this proxy statement/prospectus. Accordingly, no person should rely on the representations and warranties in the Merger Agreement or any other document incorporated by reference therein or in this proxy statement/prospectus as characterizations of the actual state of facts about BowX, WeWork or any other party to the Merger Agreement.

Structure of the Mergers

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which, among other things, Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and WeWork will be the surviving wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “First Merger”). Pursuant to and in accordance with the terms of a separate agreement and plan of merger entered into by BowX, the surviving corporation of the First Merger and Merger Sub II, as soon as practicable following the First Merger, will enter into the same overall transaction as the First Merger, the surviving corporation will merge with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II becoming the surviving entity of such merger (the “Second Merger” and together with the First Merger, the “Mergers”). In connection with the Mergers, WeWork will change its name to WeWork Inc. (“New WeWork”).

Closing and Effective Time

In accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement, the closing of the First Merger (the “Closing”) will occur on the date which is two (2) Business Days after the first date on which all conditions set forth in Article IX of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived (other than those conditions that by their terms are to be satisfied at the Closing, but subject to the satisfaction or waiver thereof) or such other time as and WeWork may mutually agree to in writing. The date on which the Closing actually occurs is referred to in the Merger Agreement as “Date.” The date and time the First Merger becomes effective is referred to as the “Effective Time.”

Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities

Aggregate Merger Consideration

As a result of the First Merger and upon the Effective Time, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Effective Time of the First Merger (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive Aggregate Merger Consideration. An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a per share price) at the Closing by certain third-party investors (collectively, the “PIPE Investors”), for a total aggregate purchase price of $800 million (“PIPE Investment”). The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX’s trust account as of immediately prior to the Effective Time of the First Merger, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing.

Treatment of WeWork Class C Common Stock

As a result of the First Merger and upon the Effective Time, among other things, each holder of shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock immediately prior to the Effective Time (other than (x) Treasury Shares and (y) Dissenting Shares) will be entitled to receive a number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock equal to (i) the Exchange Ratio multiplied by (ii) the number of shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock held by such holder as of immediately prior to the Effective Time, with fractional shares rounded down to the nearest whole share.

Subject to the terms of the Merger Agreement, each New WeWork Option will relate to the number of whole shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to (i) the number of shares of WeWork Common Stock subject to the New WeWork Option multiplied by (ii) the Exchange Ratio. The exercise price per share for each New WeWork Option (rounded up to the nearest cent) will equal (i) the exercise price per share of the applicable WeWork Option in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time.

Effective Time divided by (ii) the Exchange Ratio. Subject to the terms of the Merger Agreement, each New WeWork RSU and New Stock Award will relate to the number of whole shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (with any fractional shares rounded whole share) equal to (i) the number of shares of WeWork Common Stock subject to the applicable WeWork RSU or WeWork Restr respectively, as of immediately prior to the Effective Time multiplied by (ii) the Exchange Ratio. For purposes of any WeWork Stock liquidity vesting condition, WeWork will be permitted to treat the occurrence of the Effective Time as an initial public offering under such award for purposes of the vesting of such award.

WeWork is required to take all necessary actions to effect the treatment of WeWork Options, WeWork Restricted Stock Awards discussed above, in accordance with the WeWork Incentive Plans and the applicable award agreements and to ensure that no New WeWork Awards will be exercisable prior to the effective date of an applicable Form S-8 (or other applicable form, including Form S-1, Form S-3 or S-4).

WeWork (which will be made effective as soon as reasonably practicable following the Effective Time). The board of directors of authorized committee thereof) is required to amend the WeWork Incentive Plans and take all other necessary actions, effective as of immediately prior to the Closing, in order to (i) cancel the remaining unallocated share reserve under the WeWork Incentive Plans and provide that shares of WeWork Awards that for any reason become re-eligible for future issuance, will be cancelled, and (ii) provide that no new WeWork Awards will be granted under the WeWork Incentive Plans following the Effective Time. In connection with the adjustments discussed above, the board of directors of the Company (or an authorized committee thereof) may also equitably adjust the share price vesting metrics set forth in WeWork Options, WeWork Restricted Stock Awards and WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards.

Treatment of WeWork Warrants

In accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive cash upon conversion of the WeWork Warrants into shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such WeWork Warrants prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrant multiplied by (ii) the Exchange Ratio, and (iii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share being determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent).

Treatment of WeWork Series C Convertible Note

At the Effective Time, if the WeWork Series C Convertible Note is then outstanding, it will be cancelled and automatically converted into a whole number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to (i) the number of shares of WeWork Series C Preferred Stock issuable upon conversion of the WeWork Series C Convertible Note if the WeWork Series C Convertible Note has been converted immediately prior to the Effective Time, multiplied by (ii) the Exchange Ratio.

Treatment of Treasury Stock

Any shares of WeWork Capital Stock held in the treasury of the WeWork will be canceled as part of the First Merger and shall be referred to as “Company Capital Stock” under the Merger Agreement (such shares, hereinafter, the “Treasury Shares”).

Treatment of Dissenting Shares

Shares of WeWork Capital Stock issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time and held by a holder who has not consented to the adoption of the Merger Agreement or consented thereto in writing and who is entitled to demand and has properly exercised appraisal rights of such shares in accordance with Section 262 of the DGCL (WeWork Capital Stock being referred to collectively as the “Dissenting Shares” until such time as such holder fails to perfect or otherwise withdraws, or loses such holder’s appraisal rights under the DGCL with respect to such shares) will not be converted into a right to receive the Aggregate Merger Consideration, but will instead only be entitled to such rights as are granted by Section 262 of the DGCL; provided that, after the Effective Time, such holder fails to perfect, waives, withdraws, or loses such holder’s right to appraisal pursuant to Section 262 of the DGCL, or if a court of competent jurisdiction will determine that such holder is not entitled to the relief provided by Section 262 of the DGCL, such shares of WeWork Capital Stock will be treated as if they had been converted as of the Effective Time into the right to receive the Aggregate Merger Consideration without interest thereon, upon transfer of such shares. WeWork is required to provide BowX prompt written notice received by WeWork for appraisal of shares of WeWork Capital Stock, any waiver or withdrawal of any such demand, and any other instrument delivered to WeWork prior to the Effective Time that relates to such demand. Except with the prior written consent of BowX (which shall not be unreasonably conditioned, withheld, delayed or denied), WeWork shall not make any payment with respect to, or settle any such demands.

Representations and Warranties

Survival of Representations and Warranties

Except in the case of claims against a person in respect of such person's actual fraud, the representations and warranties of the parties to the Merger Agreement generally will not survive the Closing.

Material Adverse Effect

Under the Merger Agreement, certain representations and warranties of WeWork are qualified in whole or in part by a material adverse effect standard for purposes of determining whether a breach of such representations and warranties has occurred. Under the Merger Agreement, representations and warranties of BowX are qualified in whole or in part by a material adverse effect on the ability of BowX to enter into its obligations under the Merger Agreement standard for purposes of determining whether a breach of such representations and warranties has occurred.

Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, a material adverse effect with respect to WeWork ("WeWork Material Adverse Effect") means one or more facts, development, circumstance, occurrence or effect (collectively, "Events") that (i) has had, or would reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a material adverse effect on the business, assets, results of operations or financial condition of WeWork and its subsidiaries as a whole or (ii) does or would reasonably be expected to, individually or in the aggregate, prevent the ability of WeWork to consummate the Merger.

However, in the case of the foregoing clause (i), in no event would any of the following, alone or in combination, be deemed to be taken into account in determining whether there has been or will be, a WeWork Material Adverse Effect:

- (a) any change in applicable laws or GAAP or any interpretation thereof following the date of the Merger Agreement;
- (b) any change in interest rates or economic, political, business or financial market conditions generally;
- (c) the taking of any action required by the Merger Agreement (other than any action required to be taken pursuant to Section 3.1 of the Merger Agreement (see—Conduct of Business by WeWork, below));
- (d) any natural disaster (including hurricanes, storms, tornados, flooding, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions or similar occurrences (including COVID-19 and any COVID-19 measures) or change in climate);
- (e) any acts of terrorism or war, the outbreak or escalation of hostilities, geopolitical conditions, local, national or international political conditions;
- (f) any failure of WeWork to meet any projections or forecasts (provided that this clause will not prevent a determination that such failure is otherwise excluded from this definition of WeWork Material Adverse Effect underlying such failure to meet projections or forecasts (excluding WeWork Material Adverse Effect));
- (g) any events generally applicable to the industries or markets in which WeWork and its subsidiaries operate (including increased costs of products, supplies, materials or other goods purchased from third-party suppliers);
- (h) the announcement of the Merger Agreement and consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby, including any transaction (direct or derivative) in respect of the Merger Agreement or any of the companies involved in the Merger.

transactions contemplated hereby or any termination of, reduction in or similar adverse impact (but in each case only to the extent a announcement or consummation) on relationships, contractual or otherwise, with any landlords, customers, suppliers, distributors, partners of WeWork and its subsidiaries (it being understood that this clause will be disregarded for purposes of the representation and warranties of the Merger Agreement and the corresponding condition to Closing);

- (i) any action taken by, or at the request of, BowX or Merger Sub.

However, any Event referred to in clauses (a), (b), (d), (e) or (g) above may be taken into account in determining if a WeWork Effect has occurred to the extent it has a disproportionate and adverse effect on the business, assets, results of operations or financial position of WeWork and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, relative to similarly situated companies in the industry in which WeWork and its subsidiaries conduct their respective operations (which will include the real estate and coworking space industries generally), but only to the extent of a disproportionate effect on WeWork and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, relative to similarly situated companies in the industry in which WeWork and its subsidiaries conduct their respective operations.

In connection with the PIPE Investment, BowX engaged UBS and PJT Partners LP, a global advisory-based investment bank and co-placement agents. In connection with performing services as co-placement agents, UBS and PJT will receive fees and expense compensation customary for a PIPE transaction (subject to the terms and conditions of their engagement letters with BowX). PJT previously had been engaged by WeWork in connection with the proposed Business Combination, and will receive customary compensation in connection therewith. In connection with the PIPE investment, PJT did not provide any advice to BowX, including, but not limited to, regarding the valuation of WeWork or the proposed business combination with WeWork. BowX and WeWork each signed agreements with PJT acknowledging PJT’s role as both financial advisor to WeWork in connection with the proposed Business Combination and as co-placement agent to BowX in connection with the PIPE Investment. WeWork waived any purported conflicts in connection with such dual roles. In addition, UBS or PJT and their affiliates may provide investment banking services and other financial services to BowX, WeWork and their respective affiliates in the future, for which they would expect to receive customary compensation.

BowX is relying on the exemption under Section 4(a)(2) of the Securities Act for the issuance of the PIPE Shares to the PIPE Investors. Pursuant to the Subscription Agreement, each PIPE Investor represented and warranted that it is either a “qualified investor” or an “accredited investor” as defined in the applicable SEC regulations.

Lock-Up Agreement

In connection with the Business Combination, the Sponsor, certain of BowX’s officers and certain of WeWork’s officers and directors entered into the Lock-Up Agreements pursuant to which they agreed not to (a) sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any Lock-Up Shares, (b) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic ownership of any of such Lock-Up Shares, or (c) publicly announce any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (a) or (b) above during the applicable Lock-Up Period.

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, as a condition and inducement to BowX’s willingness to enter into the Merger Agreement simultaneously with the execution and delivery of the Merger Agreement, (i) the Specified Company Stockholders (as defined in the Merger Agreement) will have each executed and delivered to BowX a Specified Company Stockholder Lock-Up Agreement (as defined in the Merger Agreement) in which the Specified Company Stockholders have agreed, among other things, not to sell, transfer, convey or assign any BowX Common Stock after the one (1) year anniversary of the Closing Date and

The Merger Agreement also contemplates that as a condition and inducement to WeWork's willingness to enter into the Merger Agreement, simultaneously with the execution and delivery of the Stockholders Agreement, the Sponsor has executed and delivered to WeWork a Lock-Up Agreement, dated as of March 25, 2021, between the Sponsor and BowX, pursuant to which the Sponsor has agreed, among other things, not to transfer, convey or assign any shares of Founders' Common Stock (as defined therein) until after the one (1) year anniversary of the date of the Lock-Up Agreement ("Sponsor Lock-Up Agreement").

The Lock-Up Agreements shall automatically terminate upon the earlier to occur of the (i) the expiration of the applicable Lock-Up Agreement; or (ii) the termination of the Merger Agreement.

Credit Support Letter Agreement

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, the SoftBank Obligor, and BowX entered into a Credit Support Letter Agreement, which the SoftBank Obligor committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2024, at WeWork Companies LLC's option and subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Commitment Letter for Secured Notes

Concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the "Note Purchaser") executed with WeWork Companies LLC and BowX a letter agreement (the "Commitment Letter") regarding the SoftBank Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement, to provide for up to $550 million of 7.50% senior secured notes to be issued by WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser (the "Amended Senior Secured Notes"). The Amended Senior Secured Notes will be documented in an Amended and Restated Note Purchase Agreement (the "A&R NPA") by and among WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser. The Amended Senior Secured Notes will be issued under the A&R NPA upon the earlier to occur of (a) the date of the Closing and (b) August 12, 2021. The Amended Senior Secured Notes will mature on the earlier to occur of: (a) 18 months from the date of the Closing; or (b) February 12, 2023.

Stockholders Agreement

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, New WeWork, the Sponsor, SBWW, SVFE and certain other holders of New WeWork Common Stock will enter into a Stockholders Agreement (the "Stockholders Agreement," the form of which is attached to this prospectus as Annex G), pursuant to which, so long as such holders of New WeWork Common Stock continue to hold a specified percentage interest in New WeWork Common Stock, then such holder will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors the number of candidates to the board of directors specified in the Stockholders Agreement and described below. The Stockholders Agreement also sets forth the understanding of the initial composition of New WeWork's board, as follows:

- The authorized number of directors on the board of directors of New WeWork will be nine;
- Three directors will be designated by SBWW, who initially will be Michel Combes, Marcelo Claure and Véronique Laury, with Marcelo Claure serving as executive chairman of the board;
- One director will be designated by SVFE, who initially will be Kirthiga Reddy;

Table of Contents

- One director will be designated by Benchmark Capital Partners, who initially will be Bruce Dunlevie;
- One director will be designated by Insight Partners, who initially shall be Deven Parekh;
- One director will be designated by the Sponsor, who initially will be Vivek Ranadivé;
- The Chief Executive Officer of New WeWork, who initially shall be Sandeep Mathrani; and
- Jeff Sine.

With respect to designations by SBWW, the Stockholders Agreement further specifies that, while SBWW will have the right candidates for election to the board of directors for so long as SBWW and certain permitted transferees of SBWW hold 50% of the outstanding shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by SBWW as of the Closing, after such time, for so long as SBWW and certain permitted transferees of SBWW hold a number of shares representing at least the percentage of the combined outstanding shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and New WeWork Class C Common Stock as shown below, SBWW will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors a number of directors serving on the board of directors that, if elected, would result in SBWW having nominated the number of directors serving on the board of directors shown below (such person being nominated, the “SBWW Nominee,” and such person being elected the “SBWW Director”).

- If 25% or greater of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, three SBWW Directors;
- If less than 25% but greater than or equal to 15% of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, two SBWW Directors;
- If less than 15% but greater than or equal to 1% of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, one SBWW Director;
- If less than 1% of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, zero SBWW Directors.

SBWW will also have the right to have a pro rata number of SBWW Nominees appointed to serve on each committee of the board of directors so long as SBWW has the right to designate at least one director for election to the board of directors. For instance, if SBWW then nominates three persons to a board of directors of nine persons (i.e. 33%), and a committee of three persons is established, one committee member will be an SBWW Director.

With respect to designations by the Sponsor, SVFE, Insight Partners, and Benchmark Capital Partners (each a “Major Holder,” and collectively, the “Major Holders”), each Major Holder will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors one candidate for election to the board of directors until such time as such Major Holder no longer holds at least 50% of the outstanding shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock held by such Major Holder at the Closing. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, if SVFE loses such designation right, for so long as SVFE and certain permitted transferees of SBWW hold a number of shares representing at least 1% of the outstanding New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock effective immediately upon such loss, SBWW and certain permitted transferees of SBWW will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors an additional candidate in addition to the candidates described above.

The Stockholders Agreement also provides that, so long as SOF-X WW Holdings, L.P. and SOF-XI WW Holdings, L.P. (together, the “Investor,” for purposes of the Stockholders Agreement) continue to hold a specified amount of New WeWork Common Stock, the Investor will have the right to designate a board observer.

For so long as New WeWork has a duly appointed and acting Chief Executive Officer as a named executive officer, New WeWork will take all actions necessary to include the Chief Executive Officer in the slate of nominees recommended by the board of directors for election at the annual or special meeting of the stockholders at which directors are to be elected. See the section entitled “Director Election Proposals” on the board composition contemplated therein.

The Stockholders Agreement also governs vacancies and removals of directors of the board of directors. Each Major Holder

(i) the exclusive right to remove its respective director(s) from the board of directors, and (ii) the exclusive right to nominate for nomination by the board of directors candidates to fill vacancies created by reason of death, removal or resignation of the applicable or nominee of the Major Holder. Under certain circumstances, a committee consisting of all the directors (other than any directors designees of SVFE) will be established to fill a vacancy, and the committee will fill the vacancy by majority vote. If Mr. Sine is no longer serving for any reason of death, removal, resignation or otherwise, the position will be filled by a replacement candidate approved and nominated by SBWW and SBWW based on a majority vote of shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by the Major Holders and SBWW; provided further that if at such time the voting restrictions set forth in Article V, Part A, Section 7 of the Proposed Charter remain in effect, then the shares held by SBWW and SBWW will remain subject to such provision of the Proposed Charter (i.e. SBWW and SVFE, together, cannot exercise more than 49.90% of the shares held by SBWW and SBWW without such approval and nomination).

If upon any event or for any reason the directors designated by SBWW and SVFE would comprise more than half of the directors immediately prior to such event or time, a sufficient number of SBWW designated directors then in office shall be deemed to have constituted a quorum of the board of directors such that the directors designated by SBWW and SVFE would not comprise more than half of the directors then in office.

Warrants

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio, in connection with the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW's, and its affiliates', support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees the LC Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,000,000 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to SoftBank Obligor as consideration for the SoftBank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-obligor on the existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable SoftBank Obligor to purchase 14,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (guarantee premium), which will be amortized over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable fashion to a commitment or access fee paid to the credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.20 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

FIRPTA Letter

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, SBWW, SVFE, BowX and WeWork entered into an agreement related to WeWork's potential current or future status as a USRPHC and related tax withholding matters in connection with the contemplated by the Merger Agreement (the "FIRPTA Letter"). Specifically, SBWW is required to take certain specified actions to demonstrate an alternative qualification for an exemption from BowX's obligation to deduct, withhold, and remit tax under FIRPTA with respect to the portion of the consideration that would otherwise be payable to SBWW pursuant to the Merger Agreement, in accordance with procedures described in the FIRPTA Letter.

If, notwithstanding SBWW's obligations under the FIRPTA Letter to take those specified actions, an exemption is ultimately not available in accordance with the procedures described in the FIRPTA Letter, we may be required to sell a portion of SBWW's New WeWork equity securities having an aggregate value of up to $25 million to satisfy our obligation to deduct, withhold, and pay over to the IRS tax with respect to the portion of the consideration that would otherwise be payable to SBWW pursuant to the Merger Agreement. SBWW would be required to deliver to WeWork any cash in excess of such $25 million that is required to satisfy such obligation. SBWW has agreed to indemnify WeWork, other parties with respect to SBWW's tax obligations under FIRPTA, if any, with respect to the Business Combination.

Under the FIRPTA Letter, SVFE has agreed to provide an IRS Form W-9 that is duly completed and validly executed by an appropriate party to exempt any obligation of BowX to deduct, withhold and remit tax under FIRPTA. If SVFE fails to deliver such IRS Form W-9, as a result, the noted procedures would apply to SVFE in the same manner as they apply to SBWW for demonstrating an alternative qualification for FIRPTA withholding. SVFE will indemnify BowX and WeWork with respect to its portion of relevant liabilities, if any were to arise.

Furthermore, under the FIRPTA Letter, New WeWork is required to provide certain ongoing reports to SBWW and SVFE concerning WeWork's status as a USRPHC at and after the Effective Time and to provide notice to SBWW and SVFE before withholding any taxes or making any payments to SBWW or SVFE.

Background to the Business Combination

BowX is a blank check company incorporated on May 19, 2020, under the laws of Delaware for the purpose of entering into a merger, exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, recapitalization, reorganization or other similar business combination with one or more entities. The proposed Business Combination was the result of an extensive search for a potential transaction using the network, investment experience of our management team. The terms of the Merger Agreement were the result of extensive negotiations between BowX and their respective affiliates). The following is a brief description of the background of these negotiations.

On August 7, 2020, BowX consummated its initial public offering of 42,000,000 units at $10.00 per unit, and, on August 13, 2020, upon the underwriters' exercise of the full over-allotment option, BowX consummated the sale of an additional 6,300,000 units, at $10.00 per unit, generating aggregate gross proceeds of $483,000,000. Simultaneously with the closing of each of the initial public offering and the exercise of the over-allotment option, BowX consummated the sale of an aggregate of 6,933,333 and 840,000 warrants, respectively, at $1.00 per warrant in private placements to certain of its initial stockholders and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc. ("BlackRock funds"), generating gross proceeds of approximately $11,660,000.

Since the completion of its initial public offering, BowX considered numerous potential target businesses with the objective of effecting an initial business combination. Representatives of BowX contacted and were contacted by numerous individuals and entities who presented ideas for business combination opportunities, including financial companies in the data, media, logistics, education, entertainment, healthcare, transportation, sports, technology, financial services, and retail sectors. BowX considered businesses that it believed had attractive long-term growth potential, were well-positioned within the industry, and would benefit from the substantial operational experience and network of BowX’s management team. See “—BowX’s Board of Directors and Committees” and “Business Combination” for additional information. Representatives of BowX engaged in extensive due diligence and multiple discussions directly with the senior executives and/or stockholders of several potential business combination opportunities as part of its overall business combination evaluation process. In the process that led to identifying WeWork as an attractive investment opportunity, BowX’s management evaluated approximately 150 potential business combination targets, made contact with representatives of 125 potential combination targets, and conducted non-disclosure agreements with 36 potential business combination targets.

Beginning on September 11, 2020, periodic meetings via teleconference were held among members of BowX’s management team (Vivek Ranadive, Co-Chief Executive Officer of BowX and chairman of the BowX board of directors, and Murray Rode, Co-Chief Financial Officer of BowX), certain of BowX’s advisors, and those of BowX’s directors who were able to attend such calls on occasion, in order to discuss matters relating to BowX’s initial business combination. Initially, such meetings were intended to allow management and certain of BowX’s advisors to provide updates regarding the status of the evaluation of, and outreach to, potential business combination targets. During those periodic meetings that were held from September 2020 through mid-March 2021 (when such periodic meetings discontinued as a result of the announcement of the business combination with WeWork), BowX’s management and certain of BowX’s advisors provided updates regarding the status of the potential business combination transaction with WeWork, including with respect to the due diligence being conducted by the BowX management team and BowX’s advisors, the negotiation of potential business combination terms and transaction documents, the status of the PIPE investment, and other related matters.

On October 7, 2020, UBS Securities LLC (“UBS”), financial advisor to BowX, scheduled an introductory telephone conversation between the BowX management team and Mr. Neumann, the co-founder and former Chief Executive Officer of WeWork and a significant stockholder of WeWork, to discuss WeWork, other potential acquisitions and special purpose acquisition companies generally.

On November 18, 2020, representatives of UBS introduced the BowX management team to Sandeep Mathrani, the Chief Executive Officer of WeWork and Chandler Salisbury, VP, Investor Relations and Corporate Development at WeWork. On December 1, 2020, Mr. Mathrani and the BowX management team met in Menlo Park, California to have an introductory meeting to discuss the outlines of a potential transaction between BowX and WeWork and related timing and structuring considerations.

From December 1, 2020, through January 15, 2021, representatives of BowX and WeWork continued to discuss the terms of a potential business combination transaction between the parties. In connection with these discussions, on December 4, 2020, BowX executed a mutual non-disclosure agreement (the “Non-Disclosure Agreement”) with WeWork. See “—Related Agreements — Non-Disclosure Agreement” for additional information. After the Non-Disclosure Agreement was executed, WeWork began providing to BowX certain limited confidential information regarding WeWork and its subsidiaries and their collective business operations.

On December 7, 2020, representatives of BowX and WeWork had a telephone conversation to discuss presenting the potential business combination transaction to SBG, WeWork’s largest stockholder. The initial enterprise valuation with respect to the WeWork business included in the non-binding letter of intent reflected BowX management's initial evaluation of the WeWork business based on the due diligence information that had been provided at that time. The initial draft of the non-binding letter of intent also contemplated a PIPE investment from mutually acceptable financing sources at $10.00 per share of up to $700 million.

Over the course of the next few days, representatives of BowX and WeWork continued to discuss the terms of the non-binding letter of intent. BowX continued its diligence of WeWork. BowX's Board of Directors' Reasons for the Business Combination

On March 24, 2021, the BowX board of directors (i) approved the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, (ii) determined that the Business Combination is fair to, advisable, and in the best interest of BowX and its shareholders, and (iii) recommended that BowX approve the Merger Agreement and the Transaction Proposals. In evaluating the Business Combination and making these determinations, the BowX board of directors consulted with BowX's senior management, BowX's legal counsel and its financial advisor and considered a number of factors.

The BowX board of directors and management also considered the general criteria and guidelines that BowX believed would be used in evaluating prospective target businesses as described in the prospectus for BowX's initial public offering. The BowX board of directors determined that BowX could enter into a business combination with a target business that does not meet those criteria and guidelines. In the prospectus for BowX's initial public offering, identified the following general criteria and guidelines that it believed were important in evaluating prospective target businesses. BowX used these criteria and guidelines in evaluating initial business combination opportunities.

- The WeWork Business. The following factors related to WeWork and its business and operations:
- Large and Growing Addressable Market. WeWork has an opportunity to grow flexible workspace market share in the multi-billion dollar global commercial real estate market. As we believe the fallout from the COVID-19 pandemic continues to accelerate the shift away from traditional office space, information review board of directors suggested that flexible workspaces could potentially represent up to 22.2% of the U.S. office real-estate market by WeWork for substantial revenue growth, even assuming WeWork's market share of the flexible workspace market share remains constant, WeWork also plans to continue to diversify across geographies, while maintaining a strong presence in the United States.

- Size. BowX intended to focus on target businesses whose enterprise value was between $1 billion and $3 billion; the BowX management team believed businesses of this size have the right mix of market positioning and potential to scale and grow, while also having profitability.
- Visible revenue. BowX intended to seek businesses with models that deliver highly recurring, contracted revenue.
- Strong competitive position: BowX intended to seek businesses with a first mover advantage or a sizable market share in their industry, which creates an opportunity to achieve market leadership.
- Proprietary technology platform. BowX intended to identify businesses with defensible proprietary technology and intellectual property rights, which create a competitive moat.

Visionary management team. BowX intended to seek to partner with teams who share its vision for the future and are able to execute on that vision. Given that BowX intended to devote significant resources toward reaching alignment with a target's management team, BowX intended to seek businesses with proven and accomplished management teams that are eager to march forward together, drawing on the BowX management team's expertise.

Scaled, high-growth asset with path to profitability. BowX intended to seek targets that have achieved scale and are on a projected trajectory. Additionally, BowX intended to seek businesses that are profitable, or have a clear path to profitability, and the ability to maintain profitability over time.

• Public readiness: BowX intended to work with management and stakeholders who aspire to have their business become a public company and achieve substantial growth.

Appropriate valuation. The BowX management team has a background of rigorous due diligence and disciplined, and valuation discipline. BowX intended to seek targets that have a deep understanding of market value. BowX expected to complete a business combination that results in a strong risk-adjusted return for its shareholders, with substantial upside potential while limiting downside risks.

• M&A platform. BowX aimed to further increase value by pursuing M&A opportunities. The BowX management team has significant experience in identifying, evaluating, and executing M&A transactions, including acquisitions as Mr. Ranadivé and Mr. Rode successfully consummated approximately 30 acquisitions while running their previous companies.

In considering the Business Combination, the BowX board of directors determined that the Business Combination met all the guidelines above, although not weighted or in any order of significance, except that (i) WeWork's pre-transaction enterprise value was approximately $1-3 billion, which was the target originally indicated in BowX's prospectus and (ii) WeWork does not have a considerable amount of proprietary technology or intellectual property rights. Despite the other criteria being met and the factors described below, the BowX board of directors determined the Business Combination was a good business opportunity.

The BowX board of directors' evaluation relating to the merits of the Business Combination were based, to the extent relevant, on the criteria and guidelines above as well as other considerations, factors, criteria and guidelines that our management team deemed relevant. Due to the complexity of those factors, BowX's board of directors as a whole did not consider it practicable to, nor did it attempt to, quantify or assign relative weights to the specific factors it took into account in reaching their respective decisions. Individual members of BowX's board of directors have given different weight to different factors.

In particular, the BowX board of directors considered the following factors:

- The WeWork Business. The following factors related to WeWork and its business and operations:

- Large and Growing Addressable Market. WeWork has an opportunity to grow flexible workspace market share in the multi-commercial real estate market. As we believe the fallout from the COVID-19 pandemic continues to accelerate the shift away from office space, information reviewed by the BowX board of directors suggested that flexible workspaces could potentially represent up to 50% of the office real-estate market by 2030, positioning WeWork for substantial revenue growth, even assuming WeWork’s market share in the workspace market share remains constant. WeWork also plans to continue to diversify across geographies, while maintaining a strong presence in the United States.

- Portfolio of Product Offerings. WeWork offers solutions for companies of all sizes. WeWork’s broad product offerings include WeWork Demand, which provides users pay-as-you-go access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations; Access, a monthly subscription-based model that provides members with access to participating WeWork locations; and a marketplace that provides business and technical service solutions, including professional employer organization (“PEO”) and payroll services, real estate solutions, human resources benefits, dedicated bandwidth, and IT equipment co-location.

- Platform Business Opportunity. WeWork is currently developing a platform that would leverage its systems and established global network to offer landlords and operators the ability to power and manage flexible spaces in their portfolio.

- Experienced and Proven Management Team. WeWork’s management team has decades of public market experience and has delivered strong financial results within their first 12 months at WeWork. WeWork’s management team is led by Executive Chairman Marcelo Claure and President and Chief Executive Officer Sandeep Mathrani, who joined WeWork in February 2020. Under their leadership, WeWork has refocused on its core business strategy and applied a disciplined approach to costs. The BowX board of directors considered that WeWork’s executives will continue with WeWork following the Business Combination. For additional information regarding WeWork’s executive officers, see the section titled “Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination — Executive Officers.”

- Attractive Initial Valuation. WeWork will have an anticipated initial pre-transaction enterprise value of $8.8 billion.

- Results of Due Diligence. The results of a due diligence investigation conducted by BowX’s management team and outside advisors from March 22, 2021 to March 23, 2021, such investigation, including:

- extensive virtual meetings and calls with WeWork’s management team regarding its operations, business plan and the proposed transaction; review of materials related to WeWork and its business, made available by WeWork and deemed appropriate for review in the course of the investigation; the transaction and the scope of WeWork’s operations, including financial statements, material contracts, key metrics and performance measures, benefit plans, employee compensation and labor matters, intellectual property matters, real property matters, information technology matters, personal data, litigation information, environmental matters and other regulatory and compliance matters and other legal and business matters.

- Continued Ownership By Current WeWork Stockholders. WeWork’s existing equityholders would be receiving a significant amount of common stock as its consideration and 100% of the existing equityholders of WeWork are “rolling over” their existing equity interests.

in WeWork, which would represent approximately 82.4% of the pro forma ownership of the combined company after Closing, after PIPE Investment and assuming none of BowX's current public shareholders exercise their redemption rights in connection with the Combination. See "BCA Proposal—Ownership of New WeWork After the Closing."

- Stockholder Liquidity. The obligation in the Merger Agreement to have the BowX Class A Common Stock issued as merger consideration on a major U.S. stock exchange, which the BowX board of directors believes has the potential to offer BowX stockholders greater liquidity.
- PIPE Investment. Certain third parties, including top-tier institutional investors, are investing an additional $800 million in the Company pursuant to their participation in the PIPE Investment. The BowX board of directors considered this a strong sign of confidence in the Company following the Business Combination and the benefits expected to be realized as a result of the Business Combination.
- Use of Proceeds. The proceeds to be delivered to the combined company in connection with the Business Combination (including from a trust account and from the PIPE Investment) are expected to be used after Closing in order to fund WeWork's existing operations and existing growth initiatives.

Terms of the Merger Agreement. The terms of the Merger Agreement and the related agreements, including the parties' con-

- respective obligations to complete the transactions contemplated therein and their ability to terminate such agreements. See the Merger Agreement and the BCA Proposal for detailed discussions of the terms and conditions of these agreements.

Other Alternatives. The determination that the proposed Business Combination, after a thorough review of other business

- opportunities reasonably available to BowX, represents the best potential business combination for BowX. No opportunity came to the attention of the BowX board of directors or any member of BowX's management or Board of Directors in his or her personal capacity, which impacted BowX's search for an alternative combination.

The BowX board of directors also identified and considered the following factors and risks weighing negatively against pursuing the Business Combination, although not weighted or in any order of significance:

- Potential Inability to Complete the Merger. The possibility that the Business Combination may not be completed and the potential consequences to BowX if the Business Combination is not completed, in particular the expenditure of time and resources in pursuing the Business Combination and the loss of the opportunity to participate in the transaction. They considered the uncertainty related to the Closing date and closing conditions primarily outside of the control of the parties to the transaction (such as the need for stockholder and antitrust approvals).

- Potential Stockholder Redemptions. The risk that the current public shareholders of BowX would redeem their public shares in connection with consummation of the Business Combination, thereby reducing the amount of cash available to WeWork for its use in the Business Combination and the risk that WeWork will not be able to satisfy its Minimum Consideration requirement, which is for the sole benefit of WeWork. The BowX board of directors considered the risk that current public shareholders would exercise their right to require WeWork to repurchase their shares at a price equal to the Minimum Consideration. The risk that current public shareholders would exercise their redemption rights is mitigated because WeWork will be acquired at an attractive aggregate purchase price.

- Liquidation of BowX. The risks and costs to BowX if the Business Combination is not completed, including the risk of diverting BowX's assets and resources from other initial business combination opportunities, which could result in BowX being unable to effect a business combination with another company by August 4, 2022 and force BowX to liquidate.

- WeWork's Business Risks. The fact that BowX shareholders would be subject to the execution risks associated with WeWork if WeWork were to be acquired by another company, including the risk that WeWork's stock price would decline following the Closing, which risks were different from the risks related to holding public shares of BowX prior to the Closing.

the BowX board of directors considered that there were risks associated with successful implementation of WeWork's long term business strategy and WeWork realizing the anticipated benefits of the Business Combination on the timeline expected or at all, including due to the parties' control such as the potential impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and related macroeconomic uncertainty. The BowX board of directors considered that the failure of any of these activities to be completed successfully may decrease the actual benefits of the Business Combination, which BowX shareholders may not fully realize these benefits to the extent that they expected to retain the public shares following the Business Combination. For additional description of these risks, please see the section entitled "Risk Factors."

Post-Business Combination Corporate Governance. The corporate governance provisions of the Merger Agreement and the Organizational Documents and the effect of those provisions on the governance of BowX following the Closing. In particular, the parties will enter into a stockholders' agreement at Closing in respect of the composition of the board of directors of the combined company.

The BowX board of directors also considered that, given that the existing equityholders of WeWork will collectively

- representing a majority of the combined company's total outstanding shares of common stock upon completion of the Business Combination, the existing equityholders of WeWork will be able to elect future directors and make other decisions (including approving certain transactions of the combined company and other corporate actions) without the consent or approval of any of BowX's current shareholders, management team, subject to the Stockholders Agreement. Specifically, if the Organizational Proposal C is approved, BowX stockholders will be entitled to elect directors in the future under the terms of the organization documents. See the section entitled "Organization Proposals" for detailed discussions of the terms and conditions of the Proposed Organizational Documents.

Limitations of Review. The BowX board of directors did not obtain an opinion from any independent investment banking or ac-

- the price BowX is paying to acquire WeWork is fair to BowX or its shareholders from a financial point of view. In addition, the BowX board of directors considered that BowX may not have properly valued such business.

No Survival of Remedies for Breach of Representations, Warranties or Covenants of WeWork. The terms of the Merger Agreement provide that BowX will not have any surviving remedies against WeWork or its equityholders after the Closing to recover for losses arising from inaccuracies or breaches of the WeWork representations, warranties or covenants set forth in the Merger Agreement. As a result, BowX

- could be adversely affected by, among other things, a decrease in the financial performance or worsening of financial condition of the combined company following the Closing, whether determined before or after the Closing, without any ability to reduce the number of shares to be issued in the Business Combination or recover for the amount of any damages. The BowX board of directors determined that this structure was appropriate in light of the fact that several similar transactions include similar terms and the current equityholders of WeWork will be, collectively, the largest equityholders in the combined company.

- Litigation. The possibility of litigation challenging the Business Combination or that an adverse judgment granting permanent injunctions could enjoin consummation of the Business Combination.

- Fees and Expenses. The fees and expenses associated with completing the Business Combination.

- Exclusivity/Non-Solicit. The Merger Agreement includes a non-solicit provision prohibiting BowX from initiating, discussing, or proposing which could lead to an alternative business combination.

- Minority Position. BowX's public stockholders will hold a minority share position in the post-business combination company.

Table of Contents

- Risk Factors. The BowX board of directors considered risks of the type and nature described under the section entitled “Risk Factors” above.
- Diversion of Management. The potential for diversion of management and employee attention during the period prior to the completion of the Business Combination, and the potential negative effects on WeWork’s business.

In addition to considering the factors described above, the BowX board of directors also considered that certain of the officers and employees of BowX may have interests in the Business Combination as individuals that are in addition to, and that may be different from, the interests of public stockholders, including the matters described under the sections entitled “Risk Factors” above and “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX Officers and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” below. However, the BowX board of directors concluded that the potentially disparate interests of these individuals would be mitigated because (i) these interests were disclosed in the prospectus for the IPO and would be included in this proxy statement/prospectus, (ii) the potential for disparate interests would exist with respect to a business combination with any target company and (iii) the Business Combination would be completed even if public stockholders redeem a substantial portion of the public shares held by them.

Based on its review of the foregoing considerations, the BowX board of directors concluded that the potentially negative factors associated with the Business Combination were outweighed by the potential benefits that it expects that BowX shareholders will receive as a result of the Business Combination. The BowX board of directors realized that there can be no assurance about future results, including results considered in the foregoing reasons.

The preceding discussion of the information and factors considered by the BowX board of directors is not intended to be exhaustive of all of the material factors considered by the BowX board of directors. The BowX board of directors considered this information as a whole and determined that the information and factors to be favorable to, and in support of, its determinations and recommendations.

This explanation of the BowX board of directors’ reasons for its approval of the Business Combination, and all other information contained in this section, is forward-looking in nature and, therefore, should be read in light of the factors discussed under the section entitled “Cautions Regarding Forward-Looking Statements.¹”

Projected Financial Information

In connection with its consideration of the potential Business Combination, the board of directors of (the “Initial Projections” or the “Current Projections” (as defined below), the “Projections”). BowX was provided with prospective financial information internally by management of WeWork (the “Projections”). The board of directors of BowX has reviewed and discussed the Projections. WeWork does not, in general practice, publicly disclose long-term forecasts or internal projections of its future performance, revenue, financial condition or results of operations.

The Projections are included in this proxy statement/prospectus solely to provide BowX’s stockholders access to information made available in connection with BowX Board’s consideration of the proposed Business Combination. The Projections should not be viewed as predictions of future performance.

The WeWork forecasts were prepared solely for internal use and not with a view toward public disclosure, the published guidelines regarding projections or the guidelines established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants for preparation and disclosure of prospective financial information. The Projections were prepared in good faith by WeWork’s management, based on their reasonable assumptions with respect to the expected future financial performance of WeWork at the time the Projections were prepared and specifically at the time the Projections were included in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The inclusion of Projections in this proxy statement/prospectus should not be regarded as an indication that BowX, its board of directors, its respective affiliates, advisors or other representatives considered, or now consider, such Projections necessarily to be predictive of actual future results. The Projections are not included in this proxy statement in order to induce any BowX stockholders to vote in favor of or against the Business Combination. The Projections are not fact and should not be relied upon as being necessarily indicative of future results, and readers of this proxy statement/prospectus, including investors or holders, are cautioned not to place undue reliance on this information. You are cautioned not to place undue reliance on the Projections in making a decision to vote in favor of the transaction, as the Projections may be materially different than actual results. We will not refer back to the Projections in our future periodic reports under the Exchange Act.

The Projections are forward looking and reflect numerous estimates and assumptions, including, but not limited to, general business, regulatory, market and financial conditions, as well as assumptions about competition, future industry performance and matters specific to WeWork's business, all of which are difficult to predict and many of which are beyond WeWork's and BowX's control.

WeWork prepared the Initial Projections as of February 18, 2021 at the asset level and leveraged both specific market factors and general economic conditions. WeWork's process for preparing the Initial Projections was fully collaborative across the organization and included multiple levels of review from local and regional teams, and finalized with executive leadership and the WeWork board of directors. In developing the Projections numerous significant assumptions were made with respect to WeWork's business for the periods covered by the Initial Projections.

Some of the significant assumptions on which WeWork's management based its forecasts included:

- (i) revenues and expenses based on historical operating trends;
- (ii) average revenue per member, estimated based on historic trends by region and projected using a ~2-3% annual growth rate tied to membership growth;
- (iii) membership levels and occupancy rate, estimated assuming a recovery from COVID-19 beginning in the second half of 2021, forecasts based on historical occupancy curves;
- (iv) the growth of the business, estimated based on future workstation projections;
- (v) cost savings from our restructuring efforts and lease portfolio optimization; and
- (vi) the impact of new business lines, including WeWork All Access, Marketplace, and Platform, estimated based on growth of these businesses over time, and expectations of increased desire for flexible workspaces broadly as the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic continue.

As noted above, management's assumptions relating to revenue drivers, including membership levels, occupancy and average revenue per member, incorporated historical operating trends for the business. Estimated location operating expenses and selling, general and administrative expenses also take into account historical operating trends, and includes the beneficial impact of cost savings realized as a result of the ongoing restructuring process.

The primary limitations in the foregoing assumptions included, without limitation, supply and demand-side economic uncertainty, the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, the timing of continued vaccination rollouts and re-openings of economies across regions, and the potential for flexible workplace solutions in the hybrid operating environment of a post-COVID-19 pandemic world. Management's financial projections assumed that the Company would return to pre-COVID levels by the end of 2021. Management based this assumption on the best information available to management at the time when preparing the Initial Projections. The information included, but was not limited to, information and guidance from federal and state government agencies, including the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, regarding assumed requirements and guidance on workspaces, occupancy restrictions (and the lifting thereof), social distancing requirements for vaccinated individuals, and updated availability in the Company's major markets. WeWork also considered current market discussions taking place amongst hospitality, retail and other companies and tenants.

regarding return-to-work strategies and hybrid work models and experience. Finally, we leveraged direct experience in certain local world that had experienced multiple phases of COVID-19 conditions prior to the U.S. to better inform our expectations around business recovery.

As of August 10, 2021, the duration and scope of the COVID-19 pandemic has been unpredictable and has resulted in a slow timing of recovery in WeWork's business as compared to when WeWork's management established its Initial Projections. Management monitoring the impact of several recent COVID-19 developments, such as public announcements by some of our largest corporate potential customers to defer office re-openings until no earlier than the fourth quarter of 2021. There have also been significant increases of COVID-19 cases in the United States and other global markets in which we operate. Governments are re-enacting mask mandates companies and individuals from returning back to the office until conditions approve. Further, management has also observed pricing in the market place due to an excess supply of commercial real estate available to our customers as a result of companies of all sizes deferring to offices, as well as businesses now considering remote and hybrid office space strategies.

As a result of these recent developments, WeWork's management has prepared projections based on the best and most recent information as of August 10, 2021 (the "Current Projections").

In light of the developments described above, WeWork's management revised the following significant assumptions to prepare the Current Projections:

- (i) expectations regarding average revenue per member were reduced in earlier periods, particularly in the United States and Canada, due to the recovery of our business from the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic;
 - (ii) expectations regarding membership levels for the second half 2021 were reduced due to a delay in the recovery of the Company's business from the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic;
 - (iii) workstation capacity was decreased based on continued progress from the Company's restructuring efforts, which we expect will reduce our expenses;
 - (iv) projected revenue was increased for new business lines, estimated based on sales and market data from the first half of 2021; and
- the results of our Israel locations, previously included in our Initial Projections, were removed because we closed a franchise transaction in 2021 to divest these Israel locations, which are no longer consolidated in the Company's results of operations and are excluded from the Current Projections from June 1, 2021 and onward.

Certain key assumptions underlying the Current Projections are summarized below(1):

	2019A	2020A	2021E	2022E	2023E	2024E

(2) Net ARPM is equal to net leased revenue divided by cumulative leased physical memberships.

(2) Excluding ChinaCo and IndiaCo. Excluding Israel from June 1, 2021 and onward.

We supplement our GAAP results by evaluating Adjusted EBITDA, a non-GAAP measure. We define “Adjusted EBITDA” as net loss before income tax (benefit) or expense, depreciation and amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense, expense related to stock-based payments for services rendered or expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets and liabilities remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, expense related to costs associated with the divestitures and capital raising activities, legal, tax and regulatory reserves or settlements, significant legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with the investigations and litigation regarding the Company’s 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions, net of any recoveries, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment charges and, to the extent applicable, any impact of discontinued operations, restructuring charges, and on operating assets. A reconciliation of net loss, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Adjusted EBITDA is set forth in the section entitled “WeWork’s Management Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Non-GAAP Financial Measures” beginning on page 237 of this proxy statement/prospectus.

The Projections are forward looking statements that are inherently subject to significant uncertainties and contingencies, many beyond WeWork’s control. The various risks and uncertainties include those set forth in the sections entitled “Risk Factors” beginning on page xxxviii of this proxy statement/prospectus and “Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements” beginning on page xxxv of this proxy statement/prospectus. As a result, there can be no assurance that the projected results will be realized or that actual results will not be significantly different than projected. Since the Projections cover multiple years, such information by its nature becomes less reliable with each successive year. Projections are subjective in many respects and thus are susceptible to multiple interpretations and periodic revisions based on actual business developments.

The Company’s use of Adjusted EBITDA in the Projections reflects the fact that management does not have a reasonable basis for estimating certain recurring and non-recurring expenses that would be necessary to present GAAP-based net income/(loss) or EPS, including non-cash expenses arising out of WeWork’s continued restructuring and location optimization process, impairments of long-lived and other assets, and other fair value re-measurements based on uncertainties related to both timing and magnitude.

We encourage you to review the financial statements of WeWork included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, as well as the information in the sections entitled “Selected Historical Financial and Operating Data of WeWork” and “Selected Unaudited Pro Forma Combined Financial Information” in this proxy statement/prospectus and to not rely on any single financial measure.

Furthermore, the Projections do not take into account any circumstances or events occurring after the date they were prepared. An independent registered accounting firm, BowX’s independent registered accounting firm or any other independent accountants, has not examined or performed any procedures with respect to the Projections included below, nor have they expressed any opinion or any other form of assurance on such information's achievability, and they assume no responsibility for, and disclaim any association with, the Projections. Nonetheless, a summary of the Projections is provided in this proxy statement/prospectus because they were made available to BowX and our board of directors in connection with the proposed transaction.

EXCEPT TO THE EXTENT REQUIRED BY APPLICABLE FEDERAL SECURITIES LAWS, BY INCLUDING IN THIS STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS A SUMMARY OF THE PROJECTIONS FOR WEWORK, BOWX UNDERTAKES NO OBLIGATION TO EXPRESSLY DISCLAIM ANY RESPONSIBILITY TO UPDATE OR REVISE, OR PUBLICLY DISCLOSE ANY UPDATE OR REVISION TO THESE PROJECTIONS TO REFLECT CIRCUMSTANCES OR EVENTS, INCLUDING UNANTICIPATED EVENTS, THAT HAVE OCCURRED OR THAT MAY OCCUR AFTER THE PREPARATION OF THESE PROJECTIONS, EVEN IN THE EVENT THAT THE ASSUMPTIONS UNDERLYING THE PROJECTIONS ARE SHOWN TO BE IN ERROR OR CHANGE.

Sources and Uses of Funds for the Business Combination

The following table summarizes the sources and uses for funding the Business Combination assuming no redemptions of any shares and approximately $483.1 million of cash remaining in our trust account.

Sources ($ in millions)	Uses ($ in millions)
Proceeds from trust account	$ 483	Cash to New WeWork Balance Sheet	$ 1,873
Existing Pre-Deal Cash on Balance Sheet	665	Estimated Total Fees and Expenses	75
Proceeds from PIPE Investment	800
Total sources	$ 1,948	Total uses	$ 1,948

The following table summarizes the sources and uses for funding the Business Combination assuming that all 48,300,000 shares of Common Stock are redeemed for an aggregate payment of approximately $483.0 million (based on the estimated per share redemption price of approximately $10.00 per share based on the fair value of marketable securities held in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.0 million) from the trust account:

Sources ($ in millions)	Uses ($ in millions)
Proceeds from trust account ⁽¹⁾	$ 0	Cash to New WeWork Balance Sheet	$ 1,390
Existing Pre-Deal Cash on Balance Sheet	665	Estimated Total Fees and Expenses	75
Proceeds from PIPE Investment	800
Total sources	$ 1,465	Total uses	$ 1,465

(1) Assumes that all cash held in trust account will be used to fund redemption of 100% of public stock.

Satisfaction of 80% Test

It is a requirement under the Nasdaq listing requirements that any business acquired by BowX have a fair market value equal to at least 80% of the balance of the funds in the trust account at the time of the execution of a definitive agreement for an initial business combination. At the time of the transaction, the pre-money enterprise valuation of approximately $9 billion for WeWork compared to the $463 million in the trust account, the BowX board determined that this requirement was met. The board determined that the consideration being paid in the Business Combination, which was negotiated at arms-length, were fair to and in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and appropriately reflected WeWork's value. In making this determination, the board concluded that it was appropriate to base such valuation in part on qualitative factors such as management depth, competitive positioning, customer relationships, and technical skills, as well as quantitative factors.

Table of Contents

factors such as its potential for future growth in revenue and profits. BowX's board of directors believes that the financial skills and members qualify it to conclude that the acquisition of WeWork met this requirement.

Ownership of New WeWork After the Closing

It is anticipated that, based on the assumptions set forth below, upon the consummation of the Business Combination, the ownership of WeWork will be as follows:

	Share Ownership in New WeWork ⁽¹⁾
	No Additional Redemptions		Assuming Maximum Redemption
	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares
WeWork Stockholders	655,300,000	82.7 %	655,300,000	87.4%
Initial Stockholders	9,075,000	1.1 %	9,075,000	1.2%
BowX's Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares)	48,300,000	6.1 %	5,068,902	0.7%
PIPE Investors	80,000,000	10.1 %	80,000,000	10.7%
Total	792,675,000	100 %	749,443,902	100%

The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amounts in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination by (1) redeeming less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 3.5% ownership interest.

The numbers of shares of "New WeWork Common Stock Assuming No Redemption" set forth above assumes that no public stockholders have their public stock redeemed, and the numbers of shares of "New WeWork Common Stock Assuming Maximum Redemption" assumes that 43,231,098 shares of public stock are redeemed.

These numbers and percentages assume (i) (a) the vesting of all shares of New WeWork Common Stock received in respect of all Restricted Stock Awards, (b) the vesting and exercise of all in-the-money New WeWork Options for shares of New WeWork Common Stock, (c) the vesting of all New WeWork Restricted Stock Units and the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in respect thereof, (d) the exercise of all in-the-money warrants, and (e) that New WeWork issues shares of New WeWork Common Stock as the Aggregate Merger Consideration pursuant to the Merger Agreement, which in the aggregate equals 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that the Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors in the PIPE Investment. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options are not included in these numbers and percentages (or in the calculation of the Aggregate Merger Consideration). These numbers and percentages include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.

In addition, the numbers of shares and percentage interests set forth above do not take into account certain potential future exercises of grants or issuances pursuant to the equity incentive plan established to be effective after the Closing, or any other equity issuances of shares of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the LC Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce BowX's current stockholders' control over the management of New WeWork." See the section entitled "Description of BowX Securities - Warrants."

If the actual facts are different from these assumptions, the percentage ownership retained by the Company's existing stockholders combined company will be different. For example, if we assume that all of the 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private warrants that will remain outstanding post-Business Combination were exercisable and exercised following completion of the Business Combination in accordance with their terms, then the anticipated ownership of New WeWork at the Closing would be as follows:

Share Ownership in New WeWork(1)
	No Additional Redemptions	Assuming Maximum Redemption
	Number of Shares	Percentage of Outstanding Shares	Number of Shares
WeWork Stockholders	655,300,000	80.3 %	655,300,000
Initial Stockholders	16,848,333	2.1 %	16,848,333
BowX's Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares)	64,400,000	7.9 %	21,168,902
PIPE Investors	80,000,000	9.8 %	80,000,000
Total	816,548,333	100 %	773,317,235

The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination by (1) redeeming less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 42,784,451 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock at Closing, representing a 5.4% ownership interest.

In addition to the changes in percentage ownerships depicted above, variation in the levels of redemption will impact the dilutive equity issuances related to the Business Combination which would not otherwise be present in an underwritten public offering. Increasing the level of redemption will increase the dilutive effects of these issuances on non-redeeming stockholders. See the section entitled “Risk Factors that are certain as to the number of public shares that will be redeemed and the potential impact to public shareholders who do not elect to redeem their shares” and “— You may not have the same benefits as an investor in an underwritten public offering.”

	Assuming No Redemptions(1)		Assuming 50% Redemptions(2)		Assuming Maximum Redemptions(3)
	Shares	Value per Share ⁽⁴⁾	Shares	Value per Share ⁽⁵⁾	Shares	Value per Share ⁽⁶⁾
Base Scenario(7)	792,675,000	$ 10.00	771,059,451	$ 10.00	749,443,902	$ 10.00

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination.

(2) Assumes the redemption of 21,615,549 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination by 43,231,098 shares redeemed in the maximum redemption scenario.

(3) Assumes the redemption of 43,231,098 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination.

(4) Based on a post-transaction equity value of New WeWork of $7.927 billion.

(5) Based on a post-transaction equity value of New WeWork of $7.711 billion, or $7.927 billion less the approximately $216.2 million paid from the trust account to redeem 21,615,549 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination.

- (6) Based on a post-transaction equity value of New WeWork of $7.494 billion, or $7.927 billion less the approximately $432.3 million paid from the trust account to redeem 43,231,098 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination. Represents (a) the 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock that would be issued to WeWork Stockholders (which includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock, WeWork Preferred Stock, WeWork Series C Convertible Note, plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units), (b) the 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock that corresponds to a WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Unit being redeemed (c) exchanged for New WeWork Class A Common Stock, (d) the conversion of 9,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock held by the initial stockholders and (e) the public warrant redemptions described above. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.
- (7) Represents the Base Scenario excluding the 9,075,000 shares of converted BowX Class B Common Stock held by the initial stockholders.
- (8) Represents the Base Scenario plus the full exercise of the public warrants and/or the private warrants.
- (9) Analysis does not account for exercise prices to be paid in connection with the exercise of warrants.

The level of redemption also impacts the effective underwriting fee incurred in connection with our IPO. In a no redemption scenario, the approximately $483,100,000 in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, BowX's $16,905,000 in deferred underwriting fees represent a deferred underwriting fee of approximately 3.5%. In a 50% redemption scenario in which 21,615,549 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination, the funds remaining in the trust account following such redemption would be approximately $250,039,510 and the effective underwriting fee would be approximately 6.33%. In a maximum redemption scenario, the funds remaining in the trust account following such redemption would be approximately $50,789,020 and the effective underwriting fee would be approximately 12.67%.

(in the aggregate equal to a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration) pursuant to the Merger Agreement, which in the aggregate equals 80% of the shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that all New WeWork Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80%

The interest represented by the Partnerships Profits Interest Units varies based on the value of the WeWork Partnership. The units held by Adam Neumann may represent an interest as high as 0.005%, but have no economic interest unless the value of a share of New WeWork Class C Common Stock is greater than approximately $60. The units held by Adam Neumann may represent an economic interest as high as 0.005% of the value of the WeWork Partnership.

Following the Business Combination, Adam Neumann will also hold 19,884,233 Partnerships Profits Interest Units and an aggregate of 544,030 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock.

Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination

When you consider the recommendation of BowX's board of directors in favor of approval of the BCA Proposal, you should keep in mind that our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests in such proposal that are different from those of our initial stockholders and warrant holders generally. These interests include, among other things, the interests in:

- the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders paid $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such shares and warrants have a market value of approximately $ million and $ million, respectively, based on the closing price of BowX Class B Common Stock of $ on Nasdaq on , 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders. Each of our officers and directors is a member of the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor, and as such Messrs. Ranadivé and Rode have voting and investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held of record by the Sponsor.
- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
 - the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder vote to approve the BCA Proposal;
 - the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement warrants would be worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
 - the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants, will experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders experience a negative rate of return on their investment;
 - that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and BowX's directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
 - the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors' and officers' liability for certain acts taken prior to the Closing in connection with the BCA Proposal;

Table of Contents

- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, though there have been out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not completed.

These interests may influence BowX's directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the BCA Proposal as contemplated thereby. These interests were considered by the BowX board of directors when it approved the Business Combination.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may do for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers may support the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock held by them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchases made in a public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock.

At any time at or prior to the Business Combination, subject to applicable securities laws (including with respect to material non-public information), the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors or respective affiliates may (i) purchase shares of public stock from institutional and other investors who vote, or indicate an intention to vote, against any of the Condition Precedent Proposals, or elect to redeem, or indicate an intention to redeem, shares of public stock, (ii) execute agreements to purchase shares of public stock from such investors in the future, or (iii) enter into transactions with such investors and others to provide them with incentives to acquire shares of public stock, vote their shares of public stock in favor of the Condition Precedent Proposals or not redeem their shares of public stock. Such arrangements may include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of BowX's shares, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event that the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors, or respective affiliates purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares. The purpose of such share purchases and other transactions would be to increase the likelihood of (1) satisfaction of the votes required for the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Compensation Plan Proposal, the ESPP Proposal and the Adjournment Proposal, (2) satisfaction of the Minimum Available Cash Condition, (3) otherwise increasing the number of shares of public stock electing to redeem and (4) BowX's net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a-8 under the Securities Exchange Act) being at least $5,000,001. Entering into any such arrangements may have a depressive effect on the BowX Common Stock price, giving an investor or holder the ability to effectively purchase shares at a price lower than market, such investor or holder may therefore be more likely to sell the shares he or she owns, either at or prior to the Business Combination).

If such transactions are effected, the consequence could be to cause the Business Combination to be consummated in circumstances where consummation could not otherwise occur. Purchases of shares by the persons described above would allow them to exert more influence over the approval of the proposals to be presented at the special meeting and would likely increase the chances that such proposals would be adopted. Investors should file or submit a Current Report on Form 8-K to disclose any material arrangements entered into or significant purchases made by any of the aforementioned persons that would affect the vote on the proposals to be put to the special redemption threshold. Any such report will include descriptions of any arrangements entered into or significant purchases by any of those persons.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on behalf of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of the director(s) for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers may have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder.

Interests of WeWork's Executive Officers in the Business Combination

Certain of the officers of WeWork also have interests in the Business Combination, including eligibility for and entitlement to restricted stock, bonuses and the commencement of vesting of certain equity awards.

For a more complete description of the interests of WeWork's executive officers in the Business Combination, see the section of the Proxy Statement/Prospectus—Interests of WeWork's Executive Officers in the Business Combination.

Expected Accounting Treatment of the Business Combination

We expect the Business Combination to be accounted for as a reverse recapitalization in accordance with the accounting principles accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"). Under the guidance in ASC 805, BowX is expected to be treated as the "acquired company" for financial reporting purposes. This determination was primarily based on existing WeWork Stockholders comprising a relative majority of the power of the combined company, WeWork's operations prior to the acquisition comprising the only ongoing operations of New WeWork, New WeWork's board of directors being appointed by WeWork, and WeWork's senior management comprising a majority of the senior management of New WeWork. Accordingly, the Business Combination is expected to be reflected as the equivalent of WeWork issuing stock for the net assets of WeWork, accompanied by a recapitalization whereby no goodwill or other intangible assets are recorded. Operations prior to the Business Combination will be accounted for as those of WeWork.

Regulatory Matters

Under the HSR Act and the rules that have been promulgated thereunder by the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC"), certain transactions cannot be consummated unless information has been furnished to the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice ("Antitrust Division") and certain waiting period requirements have been satisfied. The Business Combination is subject to these requirements and may not be consummated until the expiration of a 30-day waiting period following the two filings of the required Notification and Report Forms with the Antitrust Division, unless early termination is granted. On April 8, 2021, WeWork and BowX filed the required forms under the HSR Act with respect to the Business Combination with the Antitrust Division and the FTC and requested early termination. The waiting period expired at 11:59 p.m. (ET).

At any time before or after consummation of the Business Combination, notwithstanding termination of the respective waiting period under the HSR Act, the Department of Justice or the FTC, or any state or foreign governmental authority could take such action under applicable law as such authority deems necessary or desirable in the public interest, including seeking to enjoin the consummation of the Business Combination, conditionally approving the Business Combination upon divestiture of assets, subjecting the completion of the Business Combination to certain conditions or seeking other remedies. Private parties may also seek to take legal action under the antitrust laws under certain circumstances. BowX cannot assure you that the Antitrust Division, the FTC, any state attorney general or any other government authority will not attempt to challenge the Business Combination on antitrust grounds, and, if such a challenge is made, BowX cannot assure you as to its results.

A merger control filing may be required in Mexico by COFECE. WeWork submitted a filing to COFECE, jointly with BowX, The filing would be withdrawn if COFECE takes the position that it is not required.

Neither of BowX nor WeWork are aware of any material regulatory approvals or actions that are required for completion of Combination other than the expiration or early termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act and the filing to COFECE. It is contemplated that if any such additional regulatory approvals or actions are required, those approvals or actions will be sought. There is no assurance, however, that any additional approvals or actions will be obtained.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the BCA Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending the meeting in person or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal. An abstention from voting will have the same effect as a broker non-vote will have on the outcome of any vote on this proposal. An abstention from voting will have the same effect as a broker non-vote will have on the outcome of any vote on this proposal.

The BCA Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposals, the Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Recommendation of BowX's Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT THE BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE FOR THE APPROVAL OF THE BCA PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may desire for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers and directors may have conflicts of interest in connection with the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

ORGANIZATIONAL DOCUMENTS PROPOSALS

Overview

If the Business Combination is to be consummated, BowX will replace its current Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation (“Existing Charter”) with the proposed Second Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation (the “Proposed Charter”) in the form of proxy statement/prospectus as Annex B, which, in the judgment of the BowX board of directors, is necessary to adequately address the needs of WeWork following the Closing.

The following table sets forth a summary of the principal proposed changes and the differences between the Existing Charter and the Proposed Charter. This summary is qualified by reference to the complete text of the Proposed Charter, a copy of which is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex B. Reasons for the Amendments to BowX’s Existing Charter

In the judgment of the BowX board of directors, the Proposed Charter is necessary to address the needs of New WeWork following the consummation of the Business Combination. In particular:

- The greater number of authorized shares (Proposal No. 2) of capital stock is desirable for New WeWork to have sufficient shares available for issuance in connection with the consummation of the Business Combination. Absent the approval of this proposal (Proposal No. 2), there will not be a sufficient number of authorized shares of BowX to issue the shares required to be issued in the Merger. Additionally, the BowX board of directors believes that it is important for New WeWork to have available for issuance a number of authorized shares sufficient to support its growth and to provide flexibility for future corporate needs (including, if needed, as part of financing for future growth acquisitions). The shares would be issuable for any purpose, including future acquisitions, capital raising transactions consisting of equity or convertible debt, stock dividends or issuances and any future stock incentive plans, pursuant to which we may provide equity incentives to employees, officers and directors, as well as issuable upon the exchange of Partnership Profits Interest Units and in satisfaction of the obligations under the WeWork Warrants and the LC Warrant. The BowX board of directors believes that these additional shares will provide us with needed flexibility to meet our future needs.

the future in a timely manner and under circumstances we consider favorable without incurring the risk, delay and potential expense of obtaining stockholder approval for a particular issuance. BowX does not currently have any plans, proposals or arrangements, other than those described in this proxy statement, to issue any of the additional authorized shares of BowX Common Stock. However, New WeWork may decide to issue shares at any time, including shortly thereafter the consummation of the Business Combination, for a proper corporate purpose.

- The authorization of New WeWork Class C Common Stock (Proposal No. 2) is desirable in order to effectuate the Business Combination.
- the shares of this non-economic voting class issued in exchange for the WeWork Class C Common Stock will be associated with WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units as required by the Partnership Agreement.
 - The voting restrictions with respect to SoftBank Holders were added to restrict the SoftBank Holders, for a period of at least three years, from exercising voting rights over more than 49.9% of the voting securities present (in person or by proxy) and voting in any stockholder meeting.

The additional changes to the Existing Charter (Proposal No. 5), including the name change from “BowX Acquisition Corp.” to “New WeWork” are necessary to adequately address the needs of New WeWork following the Closing. The elimination of certain provisions related to the name change is desirable because these provisions will serve no purpose following the Business Combination. For example, the proposed amendments remove the requirement to dissolve BowX and allow it to continue as a corporate entity with perpetual existence following the consummation of the Business Combination. Perpetual existence is the usual period of existence for corporations and the BowX Board believes it is the most appropriate period following the Business Combination. In addition, certain other provisions in the Existing Charter are being removed.

- that proceeds from BowX’s initial public offering be held in the trust account until a business combination or liquidation of BowX. These provisions cease to apply once the Business Combination is consummated. The revision to provide that, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the federal district courts of the United States of America shall be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint or action arising under the Securities Act is desirable to assist New WeWork in avoiding multiple lawsuits in multiple jurisdictions over the same matter. The ability to require such claims to be brought in a federal district court will help to assure consistent consideration and application of a relatively known body of case law and level of expertise and should promote efficiency and cost-savings in the resolution of claims.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock. The approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date. Broker non-votes, while considered present for the purposes of establishing a quorum, will not count as votes cast at the special meeting and will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposal. An abstention will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposal.

The Organizational Documents Proposals are cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Director Election Proposal, the Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Recommendation of BowX's Board of Directors

BOWX'S BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT STOCKHOLDERS VOTE "FOR" THE ORGANIZATIONAL DOCUMENTS PROPOSALS.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may do for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers and directors may have conflicts of interest with respect to the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

DIRECTOR ELECTION PROPOSAL

Overview

The Director Election Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal, assuming the BCA Proposal and each of the Organizational Documents Proposals are approved, to elect nine directors who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be the directors of New WeWork ("the Director Election Proposal").

Assuming the BCA Proposal and each of the Organizational Documents Proposals are approved, BowX's stockholders are all invited to approve and adopt the Director Election Proposal.

Nominees

As contemplated by the Merger Agreement, the Board of New WeWork following consummation of the transaction will consist of nine directors:

- (i) three (3) director nominees (the "SBG Representatives") designated by SBWW, which SBG Representatives will initially be Marcelo Claure and Véronique Laury, and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (ii) one (1) director nominee (the "SVF Representative") designated by SVFE, which SVF Representative will initially be Kirthigar and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (iii) one (1) director nominee (the "PIPE Representative") designated by Insight Partners, which PIPE Representative will initially be Ranadivé and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (iv) one (1) director nominee (the "BowX Representative") to be designated by the Sponsor, which BowX Representative will initially be Bruce Dunlevie and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (v) one (1) director nominee (the "Benchmark Capital Representative") designated by Benchmark Capital Partners, which Benchmark Capital Representative will initially be Bruce Dunlevie and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (vi) the Chief Executive Officer of New WeWork (the "CEO Director"), who is currently Sandeep Mathrani; and
- (vii) one (1) director nominee to mutually agreed by BowX and WeWork (the "Mutually Agreed Director"), which Mutually Agreed Director will initially be Jeff Sine and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;

Table of Contents

Accordingly, our board of directors has nominated each of Michel Combes, Marcelo Claure, Véronique Laury, Kirthiga Reddy, Vivek Ranadivé, Bruce Dunlevie, Sandeep Mathrani and Jeff Sine to serve as our directors upon the consummation of the Business Combination. In each case, in accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Proposed Organizational Documents. For more information concerning the experience of each of these director nominees, please see the section entitled “Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination” in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of votes cast at the special meeting. This means that the nine nominees will be elected if they receive more affirmative votes than any other nominee for the same position. Votes marked “FOR” a nominee will be counted in favor of that nominee. Proxies will have full discretion to cast votes in the event any nominee is unable to serve. Abstentions or failure to vote by proxy or to vote virtually at the special meeting and broker non-votes will have no effect on the vote since a plurality of the votes cast is required for the election of each nominee. Because the Director Election is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving just one “FOR” vote.

The Director Election Proposal is conditioned on the approval of each of the Condition Precedent Proposals. Therefore, if each of the Condition Precedent Approvals is not approved, the Director Election Proposal will have no effect, even if approved at the special meeting.

Recommendation of the BowX Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE IN FAVOR OF THE APPROVAL OF THE DIRECTOR ELECTION PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is in his or her best interests in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers and employees may have conflicts of interest in connection with the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

STOCK ISSUANCE PROPOSAL

Overview

The Stock Issuance Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt, assuming the BCA Proposals, Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal are for purposes of complying with the applicable provisions of Rule 5635 of The Nasdaq Stock Market Listing Rules, the issuance, or resales, of shares of New WeWork Common Stock to (a) the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement (the “Stock Issuance Proposal”).

Assuming the BCA Proposal, each of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal are approved, BowX’s stockholders are also being asked to approve and adopt the Stock Issuance Proposal.

Reasons for the Approval for Purposes of Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635

Under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(a)(1), stockholder approval is required prior to the present or potential issuance of common stock, convertible into or exercisable for common stock, in connection with the acquisition of the stock of another company if the common stock is offered in a public offering for cash and (1) the common stock has, or will have upon issuance, voting power equal to or in excess of 20% of the outstanding before the issuance of the common stock, including securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock, or (2) the number of common stock to be issued is or will be equal to or in excess of 20% of the number of shares of common stock outstanding before the issuance of the common stock or securities. Additionally, under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(b), stockholder approval is required prior to the issuance of securities, if the issuance or potential issuance will result in a change of control of the registrant. Although Nasdaq has not adopted any rule on what constitutes a “change of control” for purposes of Rule 5635(b), Nasdaq has previously indicated that the acquisition of, or right to acquire, by a non-controlling investor group, as little as 20% of the common stock (or securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock) or voting power by the issuer could constitute a change of control. Under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(c), stockholder approval is required prior to the issuance of securities if a plan or other equity compensation arrangement is established or materially amended.

Under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(d), stockholder approval is required for a transaction other than a public offering, involving the present or potential issuance by an issuer of common stock (or securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock) at a price that is less than the official Nasdaq closing price immediately before signing of the binding agreement and the average official Nasdaq closing price for the 30 days immediately preceding the signing of the binding agreement of the stock if the number of shares of common stock to be issued is equal to 20% or more of the common stock, or 20% or more of the voting power, outstanding before the issuance. If the Business Combination is pursuant to the Merger Agreement, BowX currently expects to issue an estimated 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock (none of BowX’s outstanding shares of public stock are redeemed) in connection with the Merger and 80,000,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the PIPE Investment. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued at the closing of the Merger will be approximately 735,300,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock.

WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up basis, and the Per Share Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock), the WeWork Class A Note and in-the-money warrants, respectively, at the Closing. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up basis, and the Per Share Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.

the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the exchange ratio is expected to be 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,100

WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, stock awards, warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units). For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Agreement — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities — Aggregate Merger Consideration.”

Additionally, pursuant to Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(a)(2), when a Nasdaq-listed company proposes to issue securities in connection with the acquisition of the stock or assets of another company, stockholder approval is required if any director, officer or substantial stockholder of the listed company has a 5% or greater interest, directly or indirectly, in such company or the assets to be acquired or in the consideration for the transaction or series of related transactions and the present or potential issuance of common stock (or securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock) could result in an increase in outstanding shares of common stock or voting power of 5% or more. Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(e)(3) defines a substantial stockholder as the holder of an interest of 5% or more of either the number of shares of common stock or the percentage of outstanding of a Nasdaq-listed company. Because the Sponsor, Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode each can be deemed to beneficially own more than 5% of BowX Common Stock, each of the Sponsor, Mr. Ranadivé and Mr. Rode are considered a substantial stockholder of BowX under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(e)(3). For this reason, BowX is seeking the approval of BowX stockholders for the issuance of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment.

In the event that this proposal is not approved by BowX stockholders, the Business Combination cannot be consummated. In the event that this proposal is approved by BowX stockholders, but the Merger Agreement is terminated (without the Business Combination being consummated), the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock pursuant to the Merger Agreement or the PIPE Investment, such shares of New WeWork Common Stock will not be issued.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Stock Issuance Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of 50% or more of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder may vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders, an abstention from voting or a broker non-vote will have no effect on any vote on this proposal.

The Stock Issuance Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposal, the Director Election Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Recommendation of the BowX Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE FOR THE APPROVAL OF THE STOCK ISSUANCE PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may do for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers and employees may have conflicts of interest with respect to the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

EQUITY INCENTIVE PLAN PROPOSAL

Overview

On [REDACTED], 2021, the BowX board of directors approved and adopted the WeWork 2021 Equity Incentive Plan (or “2021 Plan”) and contingent on the consummation of the Business Combination, and subject to approval of BowX stockholders. If the 2021 Plan is approved by the stockholders of BowX and the Business Combination is consummated, New WeWork will be authorized to grant equity and cash incentive awards to eligible service providers pursuant to the Plan. BowX is asking its stockholders to approve the 2021 Plan, the material terms of which are set forth below.

A copy of the 2021 Plan is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex D and the description below is qualified in its entirety by reference to that attached plan document.

The 2021 Plan

The purpose of the 2021 Plan is to provide an additional incentive to persons whose contributions are essential to the success of New WeWork. The 2021 Plan is intended to attract and retain competent and dedicated persons whose efforts will result in long-term profitability. BowX believes that equity-awards issued under the 2021 Plan will motivate officers, employees, non-employee directors, and consultants to faithfully and diligently perform their responsibilities and will strengthen their commitment to New WeWork. BowX believes that grants of incentive equity and equity-awards are essential to attracting and retaining highly qualified service providers.

Summary of the 2021 Plan

This section summarizes certain principal features of the 2021 Plan.

Eligibility and Administration

Officers, employees, consultants and non-employee directors of New WeWork and its affiliates are eligible to receive awards under the 2021 Plan. It is anticipated that there will be approximately 4,300 employees and 8 non-employee directors eligible to receive awards under the 2021 Plan immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination.

New WeWork’s board of directors will administer the 2021 Plan unless they appoint a committee of directors to administer certain aspects of the 2021 Plan. The board of directors or committee administering the 2021 Plan is referred to herein as the “plan administrator.” Subject to the conditions and regulations, the plan administrator is authorized to delegate its administrative authority under the 2021 Plan to an officer of New WeWork or to one or more individuals or groups.

The plan administrator will have the authority to exercise all powers either specifically granted under the 2021 Plan or necessary for the administration of the 2021 Plan; to interpret the 2021 Plan and award agreements; and to adopt, alter and repeal rules for the administration of the 2021 Plan as it deems advisable. Subject to the conditions and limitations in the 2021 Plan, the plan administrator will also have the authority to determine which eligible service providers receive awards, to grant awards, and to set the terms and conditions of all awards under the 2021 Plan, including any vesting (time and/or performance vesting) and vesting acceleration provisions. Because awards under the 2021 Plan are at the discretion of the plan administrator, the benefits to be received by officers, directors or any other individuals following the adoption of the 2021 Plan are not currently determinable.

Shares Available for Awards

BowX will initially reserve a pool of shares of New WeWork Common Stock for issuance under the 2021 Plan equal to 5% of the Diluted Company Capital Stock (as such term is defined in the Merger Agreement).

Table of Contents

Agreement) as of the Closing, estimated to equal approximately shares initially available for issuance under the 2021 Plan aggregate number of shares may, subject to the approval of the New WeWork board of directors, increase on January 1 of each year beginning in 2022, but not after the 10 year anniversary of the effective date of the 2021 Plan, in an amount equal to the lesser of (i) a number equal to any of (A) 5% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock as of the Closing over (B) the number of shares of New WeWork then reserved for issuance under the 2021 Plan as of such January 1, and (ii) such smaller number of shares of New WeWork Common determined by the New WeWork board of directors; provided however, that the total number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock issuable (inclusive of any shares allocated to outstanding awards) may not exceed 8% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock as of the Closing. The maximum aggregate number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock which may be issued pursuant to the exercise of stock options (“ISOs”) granted under the 2021 Plan will equal the number of shares initially reserved in the pool for issuance under the 2021 Plan’s effective date (estimated to be approximately shares).

Shares issued under the 2021 Plan will include authorized but unissued or reacquired shares of New WeWork Common Stock. If a cash payment under the 2021 Plan is paid or settled in cash, is exchanged or withheld as full or partial payment in connection with any option or stock award (“SAR”), or is exchanged or withheld to satisfy the tax withholding obligations related to an award under the 2021 Plan, then any shares available for new grants under the 2021 Plan may, to the extent of such cash settlement, exchange or withholding, be used again for new grants under the 2021 Plan. If an ISO granted under the 2021 Plan or the WeWork Incentive Plans is forfeited, exchanged, surrendered, cancelled or expires, then any forfeited, exchanged, cancelled or expired shares subject to such award may be used for new grants under the 2021 Plan, but only to the extent that making such shares available for new grants would not cause the total number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock reserved for issuance under the 2021 Plan (inclusive of any shares allocated to outstanding awards) to exceed 8% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock as of the Closing. However, upon the exercise of any award granted in tandem with any other awards, the number of shares subject to the related award which are exercised may not be used again for grants under the 2021 Plan. Shares that again become available for issuance after a forward or reverse stock split, net settlement, or other similar reason described above, will not increase the aggregate limit on the number of shares which may be available for new grants under the 2021 Plan (described above).

Awards that are assumed, converted, or substituted under the 2021 Plan as a result of our acquisition of another company (including a merger, combination or similar transactions) will not reduce the shares available for grant under the 2021 Plan.

The maximum amount of compensation awarded to a non-employee member of the New WeWork board of directors pursuant to the 2021 Plan or otherwise (including the amount of cash plus the fair market value of equity awards as of the grant date) for service as a director for a calendar year may not exceed $1,000,000. This limitation is not subject to proration for a non-employee director’s initial or subsequent service on our board.

Awards

The 2021 Plan provides for the grant of stock options (including ISOs and nonqualified stock options (“NSOs”)), SARs, restricted stock units (“RSUs”), other stock-based awards, stock bonuses, and cash awards. Certain awards under the 2021 Plan may constitute “nonqualified deferred compensation” under Section 409A of the Code, which may impose additional requirements on the terms and conditions of such awards. All awards under the 2021 Plan will be granted pursuant to an award agreement containing terms and conditions specific to the award, including any applicable vesting and payment terms and post-termination exercise limitations. Awards other than ISOs are generally limited to employees, consultants, and directors, but ISOs can be granted only to employees. A brief description of each award type follows:

- Stock Options and SARs. Stock options provide for the purchase of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in the future at an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the shares on the grant date. ISOs, in contrast to NSOs, may provide tax deferral beyond exercise and favorable capital gains tax treatment to their holders if certain holding period and other requirements satisfied. SARs entitle their holder, upon exercise, to receive from us an amount (which may be payable in cash or shares) equal to the shares subject to the award between the grant date and the exercise date. The exercise price of a stock option or SAR may not be the fair market value of New WeWork Common Stock on the grant date (or 110% in the case of ISOs granted to certain significant stockholders except with respect to certain adjusted or substitute awards granted or adjusted in connection with a corporate transaction or subject to anti-dilution provisions discussed below under “Certain Transactions.” The term of a stock option or SAR may not be longer than ten years in the case of ISOs granted to certain significant stockholders). Options which do not meet the requirements for ISO treatment

- Restricted Stock. Restricted stock is an award of forfeitable shares of New WeWork Common Stock that are subject to certain vesting and other restrictions.

- RSUs. RSUs are contractual promises to deliver shares of New WeWork Common Stock in the future or an equivalent in cash, at the discretion of the plan administrator at the time of grant. RSUs may also remain forfeitable unless and until specified conditions are met by the plan administrator may, but need not, provide in an RSU award agreement that the grantee of the RSU will be paid or accrue the right to receive payment in cash or shares equivalent to the dividends paid on shares of New WeWork Common Stock prior to the settlement of such RSU (i.e., dividend equivalents).

- Other Stock-Based Awards. Other stock-based awards are other awards valued wholly or partially by referring to, or otherwise based on, New WeWork Common Stock, including dividend equivalents. Dividend equivalents represent the right to receive the equivalent cash value of dividends paid on shares of New WeWork Common Stock and may be granted alone or in tandem with awards other than stock options.
- Stock Bonuses. Stock bonuses are bonuses payable in fully vested shares of New WeWork Common Stock.
- Cash Awards. Cash awards are awards payable solely in cash that are subject to the terms and conditions of the 2021 Plan and any restrictions determined by the plan administrator.

Certain Transactions

The plan administrator has broad discretion to make adjustments to the terms and conditions of existing and future awards under the 2021 Plan to facilitate necessary or desirable changes in the event of certain transactions and events affecting New WeWork Common Stock, such as consolidations, special or extraordinary dividends, stock splits, combinations or exchanges of shares, and other reorganizations or transactions. In addition, in connection with these events, known as “changes in capitalization,” the plan administrator will make equivalent adjustments to the 2021 Plan and outstanding awards, including the share reserve, number of shares subject to outstanding awards, exercise price and terms as applicable. In the event of a change in control, there is a menu of actions which the plan administrator may take in the plan administrator’s discretion, which could include, among other things, providing for accelerated vesting of awards and cancellation of awards. The plan administrator also has the discretion to treat awards differently in the event of such a transaction.

No Repricing

Except in connection with changes in capitalization, stockholder approval will be required for any amendment that reduces the exercise price of any stock option or SAR, or cancels any stock option or SAR in exchange for cash, other awards, or stock options or SARs with an exercise price per share that is less than the exercise price per share of the original stock options or SARs.

Plan Amendment and Termination

The plan administrator may amend or terminate the 2021 Plan and any outstanding award under the 2021 Plan at any time. An amendment to the 2021 Plan or any outstanding award may materially impair the rights of a participant with respect to an outstanding award held by such participant's consent, unless the amendment is permitted in connection with specified corporate transactions or capitalizations. Stockholder approval will be obtained for any amendment to the extent necessary to comply with the rules of the stock exchange on which WeWork Common Stock is traded or applicable laws, as determined by the plan administrator. No awards are permitted to be granted under the Plan on or after the tenth anniversary of the earlier of (i) the date the Company's board of directors adopts the 2021 Plan and (ii) the date the stockholders approve the 2021 Plan.

Foreign Participants, Claw back Provisions, Transferability and Participant Payments

The plan administrator may determine which individuals located outside the United States will participate in the 2021 Plan, establish sub-plans for such individuals located outside the United States, if any, will be covered by the 2021 Plan; set the terms and conditions of awards for individuals outside the United States; and establish sub-plans and/or adjust other terms and conditions of awards, subject to the shareholder approval required above, and modify the terms and conditions of any award if necessary or advisable, including to comply with local law. All awards will be subject to a compensation recovery or clawback policy required pursuant to Section 304 of Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended, and any other compensation recovery or clawback, as well as any clawback policy of New WeWork or an affiliate as may be adopted and amended from time to time. Fully vested and/or exercisable, awards under the 2021 Plan are generally non-transferrable, subject to the plan administrator's discretion to generally exercisable only by the participant. With regard to tax withholding, exercise price, and purchase price obligations arising in connection with awards under the 2021 Plan, generally the plan administrator may, in its discretion, accept cash, shares of New WeWork Common Stock or other property, subject to specified conditions, or such other consideration as it deems suitable.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences

The following is a general summary under current law of the principal United States federal income tax consequences related to the 2021 Plan. Section 409A of the Code

Certain types of awards under the 2021 Plan may constitute, or provide for, a deferral of compensation subject to Section 409A of the Code. Unless certain requirements set forth in Section 409A of the Code are complied with, holders of such awards may be taxed earlier than intended by the plan administrator (e.g., at the time of vesting instead of the time of payment) and may be subject to an additional 20% penalty tax (and, possibly, interest, penalties, and additional state taxes). To the extent applicable, the 2021 Plan and awards granted under the 2021 Plan will be structured and interpreted to either comply with or be exempt from Section 409A of the Code and the Department of Treasury regulations and interpretive guidance that may be issued under Section 409A of the Code.

New Plan Benefits

All awards under the 2021 Plan are made at the discretion of the plan administrator. We expect that the plan administrator will make one-time grants of approximately 1,100,000 RSUs in the aggregate to employees who are at the senior manager level or below which RSUs will vest (subject to continued employment) on the one-year anniversary of the Closing. None of our directors, named executive officers or other executive officers will receive this one-time grant.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holder of all then outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting, voting as a single class and who holds the shares. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders, an abstention or a broker non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal.

Table of Contents

The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Document Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

The ESPP is described in more detail below. A copy of the ESPP is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex E. This summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the complete text of the ESPP.

The ESPP

The ESPP is designed to allow eligible employees of New WeWork to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock with payroll deductions. The ESPP is administered by New WeWork’s board of directors or an authorized committee thereof comprised of directors (the “ESPP administrator”). The ESPP is divided into two components: the “423 Component” and the “Non-423 Component”. The 423 Component is intended to qualify under Section 423 of the Code. The Non-423 Component is not intended to qualify under Section 423. The Non-423 Component may generally be used to grant stock options to certain non-U.S. employees and other employees designated by the ESPP administrator. The terms of the ESPP are summarized below. The purpose of the ESPP is to assist eligible employees in acquiring a stock ownership interest in New WeWork, to align such employees’ interests with those of our stockholders, and to encourage such employees to remain in the employ of New WeWork. The BowX board of directors believes that equity offers under the ESPP will assist New WeWork in recruiting and retaining employees.

Summary of the ESPP

This section summarizes certain principal features of the ESPP.

Administration

Subject to the terms and conditions of the ESPP, the ESPP administrator will have discretionary authority to administer and interpret the terms and conditions of the offerings of New WeWork Common Stock to be made under the ESPP. Subject to applicable regulations, the ESPP administrator is authorized to delegate administrative tasks under the ESPP to an officer of New WeWork or a group. Interpretations and constructions of the ESPP administrator of any provision of the ESPP or of any rights thereunder will be binding on all persons. No member of our board of directors or individual exercising administrative authority with respect to the ESPP may make any action or determination made in good faith with respect to the ESPP.

Share Reserve

The initial maximum number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock which will be authorized for sale under the ESPP is [REDACTED] Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock (as such term is defined in the Merger Agreement) as of the Closing (approximately [REDACTED]). In addition, such aggregate number of shares may, subject to the approval of our board of directors, increase on January 1 of each year, January 1, 2023, but not after the 10 year anniversary of the effective date of the ESPP, in an amount equal to 1% of the Aggregate Company Capital Stock as of the Closing, less any shares authorized but not issued under the ESPP as of the date of such increase. In no event shall the maximum aggregate number of shares available for issuance under the ESPP exceed [REDACTED] shares. The shares reserved for issuance under the ESPP may be authorized but unissued shares, treasury shares, or shares from any other proper source.

Eligibility

Employees eligible to participate in the ESPP for a given offering generally include employees who are employed by New WeWork or its designated subsidiaries on the first day of the offering. Unless otherwise determined by the ESPP administrator or required by law, employees of New WeWork or its designated subsidiaries who, as of the first day of an offering, are customarily scheduled to work less than 20 hours per week or who customarily work less than five months in a calendar year will not be eligible to participate in the offering under the ESPP.

Participation

Employees will enroll under the ESPP by completing an enrollment form permitting the deduction from their compensation of up to 15% of their compensation but not more than 15% of their compensation during an offering. Such payroll deductions must be expressed as a percentage, and the accumulated deductions will be credited to a notional account and applied to the purchase of shares on the exercise date of each offering.

However, an employee will not be permitted to participate in an offering if, immediately after the option to purchase stock is granted, the employee would own (or be deemed to own through attribution) 5% or more of the total combined voting power or value of the stock of New WeWork, or of a subsidiary or parent company of New WeWork. In addition, a participant may not purchase more than the lesser of the maximum number of shares of Common Stock that can be purchased under the ESPP or the maximum number of shares of Common Stock that can be purchased under the participant's rights to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock to accrue at a rate exceeding $25,000 in fair market value (determined at the time the option is granted) under the ESPP or any other employee stock purchase plan of New WeWork and its parent companies during any calendar year.

Offering

Under the ESPP, participants are offered the option to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock at a discount during a series of offerings, the duration and timing of which will be determined by the ESPP administrator. However, in no event may an offering be for a period longer than 18 months in length.

The option price for an offering will generally be the lower of 85% of the closing trading price per share of New WeWork Common Stock on the first day of the offering or 85% of the closing trading price per share on the exercise date, which will occur on the last day of each offering.

Unless a participant has withdrawn from participation in the ESPP before the exercise date of the applicable offering, the participant will be deemed to have exercised the participant's option in full as of such exercise date. Upon exercise, the participant will purchase the number of shares that the participant's accumulated payroll deductions will buy at the option price, subject to the participation limitations of the ESPP.

A participant may cancel his or her payroll deduction authorization and withdraw from the offering at any time prior to the end of an offering. Upon withdrawal, the participant will receive a refund of the participant's notional account balance in cash without interest. If a participant withdraws from an offering, the participant may not later re-enroll in the same offering, but the participant may (if eligible) enroll in any later offering under the ESPP. If a participant wants to increase or decrease the rate of payroll withholding, the participant may do so effective for the next offering by submitting a new enrollment form before the offering for which such change is to be effective.

A participant may not transfer any rights under the ESPP other than by will or the laws of descent and distribution. During a participant's lifetime, options in the ESPP shall be exercisable only by such participant. The ESPP is unfunded, and all funds received by New WeWork under the ESPP shall be combined with other corporate funds and used for any corporate purpose, unless otherwise required by applicable law.

Adjustments

In the event of any stock split, reverse stock split, stock dividend, combination or reclassification of the common stock, spin-off or change in capitalization or event, we will proportionately adjust the number and class of shares approved under the ESPP, the option offering, and the maximum number of shares which a participant may elect to purchase in any single offering. If New WeWork is dissolved, the ESPP administrator may provide that options to purchase stock under the ESPP will convert into the right to receive liquidation (net of the option price). In connection with a merger with or into another corporation, a sale of all or substantially all of our assets or in any other transaction in which the owners of our voting power immediately before the transaction do not hold a majority following the transaction, the ESPP administrator may take any of the following actions, or do any combination thereof: (i) determine that each outstanding option will be converted into an equivalent option substituted by the successor corporation or the parent or subsidiary of the successor corporation; (ii) upon written notice to participants, provide that all outstanding options will become exercisable to the extent of accumulated payroll deductions as of a specific date within more than 10 days before the effective date of the applicable corporate transaction; (iii) upon written notice to participants, provide that options will be canceled and accumulated payroll deductions will be returned to participants; or (iv) if the applicable transaction provides for cash payments to the holders of New WeWork Common Stock, provide for cash payments to participants in amounts based on the per-share value of such cash payments to the stockholders.

Amendment and Termination

The ESPP administrator may amend, suspend or terminate the ESPP at any time. However, to the extent required by applicable law, the ESPP administrator may not amend the ESPP without obtaining stockholder approval within 12 months before or after the date such amendment is proposed.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences

The following is a general summary under current law of the principal United States federal income tax consequences related to the purchase and disposition of shares under the ESPP. This summary deals with the general federal income tax principles that apply and is provided only for general information. Other kinds of taxes, such as state, local and foreign income taxes and federal employment taxes, are not discussed. As such, tax consequences of participating in the Non-423 Component of the ESPP are not discussed. This summary is not intended as tax advice to participants, who should consult their own tax advisors.

The 423 Component of the ESPP, and the right of participants to make purchases thereunder, is intended to qualify under the requirements of Section 423 of the Code. Under the applicable Code provisions, no income will be taxable to a participant until the sale or other disposition of shares purchased under the ESPP. This means that an eligible employee will not recognize taxable income on the date the employee is granted shares under the ESPP. In addition, the employee will not recognize taxable income upon the purchase of shares. Upon a sale or disposition of shares purchased under the ESPP, the participant generally will be subject to tax in an amount that depends upon the length of time such shares are held by the participant from the date of grant to disposing of them. If the shares are sold or disposed of more than two years from the date of grant and more than one year from the date of death or if the participant dies while holding the shares: (i) the participant (or the participant's estate) will recognize compensation taxable as ordinary income measured as the lesser of (A) the excess of the fair market value of the shares at the time of such sale or disposition (or death) over the amount paid for the shares; and (B) an amount equal to the applicable discount from the fair market value of the shares as of the date of grant; and (ii) even if the participant (or the participant's estate) recognizes ordinary income, we or our subsidiaries or affiliates generally will not be entitled to a federal income tax deduction for the amount of the gain. Any additional gain will be treated as long-term capital gain. If the shares are held for the holding periods described above but are sold for less than the purchase price, there is no ordinary income and the participating employee has a long-term capital loss for the difference between the sale price and the purchase price.

If the shares are sold or otherwise disposed of before the expiration of the holding periods described above at a price that is greater than the purchase price: (i) the participant will recognize compensation taxable as ordinary income generally measured as the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the date the participant purchased the shares under the ESPP over the purchase price; and (ii) New WeWork will generally be entitled to a tax deduction for compensation expense in the amount of ordinary income recognized by the participant (subject to any applicable limitations). Any additional gain on such sale or disposition will be long-term or short-term capital gain, depending on how long the shares have been held by the participant following the date they were purchased by the participant prior to disposing of them. If the shares are sold or otherwise disposed of before the expiration of the holding periods described above but are sold at a price that is less than the purchase price, the participant will recognize ordinary income equal to the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the date the participant purchased the shares under the ESPP over the purchase price (WeWork will generally be entitled to a corresponding deduction), but the participant generally will be able to report a capital loss equal to the difference between the sales price of the shares and the fair market value of the shares on the date the participant purchased the shares under the ESPP.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the ESPP Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting, voting as a single class and who vote at the special meeting. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders, an abstention from voting or a non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal.

The ESPP Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal and the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal.

Recommendation of BowX's Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT THE BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE FOR THE APPROVAL OF THE ESPP PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is in his or her best interests for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers and directors may have conflicts of interest in connection with the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

ADJOURNMENT PROPOSAL

The Adjournment Proposal, if adopted, allows BowX's board of directors to submit a proposal to approve the adjournment of the meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies in the event, based on the tabulated votes, thereof, to solicit proxies and votes at the time of the special meeting to approve the Condition Precedent Proposals. The purpose of the Adjournment Proposal is to provide additional time for the Sponsor and New WeWork and their respective stockholders to consider the proposals to be voted on at the meeting. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination".

Consequences if the Adjournment Proposal is Not Approved

If the Adjournment Proposal is presented to the special meeting and is not approved by the stockholders, BowX's board of directors will be able to adjourn the special meeting to a later date in the event that, based on the tabulated votes, there are not sufficient votes at the special meeting to approve the Condition Precedent Proposals. In such events, the Business Combination would not be completed.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Adjournment Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock at the meeting, by proxy and entitled to vote thereon. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting will not affect a broker non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal. An abstention from voting will have the same effect as a vote against the Adjournment Proposal.

Recommendation of the BowX Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE FOR APPROVAL OF THE ADJOURNMENT PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may do for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. CERTAIN U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS FOR STOCKHOLDERS EXERCISING REDEMPTION RIGHTS

The following is a discussion of certain U.S. federal income tax consequences for holders of BowX Class A Common Stock that exercise their redemption rights described above under “Special Meeting of BowX—Redemption Rights.” This discussion applies only to shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held as capital assets within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”) (not as personal property held for investment). Further, the discussion is applicable only to holders who purchased BowX Class A Common Stock in the offering.

This discussion does not address all U.S. federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to your particular circumstances, including, without limitation, the impact of the Medicare contribution tax on net investment income, the alternative minimum tax or the special accounting rules in Section 469 of the Code. In addition, it does not address consequences relevant to holders subject to special rules, including, without limitation:

- U.S. expatriates and former citizens or long-term residents of the United States;
- persons holding BowX Class A Common Stock as part of a hedge, straddle or other risk reduction strategy or as part of a conversion or other integrated transaction;
- banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions;
- brokers, dealers or traders in securities;
- “controlled foreign corporations,” “passive foreign investment companies” and corporations that accumulate earnings to avoid U.S. federal income tax;
- partnerships or other entities or arrangements treated as partnerships for U.S. federal income tax purposes (and investors therein);
- tax-exempt organizations or governmental organizations;
- persons subject to special tax accounting rules as a result of any item of gross income with respect to BowX Class A Common Stock, such as a deduction for charitable contributions or a charitable remainder unitrust, taken into account in an applicable financial statement;
- U.S. holders (as defined below) whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar;
- regulated investment companies or real estate investment trusts;
- tax-qualified retirement plans; and
- “qualified foreign pension funds” as defined in Section 897(l)(2) of the Code and entities all of the interests of which are held by qualified foreign pension funds.

If you are a partnership (or other pass-through entity) for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the tax treatment of your partnership will generally depend on the status of the partners, the activities of the partnership and certain determinations made at the partner level. You should consult your own tax advisor regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences to them relating to the matters discussed below.

For purposes of this discussion, a “U.S. holder” is a beneficial owner of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock who or that is treated as a U.S. holder for U.S. federal income tax purposes, is or is treated as:

- an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States,
- a corporation organized in or under the laws of the United States, any state thereof or the District of Columbia,
- an estate, the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income tax regardless of its source, or

- a trust that (1) is subject to the primary supervision of a U.S. court and the control of one or more “United States persons” (within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code) or (2) was in existence on August 20, 1996 and has a valid election in effect to be treated as a U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Also, for purposes of this discussion, a “Non-U.S. holder” is any beneficial owner of BowX Class A Common Stock who or the holder is not a U.S. person nor an entity classified as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

The following does not purport to be a complete analysis of all potential tax effects associated with redemptions of BowX Class A Common Stock in advance of the Business Combination. The effects of other U.S. federal tax laws, such as estate and gift tax laws and any applicable non-U.S. tax laws are not discussed. This discussion is based on the Code, Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder, judicial and administrative published rulings and administrative pronouncements of the Internal Revenue Service (the “IRS”), in each case in effect as of the date hereof. These authorities may change or be subject to differing interpretations. Any such change or differing interpretation may be applied retroactively that could adversely affect holders to which this discussion applies and could affect the accuracy of the statements herein. BowX has not sought any rulings from the IRS regarding the matters discussed below. There can be no assurance that the IRS or a court will not take a position to that regarding tax consequences discussed below.

THIS DISCUSSION IS FOR INFORMATIONAL PURPOSES ONLY AND IS NOT TAX ADVICE. INVESTORS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE APPLICATION OF THE U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAW AND STATE AND LOCAL TAX LAWS TO THEIR PARTICULAR SITUATIONS AS WELL AS ANY TAX CONSEQUENCES ARISING UNDER THE U.S. FEDERAL ESTATE TAX LAW OR UNDER THE LAWS OF ANY STATE, LOCAL OR NON-U.S. TAXING JURISDICTION OR UNDER ANY AGREEMENT ON INCOME TAX TREATY.

U.S. Holders

Redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock. The redemption of a U.S. holder’s BowX Class A Common Stock pursuant to the provisions described in the section entitled “Special Meeting of BowX—Redemption Rights,” will generally be a taxable transaction for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The treatment of the transaction for U.S. federal income tax purposes will depend on whether the redemption qualifies as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock under Section 302 of the Code. If the redemption qualifies as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, it will be treated as described under “U.S. Holders—Gain or Loss on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock.” If the redemption does not qualify as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, the U.S. holder will be treated as receiving a corporate distribution of BowX Class A Common Stock with tax consequences described below under “U.S. Holders—Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution.”

Whether a redemption qualifies for sale treatment will depend largely on whether the U.S. holder owns any of BowX’s stock at the time of the redemption (including any stock treated as constructively owned by the U.S. holder as a result of owning warrants or by attribution from certain related individuals and entities), and if so, the total number of shares of BowX’s stock held by the U.S. holder both before and after the redemption. Any stock constructively treated as owned by the U.S. holder as a result of owning warrants or by attribution from certain related entities (relative to all of BowX’s shares outstanding both before and after the redemption). The redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock will be treated as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock (rather than as a corporate distribution) if the redemption (i) is “substantially equivalent” to the stock held by the U.S. holder, (ii) results in a “complete termination” of the U.S. holder’s interest in us or (iii) is “not essentially equivalent” to the stock held by the U.S. holder. These tests are explained more fully below.

In determining whether any of the foregoing tests are satisfied, a U.S. holder takes into account not only stock actually owned by the U.S. holder but also shares of our stock that are treated as constructively owned by it. A U.S. holder may be treated as constructively owning, in addition to stock actually owned by the U.S. holder, stock owned by certain related individuals and entities in which the U.S. holder has an interest or that are owned by such U.S. holder, as well as any stock that the U.S. holder has a right to acquire by exercise of an option, which would generally include Class A Common Stock that could be acquired pursuant to the exercise of the warrants. Moreover, any BowX stock that a U.S. holder constructively acquires pursuant to the Business Combination generally should be included in determining the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the redemption.

In order to meet the substantially disproportionate test, the percentage of BowX's outstanding voting stock actually and constructively owned by the U.S. holder immediately following the redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock must, among other requirements, be less than the percentage of BowX's outstanding voting stock actually and constructively owned by such U.S. holder immediately before the redemption, taking into account both redemptions by other holders of BowX Class A Common Stock and the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued in connection with the Business Combination. Because the measurement of a U.S. holder's percentage interest takes into account stock owned by certain family members and others who do not constructively own any other stock of BowX (including any stock constructively owned by the U.S. holder as a result of ownership of the warrants).

There will be a complete termination of a U.S. holder's interest if either (i) all of the shares of our capital stock actually and constructively owned by the U.S. holder are redeemed or (ii) all of the shares of our capital stock actually owned by the U.S. holder are redeemed, the U.S. holder waives, and effectively waives in accordance with specific rules, the attribution of stock owned by certain family members and others who do not constructively own any other stock of BowX (including any stock constructively owned by the U.S. holder as a result of ownership of the warrants).

The redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock will not be essentially equivalent to a dividend if a U.S. holder's redemption results in a "meaningful reduction" of the U.S. holder's proportionate interest in BowX. Whether the redemption will result in a meaningful reduction of a U.S. holder's proportionate interest in BowX will depend on the particular facts and circumstances. However, the IRS has indicated in a proposed regulation that even a small reduction in the proportionate interest of a small minority stockholder in a publicly held corporation who exercises control over corporate affairs may constitute such a "meaningful reduction." A U.S. holder should consult with its own tax advisors as to the tax consequences of the redemption, including the application of the constructive ownership rules described above.

If none of the foregoing tests is satisfied, then the redemption will be treated as a corporate distribution, and the tax effects will be determined under "U.S. Holders — Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution" below. After the application of those rules, any remaining stock held by the U.S. holder in the redeemed BowX Class A Common Stock will be added to the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its remaining stock, and the amount so added will be taken into account in determining the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its warrants or possibly in other stock constructively owned by it.

Gain or Loss on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock. If the redemption qualifies as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, a U.S. holder generally will recognize capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount realized in the redemption and the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its disposed of BowX Class A Common Stock. The amount realized is the sum of the amount of cash received, the market value of any property received, and a U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its BowX Class A Common Stock generally will equal the acquisition cost. Gain or loss will be determined separately for each block of stock (generally, stock acquired at the same cost in a single transaction).

Any such capital gain or loss generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. holder's holding period for the BowX Class A Common Stock so disposed of exceeds one year. It is unclear, however, whether the redemption rights with respect to BowX Class A Common Stock may suspend the running of the applicable holding period for the BowX Class A Common Stock. If the running of the holding period for BowX Class A Common Stock is suspended, then non-corporate U.S. holders may not be able to satisfy the holding period requirement for long-term capital gain treatment, in which case any gain on a redemption of the shares would be subject to capital gain treatment and would be taxed at regular ordinary income tax rates. U.S. holders should consult with their own tax advisor regarding the potential for a suspension of the holding period in their BowX Class A Common Stock. Long-term capital gains recognized by non-corporate U.S. holders will be eligible to be taxed at reduced rates. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations.

Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution. If the redemption does not qualify as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, it will generally be treated as receiving a distribution from us. Such distributions generally will constitute dividends for U.S. federal income tax purposes to the extent paid from our current or accumulated earnings and profits, as determined under U.S. federal income tax principles.

Distributions in excess of our current and accumulated earnings and profits will constitute a return of capital that will be applied to reduce (but not below zero) the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in BowX Class A Common Stock. Any remaining excess will be treated as a gain on the sale or other disposition of the BowX Class A Common Stock as described under "U.S. Holders — Gain or Loss on Redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock" above.

Dividends (including constructive dividends paid pursuant to a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock) BowX pays to a corporation generally will qualify for the dividends received deduction if the requisite holding period is satisfied. A corporation also be subject to the "extraordinary dividend" provisions of Section 1059 of the Code. With certain exceptions (including, but not limited to,

(including constructive dividends paid pursuant to a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock) treated as investment income (subject to investment interest deduction limitations), and provided that certain holding period requirements are met, dividends received by a non-corporate U.S. holder may constitute "qualified dividends" that will be subject to tax at the maximum tax rate accorded to long-term capital gains. It the redemption rights with respect to BowX Class A Common Stock described in this proxy statement/prospectus may prevent a U.S. corporation from qualifying for the dividends received deduction if it fails to satisfy the holding period requirements for the dividends received deduction and would have taxable income equal to the entire dividend amount, and non-corporate U.S. holders may be subject to tax at regular ordinary income tax rates instead of the preferential rate that applies to qualified dividend income.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding. Because whether a U.S. holder's redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock is deemed a distribution will depend on a U.S. holder's particular circumstances, and because whether such a deemed distribution constitutes a dividend depends on BowX's then-current and accumulated earnings and profits, the applicable withholding agent may not be able to determine whether (or to what extent) a U.S. holder is treated as receiving a dividend for U.S. federal income tax purposes. An applicable withholding agent may report, on an applicable Form 1099, some or all of the cash received by a U.S. holder pursuant to the redemption as dividend income if the applicable withholding agent has established special procedures allowing U.S. holders to certify that they are not treated as receiving a dividend under the Section 302 tests described above. However, there can be no assurance that any applicable withholding agent will establish such special procedures. A withholding agent's treatment of amounts received pursuant to the redemption as a dividend for U.S. federal income tax purposes is dispositive, and is not binding on the IRS or such U.S. holder.

In general, information reporting requirements will generally apply to dividends (including constructive dividends paid pursuant to a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock) paid to a U.S. holder and to the proceeds of the sale or other disposition of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock unless the U.S. holder is an exempt recipient. Backup withholding may apply to such payments if the U.S. holder fails to provide a taxpayer identification number, has been granted an exemption from filing a U.S. tax return, or has been notified by the IRS that it is subject to backup withholding (and such notification has not been withdrawn). If a U.S. holder fails to provide us with a valid taxpayer identification number, or if we do not receive a valid taxpayer identification number from a U.S. holder, we will not be liable for any backup withholding imposed by the IRS on amounts paid to such U.S. holder. If a U.S. holder does not provide us with the correct taxpayer identification number, the U.S. holder may be subject to penalties imposed by the IRS.

Backup withholding is not an additional tax. Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules may be allowed as a credit against a U.S. holder's U.S. federal income tax liability provided that the required information is timely furnished to the IRS.

Non-U.S. Holders

Redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock. The characterization for U.S. federal income tax purposes of the redemption of a Non-U.S. holder's BowX Class A Common Stock pursuant to the redemption provisions described in the section entitled "Special Meeting of Shareholders — Redemption Rights" generally will correspond to the U.S. federal income tax characterization of such a redemption of a U.S. holder's BowX Class A Common Stock, as described under "U.S. Holders — Redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock" above, and the consequences of such a redemption for the Non-U.S. holder will be as described below under "Non-U.S. Holders — Gain on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock" and "Non-U.S. Holders — Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution," as applicable.

Gain on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock. A Non-U.S. holder will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on gain realized on a redemption treated as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock unless:

- the gain is effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder's conduct of a trade or business within the United States (and, if required by an applicable income tax treaty, the Non-U.S. holder maintains a permanent establishment in the United States to which such gain is attributed);
- the Non-U.S. holder is a nonresident alien individual present in the United States for 183 days or more during the taxable year of the Non-U.S. holder, and certain other requirements are met; or we are or have been a "U.S. real property holding corporation" for U.S. federal income tax purposes at any time during the shorter of the five-year period ending on the date of disposition or the period that the Non-U.S. holder held BowX Class A Common Stock, and, if applicable, the Non-U.S. holder has owned shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for at least one year; or

- shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are regularly traded on an established securities market, the Non-U.S. holder has owned constructively, more than 5% of BowX Class A Common Stock at any time within the shorter of the five-year period preceding the date of disposition or the date of the Non-U.S. holder's holding period for the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. There can be no assurance that BowX Class A Common Stock will be treated as regularly traded on an established securities market for this purpose.

Gain described in the first bullet point above generally will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis at the rate of 30% (or such lower rate as specified by an applicable income tax treaty) applicable to United States persons. A Non-U.S. holder that is a corporation also may be subject to a branch profits tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate as specified by an applicable income tax treaty) on such effectively connected gain, as adjusted for certain items.

Gain described in the second bullet point above will be subject to U.S. federal income tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate as specified by an applicable income tax treaty), which may be offset by U.S. source capital losses of the Non-U.S. holder (even though the individual is not a resident of the United States) provided that the Non-U.S. holder has timely filed U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to the Non-U.S. holder's BowX Class A Common Stock.

If the third bullet point above applies to a Non-U.S. holder, gain recognized by such holder on the sale, exchange or other disposition of BowX Class A Common Stock will be subject to tax at generally applicable U.S. federal income tax rates. BowX believes that it is not possible to predict the exact amount of tax that will be imposed on a Non-U.S. holder on the disposition of BowX Class A Common Stock at any time since its incorporation.

formation, a U.S. real property holding corporation. However, our status as a U.S. real property holding corporation by virtue of having entered into the Merger Agreement is not free from doubt. Moreover, New WeWork may be a U.S. real property holding corporation immediately after the Combination is completed. Non-U.S. holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the application of the foregoing rules in particular facts and circumstances.

Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution. If the redemption does not qualify as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, the holder will generally be treated as receiving a distribution subject to classification as dividend, return of tax basis or gain as described in “Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution” above. In general, with respect to any distributions that constitute dividends for U.S. federal income tax purposes and are not effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States, we will withhold tax from the gross amount of the dividend at a rate of 30%, unless such Non-U.S. holder is eligible for a reduced rate of withholding under an applicable income tax treaty and provides proper certification of its eligibility for such reduced rate (on an IRS Form W-8BEN or other applicable documentation). Because it may not be certain at the time a Non-U.S. holder is redeemed whether such Non-U.S. holder will be treated as a sale or a distribution, and because such determination will depend in part on a Non-U.S. holder’s particular circumstances, the applicable withholding agent may not be able to determine whether (or to what extent) a Non-U.S. holder is treated as receiving a dividend for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Therefore, the applicable withholding agent may withhold tax at the 30% rate (subject to reduction by an applicable income tax treaty) on the gross amount of any consideration paid to a Non-U.S. holder in redemption of such Non-U.S. holder’s BowX Class A Common Stock, unless (i) the applicable withholding agent has established special procedures allowing Non-U.S. holders to certify that they meet the requirements of such exemption (e.g., Non-U.S. holders are not treated as receiving a dividend under the Section 302 tests described above). However, there can be no assurance that the applicable withholding agent will establish such special certification procedures. If an applicable withholding agent withholds excess amounts payable to a Non-U.S. holder, such Non-U.S. holder generally may obtain a refund of any such excess amounts by timely filing a claim for refund with the IRS. Non-U.S. holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the application of the foregoing rules in particular facts and circumstances and any applicable procedures or certification requirements. If dividends paid to a Non-U.S. holder are not effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States (and, if required by an applicable income tax treaty, the Non-U.S. holder maintains a permanent establishment in the United States to which such dividends are attributable), the Non-U.S. holder will not be subject to the 30% U.S. federal withholding tax described above if such Non-U.S. holder furnishes to the applicable withholding agent a Form W-8ECI, certifying that the dividends are effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

Any such effectively connected dividends will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis at the regular rate applicable to United States persons. A Non-U.S. holder that is a corporation also may be subject to a branch profits tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate specified by an applicable income tax treaty) on such effectively connected dividends, as adjusted for certain items. Non-U.S. holders should consult their tax advisors regarding any applicable tax treaties that may provide for different rules.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding. Payments of dividends (including constructive dividends received pursuant to Section 303 of the Internal Revenue Code) on BowX Class A Common Stock to a Non-U.S. holder will not be subject to backup withholding if the applicable withholding agent does not have actual knowledge or reason to know the holder is a United States person and the holder is not a non-U.S. person, such as by furnishing a valid IRS Form W-8BEN, W-8BEN-E or W-8ECI, or otherwise establishes an exemption. However, returns are required to be filed with the IRS in connection with any payments of distributions on BowX Class A Common Stock paid to a Non-U.S. holder, regardless of whether any tax was actually withheld. In addition, proceeds of the sale or other taxable disposition of BowX Class A Common Stock by a Non-U.S. holder within the United States or conducted through certain U.S.-

related brokers generally will not be subject to backup withholding or information reporting, if the applicable withholding agent certification described above and does not have actual knowledge or reason to know that such holder is a United States person, or the establishes an exemption. Proceeds of a disposition of BowX Class A Common Stock conducted through a non-U.S. office of a non-U.S. holder generally will not be subject to backup withholding or information reporting.

Copies of information returns that are filed with the IRS may also be made available under the provisions of an applicable treaty between the tax authorities of the country in which the Non-U.S. holder resides or is established.

Backup withholding is not an additional tax. Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules may be allowed as a credit against a Non-U.S. holder's U.S. federal income tax liability; provided that the required information is timely furnished to the IRS.

FATCA Withholding Taxes. Sections 1471 to 1474 of the Code (such sections commonly referred to as "FATCA") impose withholding and reporting requirements on payments of dividends (including constructive dividends received pursuant to a redemption of stock) on BowX Class A Common Stock by certain foreign financial institutions ("FFIs") and certain other non-U.S. persons. These requirements include various U.S. information reporting and due diligence requirements (generally relating to ownership by U.S. persons of interest in or a 5% or greater ownership interest in a non-U.S. entity) have been satisfied, or an exemption applies (typically certified as to by the delivery of a properly completed IRS Form W-8BEN or W-8BEN-E). Non-U.S. holders located in jurisdictions that have an intergovernmental agreement with the United States governing FATCA may be subject to different rules. Non-U.S. holders should consult their tax advisers regarding the effects of FATCA on a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock.

U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS FOR WEWORK STOCKHOLDERS

The following is a discussion of certain U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers for WeWork Stockholders that do not apply to holders of WeWork Capital Stock for BowX Common Stock in the Mergers. This discussion applies only to WeWork Stockholders who hold shares of WeWork Capital Stock as capital assets within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Code (generally, property held for investment).

This discussion does not address all U.S. federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to your particular circumstances, including the impact of the Medicare contribution tax on net investment income, the alternative minimum tax or the special accounting rules in Section 469 of the Code. The following discussion also does not address the tax consequences applicable to holders of WeWork Awards, WeWork Warrants, WeWork Series C Convertible Note, or other options or warrants to acquire WeWork Capital Stock, holders of Partnerships Profits Interest Units, Business Combinations or holders of shares of WeWork Capital Stock who exercise dissenters' rights. In addition, it does not address any tax consequences relevant to holders subject to special rules, including, without limitation:

- U.S. expatriates and former citizens or long-term residents of the United States;
- persons holding shares of WeWork Capital Stock as part of a hedge, straddle or other risk reduction strategy or as part of a conversion or other integrated transaction;
- banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions;

Table of Contents

- brokers, dealers or traders in securities;
- “controlled foreign corporations,” “passive foreign investment companies” and corporations that accumulate earnings to avoid U.S. tax;
- partnerships or other entities or arrangements treated as partnerships for U.S. federal income tax purposes (and investors therein);
- tax-exempt organizations or governmental organizations;
- persons subject to special tax accounting rules as a result of any item of gross income with respect to shares of WeWork Capital into account in an applicable financial statement;
- U.S. holders (as defined below) whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar;
- regulated investment companies or real estate investment trusts;
- tax-qualified retirement plans;
- “qualified foreign pension funds” as defined in Section 897(l)(2) of the Code and entities all of the interests of which are held by pension funds;
- stockholders who acquired their shares of WeWork Capital Stock pursuant to or in connection with options or other compensation;
- stockholders that hold or have held, directly or pursuant to attribution rules, more than 5% of the WeWork Capital Stock at any time during a year period ending on the date of the consummation of the First Merger.

If you are a partnership (or other pass-through entity) for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the tax treatment of your partners will generally depend on the status of the partners, the activities of the partnership and certain determinations made at the partner level. You should consult your own tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences to them relating to the matters discussed below.

For purposes of this discussion, a “U.S. holder” is a beneficial owner of shares of WeWork Capital Stock who or that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, is or is treated as:

- an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States,
 - a corporation organized in or under the laws of the United States, any state thereof or the District of Columbia,
 - an estate, the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income tax regardless of its source, or
- a trust that (1) is subject to the primary supervision of a U.S. court and the control of one or more “United States persons” (within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code) or (2) was in existence on August 20, 1996 and has a valid election in effect to be treated as a U.S. person for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Also, for purposes of this discussion, a “Non-U.S. holder” is any beneficial owner of WeWork Capital Stock who is neither a citizen nor a resident of the United States or a nonresident alien who is not classified as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

The following does not purport to be a complete analysis of all potential tax effects associated with the exchange of WeWork BowX Common Stock in the Mergers. The effects of other U.S. federal tax laws, such as estate and gift tax laws and any applicable U.S. tax laws are not discussed. This discussion is based on the Code, Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder, judicial decisions, rulings and administrative pronouncements of the IRS, in each case in effect as of the date hereof.

These authorities may change or be subject to differing interpretations. Any such change or differing interpretation may be applied in a manner that could adversely affect holders to which this discussion applies and could affect the accuracy of the statements.

THIS DISCUSSION IS NOT TAX ADVICE. INVESTORS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR OWN TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE APPLICATION OF THE U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAWS TO THEIR PARTICULAR SITUATIONS AS WELL AS THE CONSEQUENCES ARISING UNDER THE U.S. FEDERAL ESTATE OR GIFT TAX LAWS OR UNDER THE LAWS OF ANY LOCAL OR NON-U.S. TAXING JURISDICTION OR UNDER ANY APPLICABLE INCOME TAX TREATY.

Treatment of the Mergers

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers, taken together, are intended to constitute a single integrated transaction that is a “reorganization” within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code, and each of BowX and WeWork expects to receive a tax opinion from Cooley and Skadden, respectively, to the effect that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers will constitute a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code. These opinions of counsel will be based on customary assumptions, representations, covenants, and undertakings made by WeWork, Merger Sub and Merger Sub II. If any of the assumptions, representations, covenants or undertakings is incorrect, incomplete or breached, the validity of the opinions may be affected and the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers could differ materially from those described in this proxy statement/prospectus. The obligation of each of WeWork and BowX to complete the Mergers, however, is not contingent upon the receipt of such opinions of Cooley, Skadden or any other counsel.

An opinion of counsel represents counsel’s legal judgment but is not binding on the IRS or any court and there can be no assurance that the IRS will not challenge the conclusions reflected in the opinions or that a court would not sustain such a challenge. Neither BowX nor WeWork will seek a ruling from the IRS with respect to the tax treatment of the Mergers, and as a result, no assurance can be given that the IRS will not challenge the tax treatment of the Mergers, taken together, as a single integrated transaction that qualifies as a reorganization or that a court would not sustain such a challenge. If the IRS were to successfully challenge the “reorganization” status of the Mergers, the tax consequences would differ from those described in this proxy statement/prospectus and holders of WeWork Capital Stock could be subject to U.S. federal income tax upon the receipt of WeWork Capital Stock in the Mergers.

The following discussion assumes that the Mergers, taken together, will constitute a single integrated transaction that qualifies as a “reorganization” within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code:

U.S. Holders

A U.S. holder will generally not recognize gain or loss as a result of the Mergers. A U.S. holder’s aggregate tax basis in BowX Common Stock received pursuant to the Mergers will equal the U.S. holder’s aggregate tax basis in the WeWork Capital Stock exchanged therefor. The holding period in BowX Common Stock received pursuant to the Mergers will include the holding period for its shares of WeWork Capital Stock surrendered in exchange therefor. U.S. holders who hold shares of WeWork Capital Stock with differing bases or holding periods should consult their tax advisors with regard to identifying the bases or holding periods of the particular shares of BowX Common Stock received in the Mergers.

WeWork Stockholder owns both shares of WeWork Common Stock and shares of WeWork Preferred Stock, or owns shares of WeWork Preferred Stock, the WeWork Stockholder will be treated as having separately exchanged its shares of WeWork Common Preferred Stock, as applicable, for shares of BowX Common Stock.

Non-U.S. Holders

A Non-U.S. holder generally will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on any gain realized on the exchange of WeWork BowX Common Stock in the Mergers unless (i) WeWork is or has been a USRPHC for U.S. federal income tax purposes at any time of the five-year period ending on the date of the First Merger or the period that the Non-U.S. holder held its WeWork Capital Stock (“Relevant Period”), and (ii) the BowX Common Stock received by such Non-U.S. holder in the Mergers is regularly traded on an established securities market. Assurances can be given that, on the date of the First Merger, BowX Common Stock will be treated as “regularly traded on an established securities market” for this purpose. A Non-U.S. holder generally will not recognize any loss realized on the exchange of WeWork Capital Stock in the Mergers for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Generally, a corporation is a USRPHC if the fair market value of its U.S. real property interests equals or exceeds 50% of the market value of its worldwide real property interests and its other assets used or held for use in a trade or business (all as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes). As of the date hereof, WeWork believes that it might have been, as of December 31, 2019, and currently might be a USRPHC.

WeWork does not believe that it will be able to provide certification that it is not and has not been a USRPHC at any time during the period preceding the date on which the First Merger is consummated. As a result, Non-U.S. holders will be subject to withholding of U.S. federal income tax equal to 15% of the amount realized on the exchange of their WeWork Capital Stock in the Mergers. For this purpose, the “amount withheld” by a Non-U.S. holder will equal the fair market value of any property (including shares of BowX Common Stock) received by such Non-U.S. holder in the Mergers.

If it is determined that (i) WeWork was a USRPHC at any time during the Relevant Period, and (ii) the BowX Common Stock received by such Non-U.S. holder in the Mergers is regularly traded on an established securities market on the date the First Merger is consummated, the Non-U.S. holder may be subject to U.S. federal income tax on any gain recognized on the exchange of WeWork Capital Stock for BowX Common Stock in the Mergers at generally applicable U.S. federal income tax rates, the amount of which tax may or may not equal the amount withheld by WeWork from such Non-U.S. holder’s amount realized in the Mergers, and the Non-U.S. holder may also be required to file U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such gain. Any amounts withheld from such Non-U.S. holder’s amount realized generally will be allowed as a credit against the Non-U.S. holder’s U.S. federal income tax liability, if any (or as a full or partial refund if such Non-U.S. holder has no U.S. federal income tax liability for the taxable year of the consummation of the Mergers (taking into account that gain recognized by a Non-U.S. holder from the exchange of shares in a USRPHC is taxable at generally applicable U.S. federal income tax rates), the Non-U.S. holder may owe additional tax. Non-U.S. holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding any additional return filing or tax payment obligations (in the United States or any other jurisdiction) and the possibility of obtaining a refund from the IRS.

HOLDERS OF WEWORK CAPITAL STOCK ARE ENCOURAGED TO CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS TO DETERMINE THE SPECIFIC TAX CONSEQUENCES TO THEM OF THE MERGERS, INCLUDING THE EFFECT OF ANY U.S. FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL, NON-U.S. OR OTHER TAX LAWS.

UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED COMBINED FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The following unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2021, the unaudited pro forma condensed statement of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, present the combination information of BowX and WeWork after giving effect to the Business Combination, PIPE Investment, recapitalization (collectively, "Business Combination and Related Transactions") and related adjustments described in the accompanying notes, and have been prepared in accordance with Article 11 of Regulation S-X.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2021 combines the historical balance sheet of BowX and the consolidated balance sheet of WeWork on a pro forma basis as if the Business Combination and Related Transactions, summarized below, had been consummated on June 30, 2021. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, combine the historical statement of operations of BowX and WeWork for such period on a pro forma basis as if the transaction, summarized below, had been consummated on January 1, 2020, the beginning of the earliest period presented.

- The merger of WeWork with and into BowX Merger Sub, a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX, with WeWork surviving the merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX;
- The issuance and sale of 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock for $10.00 per share and an aggregate purchase price of approximately $800 million in the PIPE Investment pursuant to the Subscription Agreements, executed concurrently with the Merger Agreement;
- The conversion of 9,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock into 9,075,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock, with the transaction in accordance with the terms of the Merger Agreement;
- The exchange of all issued and outstanding WeWork Preferred Stock into a number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock using the Exchange Ratio (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257);
- The issuance of the First Warrant to SBWW and/or its designees to purchase New WeWork Class A Common Stock based on the Exchange Ratio (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257);
- The exchange of all issued and outstanding WeWork Common Stock into a number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock using the Exchange Ratio (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257).

At the Closing, all outstanding WeWork Options, WeWork Restricted Stock Units Awards (RSUs) and warrants will be converted into New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable for such WeWork option determined by multiplying the number of WeWork shares upon exercise of such WeWork option multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, rounded down to the nearest whole share. Additionally, the exercise price of each converted option will be determined by dividing the exercise price of the respective WeWork Options by the Exchange Ratio, rounded down to the nearest whole cent.

Each award of WeWork restricted stock units will be converted into New WeWork Restricted Stock Units with the number of restricted stock units to be converted determined by multiplying the number of WeWork Common Stock underlying such New WeWork Restricted Stock Units by the Exchange Ratio.

The following summarizes the pro forma New WeWork Class A Common Stock and New WeWork Class C Common Stock outstanding immediately after the Business Combination and Related Transactions,

- Assumes that 43,231,098 of BowX's outstanding public shares (being our estimate of the maximum number of public shares that could be redeemed in connection with the Business Combination in order to have at least $5,000,001 of net tangible assets upon Closing) are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that (1) shares are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above are approximately a proportional basis between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of BowX Class A shares redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX Public Stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,451 shares of New WeWork common stock at Closing, representing a 3.8% ownership interest.
- Total Consideration to be issued to WeWork is 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (in shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock), the WeWork Series C Convertible Note and in-the-money warrants, respectively, at the Closing. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. (2) the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the Exchange Ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,443 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded Exchange Ratio as of September 14, 2021, and the number of shares as of June 30, 2021, based on the assumptions described above. Inclusion of all such securities would result in pro forma combined share ownership of all stockholders of New WeWork.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information is based on and should be read in conjunction with the audited financial statements of each of BowX and WeWork and the notes thereto, as well as the disclosures contained in the sections titled "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations" and "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations".

On March 25, 2021, BowX Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation ("BowX"), BowX Merger Subsidiary Corp., a Delaware corporation ("Merger Sub") and a direct, wholly owned subsidiary of BowX, and WeWork Inc., a Delaware corporation ("WeWork"), entered into a Plan of Merger (the "Merger Agreement"), pursuant to which, among other transactions, on the terms and conditions set forth therein, BowX will merge with and into WeWork (the "First Merger"), with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX. WeWork, in its capacity as the surviving corporation of the First Merger, is sometimes referred to as the "Surviving Corporation"; and as promptly thereafter, as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Corporation will be merged with and into BowX Merger Subsidiary II, LLC, a liability company (“Merger Sub II”) and a direct wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “Second Merger” and, together with the First Merger, collectively, the “Mergers” and, collectively with the other transactions described in the Merger Agreement, the “Business Combination”), with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger (Merger Sub II, in its capacity as the surviving entity of the Second Merger, is sometimes referred to as the “Surviving Entity”). Following the Closing (as defined herein), BowX intends to change its name to WeWork Inc. (such post-Closing name, “WeWork”).

The following tables present selected pro forma information after giving effect to the Business Combination and Related Transaction under two scenarios:

- Assuming No Redemption: This presentation assumes that no public stockholders of BowX exercise redemption rights with respect to their shares for a pro rata share of the funds in the trust account.

Assuming Maximum Possible Redemption: This presentation assumes 43,231,098 of the public shares are redeemed for their pro rata share of the funds in BowX’s trust account. This scenario gives effect to BowX’s public share redemptions of 43,231,098 shares for aggregate cash payments of $432.3 million. The Merger Agreement includes as a condition to closing the business combination that, at the closing:

- a minimum of $800 million in cash comprising (i) the amount of cash available in the trust account immediately prior to closing, less the amount required to satisfy the share redemption amount (but prior to payment of any (a) deferred underwriting commissions held by WeWork and (b) any transaction expenses of WeWork and BowX), and (ii) the PIPE investment amount received by BowX prior to or concurrently with the closing. The proceeds from the PIPE investment are expected to satisfy the minimum cash requirement.

Note 1. Basis of Presentation

The pro forma adjustments have been prepared as if the Business Combination and Related Transactions had been consummated on September 14, 2021, in the case of the unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet and on January 1, 2020, the beginning of the earliest period presented in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information has been prepared assuming that, as of September 14, 2021, the Exchange Ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information has been prepared assuming the following methods of accounting in accordance with U.S. GAAP and SEC rules and regulations.

The historical financial information of BowX and WeWork has been adjusted in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information to reflect transaction accounting adjustments related to the Business Combination and Related Transactions in accordance with U.S. GAAP and SEC rules and regulations.

Transaction costs that are determined to be directly attributable and incremental to the transaction will be deferred and recorded in the balance sheet leading up until the Closing. For the pro forma purposes, such costs will be recorded as a reduction in cash with no reduction of additional paid-in capital.

Notwithstanding the legal form of the Business Combination pursuant to the Merger Agreement the Business Combination will be accounted for under Financial Accounting Standards Board's Accounting Standards Codification Topic 805, Business Combinations ("ASC 805"), as a reverse acquisition and a recapitalization of WeWork. The Business Combination will be accounted for as a reverse acquisition because WeWork is determined to be the accounting acquirer primarily based on the evaluation of the following facts and circumstances taking into consideration the no redemption and maximum redemption scenario:

- Existing WeWork stockholders comprise a relative majority of the voting power of the combined company,
- WeWork's operations prior to the acquisition comprise the only ongoing operations of New WeWork,
- The majority of New WeWork's board of directors are being appointed by WeWork Stockholders, and
- The majority of New WeWork's senior management are being comprised of WeWork's senior management.

Accordingly, the Business Combination is expected to be reflected as the equivalent of WeWork issuing stock for the net assets of BowX accompanied by a recapitalization. Under this method of accounting, BowX is treated as the "acquired" company for financial reporting purposes. The net assets of BowX are stated at historical cost, with no goodwill or other intangible assets recorded. Operations prior to the Business Combination will be accounted for as the operations of WeWork.

Following the Closing (as defined below) of the Business Combination and Related Transactions, holders of BowX Class A Common Stock exercising redemption rights will receive their per share redemption price out of the funds in the trust account. Each BowX Stockholder of BowX Class A Common Stock may elect to redeem all or a portion of its BowX Class A Common Stock at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to a pro rata share of the aggregate amount on deposit in the trust account (including any interest earned on the funds held in the trust account).

As part of the preparation of these unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements, certain reclassifications were made to WeWork's and BowX's financial statement presentation. Upon completion of the Business Combination and Related Transactions, management will perform a comprehensive review of WeWork's and BowX's policies. As a result of the review, management may identify differences between the accounting policies of the two entities which, if any, could have a material impact on the financial statements of the post-combination company.

Note 2. Description of Business Combination

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which, among other things, (i) Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and WeWork will be the surviving wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the "First Merger") and (ii) as soon as practicable following the First Merger and as part of the transaction as the First Merger, the surviving corporation will merge with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving merger (the "Second Merger" and together with the First Merger, the "Mergers"). In connection with the transaction, BowX will change its name to WeWork, Inc.

In accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement, the closing of the First Merger (the "Closing") will occur on the date which is two (2) business days after the first date on which all conditions set forth in Article IX of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived (other than those conditions that by their terms are to be satisfied at the Closing) or such other time and place as BowX and WeWork mutually agree in writing. The date on which the Closing actually occurs is referred to in the Merger Agreement as the "Closing Date". The date on which the First Merger becomes effective is referred to as the "Effective Time."

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Closing of the First Merger (other than shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock, Treasury Shares, Dissenting Shares and shares of WeWork Awards reserved in respect of WeWork Awards (each as defined in this proxy statement/prospectus section entitled "BCA Proposal — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities")) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration.

Additionally, as a result of and upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as the WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will entitle the holder to a whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time.

The Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors, for a total purchase price of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX's trust account following the Effective Time of the First Merger, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. For further details, see the BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities — Aggregate Merger Consideration.

Pursuant to the Organizational Documents, a public stockholder may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of its common stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated determined by the pro rata portion of the amount then on deposit in the trust account within two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination.

INFORMATION ABOUT BOWX

Unless the context otherwise requires, all references in this section to the “Company,” “we,” “us” or “our” refer to BowX, Inc. and its wholly-owned subsidiary, BowX Acquisition Corp., collectively, and to their respective successors and permitted assigns, unless the context otherwise requires.

General

BowX is a blank check company formed under the laws of the State of Delaware on May 19, 2020. We were formed for the purpose of effecting a business combination with one or more target businesses. We may effect a business combination through a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, recapitalization, reorganization or other similar business combination transaction with one or more target businesses or entities. Although not limited to a particular industry or geographic location for purposes of consummating a business combination, we currently focus on businesses in the technology, media and telecommunications (“TMT”) industries.

On August 7, 2020, we consummated our initial public offering of 42,000,000 units, at $10.00 per unit, and, on August 13, 2020, upon the underwriters’ exercise of the full over-allotment option, we consummated the sale of an additional 6,300,000 units, at $10.00 per unit, generating aggregate gross proceeds of $483,000,000. Simultaneously with the closing of each of our initial public offering and the underwriters’ exercise of the over-allotment option, we consummated the sale of an aggregate of 6,933,333 and 840,000 private placement units at a price of $1.50 each to certain of our initial stockholders and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc. for aggregate proceeds of approximately $11,660,000.

Upon the closing of the sale of the units in our initial public offering and the sale of the private placement warrants, $483.0 million (per unit) was placed in a trust account located in the United States, which was invested in U.S. government securities, within the meaning of Section 2(a)(16) of the Investment Company Act, with a maturity of 185 days or less or in an open-ended investment company that holds a money market fund selected by the Company meeting the conditions of Rule 2a-7 of the Investment Company Act, as determined as of June 30, 2021, funds in the trust account totaled $483.1 million. These funds will remain in the trust account, except for the withdrawal of taxes, if any, until the earliest of: (i) the completion of our initial business combination; (ii) the redemption of any of our public stockholders properly submitted in connection with a stockholder vote to amend certain provisions of the Existing Charter prior to our initial business combination and (iii) the redemption of 100% of the shares of our public stock if we do not complete a business combination by December 31, 2021.

Effecting BowX’s Initial Business Combination

Lack of Business Diversification

For an indefinite period of time after the completion of our initial business combination, the prospects for our success may depend on the future performance of a single business. Unlike other entities that have the resources to complete business combinations with multiple target companies across several industries, it is probable that we will not have the resources to diversify our operations and mitigate the risks of being in a single industry.

By completing our business combination with only a single entity, our lack of diversification may:

- subject us to negative economic, competitive, and regulatory developments, any or all of which may have a substantial adverse effect on the particular industry in which we operate after our initial business combination; and
- cause us to depend on the marketing and sale of a single product or limited number of products or services.

Limited Ability to Evaluate WeWork’s Management Team

Although we closely scrutinized the management of WeWork when evaluating the desirability of effecting our initial business combination with that business, our assessment of WeWork’s management may not prove to be accurate.

be correct. In addition, future management may not have the necessary skills, qualifications or abilities to manage a public company. The future role of members of our management team, if any, in New WeWork cannot presently be stated with any certainty. While Vivek Wadhwa will remain associated with New WeWork as a director following the Business Combination, it is presently unknown if he will devote his time and affairs subsequent to the Business Combination. The determination as to whether any members of our management team will remain with the company will be made at the time of the Business Combination.

Following the Business Combination, to the extent that we deem it necessary, we may seek to recruit additional managers to the incumbent management team of WeWork. We cannot assure you that we will have the ability to recruit additional managers, or that any such new managers will have the requisite skills, knowledge or experience necessary to enhance the incumbent management.

Fair Market Value of Target Business

The rules of Nasdaq require that BowX's Business Combination must be with one or more operating businesses or assets with a fair market value equal to at least 80% of the assets held in the trust account (net of amounts disbursed to management for working capital purposes, excluding the amount of any deferred underwriting fees and taxes payable on the income earned on the trust account). BowX's board of directors has determined that this test was met in connection with the proposed Business Combination. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal Selection Test" for more details.

Permitted Purchases of, and Other Transactions with Respect to, Our Securities

Our initial stockholders, directors, officers, advisors or their respective affiliates may purchase public stock or public warrants of the Company in privately negotiated transactions or in the open market either prior to or following the completion of the Business Combination. There is no limit on the number of securities such persons may purchase. Additionally, at any time at or prior to the Business Combination, subject to applicable securities laws (including with respect to material non-public information), our initial stockholders, directors, officers, advisors or their respective affiliates may enter into transactions with investors and others to provide them with incentives to acquire public stock, vote their public stock in our initial business combination or not redeem their public stock. However, they have no current commitments, plans or intentions to make purchases or other transactions and have not formulated any terms or conditions for any such purchases or other transactions. None of the persons who will be entitled to exercise their redemption rights will be entitled to do so prior to the date on which the trust account will be used to purchase public stock or warrants in such transactions. Such persons will be subject to restrictions in making purchases when they are in possession of any material non-public information or if such purchases are prohibited by Regulation M under the Exchange Act. Such a purchase may include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of our stock, is a beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights.

In the event that our initial stockholders, directors, officers, advisors or their respective affiliates purchase public stock in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights or submitted a proxy to vote against the Business Combination, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their stock and any proxy to vote against the Business Combination. We do not currently anticipate that such purchases, if any, would constitute a tender offer subject to the tender offer rules of the Exchange Act or a going-private transaction subject to the going-private rules under the Exchange Act; however, if the purchasers are able to do so at the time of any such purchases that the purchases are subject to such rules, the purchasers will be required to comply with such rules.

The purpose of any such transaction could be to (i) vote such shares in favor of the Business Combination and thereby increase the likelihood of obtaining stockholder approval of the Business Combination, (ii) reduce the number of public warrants outstanding or to vote such warrants on any matters submitted to the warrant holders for approval in connection with (i) the consummation of the Business Combination or (ii) the exercise of the warrants held by our stockholders who are not party to the Business Combination Agreement or (iii) satisfy the Minimum Available Cash Condition, where it appears that such requirement would otherwise preclude us from completing the Business Combination. Such transactions may result in the completion of the Business Combination when it may not otherwise have been possible.

In addition, if such purchases are made, the public “float” of BowX Class A Common Stock or public warrants and the number of holders of our securities may be reduced, possibly making it difficult to obtain or maintain the quotation, listing or trading of our securities on a securities exchange.

It is likely that our initial stockholders, officers, directors and/or their respective affiliates would identify the stockholders with whom they have relationships and pursue privately negotiated transactions by either the stockholders contacting us or them directly or by our receipt of redemption requests from stockholders (in the case of public stock) following our mailing of proxy materials in connection with the Business Combination. To the extent that our initial stockholders, officers, directors, advisors or their respective affiliates enter into a private transaction, they would identify any potential selling or redeeming stockholders who have expressed their election to redeem their stock for a pro rata share of the trust created against the Business Combination. Our initial stockholders, officers, directors, advisors or their respective affiliates are restricted from purchasing shares of BowX unless such purchases comply with Regulation M under the Exchange Act and the other federal securities laws.

Redemption Rights for Public Stockholders Upon Completion of Our Initial Business Combination

We are providing our public stockholders with the opportunity to redeem all or a portion of their BowX Class A Common Stock upon completion of our initial business combination. Pursuant to the Existing Charter, we are:

- conducting the redemptions in conjunction with a proxy solicitation pursuant to Regulation 14A of the Exchange Act, which regulates the use of proxies, and not pursuant to the tender offer rules, and
- filing proxy materials with the SEC.

As described above, we will complete the Business Combination only if a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock voted in favor of the Business Combination. A quorum for such meeting will consist of the holders attending virtually or by proxy of all of the outstanding capital stock of the Company representing a majority of the voting power of all outstanding shares of BowX capital stock entitled to vote at such meeting. Our initial stockholders, officers and directors will count toward this quorum and have agreed to vote any founder shares held by them in favor of our initial business combination. As a result, in addition to their founder shares, we would need only 37.5% (assuming all outstanding shares are voted), of the 48,300,000 public shares sold in the initial public offering to be voted in favor of the Business Combination in order to have the Business Combination approved. However, because we generally only need a majority of the outstanding shares of a proposed business combination to have such transaction approved, the number of shares of public stock needed to be voted in favor of the transaction decreases as the overall number of shares of public stock voted decreases. Accordingly, we would need only 3,018,751 shares of public stock sold in our initial public offering to be voted in favor of a transaction if only the minimum number of shares representing a quorum are voted in order to have the Business Combination approved (assuming the underwriters’ exercise of the over-allotment option is not exercised). These quorums and voting thresholds, and the voting agreements of our initial stockholders, officers and directors, are likely that we will consummate the Business Combination. Each public stockholder may elect to redeem his, her or its shares of public stock regardless of whether he, she or it votes for or against the proposed transaction or do not vote at all.

Our Existing Charter provides that we will only redeem our public shares so long as (after such redemption) our net tangible assets per share are less than $5,000,001 either immediately prior to or upon consummation of our initial business combination.

business combination (so that we do not then become subject to the SEC's "penny stock" rules) or any greater net tangible asset or which may be contained in the agreement relating to our initial business combination. In the event the aggregate cash consideration required to pay for all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that are validly submitted for redemption plus any amount required conditions pursuant to the terms of the proposed Business Combination exceed the aggregate amount of cash available to us, we will not consummate the Business Combination or redeem any shares, and all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock submitted for redemption will be returned to the holders thereof, and instead we may search for an alternate business combination.

Limitations on Redemptions Upon Completion of Our Initial Business Combination

Notwithstanding the foregoing, our Existing Charter provides that a public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such stockholder and any person with whom such stockholder is acting in concert or as a “group” (as defined under Section 13 of the Exchange Act), will be prohibited from redeeming its shares with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the shares sold in our initial public offering (“Excess Shares”) without our prior consent. We believe this restriction discourages stockholders from accumulating large blocks of shares, and subsequently causing such holders to use their ability to exercise their redemption rights against a proposed business combination as a means to force us or our management to purchase their shares at a significant premium to the then-current market price or on other undesirable terms. Absent this provision, a stockholder holding more than an aggregate of 15% of the shares sold in our initial public offering could threaten to exercise its redemption rights if such shares are not purchased by us or our management at a premium to the then-current market price or on other undesirable terms. In addition, we believe that limiting stockholders’ ability to redeem no more than 15% of the shares sold in our initial public offering, we believe we limit the ability of stockholders to unreasonably attempt to block our ability to complete our initial business combination, particularly in connection with a proposed business combination with a target that requires as a closing condition that we have a minimum net worth or a certain amount of cash. However, our Existing Charter does not restrict our stockholders’ ability to vote all of their shares (including Excess Shares) for or against our initial business combination.

Redemption of Shares of Public Stock and Liquidation if No Business Combination

Our Existing Charter provides that we have until August 7, 2022, to complete the Business Combination or another initial business combination beyond August 7, 2022, as a result of a stockholder vote to amend our Existing Charter (“Extension Period”), we will operate except for the purpose of winding up; (ii) as promptly as reasonably possible but not more than ten business days thereafter, public stock, at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account including interest ($100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses), divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock, which redemption will extinguish public stockholders’ rights as stockholders (including the right to receive further liquidating distributions, if any); and (iii) as reasonably possible following such redemption, subject to the approval of our remaining stockholders and our board of directors, distribute subject in the case of clauses (ii) and (iii) to our obligations under the DGCL to provide for claims of creditors and the requirements of law. There will be no redemption rights or liquidating distributions with respect to our warrants, which will expire worthless if we fail to consummate our initial business combination within the allotted time period.

The Sponsor and Sponsor Persons have waived their rights to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to any Stock held by them if we fail to complete our initial business combination within the allotted time period. However, if they acquire shares in the open market they will be entitled to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to such shares of public stock if we fail to complete our initial business combination within the allotted time period.

We will not propose any amendment to our Existing Charter (A) to modify the substance or timing of our obligation to allow connection with our initial business combination or certain amendments to our Existing Charter or to redeem 100% of our public stock complete our initial business combination by August 7, 2022, or (B) with respect to any other provision relating to stockholders' rights business combination activity, unless we provide our public stockholders with the opportunity to redeem their public stock upon approval of such amendment at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account, divided by the number of outstanding shares of public stock. However, we will only redeem our public stock so long as (after such redemption) our net tangible assets are at least $5,000,001 either immediately prior to or upon consummation of our initial business combination (so that we do not then become subject to the SEC's "penny stock" rules). If this optional redemption right is exercised with respect to an excessive number of shares of public stock, we cannot satisfy the net tangible asset requirement (described above) we would not proceed with the amendment or the related redemption of public stock.

BowX expects that all costs and expenses associated with implementing its plan of dissolution, as well as payments to any creditors will be funded from amounts remaining out of the approximately $1,250,000 of proceeds held outside the trust account, although it cannot assure you that these funds will be sufficient funds for such purpose. However, if those funds are not sufficient to cover the costs and expenses associated with the implementation of BowX's plan of dissolution, to the extent that there is any interest accrued in the trust account not required to pay taxes, BowX may release to it an additional amount of up to $100,000 of such accrued interest to pay those costs and expenses.

If we were to expend all of the net proceeds from our initial public offering and the sale of the private placement warrants, other than those deposited in the trust account, and without taking into account interest, if any, earned on the trust account and any tax payments made in connection with the dissolution of the trust, the per-share redemption amount received by stockholders upon our dissolution would be $10.00. The proceeds in the trust account could, however, become subject to the claims of BowX's creditors which would have higher priority than the claims of stockholders. BowX cannot assure you that the actual per-share redemption amount received by public stockholders will not be substantially less than $10.00. See the section entitled "Risk Factors — Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX — If third parties bring claims against us, the proceeds held in the trust account could be reduced and the per share redemption amount received by stockholders may be less than the offering price per unit in our initial public offering" and other risk factors contained herein. While BowX intends to have funds available to pay or provide for all creditors' claims in the amounts, if any, BowX cannot assure you that BowX will have funds sufficient to pay or provide for all creditors' claims. Under Section 203 of the DGCL, our plan of dissolution must provide for all claims against us to be paid in full or make provision for payments to be made in accordance with the priorities of creditors if there are sufficient assets. These claims must be paid or provided for before we make any distribution of our remaining assets to stockholders.

While we intend to pay such amounts, if any, we cannot assure you that we will have funds sufficient to pay or provide for all creditors' claims.

Although we seek to have all vendors, service providers, prospective target businesses and other entities with which we do business enter into agreements with us waiving any right, title, interest and claim of any kind in or to any monies held in the trust account for the benefit of stockholders, there is no guarantee that they will execute such agreements or even if they execute such agreements that they would not subsequently bring claims against the trust account including, but not limited to, fraudulent inducement, breach of fiduciary responsibility or other similar claims, as well as claims challenging the enforceability of the waiver, in each case in order to gain an advantage with respect to a claim against us, including the funds held in the trust account. If any third party refuses to execute an agreement waiving such claims to the monies held in the trust account, our management will perform an analysis of the alternatives available to it and will only enter into an agreement with a third party that has executed a waiver if management believes that such third party's engagement would be significantly more beneficial to us than a waiver by another party. Examples of possible instances where we may engage a third party that refuses to execute a waiver include the engagement of a third party to provide legal services to us.

consultant whose particular expertise or skills are believed by management to be significantly superior to those of other consultants execute a waiver or in cases where management is unable to find a service provider willing to execute a waiver. Our independent accounting firm did not execute agreements with us waiving such claims to the monies held in the trust account, nor did the underwriters public offering.

In the event that the proceeds in the trust account are reduced below (i) $10.00 per share of public stock or (ii) such lesser amount of public stock held in the trust account as of the date of the liquidation of the trust account, due to reductions in the value of the trust assets net of the amount of interest which may be withdrawn to pay taxes, and our Sponsor asserts that it is unable to satisfy its indemnification obligations to us, our independent directors would determine whether to take legal action against our Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations. While we currently expect that our independent directors would take legal action against our Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations to us, it is possible that our independent directors in exercising their best judgment may choose not to do so if, for example, the cost of such legal action is deemed by the independent directors to be too high relative to the amount recoverable or if the independent directors determine that a favorable outcome is not likely. We have not asked our Sponsor to release us from its indemnification obligations. Therefore, we believe it is unlikely the Sponsor would be able to satisfy those obligations. Accordingly, we advise you that due to claims of creditors the actual value of the per-share redemption price will not be less than $10.00 per share of our common stock.

We seek to reduce the possibility that our Sponsor will have to indemnify the trust account due to claims of creditors by vendors, service providers, prospective target businesses and other entities with which we do business execute agreements with us title, interest or claim of any kind in or to monies held in the trust account. The amounts due to parties that did not waive their right from funds in the trust account are not material and we do not expect significant increases in such amounts prior to the Business Combination. Sponsor will not be liable as to any claims under our indemnity of the underwriters of our initial public offering against certain liabilities under the Securities Act. We have access to up to approximately $1,250,000 from the proceeds of our initial public offering private placement warrants with which to pay any such potential claims. In the event that we liquidate and it is subsequently determined that claims and liabilities is insufficient, stockholders who received funds from our trust account could be liable for claims made by event that our offering expenses exceed our estimate of $750,000, we may fund such excess with funds from the funds not to be account. In such case, the amount of funds we intend to be held outside the trust account would decrease by a corresponding amount. event that the offering expenses are less than our estimate of $750,000, the amount of funds we intend to be held outside the trust increase by a corresponding amount. See the section entitled “Risk Factors — Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX bringing claims against BowX, the proceeds held in the trust account could be reduced and the per share redemption amount received by be less than $10.00 per share (which was the offering price per unit in our initial public offering)” and other risk factors contained

If we file a bankruptcy petition or an involuntary bankruptcy petition is filed against us that is not dismissed, the proceeds held could be subject to applicable bankruptcy law, and may be included in our bankruptcy estate and subject to the claims of third parties the claims of our stockholders. To the extent any bankruptcy claims deplete the trust account, we cannot assure you we will be able to share to our public stockholders. Additionally, if we file a bankruptcy petition or an involuntary bankruptcy petition is filed again dismissed, any distributions received by stockholders could be viewed under applicable debtor/creditor and/or bankruptcy laws as either a “preferential transfer” or a “fraudulent conveyance.” As a result, a bankruptcy court could seek to recover some or all amounts received by our Furthermore, our board of directors may be viewed as having breached its fiduciary duty to our creditors and/or may have acted in exposing itself and our company to claims of punitive damages, by paying public stockholders from the trust account prior to addressing creditors. cannot assure you that claims will not be brought against us for these reasons. Our public stockholders will be entitled to receive funds from the trust account only on the earliest of (a) the completion of our initial business combination and then, only in connection with those shares of public stock that such stockholder has properly elected to redeem, (b) if any share of public stock properly submitted in connection with a stockholder vote to amend our Existing Charter (i) to modify the substance of our obligation to allow redemption in connection with our initial business combination or to redeem 100% of our public stock if we complete our initial business combination by August 7, 2022, or (ii) with respect to any other provisions relating to stockholders’ rights or preferences in connection with our initial business combination activity and (c) the redemption of our public stock if we have not completed our business combination by August 7, 2022, under applicable law. Stockholders who do not exercise their rights to the funds in connection with an amendment to our Existing Charter will have no rights to the funds in connection with a subsequent business combination. Number, Terms of Office and Appointment of Directors and Officers

Our board of directors consists of five members and is divided into three classes with only one class of directors being elected each year. Each director serves a three-year term. The term of office of the first class of directors, consisting of Vijay Advani, will expire at our first annual meeting of stockholders. The term of office of the second class of directors, consisting of Eric C.W. Dunn and Lori Wright, will expire at the second annual meeting of stockholders. The term of office of the third class of directors, consisting of Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode, will expire at the third annual meeting of stockholders. Our directors and the structure of the board will change if the Business Combination consummated See the section entitled “Organizational Documents Proposals” and “Director Election Proposal” for more information.

Our officers are appointed by the board of directors and serve at the discretion of the board of directors, rather than for specific terms. Our board of directors is authorized to appoint persons to the offices set forth in our Existing Bylaws as it deems appropriate. Our bylaws provide that our officers may consist of one or more Chairmen of the Board, one or more Chief Executive Officers, a President, a Vice President, an Officer, a Chief Investment Officer, Vice Presidents, Secretary, Treasurer and such other officers as may be determined by the board of directors.

Director Independence

Nasdaq listing standards require that a majority of our board of directors be independent. An “independent director” is defined as a person other than an officer or employee of the company or its subsidiaries or any other individual having a relationship which, in the judgment of the board of directors, would interfere with the director’s exercise of independent judgment in carrying out the responsibilities of being a director. Our board of directors has determined that Messrs. Dunn and Advani and Ms. Wright are “independent directors” as defined in the Nasdaq listing standards and applicable SEC rules. Our audit committee is composed of independent directors meeting Nasdaq’s additional requirements applicable to audit committees. Our independent directors will have regularly scheduled meetings at which only independent directors will participate.

Committees of the Board of Directors

We have three standing committees: an audit committee, a nominating committee, and a compensation committee. Each subcommittee is composed of solely independent directors.

Audit Committee

Effective August 7, 2020, we established an audit committee of the board of directors, which consists of Eric C.W. Dunn, Vijaya Advani and Wright. Under the Nasdaq listing standards and applicable SEC rules, we are required to have at least three members of the audit committee, all of whom must be independent, subject to certain phase-in provisions which we are not taking advantage of. Messrs. Dunn and Advani meet the independent director standard under Nasdaq listing standards and under Rule 10-A-3(b)(1) of the Exchange Act.

Each member of the audit committee is financially literate and our board of directors has determined that Mr. Dunn and Mr. Advani meet the requirements to be designated as an “audit committee financial expert” as defined in applicable SEC rules.

We have adopted an audit committee charter, which details the principal functions of the audit committee, including:

- the appointment, compensation, retention, replacement, and oversight of the work of the independent auditors and any other independent public accounting firm engaged by us;
- pre-approving all audit and permitted non-audit services to be provided by the independent auditors or any other registered public accounting firm engaged by us, and establishing pre-approval policies and procedures;
- reviewing and discussing with the independent auditors all relationships the auditors have with us in order to evaluate their continuing independence.

- setting clear hiring policies for employees or former employees of the independent auditors;
- setting clear policies for audit partner rotation in compliance with applicable laws and regulations;
- obtaining and reviewing a report, at least annually, from the independent auditors describing (i) the independent auditor's internal procedures and (ii) any material issues raised by the most recent internal quality-control review, or peer review, of the audit firm, or investigation by governmental or professional authorities within the preceding five years respecting one or more independent auditors of the firm and any steps taken to deal with such issues;
- reviewing and approving any related party transaction required to be disclosed pursuant to Item 404 of Regulation S-K promulgated by the SEC prior to us entering into such transaction; and
- reviewing with management, the independent auditors, and our legal advisors, as appropriate, any legal, regulatory or compliance issues, any correspondence with regulators or government agencies and any employee complaints or published reports that raise material issues regarding our financial statements or accounting policies and any significant changes in accounting standards or rules promulgated by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, the SEC or other regulatory authorities.

During the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to March 31, 2021, our audit committee held two meetings.

Financial Experts on Audit Committee

The board of directors has determined that Mr. Dunn and Mr. Advani each qualifies as an “audit committee financial expert” under applicable SEC rules.

Nominating Committee

Effective August 7, 2020, we established a nominating committee of the board of directors, which consists of Eric C.W. Dunn, Lori Wright, each of whom is an independent director under Nasdaq's listing standards. The nominating committee is responsible for the selection of persons to be nominated to serve on our board of directors. The nominating committee considers persons identified by management, stockholders, investment bankers and others.

During the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to March 31, 2021, our nominating committee did not hold any meetings.

Guidelines for Selecting Director Nominees

The guidelines for selecting nominees, which are specified in the nominating committee charter, generally provide that persons:

- should have demonstrated notable or significant achievements in business, education or public service;
- should possess the requisite intelligence, education and experience to make a significant contribution to the board of directors and bring new skills, diverse perspectives and backgrounds to its deliberations; and
- should have the highest ethical standards, a strong sense of professionalism and intense dedication to serving the interests of the shareholders.

The nominating committee will consider a number of qualifications relating to management and leadership experience, background and professionalism in evaluating a person's candidacy for membership on the board of directors. The nominating committee may rely on other factors or attributes, such as financial or accounting experience, to meet specific board needs that arise from time to time and will also consider the overall experience and members to obtain a broad and diverse mix of board members. The nominating committee will not distinguish among nominees recommended by stockholders and other persons.

There have been no material changes to the procedures by which security holders may recommend nominees to our board of directors. Such material changes will occur if the Business Combination is consummated. See the section entitled “Submission of Stockholder Proposals” for more details.

Compensation Committee

Effective August 7, 2020, we established a compensation committee of the board of directors, which consists of Eric C.W. Du and Lori Wright. Under the Nasdaq listing standards and applicable SEC rules, we are required to have at least two members of the compensation committee, all of whom must be independent, subject to certain phase-in provisions which we are not taking advantage of. Messrs. Du and Ms. Wright meet the independent director standard under Nasdaq listing standards applicable to members of the compensation committee.

Our compensation committee charter details the principal functions of the compensation committee, including:

- reviewing and approving on an annual basis the corporate goals and objectives relevant to our chief executive officer’s compensation;
- chief executive officer’s performance in light of such goals and objectives and determining and approving the remuneration (if any) of the chief executive officer based on such evaluation;
- reviewing and approving on an annual basis the compensation of all of our other officers;
- reviewing on an annual basis our executive compensation policies and plans;
- implementing and administering our incentive compensation equity-based remuneration plans;
- assisting management in complying with our proxy statement and annual report disclosure requirements;
- approving all special perquisites, special cash payments and other special compensation and benefit arrangements for our executive employees;
- if required, producing a report on executive compensation to be included in our annual proxy statement; and
- reviewing, evaluating and recommending changes, if appropriate, to the remuneration for directors.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, as indicated above, other than reimbursement of expenses, no compensation of any kind, including consulting or other similar fees, will be paid to any of our initial stockholders, officers, directors or any of their respective affiliates, for services they render in order to complete the consummation of a business combination, except that at the closing of our initial business combination, we may pay a customary financial consulting fee, which will not be made from the proceeds of our initial public offering held in the trustee account until the completion of our initial business combination. We may pay such financial consulting fee in the event such party or parties provide services to the target company, industry, financial or market expertise, as well as insights, relationships, services or resources in order to assess whether to consummate an initial business combination. The amount of any such financial consulting fee we pay will be based upon the prevailing rates for similar services for comparable transactions at such time, and will be subject to the review of our audit committee pursuant to the audit committee policies and procedures relating to transactions that may present conflicts of interest. We would disclose any such fee in the proxy materials used in connection with a proposed business combination. Accordingly, it is likely that prior to the consummation of the Business Combination, the compensation committee will only be responsible for the review and retain or obtain any compensation arrangements to be entered into in connection with such initial business combination.

The compensation committee charter will also provide that the compensation committee may, in its sole discretion, retain or obtain a compensation consultant, legal counsel or other adviser and will be directly responsible for the appointment, compensation and oversight of any such adviser. However, before engaging or receiving advice from a compensation consultant, external legal counsel or any other adviser, the compensation committee will consider the independence of each such adviser, including the factors required by Nasdaq and the SEC.

During the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to March 31, 2021, our compensation committee did not hold any meetings.

Code of Ethics

Effective August 7, 2020, we adopted a code of ethics that applies to all of our executive officers, directors, and employees. The code of ethics codifies the business and ethical principles that govern all aspects of our business. We will provide, without charge, upon request, copies of our code of ethics. Requests for copies of our code of ethics should be sent in writing to our executive office.

Executive Officer and Director Compensation

None of our officers or directors has received any cash compensation for services rendered to us. No compensation of any kind, including consulting fees, will be paid by us to our initial stockholders, officers and directors, or any of their respective affiliates, for services rendered or in connection with the completion of the Business Combination. However, these individuals will be reimbursed for any out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities on our behalf including those related to the Business Combination. There have not been any management fees subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing.

After the completion of the Business Combination, directors or members of our management team who remain with us may be entitled to receive compensation, including management fees from the combined company. We have not established any limit on the amount of such fees that may be paid by the combined company to our directors or members of management. It is unlikely the amount of such compensation will be known at the time of the Business Combination, because the directors of the post-combination business will be responsible for determining officer and director compensation. Any compensation to be paid to our officers will be determined, or recommended to the board of directors for determination, either by the compensation committee constituted solely by independent directors or by a majority of the independent directors on our board of directors.

It is also anticipated that, following completion of the Business Combination, certain WeWork directors may be compensated for services provided prior to the Business Combination. As of the date hereof, no determination has been made with respect to whether and to what extent compensation will be provided.

Following a business combination, to the extent we deem it necessary, we may seek to recruit additional managers to supplement the management team of the target business. We cannot assure you that we will have the ability to recruit additional managers, or that any new managers will have the requisite skills, knowledge, or experience necessary to enhance the incumbent management.

Since our formation, we have not granted any stock options or stock appreciation rights or any other awards under long-term incentive plans to any of our executive officers or directors.

Legal Proceedings

Overview

We are a blank check company incorporated as a Delaware corporation on May 19, 2020. We were formed for the purpose of effecting a business combination with a target business. We are an emerging growth company and, as such, we are subject to all of the risks associated with being an emerging growth company.

Proposed Business Combination

On March 25, 2021, we entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which the Business Combinations will occur, ultimately resulting in Merger Sub II (which will own all of the assets of WeWork after the Mergers) becoming our wholly owned subsidiary through the Mergers. The purchase price will be paid in shares of BowX Common Stock with no cash component. At the Closing, we expect to issue to WeWork Stockholders an aggregate of 655,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock, WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money warrants, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock) and the WeWork Series C Convertible Note, respectively, at the Closing. Shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the exchange ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,000 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock). See the section titled “Merger Agreement — Background to the Business Combination” beginning on page 101 for more information.

WeWork is the leading global flexible workspace provider, serving a membership base of businesses large and small through WeWork locations and WeWork locations around the world as of June 30, 2021, respectively. With that global footprint, WeWork has worked to establish the preeminent brand within the flexible workspace category, by combining prime locations and unique design with member-first hospitality and exceptional community experiences.

The Closing is subject to certain conditions, including, but not limited to the approval of our stockholders of the Merger Agreement. The Merger Agreement may also be terminated by either party under certain circumstances, including upon notice after October 31, 2021, by either party for any reason. The parties have agreed to customary exclusivity obligations. The Closing will occur as promptly as practicable, but in no event later than two business days after the satisfaction or waiver of all of the closing conditions contained in the Merger Agreement. For additional details about the Merger Agreement, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement.”

The Business Combination also calls for additional agreements, including, among others, the Sponsor Support Agreement, Transaction Agreements, and Registration Rights Agreement, as described in the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements.”

We have entered into engagement letters or agreements with various consultants, advisors, professionals and others in connection with the Business Combination. The services under these engagement letters and agreements are material in amount and in some instances include success fees. The aggregate fees due under such engagement letters and agreements are approximately $48.2 million and approximately half of those fees are contingent on completion of the Business Combination. We estimate that our total transaction costs for the Business Combination will aggregate approximately $16.9 million (including the deferred underwriting commissions from our initial public offering). A substantial portion of these costs (including contingent or success fees and ongoing accrued transaction costs, but not the $16.9 million in underwriters’ fees) will be charged to operations in the quarter that the Closing occurs. In most instances, these engagement letters and agreements specifically provide that such counterparties waive their rights to seek repayment from the funds in the trust account.

The Business Combination will be accounted for as a reverse capitalization in accordance with GAAP. Under this method of accounting, WeWork will be treated as the “acquired” company for financial reporting purposes. For accounting purposes, WeWork will be deemed to be the acquirer in the transaction and, consequently, the transaction will be treated as a recapitalization of WeWork (i.e., a capital transaction involving the issuance of stock by BowX for the stock of WeWork). Accordingly, the consolidated assets, liabilities and results of operations of WeWork will be included in the historical financial statements of New WeWork, and BowX’s assets, liabilities and results of operations will be consolidated with WeWork’s assets, liabilities and results of operations on the acquisition date.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

On August 7, 2020, we consummated our initial public offering of 42,000,000 units at $10.00 per unit, generating gross proceeds of approximately $420.0 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $23.6 million, inclusive of $14.7 million in deferred underwriting commissions. On August 10, 2020, the underwriters exercised the over-allotment option to purchase an additional 6,300,000 units at the initial public offering price of $10.00 per unit and we consummated the sale of such units on August 13, 2020, generating additional gross proceeds of $63.0 million and incurring additional offering costs of approximately $3.5 million, inclusive of approximately $2.2 million in deferred underwriting commissions. Subsequent to the closing of the initial public offering, we consummated the sale of 6,933,333 private placement warrants at a price of $1.50 per warrant. In connection with the private placement, we sold private placement warrants to certain of our initial stockholders and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc. (“private placement warrant purchasers”), generating gross proceeds of $10.4 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $1.3 million. In connection with the consummation of the sale of additional units pursuant to the underwriters’ exercise of the over-allotment option on August 13, 2020, we sold an additional 840,000 private placement warrants to the private placement warrant purchasers, generating additional gross proceeds of approximately $1.3 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $1,000. As described above, $483.0 million ($10.00 per unit) of the gross proceeds of the sale of the units in the initial public offering and the private placement were placed in the trust account. See “Information Regarding the Trust Account” for more details.

As of June 30, 2021, we had approximately $0.5 million in cash and working capital deficit of approximately $2.9 million.

Through June 30, 2021, our liquidity needs were satisfied through a payment of $25,000 from our Chairman and Co-Chief Executive Officer and his wife to cover for certain offering costs in exchange for the issuance of the Founder Units.

Shares (as defined below), and the loan under the Note (as defined below) of approximately $150,000 to us to cover offering costs in the initial public offering. Subsequent to the consummation of the initial public offering on August 7, 2020, the liquidity needs have through the remaining balance of the Note and advancement of funds of approximately $45,000 from a related party, for the total outstanding of the Note and advances of approximately $195,000, and the net proceeds from the consummation of the private placement not held in escrow. We fully repaid the Note on August 7, 2020. In addition, in order to finance transaction costs in connection with a Business Combination, our officers, directors and their respective affiliates may, but are not obligated to, provide us Working Capital Loans (as defined below). There were no amounts outstanding under any Working Capital Loans.

Based on the foregoing, management believes that we will have sufficient working capital and borrowing capacity to meet our obligations for at least one year from the date of this filing, or earlier of the consummation of the Business Combination or one year from this filing.

Management continues to evaluate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and has concluded that the specific impact is not reasonably determinable as of the date of the financial statements. The financial statements do not include any adjustments that might result from the outcome of the pandemic.

Results of Operations

Since inception, our entire activity has been related to our formation, initial public offering, which was consummated on August 7, 2020. Prior to the initial public offering, our activity has been limited to the search for a prospective target business and the consummation of the Business Combination, and we will not be generating any operating revenues until the closing and completion of the Business Combination. We expect to incur increased expenses as a result of being a public company (for legal, financial reporting, accounting and auditing compliance), as well as increased expenses for professional services, such as audit fees, legal fees, stock exchange fees, transfer agent fees, director and officer liability insurance, professional consulting fees for accounting, tax and legal matters, and other transactional expenses.

For the three months ended June 30, 2021, we had net loss of approximately $11.2 million, which consisted of approximately $10.2 million in general and administrative expenses, approximately $9.4 million in change in fair value of warrant liabilities and approximately $50,000 in franchise tax expense, partially offset by approximately $12,000 of interest income from investments held in the trust account.

For the six months ended June 30, 2021, we had net loss of approximately $16.8 million, which consisted of approximately $4.8 million in general and administrative expenses, approximately $12.7 million in change in fair value of warrant liabilities and approximately $99,000 in franchise tax expense, partially offset by approximately $59,000 of interest income from investments held in the trust account.

For the period from May 19, 2020 (inception) through December 31, 2020, we had net loss of approximately $4.8 million, which consisted of approximately $220,000 in general and administrative expenses, approximately $122,000 in franchise tax expense, $22,000 of income tax expense, approximately $4.7 million change in fair value of warrant liabilities, offset by approximately $227,000 of net gain from investments held in the trust account.

As a result of the restatement described in Note 2 of the notes to BowX's consolidated financial statements included herein, we recorded placement warrants as liabilities at their fair value and adjust the warrant instruments to fair value at each reporting period. These liabilities are measured to re-measurement at each balance sheet date until exercised, and any change in fair value is recognized in our statement of operations.

Founder Shares

On May 26, 2020, we issued 10,062,500 shares of Class B common stock to Vivek Ranadivé in exchange for a payment of $227,000 in costs made by Vivek Ranadivé on behalf of our company (the "Founder Shares"). In July 2020, Vivek Ranadivé transferred certain Founder Shares to our directors and officers as well as to certain third parties.

Table of Contents

On August 4, 2020, we effected a stock dividend of 0.2 shares of Class B common stock for each share of Class B common stock outstanding, in an aggregate of 12,075,000 Founder Shares outstanding. All shares and associated amounts have been retroactively restated to reflect the dividend. On August 13, 2020, the underwriters exercised their 15% over-allotment option in full; thus, the Founder Shares were no longer subject to the 15% over-allotment option.

The initial stockholders have agreed, subject to limited exceptions, not to transfer, assign or sell any of the Founder Shares unless the following events occur: (A) one year after the completion of an initial business combination and (B) subsequent to an initial business combination if the reported sale price of BowX Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $12.00 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, recapitalizations and the like) for any 20 trading days within any 30-trading day period commencing at least 150 days after the date of the initial business combination, or (y) the date on which we complete a liquidation, merger, capital stock exchange, reorganization or other similar transaction in all of our stockholders having the right to exchange their shares of common stock for cash, securities or other property.

Private Placement Warrants

Simultaneously with the closing of the initial public offering, the private placement warrant purchasers purchased an aggregate of 840,000 private placement warrants at a price of $1.50 per private placement warrant, generating gross proceeds of $10.4 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $8,000. In connection with the consummation of the sale of additional units pursuant to the underwriters' exercise of the option on August 13, 2020, we sold an additional 840,000 private placement warrants to the private placement warrant purchasers, generating gross proceeds of approximately $1.3 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $1,000.

Each whole private placement warrant is exercisable for one whole share of BowX Class A Common Stock at a price of $11.50, subject to adjustment. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the private placement warrants was added to the proceeds from the initial public offering and held in the trust account. If we do not complete a business combination before August 7, 2022, the private placement warrants will expire. The private placement warrants are non-redeemable for cash (subject to certain exceptions) and are exercisable on a cashless basis so long as held by the initial purchasers or their permitted transferees.

The private placement warrants (and the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the private placement warrants) are transferable, assignable or salable until 30 days after the completion of BowX's initial business combination (subject to certain restrictions).

Related Party Loans

On May 26, 2020, our Chairman and Co-Chief Executive Officer agreed to loan us up to an aggregate of $150,000 pursuant to a promissory note (the "Note") to cover expenses related to the initial public offering. This loan was payable without interest upon the completion of the initial public offering. We borrowed up to the full amount of the Note and received additional advances of approximately $45,000 on behalf of such officer, for a total outstanding loan of approximately $195,000. We fully repaid the Note and the advances to such officer on August 13, 2020.

Working Capital Loans

In order to fund working capital deficiencies or finance transaction costs in connection with BowX's initial business combination, stockholders, officers and directors and their affiliates may, but are not obligated to, loan us funds as may be required (the "Working Capital Loans"). Up to $1.5 million of such Working Capital Loans may be convertible into warrants of New WeWork at a price of $1.50 per warrant at the option of the lender. Such warrants would be identical to the private placement warrants. Except for the foregoing, the terms of such loans, if any, are to be determined and no written agreements exist with respect to such loans to date. We did not have any borrowings under the Working Capital Loans as of June 30, 2021.

Contractual Obligations

Registration Rights

The Sponsor, certain of our officers and directors, and holders of the private placement warrants are entitled to registration rights under a Registration Rights Agreement dated August 4, 2020 (the “Existing Registration Rights Agreement”). Such parties are entitled to demands, excluding short form registration demands, that we register such securities for sale under the Securities Act. In addition, we have “piggy-back” registration rights to include their securities in other registration statements filed by us. We will bear the expense connection with the filing of any such registration statements. The Existing Registration Rights Agreement is being amended and restated with the Business Combination. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements” for more information.

Underwriting Agreement

We granted the underwriters a 45-day option to purchase up to 6,300,000 additional units to cover any over-allotments, at the offering price less the underwriting discounts and commissions. On August 13, 2020, the underwriters fully exercised the over-allotment option.

The underwriters were entitled to an underwriting discount of $0.20 per unit, or $8.4 million in the aggregate, paid upon the completion of the public offering. In addition, $0.35 per unit, or $14.7 million in the aggregate will be payable to the underwriters for deferred underwriting commissions. The deferred fee will become payable to the underwriters from the amounts held in the trust account solely in the event that we complete a Business Combination, subject to the terms of the underwriting agreement.

In connection with the consummation of the sale of units pursuant to the over-allotment option on August 13, 2020, the underwriters will receive an aggregate of $1.26 million in underwriting fees and additional deferred underwriting commissions of approximately $2.2 million. These fees will only become payable to the underwriters from the amounts held in the trust account solely in the event that we complete a Business Combination, subject to the terms of the underwriting agreement.

Transaction Expenses

We have entered into engagement letters or agreements with various consultants, advisors, professionals and others in connection with the Business Combination. The services under these engagement letters and agreements are material in amount and in some instances include contingent or success fees. The aggregate fees due under such engagement letters and agreements are approximately $48.2 million and approximately 75% of those fees are contingent on completion of the Business Combination. We estimate that our total transaction costs for the Business Combination will aggregate approximately $75.0 million (including the deferred underwriting commissions from our initial public offering).

PIPE Financing will aggregate approximately $75.0 million (including the deferred underwriting commissions from our initial public offering). A substantial portion of these costs (including contingent or success fees and ongoing accrued transaction costs, but not the $16,905 thousand underwriters’ commissions) will be charged to operations in the quarter that the Closing occurs. In most instances, these engagement letters and agreements specifically provide that such counterparties waive their rights to seek repayment from the funds in the trust account.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

Investments Held in the Trust Account

Our portfolio of investments held in the trust account is comprised of U.S. government securities, within the meaning set forth in the Investment Company Act, with a maturity of 185 days or less, or investments in money market funds that invest in U.S. government securities that generally have a readily determinable fair value, or a combination thereof. When the investments held in the trust account are comprised of U.S. government securities, the investments are classified as trading securities. When the investments held in the trust account are comprised of money market funds, the investments are classified as cash equivalents.

trust account are comprised of money market funds, the investments are recognized at fair value. Trading securities and investments funds are presented on the balance sheet at fair value at the end of each reporting period. Gains and losses resulting from the change these securities are included in net gain from investments held in the trust account in the accompanying consolidated statement of estimated fair values of investments held in the trust account are determined using available market information.

BowX Class A Common Stock Subject to Possible Redemption

We account for BowX Class A Common Stock subject to possible redemption in accordance with the guidance in ASC Topic 460, “Liabilities from Equity.” Shares of BowX Class A Common Stock subject to mandatory redemption (if any) are classified as liability measured at fair value. Shares of conditionally redeemable BowX Class A Common Stock (including Class A common stock that features rights that are either within the control of the holder or subject to redemption upon the occurrence of uncertain events not solely within the control of the holder) are classified as temporary equity. At all other times, shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are classified as stockholders’ equity. Common Stock features certain redemption rights that are considered to be outside of our control and subject to the occurrence of uncertain events. Accordingly, at June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, 43,231,098 and 44,911,184 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, subject to possible redemption are presented as temporary equity, outside of the stockholders’ equity section of the accompanying condensed balance sheet.

Net Income (Loss) Per Share of Common Stock

We comply with accounting and disclosure requirements of FASB ASC Topic 260, “Earnings Per Share.”

Our unaudited condensed consolidated statements of operations include a presentation of income (loss) per share for common stock, basic and diluted, in a manner similar to the two-class method of income (loss) per share. Net income per share, basic and diluted for BowX Class A Common Stock, basic and diluted, is calculated by dividing the investment income earned on the trust account, net of applicable franchise taxes, by the weighted average number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding for the periods. Net loss per share for BowX Class B Common Stock, basic and diluted, is calculated by dividing the net loss, less income attributable to BowX Class A Common Stock, by the weighted average number of shares of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding for the periods.

The calculation of diluted income (loss) per share of BowX Common Stock does not consider the effect of the warrants issued in the initial public offering and private placement since their inclusion would be anti-dilutive.

Our statement of operations includes a presentation of income per share for common stock subject to redemption in a manner similar to the two-class method of income per share. Net income per share, basic and diluted for BowX Class A Common Stock is calculated by dividing the investment income earned on the trust account of approximately $227,000, net of applicable income and franchise taxes of approximately $10,000, by the weighted average number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding for the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to December 31, 2020, by the weighted average number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding. Net loss per share, basic and diluted for BowX Class B Common Stock for the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to December 31, 2020, is calculated by dividing the net loss of approximately $4.8 million, less net income attributable to BowX Class A Common Stock of approximately $83,000, resulting in a net loss of approximately $4.9 million, by the weighted average number of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding.

Derivative Warrant Liabilities

We do not use derivative instruments to hedge exposures to cash flow, market, or foreign currency risks. We evaluate all other instruments, including issued stock purchase warrants, to determine if such instruments are derivatives or contain features that qualify as derivatives, pursuant to ASC Topic 815, “Derivatives and Hedging” (“ASC 815”). The classification of derivative instruments, including instruments that contain features that qualify as derivatives, should be recorded as liabilities or as equity, is re-assessed at the end of each reporting period.

Table of Contents

We account for the private placement warrants as derivative warrant liabilities in accordance with ASC 815. Accordingly, we measure private placement warrants as liabilities at fair value and adjusts the instruments to fair value at each reporting period. The liabilities are measured at each balance sheet date until exercised, and any change in fair value is recognized in the statements of operations. The fair value of the warrant liability has been estimated using public warrant trading prices at each measurement date. The determined value of the warrant liability may be subject to change as more current information becomes available and accordingly the actual results may significantly differ. Derivative warrant liabilities are classified as non-current liabilities as their liquidation is not reasonably expected to result in the creation of current assets or require the creation of current liabilities.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements and Contractual Obligations

As of June 30, 2021, we did not have any off-balance sheet arrangements as defined in Item 303(a)(4)(ii) of Regulation S-K promulgated by the SEC and did not have any commitments or contractual obligations.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

Our management does not believe there are any recently issued, but not yet effective, accounting pronouncements, if currently adopted, that have a material effect on our financial statements.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risk

We are a smaller reporting company as defined by Rule 12b-2 of the Exchange Act and are not required to provide the information required under this item.

Who we are

WeWork is the leading global flexible workspace provider, serving a membership base of businesses large and small through over 1,000 locations as of June 30, 2021. With that global footprint, we have worked to establish ourselves as the preeminent brand within the flexible workspace category, by combining prime locations and unique design with member-first hospitality and exceptional community experiences. Since our management was instituted in 2020, WeWork has refocused its business on the space-as-a-service model by eliminating non-core assets and streamlining our operating model. With a more efficient operating model and cost-conscious mindset, moving forward we plan to prioritize growth and focus on the digitization of real estate in order to enhance our product offerings, and expand and diversify the membership base, meeting the growing demand for flexibility.

Our mission is to empower tomorrow’s world at work.

History

In the wake of the 2008 global financial crisis, WeWork opened its first location in lower Manhattan in 2010 to provide entrepreneurs and small businesses with flexible, affordable and community-centered office space. The initial vision was to create environments where people could come together to do what they love. WeWork’s value proposition proved to be highly attractive to a range of members, which has since encompassed a growing set of medium- and large-scale businesses, including our Enterprise Members.

Since its inception, WeWork embarked on a high growth path towards global expansion. Within four years, the Company grew to 100 locations across eight cities and opened its first international locations in the United Kingdom and Israel. In 2019, WeWork filed a registration statement in connection with an initial public offering transaction that was later withdrawn. Following the withdrawal of the initial public offering, WeWork raised capital with additional access to capital to support WeWork’s day-to-day operations, among other things. Subsequently, our board of directors initiated a change in leadership and Marcelo Claure was appointed Executive Chairman in October 2019.

Under Mr. Claure’s stewardship, we rebuilt our leadership team beginning with the appointment of Sandeep Mathrani as CEO in 2020. With a new leadership team comprised of seasoned professionals in the public and private sectors, WeWork began to execute a strategy to transform its business. This plan included robust expense management efforts, the exit of non-core businesses and material real estate optimization. Since 2019, we improved our cost structure, yielding significant results:

- Approximately $1.5 billion decrease in adjusted selling, general and administrative expenses, including divestitures of non-core assets on an annualized basis, as of the second quarter of 2021 as compared to the fourth quarter of 2019;

- Nearly $440 million decrease in adjusted location operating expenses, annualized on a per square foot basis, as of the second quarter compared to the fourth quarter of 2019—adjusted location operating expenses increased $59 million for the second quarter of 2020 as a result of our net increase of approximately 24 million quarterly cumulative square feet under management period, offset by meaningful headcount reductions and other operating efficiencies implemented into the business over the past year.

- Approximately $6.9 billion reduction in aggregate future lease payments from the amendment and/or exit of over approximately 1,000 properties, including ChinaCo prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, as of December 31, 2019 as compared to June 30, 2021;
- Nearly $1 Billion improvement to Free Cash Flow since 2019 based on annualized Q2 2021 Free Cash Flow compared to Free Cash Flow for the year ended December 31, 2019 (excluding approximately negative $400 million in Free Cash Flow attributable to ChinaCo, which was deconsolidated). See “WeWork’s Management Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Key Indicators—Free Cash Flow” for a reconciliation to GAAP.

Our improved business model has also demonstrated resilience in an unprecedented downturn resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic. Physical Occupancy declined from 67% in Q1 2020 to 46% in Q4 2020, revenue in 2020 was flat compared to 2019 at $3.2 billion. Our market position coupled with our aggressive transformation efforts at the beginning of 2020 enabled us to navigate the COVID-19 pandemic while executing on our goals and innovating our product. As of June 30, 2021, the real estate portfolio included 763 locations across 38 countries with approximately 517,000 memberships.

Our product offerings

With a significantly improved cost structure and enhanced suite of flexible offerings, we believe that we are well-positioned to focus towards greater workspace flexibility and capitalize on an anticipated post-pandemic rebound. Moving forward, our business strategy will focus on three key areas:

- 1) our core space-as-a-service business;
- 2) the digitization of our real estate through our WeWork On Demand, WeWork All Access, and marketplace products; and
- 3) the pursuit of asset-light growth and additional revenue streams through the development of technology and services for use by landlords and other partners.

Core space-as-a-service offering amount of space they need and scale with WeWork as their business grows. Members also have the option to choose the type of membership for them, with a range of flexible offerings that provide access to space on a monthly subscription basis or through a multi-year membership.

WeWork’s core business offering provides flexibility across space, time and cost. Whether users are looking for a workstation, a private office or a fully customized floor, our members have the flexibility to choose the right solution for them.

In addition, a WeWork membership can provide members with portability of cost, granting other flexibility to move part or all of their commitment to a new market.

Memberships include access to space, in addition to access to certain amenities and services, such as private phone booths, in-house business printers and copiers, mail and package handling, front desk services, off-peak building access, unique common areas and cleaning.

Beyond the amenities offered, WeWork's community team is what sets us apart from other space providers in the industry. We believe our mindset, our community teams provide an exceptional level of hospitality by not only overseeing onsite operations and supporting day-to-day needs, but also focusing on cultivating meaningful relationships with and between our members to deliver a premium experience.

Our core business offering has proven to be a compelling way for a broad range of businesses to manage their real estate footprint. Over time, we have aimed to diversify our membership base with a focus on growing commitments from Enterprise Members, who typically enter into longer term agreements and often take space with WeWork across multiple countries using a master membership agreement.

Digitization of real estate

Operating our real estate portfolio of 763 locations has allowed WeWork to take steps to make our network of locations digital and accessible to a global consumer base.

WeWork On Demand: WeWork's strategy to digitize its real estate began with the launch of the WeWork On Demand product, which allows users pay-as-you-go access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations. Since the successful pilot launch in New York City in 2020, WeWork has expanded its WeWork On Demand offering nationwide, capitalizing on a growing demand for flexible workspace. The Company is currently in the process of making the WeWork On Demand product accessible globally.

WeWork All Access: The WeWork All Access product, launched in late 2020, is a monthly subscription-based model that provides access to participating WeWork locations. Through WeWork All Access, members can book workspaces, conference rooms and private offices from their phones – enabling users to choose when, where and how they work. Over time, assuming opt-in by our licensee partners, we will expand this product by providing members with access to additional locations throughout the world.

In addition to being available for purchase by individuals and enterprise companies alike, WeWork All Access has also been purchased by a number of successful affinity partnerships with global businesses such as American Express Business and Uber. Additionally, various universities have turned to the WeWork All Access product for use by their undergraduate and graduate student bodies. We believe that the WeWork All Access product can drive Adjusted EBITDA growth for WeWork by driving demand from a customer base that requires greater optionality and flexibility than the Company's existing network of spaces.

Marketplace: WeWork's extensive member network has created a customer base in need of ancillary business services. Our marketplace offering includes a range of value-add services designed to support businesses beyond their workspace needs. Currently, WeWork offers business service solutions, including professional employer organization (PEO) and payroll services, remote workforce solutions, human resources, dedicated bandwidth, and IT equipment co-location. The marketplace offering is focused on solutions that are catered to the needs of the member network, delivering additional revenue and margin to WeWork and increasing member retention.

Platform business opportunity

We believe that the COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated the trends that were previously driving the growth of flexible workspace. The value proposition of a WeWork membership is more relevant than ever before. As many businesses are now preparing for a return to working from home, many are looking for hybrid options that provide the flexibility to streamline their real estate footprints while maintaining employee productivity and collaboration.

As a result, in order to service the market demand for flexible space, we believe a broader group of traditional real estate owners will incorporate the flexible model that WeWork developed into their own portfolios. Having spent more than ten years building a global network and developing the systems necessary to operate our flexible products, we believe WeWork will be well-positioned to offer third-party operators a platform that can power flexible spaces and provide direct access to an established customer base.

Similar to our locations operating in China, Japan and India, we expect that third-party operators that utilize our technology and pay WeWork a recurring license fee, enabling WeWork to scale via a capital-light business offering. We believe that this platform offering will be a new line of revenue for our business and will also serve as a vehicle through which WeWork can pursue our asset-light growth movement.

Market Overview (TAM)

In a multi trillion-dollar commercial real estate market transformed by the COVID-19 pandemic, we believe WeWork's global network of locations position the Company as the leading flexible space provider.

On a square footage basis, we are one of the largest flexible space providers in the world, operating approximately 52 million square feet globally as of December 31, 2020. Our total square footage in the United States and Canada region was 19.5 million rentable square feet as of December 31, 2020, implying a market share of approximately 23% at the time based on 2020 CBRE estimates of flex space penetration and total office space. In a 2019 report, CBRE research expected the flexible workspace penetration rate to grow to between 13.3% and 22.2% of total office space by 2030 as shown below. In a 2020 report published in 2020, JLL research predicted that flexible space demand will continue to grow as a result of COVID-19 and other factors. that 30% of all office space will be consumed flexibly by 2030. In a 2020 report, JLL research predicted that 30% of all office space will be consumed flexibly by 2030. We believe the COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated the shift to flexible workspace, and will increase total flexible penetration beyond these levels.

In many markets, we witnessed accelerated leasing activity in recent months. Although WeWork represented approximately 23% of all commercial office stock in New York City, WeWork's leasing activity in the second quarter of 2021 represented 23% of all commercial office activity over the same period. WeWork leasing activity represented similar proportions of overall market leasing activity in other major cities like London, Paris, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. We believe this further demonstrates the shift to flexible office space.

We believe that our leadership position in flexible workspace, coupled with a shift in the way people now work, provides a unique opportunity to serve a growing asset class. Individuals and organizations are streamlining their real estate footprints in an effort to reduce cost structure and de-risk portfolios from long-term leases and fixed costs. At the same time, companies are prioritizing the need to maintain connection and innovation of their workforce while also balancing the health and safety of their employees. As a result, WeWork's exceptional real estate portfolio and spectrum of flexible solutions position the Company to meet the needs of employers and employees.

With regard to regions outside of the U.S., we believe that there is significant potential upside. We expect to grow market share and to continue to offer an expanding real estate portfolio of products and services to meet our members' needs, driving higher margins and further increasing our total addressable market.

Strong liquidity position

- As of June 30, 2021, we had access to $1.6 billion of liquidity in the form of cash and commitments from our lenders. Upon consummation of this transaction, we expect to receive approximately $1.3 billion in proceeds, including the fully committed PIPE Investment, and expect to have access to a $550 million senior secured note facility from an affiliate of the SoftBank Obligations. See “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations” in this Proxy Statement / Prospectus—Commitment Letter for Secured Notes for more detail.
- The transaction implies a pro forma initial enterprise value of approximately $9 billion for WeWork.
- We anticipate that as a public company we will have access to diverse sources of equity and debt capital.

Global Operating Structure

To streamline operations and facilitate asset-light expansion outside of the United States, we sometimes enter into regional joint ventures, partnerships and other similar arrangements. Currently, our operations in India, China, Japan, and Israel operate pursuant to such arrangements. See the section entitled “WeWork’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations.” Going forward, we will strategically evaluate the use of these alternative ownership arrangements on a jurisdiction-by-jurisdiction basis for all of our current and future locations.

Sales and Marketing

We sell our memberships and services to companies using a variety of sales and marketing efforts. We have sales representatives in the market who engage directly with companies. We also have dedicated sales teams that target and service larger enterprise accounts across our global footprint.

Through the expansion of our WeWork On Demand and WeWork All Access products, we have invested in direct-to-consumer sales capabilities, which we expect to expand over time to include capabilities in digital and social media retargeting.

Properties

We generally lease the real estate for our locations. As of June 30, 2021, we had 763 locations across 38 countries, 272 of which were in the United States, including our corporate headquarters at 575 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY, 10022. See Note 18 of the notes to WeWork’s audited financial statements and Note 1 of the unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for details regarding revenue recognition.

Intellectual Property

The recognition of the WeWork brand is an important component to our success. The Company has obtained a strategic set of intellectual property rights, including trademarks, service marks, trade names, domain names, and other registrations and applications, including for the WeWork brand, throughout the world.

We police our trademark portfolio globally, including by monitoring trademark registries around the world and investigating potential common law uses in order to learn as soon as possible whether the relevant parties engage in or plan to engage in conduct that would infringe our valuable trademark rights. We monitor registries through the use of robust international subscription watch services, supplemented by our own review. We typically discover or are informed of infringing uses of our trademarks through our internal policing system or by our legal counsel.

We investigate and evaluate each instance of infringement to determine the appropriate course of action, including cease and desist letters, administrative proceedings, cybersquatting actions or infringement actions, if any. Wherever possible, we seek to resolve these matters without litigation.

In an effort to ensure that registries in countries where we operate or intend to operate remain clear of infringing trademark rights, we frequently file opposition actions, cancellation actions and other administrative proceedings around the world.

Government Regulation

We are subject to a wide variety of laws, rules, regulations and standards in the United States and foreign jurisdictions. Like our participants that operate in numerous jurisdictions and across various service lines, we must comply with a number of regulatory requirements. These requirements include state and local and foreign laws, rules, regulations and standards such as employment laws, health and safety regulations, taxation regulations, regulations that govern or restrict our business and activities in certain regions and with certain persons, including economic sanctions, bribery laws and anti-money laundering laws. Some of our offerings also require registrations, permits, licenses and/or approvals from various government agencies and regulatory authorities, some or all of which may be costly or time consuming to obtain. A failure to obtain any such required registrations, permits, licenses and/or approvals could subject us to penalties for noncompliance.

In addition, as a developer and operator of real estate, we are subject to local land-use requirements, including regulations that govern building and occupancy, regulations and standards that address indoor environmental requirements, laws that require places of public accommodation and commercial facilities to meet certain requirements related to access and use by disabled persons, and various environmental laws, which may require a current or previous owner or operator of real estate to investigate and remediate the effects of hazardous or toxic petroleum product releases on, under, in or from such property.

Furthermore, because we receive, store and use a substantial amount of personally identifiable information received from our members, we are also subject to laws and regulations governing data privacy, use of personal data and cybersecurity.

Competition

The office space industry, including traditional offices, global real estate providers, regional flexible workspace options and hot desks, is highly fragmented and is served by large, national or international companies as well as by regional and local companies of varying sizes. As the industry has evolved over the past decade, a growing number of local, national and international competitors have entered the market, including flex office space operators and large office real estate owners that have developed unique flex office offerings within their own portfolios. Our differentiated expertise and global footprint offer a significant competitive advantage relative to alternative space providers that positions WeWork as a global partner of choice.

Human Capital

People power our business and are at the center of all that we do. We have extraordinarily talented and dedicated employees across our organization who are dedicated to serving members and advancing on our mission.

Our core values were instituted by our CEO and the new management team in 2020. Since then, these values have redefined how we operate and serve as the “north star” to our employees. Our values are “Do the right thing”; “Strive to be better, together”; “Be entrepreneurial”; “Show gratitude” and “Be human, be kind.” We believe these values guide our employees to do great work and together build a culture of inclusion.

As of June 30, 2021, we had approximately 4,400 employees, of which approximately 2,200 were located in the United States. Our employees outside of the United States are represented by a labor union or workers' council and covered by collective bargaining agreements.

At WeWork, we provide a competitive compensation package, with our base salary compensation designed to align with the market. Our employees are eligible for other performance-based incentives specific to their role. We also provide a broad suite of well-being programs for our employees and their families, including company-subsidized medical benefits, retirement/financial planning, work/life resources, paid leaves and parental support, in addition to a range of personal and professional development opportunities, such as in-role training, live virtual sessions and eLearnings.

We aim to create a workforce that promotes inclusion and fosters diversity. Our inclusion and diversity strategy focuses on providing forums and resources to foster a culture of conversation, delivering training programs to increase understanding and change behavior through deliberate actions that strengthen our diversity pipeline. We support these initiatives through our inclusion and diversity governance structure, which includes a Global Diversity Leadership Council comprised of executives and senior leaders, as well as an Office of Inclusion that oversees our inclusion & diversity strategy and supports our voluntary employee-led employee community groups.

Legal Proceedings

The Company has in the past been, is currently and may in the future become involved in individual actions, putative class actions, representative actions, regulatory inquiries and various other legal proceedings arising in the normal course of its business, including those involving employees, commercial partners, securityholders, third-party license holders, competitors, government agencies and regulatory agencies. Often these cases raise complex factual and legal issues, which are subject to risks and uncertainties and which could require significant management time and corporate resources to defend, could result in significant media coverage and negative publicity, and could damage our reputation and our brand. Although the outcome of these and other claims cannot be predicted with certainty, we are not currently aware of any proceeding that we expect to have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition or cash flows. See the section entitled “Legal Matters” in Note 24 of the notes to WeWork’s consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement for more details.

WEWORK'S MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Unless the context requires otherwise, references to “WeWork,” “we,” “us,” “our” and “the Company” in this section are to the operations of WeWork Inc. and its consolidated subsidiaries prior to the Business Combination. The following discussion and analysis are presented in conjunction with WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements and related notes and elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. In addition to historical information, this discussion contains forward-looking statements, risks, uncertainties, and assumptions that could cause WeWork’s actual results to differ materially from management’s expectations. Factors that could cause such differences are discussed herein.

Overview

WeWork is the leading global flexible workspace provider, serving a membership base of businesses large and small through our network of 1,000+ locations around the world as of June 1, 2021 and December 1, 2020, respectively. With that global footprint, we have won recognition for ourselves as the preeminent brand within the space-as-a-service category by combining best-in-class locations and design with memberships and exceptional community experiences. Since new management was instituted in 2020, WeWork immediately began to execute a plan to transform our business. That operational restructuring plan included robust expense management efforts, the exit of non-core businesses and real estate portfolio optimization. With a more efficient operating model and cost conscious mindset, moving forward WeWork will focus on growth and focus on the digitization of our real estate in order to enhance our product offerings, and expand and diversify our membership while continuously meeting the growing demand for flexibility.

In the wake of the 2008 global financial crisis, WeWork opened our first location in lower Manhattan in 2010 to provide entrepreneurs and businesses with flexible, affordable and community-centered office space. The initial vision was to create environments where people could come together to “do what they love.” WeWork’s value proposition proved to be highly attractive to a range of users, which now encompass a growing set of medium- and large-scale businesses, including our Enterprise Members.

For nearly a decade, WeWork embarked on a high-growth path towards global expansion. Within four years, the Company grew across eight cities and opened its first international locations in the United Kingdom and Israel. In 2019, WeWork filed a registration statement in connection with an initial public offering transaction that was later withdrawn. Following the withdrawal of the public offering, SBG was formed with additional access to capital to support our day-to-day operations and other capital needs. Subsequently, the Board directed a change in leadership and Marcelo Claure was appointed Executive Chairman in October 2019.

Under Mr. Claure’s stewardship, we rebuilt our leadership team beginning with the appointment of Sandeep Mathrani as CEO. With a new leadership team comprised of seasoned professionals in the public and private sectors, WeWork immediately began to execute a plan to transform our business. That plan included robust expense management efforts, the exit of non-core businesses and material real estate portfolio optimization.

WeWork’s core business offering provides flexibility across space, time and cost. Whether users are looking for a dedicated desk or a fully customized floor, our members have the flexibility to choose the amount of space they need and scale with us as their business grows. Members also have the optionality to choose the type of membership that works for them, with a range of flexible offerings that provide access on a monthly subscription basis, through a multi-year membership agreement or on a pay-as-you-go basis. Additionally, a WeWork membership provides members with portability of cost, granting them the flexibility to move part or all of an existing commitment to a new market or country.

Membership agreements provide our members with access to space along with certain baseline amenities and services, such as booths, internet, high-speed business printers and copiers, mail and packaging handling, front desk services, 24/7 building access, and daily cleaning for no additional cost.

Beyond the amenities offered, WeWork's community team is what sets the company apart from other space providers in the member-first mindset, our community teams provide an exceptional level of hospitality by not only overseeing onsite operations day-to-day needs, but also focusing on cultivating meaningful relationships with and between our members to deliver a premium experience.

By providing all of the overhead services required to find and operate office space, WeWork significantly reduces the complexity of leasing real estate to a simplified membership model.

Key Performance Indicators

To evaluate our business, measure our performance, identify trends affecting our business, formulate business plans and make decisions, we rely on our GAAP financial results, non-GAAP measures and the following key performance indicators.

For certain key performance indicators the amounts we present are based on whether the indicator relates to a location for which the revenues and expenses of the location are consolidated within our results of operations ("Consolidated Locations") or whether the indicator relates to a location for which the revenues and expenses are not consolidated within our results of operations, but for which we are entitled to a management fee or other advisory services ("Unconsolidated Locations"). Beginning with the fourth quarter of 2020, subsequent to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, ChinaCo is no longer a Consolidated Location and is classified as an Unconsolidated Location. On June 1, 2021, we closed a franchise agreement with Ampa and transferred the building operations and obligations of our Israel locations to Ampa. Beginning with June 1, 2021, our Israel locations are no longer Consolidated Locations and are classified as Unconsolidated Locations. For amounts relating to periods prior to October 2020, ChinaCo and Israel locations, respectively, remain reflected as Consolidated Locations and as a result, periods may not be comparable. The impact to the combined Consolidated Locations and Unconsolidated Locations ("Total Locations") indicators as a result of the ChinaCo Deconsolidation and the Israel franchise agreement. As of June 30, 2021, IndiaCo, ChinaCo and Israel locations are our only Unconsolidated Locations.

Unless otherwise noted, we present our key performance indicators as an aggregation of Consolidated Locations and Unconsolidated Locations. As presented in this proxy statement/prospectus, certain amounts, percentages and other figures have been subject to rounding adjustments. Figures shown as totals, dollars or percentage amounts of changes may not represent the arithmetic summation or calculation of the figures presented. Any totals of key performance indicators presented as of a period end reflect the count as of the first day of the last month of the period. First-of-the-month counts are used because the economics of those counts generally impact the results for that monthly period, and most openings occur on the first-of-the-month.

Workstation Capacity

Workstation capacity represents the estimated number of workstations available at total open locations. As of June 1, 2021, we had a workstation capacity of 937,000, down 6% from 994,000 as of June 1, 2020, with the decrease as a direct result of the Company's cost reduction and restructuring efforts to exit leases throughout 2020 and the six months ended June 30, 2021.

Workstation capacity is a key indicator of our scale and our capacity to sell memberships across our network of locations. Our marketing expenses and capital expenditures will be a function of our efforts to increase workstation capacity. The cost at which we acquire workstations affects our capital expenditures, and the cost at which we acquire memberships and fill our workstations affects our sales and marketing expenses.

Workstation capacity is presented in this proxy statement/prospectus rounded to the nearest thousand. Workstation capacity management's best estimates of capacity at a location based on our inventory management system and sales layouts and is not meant to be an actual count of workstations at our locations.

Memberships

Memberships are the cumulative number of WeWork memberships, WeWork All Access memberships, and WeMemberships (legacy products). WeWork memberships provide access to a workstation and represent the number of memberships from our various products including our standard dedicated desks, private offices and customized floors. WeWork All Access memberships are monthly memberships for an individual with access to participating WeWork locations. WeMemberships are legacy products that provide member user login access to the member network online or through the mobile application as well as access to service offerings and the right to reserve space on an individual basis among other benefits. Each WeWork membership, WeWork All Access membership, and WeMembership is considered to be one membership.

The number of memberships is a key indicator of the adoption of our global membership network, the scale and reach of our ability to fill our locations with members. Memberships also represent monetization opportunities from our current and future services. As of June 1, 2021, we had 517,000 total memberships, which is a decline of 16% from the 613,000 memberships as of June 1, 2020. The decrease in total memberships was primarily driven by churn during 2020 associated with the impacts of COVID-19. See the section entitled “Key Factors Affecting Comparability of Our Results—COVID-19 and Impact on our Business” below for further details on the impact of COVID-19 on our business and our efforts to mitigate its effects. As of June 1, 2021, approximately 99% of our total memberships were WeWork memberships and WeMemberships, which contributed to over 99% of our total membership and service revenue for the six months ended June 30, 2021.

Memberships are presented in this proxy statement/prospectus rounded to the nearest thousand. Memberships can differ from individuals using workspace at our locations for a number of reasons, including members utilizing workspace for fewer individuals than designed to accommodate.

Occupancy Rate

Occupancy rates are calculated by dividing WeWork memberships and WeWork All Access memberships by workstation capacity. Occupancy rates are a way of measuring how full our workspaces are. As of June 1, 2021, our occupancy rate was 55%, compared to 61% as of June 1, 2020. The decrease in occupancy rate was driven by a 16% decrease in demand measured through the decline in WeWork memberships and WeWork All Access memberships primarily driven by the impacts of COVID-19, as compared to the 6% decrease in workstation capacity due to operational restructuring efforts.

Enterprise Membership Percentage

Enterprise memberships represent memberships attributable to Enterprise Members, which we define as organizations with 50 or more full-time employees. Enterprise membership percentage represents the percentage of our memberships attributable to these organizations. The percentage of our total memberships is determined by the number of workstations that an organization needs to reserve in order to be considered an Enterprise Member. For example, an organization with 50 full-time employees that pays for 50 of its employees to occupy workstations at our locations would be considered one Enterprise Member. As of June 1, 2021, 51% of our Consolidated Memberships were attributable to Enterprise Members, up from 48% as of June 1, 2020. For the three months ended June 30, 2021, Enterprise Memberships accounted for 52% of membership and service revenue compared to 49% for the three months ended June 30, 2020. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, Enterprise Memberships accounted for 50% of membership and service revenue compared to 44% for the six months ended June 30, 2020.

Table of Contents

Enterprise Members are strategically important for our business as they typically sign membership agreements with longer-term commitments for multiple solutions, which enhances our revenue visibility.

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

To evaluate the performance of our business, we rely on both our results of operations recorded in accordance with GAAP and non-financial measures, including Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow. These measures, as defined below, are not defined or calculated in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") in the United States.

loss or any other performance measure derived in accordance with GAAP or as a substitute for cash flows from operating activities, liquidity, and we encourage you not to rely on any single financial measure to evaluate our business, financial condition or results of operations. The definitions of Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow described below are specific to our business and you should not assume that they correspond to similarly titled financial measures of other companies.

Adjusted EBITDA

We supplement our GAAP results by evaluating Adjusted EBITDA, a non-GAAP measure. We define "Adjusted EBITDA" as net income before income tax (benefit) provision, interest and other (income) expense, depreciation and amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense related to stock-based payments for services rendered by consultants, income or expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, expense related to costs associated with mergers, acquisitions, divestitures and capital expenditures, legal, tax and regulatory reserves or settlements, significant legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations or litigation regarding the Company's 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions, as well as the notes to WeWork's audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this prospectus, net of any insurance or other recoveries, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment charges and, to the extent applicable, of discontinued operations, restructuring charges, and other gains and losses on operating assets.

A reconciliation of net loss, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Adjusted EBITDA is set forth below:

(b) Represents the non-cash expense of our equity compensation arrangements for employees, directors, and consultants.

(c) Represents the change in fair value of the contingent consideration associated with acquisitions as included in selling, general and administrative expenses on the statement of operations.

(d) Legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding the Company's 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and of the SoftBank Transactions, net of any insurance or other recoveries. See section entitled "Legal Matters" in Note 24 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for details regarding the investigations and litigation matters.

When used in conjunction with GAAP financial measures, we believe that Adjusted EBITDA is a useful supplemental measure of performance because it facilitates comparisons of historical performance by excluding non-cash items such as stock-based payments, adjustments and impairment charges and other amounts not directly attributable to our primary operations, such as the impact of re-acquisitions, disposals, non-routine investigations, litigation and settlements. Depreciation and amortization relate primarily to the leasehold improvements, equipment and furniture. These capital expenditures are incurred and capitalized subsequent to the commencement of leases and are depreciated over the lesser of the useful life of the asset or the term of the lease. The initial capital expenditures are management as an investing activity, and the related depreciation and amortization are non-cash charges that are not considered in the assessment of the daily operating performance of our locations. As a result, the impact of depreciation and amortization is excluded from the calculation of Adjusted EBITDA. Restructuring and other related costs relate primarily to the decision to slow growth and terminate leases and ordinary course costs directly attributable to the daily operation of our locations. In addition, while the legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding the Company's 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions are cash expenses, these are not expected after the matters are resolved and they do not represent expenses necessary for our business operations.

Adjusted EBITDA is also a key metric used internally by our management to evaluate performance and develop internal budgets.

Adjusted EBITDA has limitations as an analytical tool and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for analysis reported under GAAP and may not provide a complete understanding of our operating results as a whole. Some of these limitations include:

- it does not reflect changes in, or cash requirements for, our working capital needs;
- it does not reflect our interest expense or the cash requirements necessary to service interest or principal payments on our debt;
- it does not reflect our tax expense or the cash requirements to pay our taxes;
- it does not reflect historical capital expenditures or future requirements for capital expenditures or contractual commitments;
- although stock-based compensation expenses are non-cash charges, we rely on equity compensation to compensate and incentive our directors and certain consultants, and we may continue to do so in the future; and
- although depreciation, amortization and impairments are non-cash charges, the assets being depreciated and amortized will often change in the future, and this non-GAAP measure does not reflect any cash requirements for such replacements.

Free Cash Flow

Because of the limitations of Adjusted EBITDA, as noted above, we also supplement our GAAP results by evaluating Free Cash Flow, a non-GAAP measure. Free Cash Flow is defined as cash flow from operating activities less cash purchases of property and equipment. This measure is included in the Company's consolidated statements of cash flows calculated in accordance with GAAP. Free Cash Flow is both a performance and liquidity measure that provides useful information to management and investors about the amount of cash generated by or used in the Company's operations.

Cash Flow is also a key metric used internally by our management to develop internal budgets, forecasts and performance measures.

A reconciliation of net cash provided by (used in) operating activities, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Free Cash Flow follows:

Free Cash Flow also has some limitations as an analytical tool and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for analysis as reported under GAAP and may not provide a complete understanding of our results and liquidity as a whole. Some of these limitations include:

- it only includes cash outflows for purchases of property and equipment and not other investing cash flow activity, and financing cash inflows are also excluded;
- it is subject to variation between periods as a result of changes in working capital and changes in timing of receipts and disbursements;
- although non-cash GAAP straight-line lease costs are non-cash adjustments, these charges generally reflect amounts we will be required to pay to landlords in cash over the lifetime of our leases; and
- although stock-based compensation expenses are non-cash charges, we rely on equity compensation to compensate and incentive our directors and certain consultants, and we may continue to do so in the future.

Key Factors Affecting the Comparability of Our Results

ChinaCo Financing and Deconsolidation

In September 2020, the shareholders of ChinaCo executed a restructuring and Series A subscription agreement (the “ChinaCo Agreement”). Pursuant to the ChinaCo Agreement, Trustbridge agreed to subscribe for a new series of ChinaCo shares for $100.0 million in total.

ChinaCo, received in connection with the initial investment closing on October 2, 2020 (the “Initial Investment Closing”), and $100.0 million in gross proceeds to ChinaCo, with such additional shares issued and proceeds to be received at the earlier of 1 year from the Initial Investment Closing or such earlier date as determined by the ChinaCo board, to the extent such funds are necessary to support the ChinaCo (the “Second Investment Closing”). The ChinaCo Agreement also included the restructuring of the ownership interests of ChinaCo and ordinary shareholders’ interests into new ordinary shares in ChinaCo and the conversion of a total of approximately $233 million in intercompany payables, payable by ChinaCo to various wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. into new ordinary shares of ChinaCo subsequent to the Initial Investment Closing in October 2020, and as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, WeWork now holds 21.6% of the shares issued by ChinaCo.

Pursuant to the terms of the ChinaCo Agreement, the rights of the ChinaCo shareholders were also amended such that upon the Initial Investment Closing, WeWork no longer retained the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE’s economic performance. As a result, WeWork was no longer the primary beneficiary of ChinaCo and ChinaCo was deconsolidated from the Company’s consolidated financial statements on October 2, 2020 (the “ChinaCo Deconsolidation”). As such, the Company’s consolidated results of operations for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018 includes twelve months of consolidated ChinaCo revenue and expense activity whereas the consolidated results of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020, includes consolidated ChinaCo revenue and expense activity for the nine months from September 30, 2020, and beginning on October 2, 2020, our remaining 21.6% ordinary share investment, valued at $26.3 million upon the deconsolidation, will be accounted for as an unconsolidated equity method investment.

During the first quarter of 2021, the Company discontinued applying the equity method on the ChinaCo investment when the carrying value of the investment was reduced to zero, resulting in a loss of $29.3 million recorded in equity method investments in the condensed consolidated statement of financial position. Restructuring and Impairments

In September 2019, we commenced an operational restructuring program to improve our financial position and refocus space-as-a-service business.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the year ended December 31, 2020, we were successful in achieving a 46% reduction in $0.4 billion and a 43% reduction totaling $1.2 billion, respectively, in total costs associated with selling, general and administrative expenses compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020 and the year ended December 31, 2019, respectively. We also terminated leases associated with 59 previously open locations and three pre-open locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021, and 82 consolidated pre-open locations.

the year ended December 31, 2020 (including seven associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020, that were consolidated). During the year ended December 31, 2020, we also strategically closed 24 previously open Consolidated Locations associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020, that it was consolidated) as part of our efforts to right-size our real estate portfolio to better match supply with demand in certain markets and to help improve overall operating performance.

We successfully amended over 150 leases during the six months ended June 30, 2021, and over 200 leases during the year ended December 31, 2020 for a combination of partial terminations to reduce our leased space, rent reductions, rent deferrals, offsets for tenant improvements and other strategic changes. These amendments and full and partial lease terminations have resulted in an estimated reduction of approximately $1.2 billion in total future undiscounted fixed minimum lease cost payments that were scheduled to be paid over the life of the original executed leases.

The deconsolidation of ChinaCo on October 2, 2020 also resulted in a decline of approximately $2.7 billion in our consolidated undisclosed fixed minimum lease cost payments based on the future obligations that existed as of September 30, 2020, just prior to the deconsolidation.

Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with our ongoing restructuring efforts and expects to complete leases over the remainder of 2021. During 2021, the Company anticipates there will be additional restructuring and related costs consisting of lease termination charges, other exit costs and costs related to ceased use buildings and one-time employee termination benefits, as the Company is in the process of finalizing its operational restructuring plans. The Company anticipates all such activities will be substantially completed by the end of 2021.

As of June 30, 2021, the positive changes we have made and our focused business plan with enhanced cost discipline will set us up for future success as we continue to increase our membership offerings and expand our footprint strategically through flexible and capital efficient alternatives.

As the Company continues to execute on its operational restructuring program and experiences the benefits of our efforts to create a more efficient organization, results may be less comparable period over period.

Restructuring and other related costs totaled $466.0 million and $136.2 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, and $206.7 million and $329.2 million during the years ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, respectively. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company also performed its quarterly impairment assessment for long-lived assets impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting declines in revenue and operating income experienced by certain locations as of June 30, 2021. We evaluated certain assets whose carrying value was now deemed to have been partially impaired. We evaluated our estimates and assumptions regarding the locations' future revenue and cash flows, and performed a comprehensive review of our locations' long-lived assets for impairment, including property and equipment and operating lease right-of-use assets, at an individual location level. Key assumptions used in estimating the fair value of location assets in connection with our impairment analyses are revenue growth, lease costs, market rental rates, changes in local real estate markets in which we operate, inflation, and the overall economics of the real estate industry. Our assumptions account for the estimated impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, during the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded $31.5 million in impairments, primarily due to decreases in projected cash flows primarily attributable to the impact of COVID-19.

As of December 31, 2020, net restructuring liabilities totaled approximately $28.9 million. A reconciliation of the beginning and ending restructuring liability balances is as follows:

Asset Dispositions

In connection with our operational restructuring program, and our refocus on our core space-as-a-service offering, we have been engaged in the disposition of certain non-core operations in 2020 including:

- Flatiron School LLC and its affiliates (collectively “Flatiron”) acquired in 2017, were sold in August 2020;

During the fourth quarter of 2019, we also completed the disposition of Conductor, Inc. (“Conductor”), a search engine optimization company, and Spacious Technologies Inc. (“Spacious”), a provider of enterprise content marketing solutions software company acquired in 2018, and in 2020 we wound down certain other non-core businesses including Prolific Interactive LLC (“Prolific”), Waltz Inc. (“Waltz”) and WeGrow Inc. (“WeGrow”).

Growth Strategy Changes

As we enter into more management agreements and/or participating leases, our net loss, Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow impacted as we share some of our margin with landlords or other partners in exchange for them funding the capital expenditures at a

Under a participating lease, the landlord typically pays or reimburses us for the full build-out of the space and we generally do not annual rent, but rather rent is determined based on revenues or profits from the space. Similarly, in a management agreement, the party capital expenditures to build out the space to our design specifications and maintains full responsibility for the space, while we function and receive an agreed upon management fee. In contrast to standard lease arrangements where we receive the full benefit of the future given location, under these alternative arrangements, we share portions of this future margin with the landlord or other partner. The percentage locations subject to such alternative arrangements was approximately 24% as of June 1, 2021 and December 1, 2020, as compared to 2020 and December 1, 2019. The increase in this percentage year over year is primarily driven by the October 2, 2020 transition of primarily traditional consolidated lease structure to an unconsolidated management agreement arrangement with the leases now Trustbridge. This percentage may continue to increase as our response to COVID-19 and our operational restructuring in general conversion of certain traditional leases to management agreements.

COVID-19 and Impact on our Business

In late 2019, an outbreak of COVID-19 had emerged and by March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a pandemic. Since that time, COVID-19 has resulted in various governments imposing numerous restrictions, including travel bans, stay-at-home orders, social distancing requirements and mandatory closure of “non-essential” businesses.

We are facing a period of uncertainty as a result of the ongoing impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on our business and expect to be a material impact on demand for our space-as-a-service offering in the short-term.

As a result, the Company’s business was significantly disrupted, and the Company’s operations have been significantly reduced in markets in which the Company operates both in the United States and internationally, and the state and local governments in these areas have in the past implemented stay-at-home orders, social distancing requirements and mandatory closures of all “non-essential” businesses. It is either re-implemented or may in the future re-implement these or other restrictions, in an effort to curb the spread of COVID-19. In an effort to help protect the health and safety of its employees and members, and various planned new location openings have been delayed. In addition, of COVID-19 has caused the Company to modify its business practices (including employee travel, employee work locations and physical participation in meetings, events and conferences), and the Company may take further actions as may be required by government that the Company determines are in the best interests of the Company’s employees and members. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company purchased over $22 million of COVID-19 related prevention supplies inclusive of personal protective equipment for use by employees at our locations.

During 2021 and throughout 2020, the Company experienced reduced new sales volume at our locations, which negatively affected the Company’s results of operations. The Company had also been, and may continue to be, adversely impacted by member churn, non-payment (or delayed payment) from members or members seeking payment concessions or deferrals or cancellations at our locations.

COVID-19 pandemic. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, we continued to record comparable bad debt expense to the six months ended June 30, 2020, totaling $17.2 million and $21.0 million, respectively. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company recorded $17.2 million of bad debt expense compared to $22.2 million during the year ended December 31, 2019. The Company is actively monitoring its accounts receivable balances in response to COVID-19 and also ceased recording revenue on certain contracts where collectability is not probable. Determined collectability was not probable and did not recognize revenue on such contracts totaling $2.1 million and $53.1 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the year ended December 31, 2020, respectively. We also continue to engage with our members as it relates to related payment deferral programs. Additionally, in order to retain our members, we may offer additional discounts or deferrals that negatively impact our net loss, Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow. Average revenue per WeWork membership declined approximately 6% for the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, and declined approximately 6% for the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the year ended December 31, 2019.

The implementation of professional distancing standards, de-densification of common areas and reconfiguring of offices, may affect our performance indicators and the comparability of our results. Our key performance indicators may also be impacted by the speed at which we can open new locations and stabilize occupancy at those locations, as well as the average revenue per WeWork membership that we generate, which is likely to decline in the short-term as a result of COVID-19.

We have sought to mitigate the operational and financial impact of COVID-19 on our business by taking the following steps:

- Proactively negotiating with landlords on a location-by-location based approach for deferrals, abatements and the conversion of leases to management agreements.
- Continuing our restructuring efforts and reorganizing our business and operating model with the goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization to accelerate our path to positive Adjusted EBITDA.
- Temporarily delaying certain new location openings and the capital investment associated with the expansion of our portfolio.

Taking steps to delay or reduce spending during this period of disruption in areas such as marketing, professional fees, personnel and maintenance capital. This is in addition to significant organic reductions in variable expenses such as consumables, utilities, sales commissions, broker referrals, among others, related to overall lower business activity.

In response to COVID-19, our product, design, technology and member experience teams are also working together to enhance our facilities and ensure WeWork is prepared to satisfy our members' changing needs for space if and when they consider a return to work in the coming months.

WeWork has been awarded a Global Certificate of Conformity for the company's health and safety enhancements from Bureau Veritas, an internationally recognized testing, inspection, and certification organization. The certification was awarded after an independent audit of WeWork's cleaning protocols, social distancing measures, response plans, and space modifications.

In the wake of the COVID-19 global pandemic, we accelerated our efforts to digitize our real estate offering through the launch of WeWork All Access and WeWork On Demand products. WeWork All Access is a monthly subscription-based model that provides members with access to a dedicated desk at any participating WeWork location within their home country. Through WeWork All Access, members can book dedicated desks, conference rooms, private offices right from their phones – enabling users to choose when, where and how they work. WeWork On Demand provides users with the ability to access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations, giving members the flexibility to book individually or by the hour or conference rooms by the day on the WeWork On Demand mobile app.

While the total effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on the economy and our business are uncertain, our senior management team is monitoring its impact on a daily basis and will continue to adjust our operations as necessary.

We also believe our liquidity position will be sufficient to help us mitigate the near-term uncertainty associated with COVID-2021, we had over $1.9 billion of cash and unfunded cash commitments, which includes $844.0 million of cash and cash equivalents on our consolidated balance sheet, access to an additional $1.1 billion in undrawn senior secured debt commitments (see the section entitled “Capital Resources” for additional information on our liquidity position and undrawn debt availability).

While we cannot reasonably estimate the impact of COVID-19 on our future financial condition and results, we do anticipate have a continued negative impact in the near-term. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, we have observed indicators of re-increase of Total Memberships to 517,000 as of June 1, 2021 from 490,000 as of December 1, 2020. However, the extent to which continue to impact our business depends on future developments, including those which are highly uncertain, cannot be predicted and control, including new information which may quickly emerge regarding the severity of the virus, the spread and impact of new variants, the outbreak and the actions to contain the virus or treat its impact, vaccination rollout plans, as well as actions the Company is taking duration of our location closures, delays in new openings, our ongoing negotiations with landlords and how quickly we can resume operations among others.

Components of Results of Operations

We assess the performance of our locations differently based on whether the revenues and expenses of the location are consolidated results of operations, Consolidated Locations, or whether the revenues and expenses of the location are not consolidated within our results but we are entitled to a management fee for our services, such as locations (“IndiaCo locations” and “ChinaCo locations,” collectively, “Locations) operated by WeWork India Services Private Limited (“IndiaCo”) and Trustbridge (“ChinaCo”). Beginning with the fourth quarter of 2020, ChinaCo locations are included in Unconsolidated Locations. Prior to and during the nine months ended September 30, 2020, ChinaCo locations were included in Consolidated Locations. The term “locations” includes only Consolidated Locations when used in sections entitled “—Results of Operations and —Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 and the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018. The term “locations” includes both Consolidated Locations and Unconsolidated Locations when used elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Revenue

Revenue includes membership and service revenue as well as other revenue as described below.

Membership revenue represents membership fees, net of discounts, from sales of WeWork memberships, WeWork All Access, WeWork On Demand and WeMemberships and any revenue associated with our former WeLive offering. We derive a significant revenue from recurring membership fees. The price of each membership varies based on the type of workplace solution selected by geographic location of the space occupied, and any monthly allowances for business services, such as conference room reservations, copying allotments that are included in the base membership fee. All memberships include access to our community through the Membership revenue is recognized monthly, on a ratable basis, over the life of the agreement, as access to space is provided.

Service revenue primarily includes additional billings to members for ancillary business services in excess of the monthly allowance above. Services offered to members include access to conference rooms, printing, photocopies, initial set-up fees, phone and IT services and other services.

Service revenue also includes commissions we earn from third-party service providers. We offer access to a variety of business services to our members, often at exclusive rates, and receive a percentage of the sale when one of our members purchases a service from a service provider. Service revenue also includes any management fee income for services provided at our locations and ChinaCo locations (subsequent to deconsolidation on October 2, 2020). Service revenue is recognized on a monthly basis as services are provided.

Service revenue does not include any revenue recognized related to other non-core offerings not related to our space-as-a-service.

During 2021 and 2020, other revenue primarily includes our former Powered by We design and development services in which we provide office management that provides integrated design, construction and space management services. Also included in other revenue in 2020 were other management and advisory fees earned.

Design and development services performed are recognized as revenue over time based on a percentage of contract costs incurred compared to the total estimated contract cost. The Company identifies only the specific costs incurred which contribute to the Company's performance obligation. Contracts are generally segmented between types of services, such as consulting contracts, construction contracts, and operate contracts. Revenues related to each respective type of contract are recognized as or when the respective obligations are satisfied. When total cost estimates for these types of arrangements exceed revenues in a fixed-price arrangement, the losses are recognized immediately.

Income generated from sponsorships and ticket sales from WeWork branded events are recognized upon the occurrence of the event. Other revenues are generally recognized over time, on a monthly basis, as the services are performed.

Other revenue also includes revenue generated from various other non-core offerings, not directly related to the revenue we generate from our membership agreements through which we provide space-as-a-service. For example, the revenue generated by the following during the period subsequent to their acquisition and prior to their disposition or wind down, are all classified as other revenue: Flatiron, Meetup, Convene, and others managed by Q, Teem, Spacious, Prolific, Waltz and WeGrow (collectively our "non-core operations" or "non-core offerings").

As other revenue includes significant amounts related to non-core operations that have been disposed of or have been wound down, these other revenues are expected to continue to decline. See the section entitled "—Key Factors Affecting Comparability of Our Results — Assumptions" above.

Location Operating Expenses

Location operating expenses include the day-to-day costs of operating an open location and exclude pre-opening costs, depreciation, amortization and general sales and marketing, which are separately recorded.

Lease Cost

Our most significant location operating expense is lease cost. Lease cost is recognized on a straight-line basis over the life of the lease in accordance with GAAP based on the following three key components:

- Lease cost contractually paid or payable represents cash payments due for base and contingent rent, common area maintenance and real estate taxes payable under the Company's lease agreements, recorded on an accrual basis of accounting, regardless of the timing in which amounts were actually paid.

Table of Contents

- Amortization of lease incentives represents the amortization of amounts received or receivable for tenant improvement allowances and commissions (collectively, “lease incentives”), amortized on a straight-line basis over the terms of our leases.
- Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost represents the adjustment required under GAAP to recognize the impact of “free rent” per the lease agreement, including lease commencement costs and capitalized initial direct costs associated with obtaining a lease.

Prior to the adoption of ASC 842 on January 1, 2019, lease cost was referred to as rent and tenancy costs. Tenancy costs include maintenance charges and real estate taxes paid in connection with our leased locations.

Other Location Operating Expenses

Other location operating expenses typically include utilities, ongoing repairs and maintenance, cleaning expenses, office expenses, credit card processing fees and food and beverage costs. Location operating expenses also include personnel and related costs managing our community operations including member relations, new member sales and member retention and facilities management.

Pre-Opening Location Expenses

Pre-opening location expenses include all expenses incurred before a location is open for members. The primary components of pre-opening location expenses are lease cost expense, including our share of tenancy costs (including real estate and related taxes and common area maintenance charges), utilities, cleaning, personnel and related expenses and other costs incurred prior to generating revenue. Personnel expenses include compensation and benefits for employees involved in the pre-opening location expenses as we staff our locations prior to their opening to help ensure a smooth opening and a successful member experience. Pre-opening location expenses also consist of expenses incurred during the period in which a workspace location has commenced member operations and all members have been relocated to a new workspace location, prior to management’s decision to enter negotiations for a lease.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Selling, general and administrative expenses (“SG&A”) consist primarily of personnel and stock-based compensation expenses for our corporate employees, technology, consulting, legal and other professional services expenses, costs for our corporate offices, such as rent, travel, telephone, advertising, promotional costs, with our billings, collections, purchasing and accounts payable functions. Also included in SG&A are general sales and marketing advertising costs, member referral fees, and costs associated with strategic marketing events, and various other costs we incur to manage our business.

SG&A also includes cost of goods sold in connection with our former Powered by We on-site office design, development and support solutions and the costs of services or goods sold related to our various other non-core offerings described above in the periods subsequent to acquisition and prior to their disposition or wind down.

Also included are corporate design, development, warehousing, logistics and real estate costs and expenses incurred researching markets, solutions and services, and other expenses related to the Company’s growth and global expansion incurred during periods where the Company was focused on expansion. These costs include non-capitalized personnel and related expenses for our development, design, production, real estate, growth talent acquisition, mergers and acquisitions, legal, technology research and development teams and related professional expenses incurred such as growth related recruiting.

fees, employee relocation costs, due diligence, integration costs, transaction costs, contingent consideration fair value adjustments, acquisitions, write-off of previously capitalized costs for which the Company is no longer moving forward with the lease or project asset impairments and write-offs.

We expect that overall SG&A expenses will decrease as a percentage of revenue over time as we continue to execute on our restructuring plan. This is primarily driven by cost reductions aimed to enhance our operating efficiency and leverage the historical investments in people and technology that we have made to support our global community. We also expect decreases in SG&A expenses over time due to the sale or wind down of certain non-core operations above. Prior to 2020, much of our sales and marketing efforts were focused on pre-opening locations and non-mature locations. With the recent overall occupancy and the impact of COVID-19 on our mature locations continuing in 2021, future sales and marketing costs may begin to stabilize our mature locations.

Restructuring and other related costs and Impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets

See the section entitled “— Key Factors Affecting Comparability of Our Results — Restructuring and Impairments” above for the components of these financial statement line items.

Depreciation and amortization

Depreciation and amortization primarily relates to the depreciation expense recorded on our property and equipment, the majority of which component are the leasehold improvements made to our real estate portfolio.

Interest and Other Income (Expense)

Interest and other income (expense) is comprised of interest income, interest expense, loss on extinguishment of debt, earnings on available-for-sale securities, unrealized gains and losses on held-to-maturity securities, foreign currency gain (loss), and gain (loss) from change in fair value of related party financial instruments.

Total revenue excluding ChinaCo	$ 1,191,331	$ 1,801,696	$ (610,365)	(34)%

Total revenue decreased $747.3 million primarily driven by membership and service revenue, which decreased $642.6 million in the six months ended June 30, 2021, from $1.8 billion for the six months ended June 30, 2020. The decrease in membership and service revenue was primarily driven by the 30% decrease in our membership base which decreased to approximately 406,000 memberships as of June 30, 2021, from 578,000 as of June 30, 2020, including 65,000 memberships at ChinaCo locations consolidated as of June 30, 2020. The decrease in revenue was impacted by increases in COVID-19 related discounts. Membership and service revenue was also negatively impacted by lower incremental service revenue earned during the six months ended June 30, 2021, primarily associated with the reduction of the use of related services as a result of COVID-19.

Included in the net decreases in membership and service revenue discussed above was a decrease of approximately $135.7 million in membership and service revenue related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed six months of membership and service revenue during the six months ended June 30, 2020.

Additionally, there was a 69% decrease in other revenue, which decreased $104.7 million to $46.9 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021, from $151.6 million for the six months ended June 30, 2020. The $104.7 million decrease primarily related to a $65.0 million decrease in other revenue generated from our former Powered by We solution and a $38.0 million decrease primarily due to the sale of non-core ventures that were no longer part of our business as a result of our plan to refocus on our core space-as-a-service business. The remaining $1.7 million net decrease related to revenue from other offerings.

	2020	2019	$	%

Total revenue decreased $42.7 million primarily driven by a 29% decrease in other revenue, which decreased $117.3 million December 31, 2020.

The $74.6 million increase in membership and service revenue was primarily driven by the 6% growth in our monthly average for the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the monthly average membership base for the year ended December 31, 2019. Other related declines during 2020 were down as compared to December 31, 2019, primarily as a result of the impact of COVID-19, however related declines during 2020 were at a lesser rate than the growth in memberships experienced during 2019, resulting in the increase period over period. The positive impact on revenue from the increase in monthly average memberships was also partially offset by COVID-19 related discounts and a lower than average incremental service revenue earned during the year ended December 31, 2020. Service revenue was primarily related to conference room charges based on a decline in average utilization primarily as a result of COVID-19. Revenue per WeWork membership declined approximately 6% for the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the year ended December 31, 2019.

Included in the net increases in membership and service revenue discussed above was an offsetting decrease of approximately $117.3 million in membership and service revenue related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed to consolidated membership and service revenue during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to 12 months of consolidated service revenue during the year ended December 31, 2019.

Other revenue decreased $117.3 million, primarily related to a $39.5 million payment from an affiliate of SBG relating to the recognition of revenue during the year ended December 31, 2019 that did not reoccur during the year ended December 31, 2020, a $74.2 million decrease due to the sale of non-core ventures that were sold in the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2020 as a result of our plan to refocus on space-as-a-service business, and a $14.9 million decrease in revenue generated from our former Powered by We solution. The decrease was offset by a $14.2 million increase in revenue related to management fees earned by the WeCap Manager. The remaining $2.9 million relates to revenue from various other offerings.

(Amounts in thousands, except percentages)	Year Ended December 31,		Change
	2019	2018	$	%
Membership and service revenue	$ 3,058,693	$ 1,697,336	$ 1,361,357	80 %
Other revenue	399,899	124,415	275,484	221 %
Total revenue	$ 3,458,592	$ 1,821,751	$ 1,636,841	90 %

Total revenue increased $1.6 billion to $3.5 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019, primarily driven by an increase in service revenue of $1.4 billion.

The growth in revenue was primarily driven by growth in our membership base which increased to approximately 662,000 members as of December 1, 2019 from 401,000 as of December 1, 2018. The increase in membership and service revenue due to growth in the WeWork platform was slightly offset by 4% decline in average revenue per WeWork membership for the year ended December 31, 2019, from the year ended December 31, 2018. Average revenue per WeWork membership has experienced a decline primarily relating to our expansion into new markets with different pricing structures. In some cases, we have also used discounts to encourage longer contract terms.

Other revenue increased $275.5 million, primarily related to a $170.5 million increase in revenue generated from our former solutions and $55.7 million related to growth in other non-core ventures. The remaining $49.3 million was primarily driven by a private affiliate of SBG relating to the Creator Fund received during the year ended December 31, 2019, and various other offsetting items.

Location Operating Expenses

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020

(Amounts in thousands, except percentages)	Six Months Ended June 30,		Change
	2021	2020	$	%
Location operating expenses	$ 1,598,812	$ 1,804,802	$ (205,990)	(11)%
ChinaCo location operating expenses	—	179,221	(179,221)	(100)%
Location operating expenses excluding ChinaCo	$ 1,598,812	$ 1,625,581	$ (26,769)	(2)%

Location operating expenses decreased $206.0 million due primarily to a decrease of approximately $179.2 million in location related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed six months of consolidated location expenses during the six months ended June 30, 2020. The remaining $26.8 million decrease was primarily due to decline in memo expenses, payroll, and occupancy, primarily as a result of COVID-19 and cost cutting strategies, partially offset by an increase in lease costs. As a percentage of total revenue, location operating expenses for the six months ended June 30, 2021 increased by 41 percent compared to 93% for the six months ended June 30, 2020. The increase in location operating expenses as a percentage of total revenue was impacted by the overall decline in average revenue, discussed above.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations. Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with its ongoing restructuring efforts and additional leases over the remainder of 2021. The location decreases were partially offset by the opening of 19 locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company has also successfully amended over 150 leases for a combination of reasons, including to reduce our leased space, rent reductions, rent deferrals, offsets for tenant improvement allowances and other strategic considerations.

Our most significant location operating expense is real estate operating lease cost, which includes the following components:

(Amounts in thousands, except percentages)	Six Months Ended June 30,		Change
	2021	2020	$	%
Lease cost contractually paid or payable	$ 1,300,034	$ 1,266,768	$ 33,266	3%
Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost	131,283	228,901	(97,618)	(43)%
Amortization of lease incentives	(142,401)	(143,483)	1,082	(1)%
Total real estate operating lease cost	$ 1,288,916	$ 1,352,186	$ (63,270)	(5)%

The following table includes the components of real estate operating lease cost included in location operating expenses as membership revenue:

	Six Months Ended June 30,
	2021	2020	Change %
Lease cost contractually paid or payable	117 %	73 %	44 %
Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost	12 %	13 %	(1)%
Amortization of lease incentives	(13)%	(8)%	(5)%
Total real estate operating lease cost	116 %	78 %	38 %

The $33.3 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of fewer rent free periods associated with locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021 than during the six months ended June 30, 2020.

The $97.6 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost was primarily driven by decreases in lease cost escalations for free rent periods. The impact of straight-lining lease cost typically increases straight-line lease cost adjustments in the first half of the year when lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeds cash payments made, and then decreases lease cost in the second half of the year when lease cost is less than the cash payments required. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of the lease.

The $1.1 million decrease in amortization of lease incentives benefit was primarily due to locations that incurred amortization benefits during the six months ended June 30, 2020 no longer incurring amortization during the six months ended June 30, 2021 either upon termination or being fully amortized.

The remaining net decrease in all other location operating expenses consisted of decreases related to cleaning expenses, the cost of COVID-19 prevention supplies, and other office expenses as a result of a reduction in the use of certain locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021 as a result of COVID-19. Additionally, the decrease was due to the reductions in operating costs as a result of the Company's more efficient organization, including payroll costs, bad debt due to reserves booked in the prior year as a result of COVID-19 related consulting costs. These were offset by an increase in real estate taxes, repair and utility and other various operating costs during the six months ended June 30, 2021.

	2020	2019	$	%
Location operating expenses	$ 3,542,918	$ 2,758,318	$ 784,600	28 %

Location operating expenses excluding ChinaCo	$ 3,276,600	$ 2,468,064	$ 808,536	33 %

Location operating expenses increased $784.6 million due primarily to an increase in real estate operating lease cost resulting from growth in our workstation capacity and the increase in the number of open locations. As a percentage of total revenue, location operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2020 increased by 24 percentage points to 104% compared to 80% for the year ended December 31, 2019. This increase was primarily driven by the growth in workstation capacity combined with a decline in memberships, occupancy and average revenue per member primarily as a result of COVID-19 as discussed above.

The total net increase in our 2020 location operating expenses was partially offset by the closure of previously opened locations strategically closed 24 previously open Consolidated Locations, including nine associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended December 31, 2020, that it was consolidated.

Our most significant location operating expense is real estate operating lease cost, which includes the following components:

	2020	2019	$	%
Lease cost contractually paid or payable	$ 2,638,455	$ 1,686,431	$ 952,024	56%

Total real estate operating lease cost	$ 2,721,478	$ 1,927,916	$ 793,562	41%

The following table includes the components of real estate operating lease cost included in location operating expenses as a percentage of revenue:

	Year Ended December 31,		Change %
	2020	2019
Lease cost contractually paid or payable	86%	58%	28%
Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost	12%	14%	(2)%
Amortization of lease incentives	(10)%	(6)%	(4)%
Total real estate operating lease cost	89%	66%	23%

The reasons for the $793.6 million net increase in total real estate operating lease cost and the increase in the amounts as a percentage of revenue was primarily driven by the growth in workstation capacity combined with a decline in memberships, occupancy and average revenue per member primarily as a result of COVID-19 as discussed above. The $30.3 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost was primarily due to the ending of free rent periods, cash rent increases due to lease cost escalations and the aging of our portfolio. The impact of straight-line lease cost typically increases lease cost in the first half of the life of a lease, when lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeds cash payments required, and then decreases lease cost in the second half of the life of the lease when lease cost is less than the cash payments required. The impact of straight-line lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

Total location operating expenses also declined by $37.2 million during 2020 as a result of higher stock-based compensation expense during 2019 primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer (each as defined in Note 22 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus), through which common shares were acquired (under the terms of the 2020 Tender Offer, offered to be acquired subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions) from WeWork employees at a price equal to the market value of the shares, which resulted in additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2020.

The remaining $28.2 million net increase in all other location operating expenses consisted of increases related to cleaning expense, costs of additional COVID-19 prevention supplies, increases in bad debt expense and other expenses required to operate our locations and reductions in variable operating costs which were lower than average as a result of a reduction in the use of certain locations during 2020 as a result of COVID-19 as well as a reduction in operating costs as a result of the Company's efforts to create a more efficient organization.

Location operating expenses	$ 2,758,318	$ 1,491,783	$ 1,266,535	85%

Location operating expenses increased $1.3 billion to $2.8 billion due to the overall growth in our business and the increase in the number of locations. As a percentage of total revenue, location operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2019 decreased by two percentage points compared to 82% for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Our most significant location operating expense is real estate operating lease cost, which includes the following components as a percentage of revenue:

Amortization of lease incentives	(6)%	(6)%	— %
Total real estate operating lease cost	66%	62%	4%

The $861.8 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable, which is incurred after locations open for business and before any free rent period, was primarily driven by the growth from 410 locations as of December 1, 2018 to 710 locations as of December 31, 2019. The increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable is also impacted by escalations in base rent payments and the expiration of free rent periods. As a percentage of membership revenue, lease cost contractually paid or payable increased by seven percentage points for the year ended December 31, 2019 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2018 and was impacted by our expansion into regions where lease costs comprised a higher percentage of membership and service revenue.

The $143.0 million increase in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost was primarily driven by free rent periods and lease costs that a majority of our leases are in the first half of the life of the lease.

Table of Contents

The impact of straight-lining lease cost typically increases lease cost in the first half of the life of a lease, when lease cost recorded in GAAP exceeds cash payments made, and then decreases lease cost in the second half of the life of the lease when lease cost is less than payments required. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The $80.8 million increase in amortization of lease incentives benefit was primarily driven by the new locations that opened since 2018.

Stock-based compensation expense increased $23.8 million primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer, and additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2019. Additionally, the Company made new compensation grants to new and existing employees during 2019, resulting in additional expense.

The overall growth in our global community was also the primary driver of the remaining $318.8 million increase in all other expenses, which related to increases in employee compensation and benefits, cleaning, office, utilities, repairs and maintenance, construction expenses required to operate our locations. As a percentage of membership revenue, these location operating expenses for the year ended 2019 decreased three percentage points to 24% compared to 27% for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Pre-Opening Location Expenses

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020

Pre-opening location expenses excluding ChinaCo	$ 76,839	$ 153,560	$ (76,721)	(50)%

Pre-opening location expenses decreased $89.1 million to $76.8 million primarily as a result of the Company's decision in the second half of 2019 and first half of 2020 to decelerate the growth rate of our platform and to focus on increasing the profitability of our existing properties.

As of June 1, 2021, there were 42 locations where we had taken possession of the new leased spaces but the location had not yet opened operations compared to 102 as of June 1, 2020. Included in the 42 pre-open locations are 20 locations that were closed for member members have been relocated to a new workspace location as of June 1, 2021, but management has not yet ceased use of the

Included in the net decreases discussed above was a decrease of approximately $12.4 million in pre-opening expenses related to ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed six months of consolidated pre-opening expenses during the six months ended June 30, 2020.

Our most significant pre-opening location expense is real estate operating lease cost for the period before a location is open for operations, which includes the following components and changes:

(Amounts in thousands, except percentages)	Six Months Ended June 30,		Change
	2021	2020	$	%
Lease cost contractually paid or payable	$ 55,945	$ 69,069	$ (13,124)	(19)%

Amortization of lease incentives	(10,158)	(23,562)	13,404	(57)%
Total pre-opening location real estate operating lease cost	$ 71,321	$ 157,633	$ (86,312)	(55)%

The $86.6 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost is primarily driven by the decrease in pre-opening location periods associated with our pre-opening locations as described above. During the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, lease payments required under leases entered into prior to opening in accordance with GAAP exceeded cash payments required to be made. As the number of pre-opening locations at the end of each period decreased, so too have non-cash GAAP straight-line lease costs relating to those pre-open locations. The impact of straight-line lease costs nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The $13.1 million decrease in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of the decrease in the number of locations described above.

The $13.4 million decrease in amortization of lease incentives benefit was driven by the decrease in pre-opening locations described above.

Pre-opening location expenses excluding ChinaCo	$ 259,584	$ 500,287	$ (240,703)	(48)%

Pre-opening location expenses decreased $298.9 million to $273.0 million primarily as a result of the Company's decision in the second half of 2019 to decelerate the growth rate of our platform and to focus on increasing the profitability of our existing portfolio of locations. At December 31, 2020, the Company also successfully terminated leases associated with a total of 82 consolidated pre-open locations, seven associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that it was consolidated, which also contributed to the expense. As of December 1, 2020, there were 59 locations where we had taken possession of the new leased spaces but the location was not yet open for member operations compared to 165 as of December 1, 2019.

The $9.2 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of fewer free rent periods associated with our pre-opening locations during the year ended December 31, 2020, than during the year ended December 31, 2019.

The $312.3 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost is primarily driven by the decrease in pre-opening location periods associated with our pre-opening locations as described above. During the year ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, lease payments required to be made. As the number of pre-opening locations at the end of each period described above, so too have non-cash GAAP straight-line lease costs relating to those pre-open locations. The impact of straight-line lease costs nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The $19.9 million decrease in amortization of lease incentives benefit was driven by the decrease in pre-opening locations described above.

Pre-opening location expenses	$ 571,968	$ 357,831	$ 214,137	60%

Pre-opening location expenses increased $214.1 million to $572.0 million primarily as a result of the continued acceleration of new locations where we had taken possession of the new leased spaces but the location had not yet opened for member operations compared to December 1, 2018.

Our most significant pre-opening location expense is operating lease cost for the period before a location is open for member operations, which includes the following components and changes:

The $38.5 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of the increase in the number of locations described above.

The increase in amortization of lease incentives benefit of $56.7 million was primarily driven by the adoption of ASC 842 on January 1, 2021. Upon adoption, the Company made an accounting policy election to recognize tenant lease incentive receivables as part of the fixed assets at the lease commencement date, which resulted in a reduction in total operating lease cost included in pre-opening location operating expenses.

The $215.5 million increase in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost is primarily driven by straight-line lease cost during the period provided for a limited time before our locations open for member operations. During this period, lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP reflects cash payments required to be made. As the number of location openings and the number of pre-opening locations at the end of each period increase, so too have non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost relating to those pre-opening locations. The impact of straight-line lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The overall growth in our network of locations was also the primary driver of the remaining $16.8 million increase in all other location operating expenses, which related primarily to increases in employee compensation and benefits, utilities, cleaning, and other costs to prepare our locations for members.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020

(Amounts in thousands, except percentages)	Six Months Ended June 30,		Change

Selling, general and administrative expenses excluding ChinaCo	$ 499,502	$ 875,880	$ (376,378)	(43)%

Selling, general and administrative expenses decreased $425.6 million to $499.5 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021. The $425.6 million decrease, $49.2 million related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed to the consolidated selling, general and administrative expenses during the six months ended June 30, 2020. As a percentage of total revenue, selling and administrative expenses decreased by 6 percentage points to 42% for the six months ended June 30, 2021, compared to 48% for the six months ended June 30, 2020, driven primarily by our decision during the fourth quarter of 2019 and first half of 2020 to slow our growth and focus on creating a leaner, more efficient organization resulting in reductions in headcount, including $278.3 million decrease in employee benefits expenses, professional fees and other expenses. In addition, as a result of the temporary business interruption caused by COVID-19, the Company was also proactive in taking steps to delay or reduce spending in areas such as marketing during the six months ended June 30, 2021, incurred fewer variable sales costs that are directly tied to the COVID-19 related decline in sales activity experienced during the six months ended June 30, 2021, such as member referral fees which declined by $23.0 million during six months ended June 30, 2021.

Included in the decrease in selling, general and administrative expenses was a $109.8 million decrease in cost of revenue attributed to businesses which were primarily sold or wound down as the Company has refocused on its core space-as-a-service offerings.

The decreases were partially offset by an increase in stock-based compensation of $20.4 million and various other expenses

Selling, general and administrative expenses excluding ChinaCo	$ 1,535,785	$ 2,708,426	$ (1,172,641)	(43)%

Selling, general and administrative expenses decreased $1.2 billion to $1.6 billion for the year ended December 31, 2020. As a percentage of revenue, SG&A expenses decreased by 34 percentage points to 47% for the year ended December 31, 2020 driven primarily by our decision to slow our growth and focus on our goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization.

The decrease in SG&A expenses was driven by a $310.0 million decrease in other employee compensation and benefits, a $153.6 million decrease in professional fees, a $60.0 million decrease in routine impairment charges relating to excess, obsolete, and inventory and a $88.5 million decrease in travel expenses all driven by progress made through our restructuring program and efforts to create a more efficient organization. COVID-19 travel restrictions also impacted our travel expense decline during the year.

Also included in the decrease in SG&A expenses was a $135.9 million decrease in cost of revenue attributable to non-core business units primarily sold or wound down during the fourth quarter of 2019 and during the year ended December 31, 2020 as the Company has reduced its space-as-a-service offering.

SG&A expenses decreased due to $94.5 million of costs associated with the withdrawn initial public offering and related bank fees incurred during the year ended December 31, 2019, that did not reoccur during 2020. Offsetting these decreases, during 2020, we incurred additional legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding our 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions.

Included in the decrease in SG&A expenses was a $271.2 million decrease as a result of higher stock-based compensation expense in 2019 primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer, through which common shares were acquired (or, in the case of the 2020 Tender Offer, offered to be acquired subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions) from WeWork employees at a price greater than the fair value of the shares, which resulted in additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2019.

The decreases were partially offset by a $61.5 million increase in expense due to a $61.7 million benefit recorded by ChinaCo during the year ended December 31, 2019, relating to a decline in fair value of the contingent consideration payable in stock associated with the ChinaCo acquisition compared to only a $0.1 million benefit recorded during the year ended December 31, 2020, prior to the ChinaCo December 31, 2019 decrease in fair value of contingent consideration during the year ended December 31, 2019, was primarily driven by a decrease in the projected obligation to issue additional shares of the Company's Class A Common Stock.

Selling, general and administrative expenses increased $1.4 billion to $2.8 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019.

The increase in SG&A was primarily driven by a $519.8 million increase in employee compensation and benefits. To support our platform, we made significant personnel investments, including a $194.0 million increase in sales and marketing personnel, and $207.0 million in personnel related to corporate design, development, warehousing, logistics and real estate costs and expenses incurred researching new markets, solutions and services, and other expenses related to the Company's growth and global expansion.

Stock-based compensation expense increased $254.9 million primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer, which resulted in additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2019. Additionally, the Company made grants to new and existing employees during 2019, resulting in additional expense.

Cost of revenue included in SG&A contributed to an increase of approximately $145.7 million relating to an increase in the number of We projects as compared to the year ended December 31, 2018 and a $74.3 million increase attributable to other non-core businesses, such as the expansion of operations of Meetup, the Flatiron School, Conductor and Managed by Q for the periods subsequent to their acquisition.

There was also an increase of $33.6 million in routine impairment charges and property and equipment write-offs relating to early termination of leases and cancellation of other deals or projects occurring in the course of business. The increase in routine impairment charges and write-offs was consistent with the increase in the Company's investment in equipment and other growth activities during 2019.

The increase was also driven by $50.5 million of non-recurring expenses associated with previously deferred costs associated with the SoftBank Transactions, including the $10.0 million of expense recorded during the year ended December 31, 2019 in connection with the SoftBank Transaction, $44.0 million in expenses associated with a breakup fee for an alternative financing arrangement contemplated prior to the execution of the SoftBank Transactions.

The increases were partially offset by a $142.3 million decrease in expense due to a $61.7 million benefit recorded during the year ended December 31, 2019, relating to a decline in fair value of the contingent consideration payable in stock associated with the naked option exercise of stock options held by the Company's executive officers. The decrease in fair value of contingent consideration, compared to $80.6 million of expense recorded during the year ended December 31, 2018. The decrease in fair value of contingent consideration, recorded during the year ended December 31, 2019, was primarily driven by a decrease in the Company's projected obligation to issue additional shares of the Company's Class A Common Stock.

The remaining $463.5 million increase included various costs associated with expansion of our global community, including an increase in professional fees primarily due to additional accounting, consulting, legal and audit fees, a $42.0 million increase in personnel costs, a $46.4 million increase in advertising costs, a $38.5 million increase in corporate lease costs and a $34.2 million increase in corporate travel costs.

Impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets	$ 541,585	$ 555,959	$ (14,374)	(3)%

Restructuring and other related costs increased $329.8 million to $466.0 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021, primarily due to a $329.8 million increase in one-time employee termination costs relating to a Settlement Agreement with Mr. Neumann, the Company's founder and chairman. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG (as defined in Note 1 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) purchased 30,139,971 shares of Class B Common Stock of the Company.

Holdings LLC, which is Mr. Neumann's affiliated investment vehicle, for a price per share of $19.19, representing an aggregate purchase price of approximately $578.4 million. The Company recorded a $428.3 million expense which represents the excess between the amount paid by Holdings LLC to Mr. Neumann and the fair value of the stock purchased. The Company recognized the expense in restructuring and other related costs in the consolidated statement of operations for the three months ended March 31, 2021, with a corresponding increase in additional paid-in capital, representing a deemed capital contribution by SBG in its condensed consolidated balance sheet. In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. The per unit distribution thresholds for Mr. Neumann's WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to initially be $10.00 and may be subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing if a de-SPAC or initial public offering were to occur. As such, the Company expensed $102.0 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021.

The restructuring cost increase was also due to $65.7 million increase in costs related to ceased use buildings and a $20.2 million decrease in other exit costs.

Restructuring and other related costs was offset by a $148.2 million increase in lease termination gains. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations and 3 pre-open locations. Management continues to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with its ongoing restructuring efforts and expects to exit additional leases over the remainder of the year.

The restructuring cost increase was also offset by a $138.2 million decrease in one-time employee bonus and termination costs. We will reiterate and execute on our plans to refocus on our core space-as-a-service business and create a leaner, more efficient organization.

In connection with the operational restructuring program and related changes in the Company's leasing plans and planned disposition or wind down of certain non-core operations and projects, and the impacts of COVID-19 on our operations, the Company various other non-routine write-offs, impairments and gains on sale of goodwill, intangibles and various other long-lived assets. Impairment (gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets decreased $(14.4) million to $541.6 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021 following components in year:

(Amounts in thousands)	Six Months Ended June 30,

Impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets	$ 1,355,921	$ 335,006	$ 1,020,915	305%

Restructuring and other related costs decreased $122.5 million to $206.7 million for the year ended December 31, 2020, primarily due to a $185.0 million charge during 2019 relating to a non-compete agreement with Mr. Neumann, the Company's former CEO, which required payment totaling $185.0 million to be paid by SBG (as defined in Note 1 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) to Mr. Neumann. We recorded this as an expense of the Company to be paid by its shareholder as the Company also benefits from the arrangement through restricting Mr. Neumann ability to provide similar services to the organization. The Company recognized the expense in full during 2019, with a corresponding increase in additional paid-in capital deemed contribution by SBG.

Restructuring and other related costs during 2020 also benefited by $37.4 million from net gains on lease terminations during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to a $3.2 million net loss on lease terminations during 2019. During 2020, the Company terminated leases with a total of 82 consolidated pre-open locations, including seven associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that was consolidated and strategically closed 24 previously open Consolidated Locations, including nine associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that it was consolidated. During 2019, the Company terminated leases associated with two pre-open locations with its restructuring efforts which began in September 2019.

The restructuring cost decline was also offset by a $52.3 million increase in one-time employee termination benefits as a result of headcount reduction plans during 2020 and a $50.8 million increase in various other restructuring related costs both incurred as we continue to review and execute on our plans to refocus on our core space-as-a-service business and create a leaner, more efficient organization.

In connection with the operational restructuring program and related changes in the Company's leasing plans and planned disposition or wind down of certain non-core operations and projects, and the impacts of COVID-19 on our operations, the Company recorded various other non-routine write-offs, impairments and gains on sale of goodwill, intangibles and various other long-lived assets. Impairments (gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets increased $1,020.9 million to $1,355.9 million for the year ended December 31, 2020, primarily due to the following components in year:

In September 2019, the Company initiated an operational restructuring program that included a change in executive leadership, reductions in force and other cost savings measures that aim to improve the Company's operating performance. As there were no restructuring efforts during 2018, there are no restructuring expenses during the year ended December 31, 2018.

The $329.2 million of restructuring and other related costs for the year ended December 31, 2019, consisted of $185.0 million related to the non-compete agreement discussed above, $139.3 million of one-time employee termination benefits and other costs including lease termination charges and $1.6 million of legal fees.

Interest and other income (expense), net	$ (621,630)	$ 389,574	$ (1,011,204)	(260)%

Interest and other income (expense), net decreased $1.0 billion to $(621.6) million of loss for the six months ended June 30, 2021. This was primarily driven by a $1.1 billion decrease on the net gain on the change in fair value of related party financial instruments. These financial instruments are remeasured to fair value through their exercise dates, with such adjustments driven by changes in the Company's stock price.

See Note 9 and Note 11 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this statement/prospectus for further details on these related party financial instruments and the related fair value measurements, re-measurements and gains/losses.

Foreign currency gain increased $112.1 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 as compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020. This was primarily driven by increases in the foreign currency denominated intercompany transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature, as well as our international expansion and currency fluctuations against the dollar. The $37.9 million loss during the six months ended June 30, 2020, was impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Peruvian Sol, and U.S. dollar-Korean Won.

Interest expense increased by $79.7 million primarily due to a $37.9 million increase in 2021 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the new SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant and in 2021 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the new SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant (each as defined in section entitled “— Liquidity and Capital Resources” below). The Company also incurred a $39.5 million of interest expense related to letters of credit under the new 2020 LC Facility and other letters of credit fees.

The loss on extinguishment of debt of $76.3 million was primarily driven by the repayment of the loans securing the 424 Fifth Venture Loans sale of the real estate in March 2020. We recognized a $71.6 million loss on extinguishment of the 424 Fifth Venture Loans represented by the difference between the $756.6 million in cash paid, including a prepayment penalty of $56.1 million and the net carrying amount of the debt and issuance costs immediately prior to the extinguishment of $685.0 million. The remaining $4.7 million of loss relates to a write off of the issuance costs in conjunction with the termination of the credit facility and letter of credit facility which were terminated in February 2020 in connection with the availability of the 2020 LC Facility.

The loss from equity method investments increased $22.6 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021, and was primarily driven by the Company's loss on its investment in ChinaCo and credit losses recorded relating to available-for-sale debt securities partially offset by gains on sales of equity method investments.

Interest and other income (expense), net increased $342.2 million to $532.4 million of income for the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019. The increase was primarily driven by a $580.5 million increase on the net gain on the change in fair value of related party financial instruments. Related party financial instruments are remeasured to fair value through their exercise dates, with such adjustments driven by changes in the market price. See Note 14 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this prospectus for further details on these related party financial instruments and the related fair value measurements, respectively.

Foreign currency gain increased $119.5 million during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019. The increase was primarily driven by increases in the foreign currency denominated intercompany transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature.

Our international expansion and currency fluctuations against the dollar. The $149.2 million gain during the year ended December 31, 2020, was primarily impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Chinese Yuan, and U.S. dollar-Korean won exchange rates.

Interest expense increased by $231.6 million primarily due to a $80.6 million increase in 2020 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the new SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant and $88.3 million in 2020 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the 2020 LC Facility Warrant (each as defined in section entitled “Liquidity and Capital Resources” below). The Company also incurred an increase in interest expense related to letters of credit under the new 2020 LC Facility and other letters of credit fees and a $15.0 million decrease in interest expense related to the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes. The increase was partially offset by a $9.4 million net decrease in interest expense related to the Convertible Notes (as defined in Note 14) and change in the fair value of the derivative associated with the convertible note which was settled in July 2019. The remaining $3.6 million decrease was related to interest expense associated with Surety Bonds (as defined in Note 14) and Notes issued in lieu of cash security deposits, finance leases, and interest associated with other loans.

The loss on extinguishment of debt of $77.3 million was primarily driven by the repayment of the loans securing the 424 Fifth Avenue real estate in March 2020. We recognized a $71.6 million loss on extinguishment of the 424 Fifth Venture Loans representing the difference between the $756.6 million in cash paid, including a prepayment penalty of $56.1 million and the net carrying amount of the debt and issuance costs immediately prior to the extinguishment of $685.0 million. The remaining $5.7 million of loss primarily relates to a $4.0 million of deferred financing costs in conjunction with the termination of the 2019 Credit Facility and 2019 LC Facility which were terminated in 2020 in conjunction with the availability of the 2020 LC Facility, as well as a $1.0 million loss on the extinguishment of other debt.

Interest and other income (expense), net increased $427.5 million to $190.2 million of income for the year ended December 31, 2020, was primarily driven by a $239.1 million net gain on the change in fair value of related party financial instruments related primarily to the 2018 Warrant and 2019 Warrant which are remeasured to fair value through their exercise dates, with such adjustments driven by the Company's stock price. See Note 14 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included in the proxy statement/prospectus for additional information.

The net foreign currency gain (loss) changes of $108.3 million are primarily driven by the increase in foreign currency denominated transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature as a result of our international expansion and currency fluctuations against the results of operations for 2019 were primarily impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-Chinese Yuan and U.S. dollar-Israeli Shekel exchange rates.

Interest income increased $15.6 million, primarily due to changes in average cash on hand throughout the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to the year ended December 31, 2018.

Interest expense decreased by $84.1 million primarily due to a $124.6 million change in the fair value of the Convertible Notes in the redemption derivative period over period. During the year ended December 31, 2019, interest expense included a credit of $27.0 million on the fair value adjustment on the embedded redemption derivative compared to expense of $97.6 million during the year ended December 31, 2018, relating to losses. The decrease in interest expense was partially offset by a $14.0 million increase in imputed interest expense on the Senior Notes which was funded in August 2018 and converted in July 2019 and was therefore outstanding for a longer period of time during 2019, an increase in interest expense associated with our Senior Notes which began accruing interest on April 30, 2018, and an increase of $9.0 million with our letters of credit, surety bonds issued in lieu of cash security deposits, and interest associated with other loans.

The loss from equity method investments increased $19.6 million, primarily driven by various impairments and write offs of the Company's equity method investments, during the year ended December 31, 2019.

There was a $8.8 million net decrease in the tax provision for the six months ended June 30, 2021, compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, due to the deconsolidation of ChinaCo in 2020 and lower withholding taxes paid, offset by additional valuation allowance recorded in the second quarter.

Our effective income tax rate was lower than the U.S. federal statutory rate primarily due to the effect of certain non-deductible expenses, the effect of our operating in jurisdictions with various statutory tax rates, and valuation allowances. There was a $26.1 million net decrease in the tax provision for the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to the year ended December 31, 2019. The overall decrease is primarily related to a reduction in withholding tax payments in the current year on our intercompany management fees as well as the impact of changes in tax laws which generated additional tax expense in prior periods.

Our effective income tax rate was lower than the U.S. federal statutory rate primarily due to the effect of certain non-deductible expenses, the impact of rate changes in certain non-US jurisdictions, the ChinaCo Deconsolidation and the change in the valuation allowances recorded. Table of Contents

N/M = Not meaningful

There was a $46.5 million net increase in the tax provision for the year ended December 31, 2019, compared to the year ended 2018. The increase was primarily due to additional current income tax expense for ChinaCo and PacificCo for the year ended December 31, 2019, related to the interest income and foreign currency gains earned on cash held by the entities, along with an increase in withholding taxes related to cross border intercompany payments on interest and management fees, and current income tax expense in Japan from a change in straight-line lease cost, and current income tax expense on profitable operations in Mexico and Canada.

Our effective income tax rate was lower than the U.S. federal statutory rate primarily due to the effect of certain non-deductible differences, the effect of our operating in jurisdictions with various statutory tax rates, and valuation allowances. For additional information regarding the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, see Note 6 and Note 5 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, and elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Net Loss Attributable to Noncontrolling Interests

During 2017 through 2021, various of our consolidated subsidiaries issued equity to other parties in exchange for cash as more fully described in Note 6 and Note 5 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, and elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. As we have the power to direct the activities of these entities that most significantly impact their performance and the right to receive benefits that could potentially be significant to these entities, they remain our consolidated subsidiaries' interests owned by the other investors and the net income or loss and comprehensive income or loss attributable to the other investors' share of the noncontrolling interests on our condensed consolidated balance sheets, condensed consolidated statements of operations and condensed consolidated statements of comprehensive loss, respectively.

The decrease in the net loss attributable to noncontrolling interests from the six months ended June 30, 2021 as compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020 of $(554.9) million is largely due to our decision during the fourth quarter of 2019 and first half of 2020 to slow our growth and focus on our goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization. Included during the six months ended June 30, 2020, were increases in net losses from the PacificCo, JapanCo and ChinaCo ventures, while during the six months ended June 30, 2021, only JapanCo was included, as the PacificCo and ChinaCo are no longer consolidated VIEs. See Note 5 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for further discussion of these transactions. See Note 6 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for discussion of the Company's remaining VIEs.

The increase in the net loss attributable to noncontrolling interests from the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019 of $194.4 million is primarily due to the continued expansion of operations and the corresponding increases in net losses from the PacificCo, JapanCo and ChinaCo (prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation) ventures and partially offset by the PacificCo Roll-up which occurred during 2020. The net losses from PacificCo were included in noncontrolling interest for the full year of 2019 and the three months ended March 31, 2020, as PacificCo allocated to noncontrolling interest during the remainder of 2020.

The increase net loss attributable to noncontrolling interests from year ended December 31, 2019 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2018, of $193.5 million was largely due to continued expansion of operations and the corresponding increases in net losses incurred by the PacificCo and JapanCo ventures.

We recorded a net loss attributable to WeWork Inc. of $(3.1) billion for the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to $(3.3) billion for the year ended December 31, 2019 and $(1.6) billion for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

We currently expect that our principal sources of funds to meet our short-term and long-term liquidity requirements for working capital expenditures, lease security, other investments and repurchases or repayments of outstanding indebtedness and other liabilities will be:

- Cash on hand, including $844.0 million of cash and cash equivalents as of June 30, 2021, including $102.6 million held by our consolidated interest entities (“VIEs”) that will be used first to settle obligations of the VIE and are also subject to the restrictions discussed below;
- Draws on the $1.1 billion SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (defined below) or the $550.0 million A&R Senior Secured Notes (defined below);
- earlier of the Closing and September 30, 2021, the Company and the Note Purchaser (as defined section entitled “Summary of the Prospectus — The Business Combination — Closing and Effective Time” in this proxy statement/prospectus) will enter into the A&R Note Purchase Agreement (defined below), which replaces the Master Senior Secured Notes Purchase Agreement. It is a condition of the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased and canceled at a price of 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest;
- The 2020 LC Facility (defined below) which became available in February 2020 to provide $1.75 billion in letters of credit which serve as lease security for the Company’s leases in lieu of providing cash security deposits and for general corporate purposes and other uses;
- WeWork Companies LLC or its business. As of June 30, 2021, there was $84.7 million in remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility.
- Facility. In March 2021, the Company, the SoftBank Obligor, and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Support Letter”) pursuant to which SBG has committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2024 to no later than February 10, 2024, subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein; and

- In May 2021, the Company entered into a loan agreement with a third party to raise up to $350.0 million of cash in exchange for a commitment to issue notes under the LC Debt Facility (as defined below) in the second half of 2021, with the first draw expected in August 2021 which mature in September 2021.

The Company’s strategic plan used for evaluating liquidity includes limited future growth initiatives, such as signing new leases. The timing at which we may achieve profitability and positive cash flow from operations depends on a variety of factors, including the market locations, the rates we are able to charge, the success of our cost efficiency efforts, economic and competitive conditions in the markets in which we operate, general macroeconomic conditions, the pace at which we choose to grow and our ability to add new members and new products to our platform. Alternate long-term growth plans may require raising additional capital.

The duration and scope of the COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in a slower than expected timing of recovery in WeWork’s business. WeWork’s management established its original financial projections in February 2021. The delayed recovery has negatively impacted our EBITDA and liquidity during the first half of 2021. For example, cash flow used in operating activities was approximately $1.2 billion for the six-month period ended June 30, 2021.

As a result, the Company revised its financial projections in August 2021 as further described in “BCA Proposal — Projected Financial Information” above. Our current short-term liquidity forecast, which is based on our Current Projections, assumes that the pandemic will continue to negatively impact cash flow used in operating activities for the near term, but to a lessening extent based on improving customer demand experienced during the second half of 2021. In addition, WeWork has two financing options that are independent of current period financial performance: the Company may receive up to $1.1 billion in proceeds from the consummation of the $1.1 billion SoftBank Senior Secured Notes, or the Company will receive up to $1.3 billion in proceeds from the consummation of the transaction.

transaction and have access to a $550 million senior secured note facility from an affiliate of the SoftBank Obligor. The Company expects to benefit from the recovery from the pandemic, which is now underway, combined with its available financing options, will provide liquidity sufficient to meet its liquidity requirements.

Our liquidity forecasts are based upon continued execution of the Company’s operational restructuring program and also include our best estimate of the impact that the outbreak of COVID-19, including the Delta or other variants, may continue to have on our business needs; however, the extent to which our future results and liquidity needs are further affected by the continued impact of COVID-19 depends upon many factors.

on the continued duration of closures, and delays in location openings, the success of ongoing vaccination efforts, the effect on our members, any permanent shifts in working from home, how quickly we can resume normal operations and our ongoing lease negotiations with landlords, among others. If revenues continue to decline during 2021 and/or we do not experience a recovery consistent with our projections, additional capital sources may be required, the timing and source of which are uncertain. There is no assurance we will be successful in obtaining additional capital infusions if needed. Also see the section entitled “Key Factors Affecting the Comparability of Our Results — COVID-19 and its Impact on our Business” above for further details on the impact of COVID-19 on our business and our efforts to mitigate its effects. The ultimate impact of COVID-19 on our business is dependent on the duration of closures and delays and the larger macroeconomic impact of the virus on our business developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be accurately predicted, including new information which may emerge concerning COVID-19 and the actions to contain the virus or mitigate its impact, among others.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, our primary source of cash was $1.0 billion in proceeds from draws on the Senior Secured Unsecured Notes, (as defined in Note 24 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus). Our primary uses of cash included fixed operating expenses, capital expenditures associated with the design and build-out of our spaces. We have also incurred significant costs related to our operational restructuring including one-time employee benefit costs, lease termination fees, legal fees and other exit costs. Cash payments of restricted stock totaling $231.8 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to $182.3 million during the six months ended June 30, 2020. Location expenses, sourcing, development and other expenses and cash payments made for acquisitions and investments have also increased.

We also made large discretionary uses of cash which can and have been scaled back to the extent needed based on our future cash needs. We also repurchased amounts of our outstanding debt, including the Senior Notes, for cash, through open market repurchases or privately negotiated agreements with certain of our debt holders, although there is no assurance we will do so.

As of June 30, 2021, our consolidated VIEs held the following, in each case after intercompany eliminations:

(Amounts in thousands)	June 30, 2021
	Asia JVs⁽¹⁾	Other VIEs⁽²⁾
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 94,540	$ 8,065
Restricted cash	10,059	—
Total assets	1,871,367	15,741
Total liabilities	1,554,760	1,705
Redeemable stock issued by VIEs	500,000	—
Total net assets (3)	(183,393)	14,036

The “Asia JVs” as of June 30, 2021 includes only JapanCo. As of June 30, 2021, JapanCo was prohibited from declaring dividends (including to us) without approval of SoftBank Group Capital Limited. As a result, any net assets of JapanCo would be considered restricted net assets to the Company as of June 30, 2021. The net assets of JapanCo

(1) the equivalent of preferred stock issued to affiliates of SBG and other investors with aggregate liquidation preferences totaling $0.5 billion as of June 30, 2021, will be redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is not solely within our control. The initial issuance price of such redeemable preferred stock equals the liquidation preference per share issued as of June 30, 2021. After reducing the net assets of JapanCo by the liquidation preference associated with such redeemable preferred stock, the remaining Asia JV is negative.

(2) “Other VIEs” includes all other consolidated VIEs, other than the Asia JVs discussed separately in (1) and as of June 30, 2021 includes the WeCap Manager and its Partnership.

(3) Total net assets represents total assets less total liabilities and redeemable stock issued by VIEs after the total assets and total liabilities have both been reduced to eliminate in consolidation.

Based on the terms of the arrangements as of June 30, 2021, the assets of our consolidated VIEs will be used first to settle obligations to creditors. Remaining assets may then be distributed to the VIEs’ owners, including us, subject to the liquidation preferences of certain noncontrolling shareholders and any other preferential distribution provisions contained within the operating agreements of the relevant VIEs. Other than relating to our Asia JVs discussed in note (1) to the table above, third-party approval for the distribution of available net assets is not required for our consolidated VIEs as of June 30, 2021. See the section entitled “—Senior Notes” below for a discussion on additional restrictions of WeWork Companies LLC. See the section entitled “—Key Factors Affecting the Comparability of Our Results—ChinaCo Financial Deconsolidation” above for details regarding the October 2020 restructuring of ChinaCo. As of October 2, 2020, ChinaCo became a stand-alone VIE.

As of June 30, 2021, creditors of our consolidated VIEs do not have recourse against the general credit of the Company except for certain lease guarantees we have provided to landlords of our consolidated VIEs, which guarantees totaled $13.6 million as of June 30, 2021. In addition, as of June 30, 2021, the Company also continues to guarantee $3.5 million of lease obligations of ChinaCo subsequent to the Deconsolidation in October 2020.

We believe our sources of liquidity described above and in more detail below, will be sufficient to meet our obligations as of June 30, 2021 and the next twelve months from the issuance of this report.

We do not expect distributions from our consolidated VIEs or unconsolidated investments to be a significant source of liquidity. The assessment of our ability to meet our capital requirements over the next twelve months does not assume that we will receive distributions from these entities.

We may raise additional capital or incur additional indebtedness to continue to fund our operations and/or to refinance our existing debt and to pay any related accrued interest, premiums and fees. Our future financing requirements and the future financing requirements of our consolidated VIEs will depend on many factors, including market conditions, our financial performance, and our strategic plans.

factors, including the number of new locations to be opened, our net member retention rate, the impacts of COVID-19, the timing of spending to support the development of our platform, the expansion of our sales and marketing activities and potential investments in other businesses or technologies. In the event that additional financing is required from outside sources, we may not be able to raise it on terms acceptable to us or at all. In addition, the incurrence of indebtedness would result in increased fixed obligations and could result in operating costs that exceed our operations.

SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Companies LLC, co-obligor under our Senior Notes (defined below), and StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SoftBank (the “Note Purchaser”), entered into a master unsecured note purchase agreement (as amended from time to time and as supplemented by that certain waiver dated July 7, 2020, and Purchase Agreement”).

Pursuant to the terms of the Master Note Purchase Agreement, WeWork Companies LLC may deliver from time to time to the Note Purchaser draw notices and accordingly sell to the Note Purchaser “SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes” up to an aggregate original principal amount of $2.2 billion. A draw notice pursuant to the Master Note Purchase Agreement may be delivered only if WeWork Companies LLC’s net liquidity prior to the applicable closing is reasonably expected to be, less than $750.0 million, and the amount under each draw shall not be greater than (a) $250.0 million and (b) the remaining commitment (defined as the original principal amount of $2.2 billion less notes issued) greater than an amount sufficient to cause, or reasonably expected to cause, the net liquidity of WeWork Companies LLC to be equal to zero after giving effect to receipt of proceeds from the issuance of the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had delivered draw notices in respect of $2.2 billion under the Master Note Purchase Agreement. The aggregate principal amount of $2.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser and none remain outstanding.

Following the delivery of a draw notice, the Note Purchaser may notify WeWork Companies LLC that it intends to engage an investment bank to offer and sell the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes or any portion thereof to third-party investors in a syndication. Solely with respect to the first $200.0 million in draws (the “Initial Notes”), the Note Purchaser waived this syndication right and no draw notices have been taken on the remainder of the draws.

The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes have a stated interest rate of 5.0%. However, because the associated warrants obligate the Company to issue shares in the future, the implied interest rate upon closing, assuming the full commitment is drawn, was approximately 11.69%. The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes will mature in July 2025.

SoftBank Senior Secured Notes

In August 2020, the Company, WW Co-Obligor Inc., and StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the “Note Purchaser”), entered into a senior secured note purchase agreement for up to an aggregate principal amount of $1.1 billion of senior secured debt in the form of 12.5% senior notes (the “SoftBank Senior Secured Notes”). The agreement allows the Company to borrow once every 30 days up to the maximum aggregate principal amount of $1.1 billion, with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The SoftBank Senior Secured Notes will mature 4 years from the first draw. The Company has drawn for 6 months starting from the date of the senior secured note purchase agreement, and the Company extended this draw period by 6 months by delivery of an extension notice to the Note Purchaser in January 2021 pursuant to the terms of the agreement. As of June 30, 2020, no draw notices had been delivered pursuant to the senior secured note purchase agreement.

Amended and Restated Senior Secured Notes

In March 2021, the Company and an affiliate of SBG entered into a letter agreement pursuant to which the Company and an affiliate agreed to amend and restate the terms of the Master Senior Secured Notes Note Purchase Agreement that governs the SoftBank Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement (as amended and restated, the “A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement”) on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow up to an aggregate principal amount of $550.0 million in the form of new 7.5% senior secured notes (the “A&R Senior Secured Notes”). It is a condition to the execution of the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and cashed up to 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow once every 30 days with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The A&R Senior Secured Notes will mature no later than February 12, 2023, or earlier, 18 months from the Closing.

Amendments to SoftBank Senior Secured Notes

In August, 2021, the Company and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the letter agreement concerning the Amended and Restated Senior Secured Notes which provides that the Company and the Note Purchaser will enter into the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement on the earlier of (x) the Closing or (y) September 30, 2021 (instead of August 12, 2021). In addition, in August, 2021, the Company, WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the senior secured note purchase agreement governing the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes which amends the maturity date of any notes to be issued thereunder from four (4) years from the date of first drawing to February 12, 2023, to the expiration of the draw period from August 12, 2021 to September 30, 2021.

2020 LC Facility

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC entered into a credit agreement, dated as of December 27, 2019 (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of February 10, 2020, and as further amended by the Second Amendment to the Credit Agreement and First Amendment to the Security Agreement, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company Credit Agreement”), among WeWork Companies LLC, as co-obligor, Goldman Sachs International Bank, as administrative agent, and the issuing creditors and letter of credit providers party thereto. The Company Credit Agreement provides for a $1.75 billion senior secured letter of credit facility (the “2020 LC Facility”) available on February 10, 2020, for the support of WeWork Companies LLC’s or its subsidiaries’ obligations. The termination date of the 2020 LC Facility is February 10, 2023. As of June 30, 2021, $1.7 billion of standby letters of credit were outstanding under the 2020 LC Facility. $6.7 million has been utilized to secure letters of credit that remain outstanding under WeWork Companies LLC’s previous credit facility (the “2019 LC Facility”) and letter of credit facility (the “2019 LC Facility”), which were terminated in 2020. As of June 30, 2021, there was no remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility.

The 2020 LC Facility is guaranteed by substantially all of the domestic wholly-owned subsidiaries of WeWork Companies LLC (“Guarantors”) and is secured by substantially all the assets of WeWork Companies LLC and the Guarantors, in each case, subject to certain exceptions. The Credit Agreement and related documentation contain customary reimbursement provisions, representations, warranties, covenants, default and affirmative covenants (including with respect to cash management) for letter of credit facilities of this type. The negative covenants applicable to WeWork Companies LLC and its Restricted Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) are limited to non-financial covenants (subject to exceptions substantially consistent with the 7.875% Senior Notes (due 2025), changes in line of business and dispositions of substantially all of the assets of WeWork Companies LLC).

In connection with the 2020 LC Facility, WeWork Companies LLC also entered into a reimbursement agreement, dated February 10, 2020, amended by the First Amendment, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement”), with the SoftBank Obligor, pursuant to which (i) the SoftBank Obligor agreed to pay substantially all of the fees and expenses payable in connection with the Company Credit Support Letter, (ii) the Company agreed to reimburse SoftBank Obligor for certain of such fees and expenses (including fronting fees up to an amount equal to 0.125% on the undrawn and unexpired amount of the letters of credit) as well as to pay the SoftBank Obligor a fee of 5.475% on the outstanding letters of credit and (iii) the Guarantors agreed to guarantee the obligations of WeWork Companies LLC under the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recognized $19.7 million and $38.5 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG pursuant to the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recognized $19.1 million and $29.2 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG pursuant to the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. As the Company is also obligated to issue 43,295,973 shares in the future pursuant to warrants issued to the SoftBank Obligor in connection with the SoftBank Obligor’s commitment to provide credit support for the 2020 LC Facility, the implied value of the warrant commitment to the Company on the 2020 LC Facility at issuance, assuming the full commitment is drawn, is approximately 12.47%

In March 2021, the Company, the SoftBank Obligor and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Support Letter”) pursuant to which SBG has committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2023 to no later than February 10, 2024 (the “LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any LC Facility Termination Extension will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder. Concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, the SoftBank Obligor or its designees one or more warrants (collectively, the “LC Warrant”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX common stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth (10th) anniversary of issuance.

LC Debt Facility

In May 2021, the Company entered into a loan agreement with a third party to raise up to $350.0 million of cash in exchange for discount notes to be issued from the LC Facility (the “LC Debt Facility”). The third party will issue a series of discount notes to investors of varying short and long-term maturities and make a matching discount loan to WeWork Companies LLC. WeWork Companies LLC will pay the 5.475% issuance fee on the principal amount of the credit, the 0.125% fronting fee on the letter of credit and the interest on the discount note. At maturity, the Company has the option, based on market conditions and liquidity needs, to roll the loan to a new maturity or pay off the loan at par. No loans drawn under the LC Debt Facility will mature before the maturity dates that extend beyond the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility.

In connection with the Merger Agreement, the Company agreed to not enter into loan facilities utilizing the LC Debt Facility without the prior written consent of SBG. In May 2021, the Company entered into a letter agreement with SBG pursuant to which SBG consented to the LC Debt Facility. The letter agreement agreed to certain restrictions that will apply to the LC Debt Facility, including that (i) until such time as no amounts remain undrawn under the $2.2 billion SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes, amounts issued under the LC Debt Facility will not exceed $100.0 million, (ii) the Company will repay all amounts outstanding under the LC Debt Facility within 30 days after the closing of the Business Combination, (iii) on a date within 180 days of the closing of the Business Combination, the prior written consent of SBG will be required for the first draw under the LC Debt Facility that occurs after the closing of the Business Combination.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company drew $349.0 million of loans under the LC Debt Facility which will mature in September 2024. This amount is reflected as Other Current Liabilities in the Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet as of June 30, 2021.

Senior Notes

In April 2018, we issued $702.0 million in aggregate principal amount of unsecured 7.875% Senior Notes (the “Senior Notes”) offering. The Senior Notes mature on May 1, 2025. We received gross proceeds of $702.0 million from the issuance of the Senior Notes. As of June 30, 2021, $669.0 million in aggregate principal amount remains outstanding.

The indenture that governs the Senior Notes restricts us from incurring indebtedness or liens or making certain investments subject to a number of exceptions. Certain of these exceptions included in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes are subject to us having Minimum Liquidity (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes). For incurrences in 2019, Minimum Liquidity was required to be at least 1.5 times Total Indebtedness (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes) and for incurrences in 2020, Minimum Liquidity was required to be at least 1.25 times Total Indebtedness. Beginning on January 1, 2021, there is no longer a Minimum Liquidity requirement. Certain of these exceptions included in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes are subject to us having Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes) for the most recent four consecutive fiscal quarters. For incurrences in fiscal years ending December 31, 2019, 2020 and 2021, the Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA required for the immediately preceding four consecutive fiscal quarters is $500.0 million, $1.0 billion and $2.0 billion, respectively. For the four quarters ended June 30, 2021, the Company’s Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA, as calculated in accordance with the indenture, was less than the $1.0 billion requirement effective as of January 1, 2021. As a result, the Company will be restricted in its ability to incur certain new indebtedness in 2021 that was not already executed or committed to as of January 1, 2019, until such Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA increases above the threshold required. The restrictions of the Senior Notes also limit our ability to access the unfunded commitments pursuant to the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes and the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes.

Subsequent to the July 2019 legal entity reorganization, WeWork Companies LLC is the obligor of the Senior Notes, which are unconditionally guaranteed by WeWork Inc. WeWork Inc. and the other subsidiaries that sit above WeWork Companies LLC in our holding companies that conduct substantially all of their business operations through WeWork Companies LLC. As of June 30, 2021, the covenants and other restrictions of the Senior Notes, WeWork Companies LLC is restricted in its ability to transfer funds by loan or dividends to WeWork Inc. and as a result all of the net assets of WeWork Companies LLC are considered restricted net assets of WeWork Inc.

Supplementary Information — Consolidating Balance Sheet included in WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements and Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details regarding the net assets of WeWork Companies LLC.

For the six months ended June 30, 2021, our non-guarantor subsidiaries represented approximately 58% of our total revenue and 28% of loss from operations. As of June 30, 2021, our non-guarantor subsidiaries represented approximately 47% of our total assets and $0.9 billion of total liabilities, including trade payables but excluding intercompany liabilities and lease obligations.

Bank Facilities

In conjunction with the availability of the 2020 LC Facility, our 2019 Credit Facility and 2019 LC Facility were terminated in June 2020. As of June 30, 2021, $6.7 million in letters of credit remain outstanding under the 2019 LC Facility and 2019 Credit Facility that are secured by collateral of credit issued under the 2020 LC Facility.

Other Letter of Credit Arrangements

The Company has also entered into various other letter of credit arrangements, the purpose of which is to guarantee payment under contracts entered into by JapanCo and PacificCo. There was $8.4 million of standby letters of credit outstanding under these other arrangements, plus $11.5 million of restricted cash at June 30, 2021.

Lease Obligations

The future undiscounted fixed minimum lease cost payment obligations under operating and finance leases signed as of June 30, 2021, total $36.6 billion. A majority of our leases are held by individual special purpose subsidiaries, and as of June 30, 2021, the total security provided by the Company and its subsidiaries in respect of these lease obligations was approximately $6.5 billion in the form of corporate guarantees, standby letters of credit, cash security deposits to landlords and surety bonds issued, representing less than 20% of future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations. In addition, individual property lease security obligations on any given lease typically decrease over the term of the lease, although we may continue to enter into new leases in the ordinary course of our business.

Capital Expenditures and Tenant Improvement Allowances

Capital expenditures are primarily for the design and build-out of our spaces, and include leasehold improvements, equipment and fixtures. Leases often contain provisions regarding tenant improvement allowances, which are contractual rights to reimbursements paid by landlords for a portion of the costs we incur in designing and developing our workspaces. Tenant improvement allowances are reflected in the condensed consolidated statements upon lease commencement as our practice and intent is to spend up to or more than the full amount of the tenant improvement allowances, as such amounts are contractually provided under the terms of the contract.

Over the course of a typical lease with tenant improvement allowances, we incur certain capital expenditures that we expect to be reimbursed by the landlords pursuant to provisions in our leases providing for tenant improvement allowances but for which we have not yet satisfied the conditions for reimbursement and, therefore, the landlords have not been billed at the time of such capital expenditures. Thus, while such receivable amounts are reflected in the condensed consolidated financial statements upon lease commencement, the timing of the achievement of the applicable milestones and billings will impact when reimbursements for tenant improvement allowances will be received, which may impact the timing of our capital expenditures.

We monitor gross and net capital expenditures, which are primarily associated with our leasehold improvements, to evaluate our workstation development efforts. We define net capital expenditures as the gross purchases of property and equipment, as reported in “cash flows from investing activities” in the condensed consolidated statements of cash flows, less cash collected from landlords for tenant improvement allowances. While cash received for tenant improvement allowances is reported as “cash flows from operating activities” in the condensed consolidated statements of cash flows, we consider cash received for tenant improvement allowances to be a reduction against our gross capital expenditures to arrive at net capital expenditures.

As the payments received from landlords for tenant improvement allowances are generally received after certain project milestones are achieved, the payments received from landlords presented in the table below are not directly related to the cash outflows reported for the capital expenditures as such amounts are not yet reported.

The table below shows our gross and net capital expenditures for the periods presented:

(Amounts in thousands)	Six Months Ended June 30,		Year Ended December 31,
	2021	2020	2020	2019	2018
Gross capital expenditures	$ 153,142	$ 985,011	$ 1,441,232	$ 3,488,086	$ 2,055,020
Cash collected for tenant improvement allowances	(233,339)	(737,392)	(1,331,660)	(1,134,216)	(673,415)
Net capital expenditures	$ (80,197)	$ 247,619	$ 109,572	$ 2,353,870	$ 1,381,605

Our ability to negotiate lease terms that include significant tenant improvement allowances has been and may continue to be expansion into markets where such allowances may be less common. Our capital expenditures have also been and may continue to focus on enterprise members, who generally require more customization than a traditional workspace, resulting in higher build-out costs. We expect any increase in build-out costs resulting from expansion of configured solutions for our growing enterprise member base to be in committed revenue, as enterprise members often sign membership agreements with longer terms and for a greater number of members than other members. Future decisions to enter into long-term revenue-sharing agreements with building owners, rather than more standard arrangements, may also impact future cash inflows relating to tenant improvement allowances and cash outflows relating to capital expenditures.

In the ordinary course of our business, we enter into certain agreements to purchase construction and related contracting services for build-outs of our operating locations that are enforceable, legally binding, and that specify all significant terms and the approximate purchase transaction. Our purchase orders are based on current needs and are fulfilled by the vendors as needed in accordance with the schedule. As of June 30, 2021, we have issued approximately $39.9 million in such outstanding construction commitments. As of June 30, 2021, we had a total of $476.9 million in lease incentive receivables, recorded as a reduction of our long-term lease obligations on our condensed consolidated balance sheet. Of the total $476.9 million lease incentive receivable, $346.1 million was accrued at the commencement of the respective unbilled as of June 30, 2021.

Operating Cash Flows

Cash used in operating activities consists primarily of the revenue we generate from our members and the tenant improvement offset by rent, real estate taxes, common area maintenance and other operating costs. In addition, uses of cash from operating employee compensation and benefits, professional fees, advertising, office supplies, warehousing, utilities, cleaning, consumables maintenance related payments as well as member referral fees and various other costs of running our business.

The $1.0 billion increase in net cash used in operating activities from the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, was primarily attributable to the decrease in total revenues of $747.3 million due to the continued impact of COVID-19 in net cash used in operating activities was also driven by a decrease of $504.1 million in tenant improvement allowances received and $49.5 million in cash payments made on restructuring liabilities during the six months ended June 30, 2021. The increase was partially offset by savings achieved for the six months ended June 30, 2021 through the continuation of our operational restructuring program and production efforts to create a leaner, more efficient organization which drove a decrease in pre-opening, and selling, general and administrative expenses.

Included in our cash flow from operating activities was $42.1 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to $3.1 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the six months ended June 30, 2020.

Investing Cash Flows

The $0.2 billion decrease in net cash provided by investing activities from the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, was primarily due to the divestiture proceeds of $1.1 billion received during the six months ended June 30, 2020, primarily from the sale of the 424 Fifth Property held by the 424 Fifth Venture and also including proceeds from the sale of Meetup, Managed by Q and other assets. There were no divestitures during the six months ended June 30, 2021. This decrease in net cash provided by investing activities was partially offset by a $0.2 billion increase in cash paid for purchases of property and equipment and a decrease in contributions to investments of $66.0 million.

Financing Cash Flows

The $2.5 billion net increase in cash flows provided by financing activities for the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, was due to the $1.0 billion in draws on the Softbank Senior Unsecured Notes and $349.0 million of cash received from the Credit Facility during the six months ended June 30, 2021. Also included in the increase in cash flows provided by financing activities was $150.0 million debt repayment and $315.0 million distribution to noncontrolling interest holders during the six months ended June 30, 2020, both partially offset by the sale of the 424 Fifth Property.

Operating Cash Flows

Cash used in operating activities consists primarily of the revenue we generate from our members and the tenant improvement offset by rent, real estate taxes, common area maintenance and other operating costs. In addition, uses of cash from operating employee compensation and benefits, professional fees, advertising, office supplies, warehousing, utilities, cleaning, consumables maintenance related payments as well as member referral fees and various other costs of running our business.

The $408.8 million increase in net cash used in operating activities from the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to December 31, 2019 was primarily attributable to increases in cash lease costs partially offset by increases in tenant improvement all. The increase in net cash used in operating activities was also impacted by $379.2 million in cash payments made on restructuring liability year ended December 31, 2020 compared to $33.7 million during the year ended December 31, 2019. The increase was partially offset achieved in 2020 through our restructuring program and progress towards our efforts to create a leaner, more efficient organization decrease in pre-opening and selling, general and administrative expenses.

Included in our cash flow from operating activities was $35.7 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to $104.0 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the year ended December 31, 2019.

Investing Cash Flows

The $4.3 billion decrease in net cash used in investing activities from the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the December 31, 2019 was primarily due to the divestitures which occurred during the year ended December 31, 2020, with proceeds to primarily related to the sale of the 424 Fifth Property held by the 424 Fifth Venture and also including proceeds from the sale of Meete Teem, SpaceIQ, Flatiron, and certain non-core corporate equipment as compared to cash used for acquisitions which occurred during December 31, 2019 totaling $1.0 billion, primarily related to the acquisition of the 424 Fifth Property by the 424 Fifth Venture. The remaining change in cash used in investing activities is primarily due to a decrease in cash paid for purchases of property and equipment and a $140.6 million decrease in security deposits paid to landlords, relating to our slowed growth in 2020 as compared to the growth experienced in 2019, partially offset by the deconsolidation of real estate assets of $54.5 million in connection with the October 2020 ChinaCo Deconsolidation.

Financing Cash Flows

The $5.3 billion net decrease in cash flows from financing activities for the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to the year ended December 31, 2019 was primarily due to $4.0 billion in proceeds from the issuance of convertible related party liabilities during 2019. During the year ended December 31, 2019, we received $4.0 billion in proceeds from the draw down on the Amended 2018 Warrant and 2019 Warrants described and defined in Note 14 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this prospectus), compared to the $1.2 billion drawn on the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes during 2020. The decrease was also due to a $810.1 million increase in debt repayments and a $279.9 million increase in distributions to noncontrolling interest holders during 2019 related to the sale of the 424 Fifth Property. We also collected $321.1 million less in member service retainers and returned $78.2 million in member service retainers during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019. The year ended December 31, 2019 also included $662.4 million in loan proceeds primarily from the 424 Fifth Venture Loans and $538.9 million in proceeds from noncontrolling interests primarily associated with the 424 Fifth Venture and the Creator Fund compared to $100.6 million in proceeds from noncontrolling interests during 2020 (primarily JapanCo) which combined drove a decrease of $1.1 billion in net cash provided by financing activities period over period.

In addition, uses of cash from operating employee compensation and benefits, professional fees, advertising, office supplies, warehousing, utilities, cleaning, consumables and maintenance related payments as well as member referral fees and various other costs of running our business.

The $271.5 million increase in net cash used in operating activities from the year ended December 31, 2019 to the year ended December 31, 2018 was primarily attributable to net cash used for the expansion of our business and global community.

Included in our cash flow from operating activities was $104.0 million of cash used in operating activities of consolidated VIEs for the year ended December 31, 2019, compared to $120.9 million of cash used in operating activities for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Investing Cash Flows

Cash used in investing activities increased by $2.3 billion to $4.8 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019. Net cash used in investing activities was primarily used to support our growth strategy, including funding additional purchases of property and equipment, primarily leasehold improvements at our leased locations, which increased by $1.4 billion, and the funding of security deposits with landlords, which increased by $44.6 million.

Our cash used in investing activities also includes an increase of $832.8 million in cash used for acquisitions, primarily due to real estate building by the consolidated 424 Fifth Venture during the year ended December 31, 2019, and a $55.3 million decrease in strategic investments, net of proceeds from asset divestitures and sales of investments.

The remaining $44.6 million increase in net cash used in investing activities primarily includes a decrease in cash inflows of $31.8 million relating to capital expenditures, an increase in cash outflows of $31.8 million relating to capital expenditures, an increase in cash outflows of $3.7 million associated with cash used to fund loans to employees and related parties.

Financing Cash Flows

Cash provided by financing activities increased $2.6 billion to $5.3 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019. This increase is attributable to a $3.0 billion increase in proceeds from convertible related party liabilities. During the year ended December 31, 2019, we received $4.0 billion in proceeds from the draw down on the Amended 2018 Warrant and 2019 Warrant, compared to the $1.0 billion drawn on the Convertible Note in the year ended December 31, 2018. Of the Amended 2018 Warrant draw down, we received $1.5 billion and $1.5 billion in April 2019 and April 2019, respectively. We received $1.5 billion on the drawdown of the 2019 Warrant in October 2019.

The increase in cash inflows was partially offset by a $209.0 million decrease in proceeds from the issuance of noncontrolling interests, an increase in cash outflows of $40.0 million related to distributions to noncontrolling interests, and a $106.4 million decrease in proceeds from the issuance of debt. Our cash provided by financing activities for the year ended December 31, 2019 includes $662.4 million in debt paid off from the 424 Fifth Venture Loans, compared to $768.8 million primarily from the issuance of our Senior Notes during 2018. The $45.8 million net decrease relates to changes in various other financing activities.

Critical Accounting Estimates, Significant Accounting Policies and New Accounting Standards

Our preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and related disclosures. Management considers an accounting policy estimate to be critical if: (1) we must make assumptions about matters that are highly uncertain when the estimate was made; and (2) changes in the estimate, or selection of a different estimate methodology could have a material impact on our consolidated results of operations or financial condition. While we believe that our estimates, assumptions and judgments are reasonable based on information available when the estimate or assumption was made. Actual results may differ significantly. Additionally, assumptions, estimates or assessments due to unforeseen events or otherwise could have a material impact on our financial position or operations.

As the COVID-19 pandemic has adversely affected and may continue to adversely affect our revenues and expenditures, the effects of restrictions and the overall macroeconomic impact of the pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of financial statements. This includes the net operating income (“NOI”) assumptions in our long-lived asset impairment testing, the ultimate collection of accounts receivable due to the effects of COVID-19 on the financial position of our members, the timing of capital expenditures and measurement changes for assets and liabilities that the Company measures at fair value.

The critical accounting estimates, assumptions and judgments that we believe to have the most significant impact on our consolidated financial statements are described below. See Note 2 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional information related to critical accounting estimates and significant accounting policies, including details of recent accounting pronouncements that were adopted and not yet adopted as of June 30, 2020.

Leases

At lease commencement, we recognize a lease obligation and corresponding right-of-use asset based on the initial present value of future lease payments using our incremental borrowing rates for our population of leases. The incremental borrowing rate represents the rate of interest we would have to pay to borrow over a similar term, and with a similar security, in a similar economic environment, an amount equal to the fixed payments.

The commencement date is the date we take initial possession or control of the leased premise or asset, which is generally when we move into the premises and begin to make improvements in preparation for its intended use.

Our leases do not provide a readily determinable implicit discount rate. Therefore, management estimates the incremental borrowing rate to discount the lease payments based on the information available at lease commencement. We utilized a model consistent with the credit risk of our outstanding debt instruments to estimate our specific incremental borrowing rates that align with applicable lease terms.

Renewal options are typically solely at our discretion and are only included within the lease obligation and right-of-use asset if it is reasonably certain that the renewal options would be exercised.

Variable lease payments that depend on an index or rate are included in lease payments and are measured using the prevailing rate at lease inception or the measurement date. Changes to the index or rate are recognized in the period of change.

We evaluate our right-of-use assets for recoverability when events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have suffered an impairment loss. In evaluating an asset for recoverability, we consider the future cash flows expected to result from the continued use of the asset and its eventual disposition of the asset. If the sum of the expected future cash flows, on an undiscounted basis, is less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss equal to the excess of the carrying amount over the fair value of the asset is recognized.

Asset Retirement Obligations

Certain lease agreements contain provisions that require us to remove leasehold improvements at the end of the lease term. If an obligation exists, we record an asset retirement obligation at the inception of the lease at its estimated fair value. The associated assets are capitalized as part of the carrying amount of the leasehold improvements and depreciated over their useful lives. The asset retirement obligation is accreted to its estimated future value as interest expense using the effective-interest rate method.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets

Long-lived assets, including property and equipment, right-of-use assets, capitalized software, and other finite-lived intangible assets are evaluated for recoverability when events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have been impaired. In evaluating the recoverability, the Company considers the future cash flows expected to result from the continued use of the asset and the eventual disposition of the asset. If the sum of the expected future cash flows, on an undiscounted basis, is less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss is recognized equal to the excess of the carrying amount over the fair value of the asset.

Assets Held for Sale

The Company classifies an asset (or assets to be disposed of together as a group) as held for sale when management, having approved the action, commits to a plan to sell the assets, the assets are available for immediate sale in their present condition, subject to market conditions, and there is an active program to locate a buyer and other actions required to complete the plan are usual and customary for sales of such assets. An asset is classified as held for sale if it is probable that the transfer of the assets will be initiated and it is probable that the transfer of the assets are expected to qualify for recognition as a completed sale within one year, except in circumstances beyond the Company's control that extend the period of time required to sell the assets beyond one year. Assets classified as held for sale are measured at the lower of their carrying amount and fair value less costs to sell. Assets are no longer classified as held for sale if they are no longer being actively marketed for sale at a price that is reasonable in relation to their current fair value and actions required to complete the sale are withdrawn. It is unlikely that significant changes to the plan will be made or that the plan will be withdrawn.

Assets that are classified as held for sale and the related liabilities directly associated with those that will be transferred in the future are initially measured at the lower of their carrying value or fair value less any costs to sell and depreciation and amortization expense is recognized in the period in which the held for sale criteria are met.

The fair value of assets held for sale less any costs to sell is assessed each reporting period they remain classified as held for sale. Subsequent changes are reported as an adjustment to the carrying amount of the assets, as long as the adjusted carrying amount does not exceed the fair value of the assets at the time it was initially classified as held for sale. Gains are not recognized on the sale of an asset until it actually vests.

Stock-based Compensation

Stock-based compensation expense attributable to equity awards granted to employees and non-employees is measured at the grant date based on the fair value of the award. For employee awards, the expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the requisite service period until the awards actually vest, which is generally the period from the grant date to the end of the vesting period. For non-employee awards, the expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the period during which the goods or services are provided, up to the date the awards actually vest.

We expect to continue to grant stock-based awards in the future, and, to the extent that we do, our stock-based compensation expense in future periods will likely continue to represent a significant expense.

We estimate the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes-Merton option pricing formula (the "Black-Scholes model") and a single option award approach. This model requires various significant judgmental assumptions in order to derive a final fair value for each type of award, including the expected term, expected volatility, expected dividend yield, risk-free interest rate, and fair value of our stock on the date of grant. The expected option term for options granted is calculated using the “simplified method.” This election was made based on the lack of sufficient historical data to provide a reasonable basis upon which to estimate the expected term. The simplified method defines the expected term as the contractual term and the vesting period. Estimated volatility is based on similar entities whose stock is publicly traded. We used volatilities of similar entities due to the lack of sufficient historical data for our common stock price. Dividend yields are based on our expected future actions. The risk-free interest rate is based on the yield curve of a zero-coupon U.S. Treasury bond on the date the stock option was granted with a maturity equal to the expected term of the stock option award. All grants of stock options generally have an exercise price greater than the fair market value of such common stock on the date of grant.

The Company estimated the fair value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units awards in connection with the modification of original stock options using the Hull-White model and a binomial lattice model in order to apply appropriate weight and consideration to the distribution threshold and catch-up base amount. The Hull-White model requires similar judgmental assumptions as the Black-Scholes model for valuing the Company’s options.

Because there has historically been no public market for our stock, the fair value of our equity has historically been approved by our Directors or the compensation committee thereof as of the date stock-based awards were granted. In estimating the fair value of stock-based awards, we used the assistance of a third-party valuation specialist and considered factors we believe are material to the valuation process, including, but not limited to, the price at which recent equity was issued by us to independent third parties or transacted between third parties, actual and projected financial results, prospects, economic and market conditions, and estimates of weighted average cost of capital. We believe the combination of these factors provides an appropriate estimate of our expected fair value and reflects the best estimate of the fair value of our common stock at each grant date.

We have elected to recognize forfeitures of stock-based awards as they occur. Recognition of any compensation expense related to stock-based awards that vest contingent on the completion of an initial public offering or “Acquisition” (as defined in the 2015 Plan detailed in Note 22 to the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) will be deferred until the consummation of such offering or Acquisition.

Other Fair Value Measurements

Other critical accounting estimates include the valuation of our convertible related party liabilities, which are remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, with the corresponding gain or loss included in our gain (loss) from change in fair value of related party instruments. Our convertible related party liabilities as of June 30, 2021, were valued using a discounted cash flow model with such model inputs primarily based on observable inputs, which represent unobservable inputs that we incorporate in our valuation techniques used to determine fair value. The primary level of measurement for our convertible related party liabilities held as of June 30, 2021 was the fair value of our stock, determined based on the inputs described in connection with stock-based compensation as detailed above.

See Note 16 and Note 11 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details regarding fair value measurements.

Consolidation and Variable Interest Entities

We are required to consolidate entities deemed to be VIEs in which we are the primary beneficiary. We are considered to be the primary beneficiary of a VIE when we have (i) the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE’s economic performance and (ii) the obligation to absorb losses or receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIE.

Revenue Recognition

We recognize revenue under the five-step model required under ASC 606, which requires us to identify the relevant contract, identify the performance obligations in the contract, determine the transaction price, allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations identified and recognize revenue when (or as) each performance obligation is satisfied.

We maintain an allowance for doubtful accounts for estimated losses resulting from the inability of our members to make required payments. If the financial condition of a specific member were to deteriorate, resulting in an impairment of its ability to make payments, additional allowances may be required.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risks

Interest Rate Risk

We had market risk exposure arising from changes in interest rates on the revolving loans under the Bank Facilities, which terminated in February 2020, bore interest at rates that are benchmarked against the Federal Funds Rate, Prime and LIBOR. However, as of June 30, 2021, there were no loans outstanding under the Company Credit Agreement and the payments due on the outstanding standby letter of credit unused portion represent a fixed 1.5% of the amount outstanding and 0.375% of the unused amount. The interest rates on the new 2021 SoftBank Senior Secured Debt, the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes, and other loans include fixed rates of interest.

The 424 Fifth Venture also had market risk exposure arising from changes in interest rates on the 424 Fifth Venture Loans, totaling $1.2 billion as of December 31, 2019, which bore interest rates benchmarked against LIBOR. The 424 Fifth Venture loan agreements included a floor of 2.513% and a LIBOR cap of 4%. The LIBOR interest rate cap was scheduled to expire on February 9, 2021. The 424 Fifth Venture Loans were terminated in March 2020 upon the sale of the real estate investment and the interest rate cap and floor were terminated.

Foreign Currency Risk

The U.S. dollar is the functional currency of our consolidated and unconsolidated entities operating in the United States. For our unconsolidated entities operating outside of the United States, we generally assign the relevant local currency as the functional currency. The local currency is generally the principal currency of the economic environment in which the foreign entity primarily generates and expends cash. International operating companies typically earn revenue and incur expenses in local currencies that are consistent with the functional currency of the relevant entity, and therefore they are not subject to significant foreign currency risk in their daily operations. However, as exchange rates fluctuate between periods, revenue and operating expenses, when converted into U.S. dollars, may also fluctuate between periods. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, we earned approximately 57% of our revenues from subsidiaries whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar. Although affected by the exchange rate movements from a number of currencies relative to the U.S. dollar, our results of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, were primarily impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Peruvian Sol, and U.S. dollar exchange rates.

We hold cash and cash equivalents in foreign currencies to have funds available for use by our international operations. In addition, intercompany transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature may be denominated in currencies other than the U.S. Dollar. A change in the exchange rate for a different currency than the respective entity's functional currency. As a result, we are subject to foreign currency risk and changes in exchange rates can impact the foreign currency gain (loss) recorded in our condensed consolidated statements of operations relating to intercompany transactions. As of June 30, 2021, we had a balance of $22.5 million in cash and cash equivalents, $4.3 billion in various assets and $2.2 billion in various other monetary liabilities that were subject to foreign currency risk. A 10% change in the relevant exchange rates would result in a total net change of $217.6 million in foreign currency gain or loss on these transactions.

Inflation Risk

Inflationary factors such as increases in the cost of raw materials and overhead costs may adversely affect our results of operations. We believe that inflation has had a material effect on our business, financial condition or results of operations to date. If our costs were to increase significantly due to significant inflationary pressures, we may not be able to fully offset such higher costs through higher membership fees or price increases. Our inability or failure to do so could harm our business, financial condition or results of operations.

Any indemnified person is also entitled, subject to limitations, to advancement, direct payment, or reimbursement of reasonable expenses (including attorneys' fees and disbursements) in connection with the final disposition of the proceeding.

In addition, New WeWork will enter into separate indemnification agreements with its directors and officers. These agreements, require New WeWork to indemnify its directors and officers for certain expenses, including attorneys' fees, judgments, fines and amounts incurred by a director or officer in any action or proceeding arising out of their services as one of its directors or officers or as an employee or enterprise to which the person provides services at its request.

New WeWork plans to maintain a directors' and officers' insurance policy pursuant to which its directors and officers are insured for actions taken in their capacities as directors and officers. We believe these provisions in New WeWork's Proposed Charter, Proprietary and Confidential. These indemnification agreements are necessary to attract and retain qualified persons as directors and officers.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to directors, officers, or control persons of the SEC, such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is therefore unenforceable.

Involvement in Certain Legal Proceedings

WEWORK'S COMPENSATION DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The following discussion and analysis of WeWork's (1) executive compensation philosophy, objectives and design, (2) compensation process, and (3) the decisions made for WeWork's executive officers in 2020 should be read together with the compensation table disclosures set forth below. For purposes of this Compensation Discussion and Analysis and the related tabular and narrative disclosures, "we," "our" and "the Company" refer to WeWork.

The discussion in this section contains forward-looking statements that are based on our current considerations and expectations of our executive compensation programs and philosophy. As our business and our needs evolve, the actual amount and form of compensation programs that we adopt may differ materially from current or planned programs as summarized in this section. All share-based compensation awards described in this section are shown on a pre-Business Combination basis.

This Compensation Discussion and Analysis describes our compensation program in 2020 for our named executive officers (as defined by applicable SEC rules), including elements of the program, material decisions made under the program for 2020, and material factors in making those decisions. Our named executive officers (or "NEOs") for 2020 are:

- Sandeep Mathrani, our Chief Executive Officer ("CEO")
- Benjamin ("Ben") Dunham, our Chief Financial Officer ("CFO")
- Anthony Yazbeck, our President & Chief Operating Officer ("COO"), International
- Shyam Gidumal, our President & COO*, Americas; and
- Samad ("Matt") Jahansouz, our Chief People Officer*

As required by SEC rules, our NEOs also include the following individuals who are no longer at WeWork given leadership changes:

- Arthur Minson, former Co-CEO
- Sebastian Gunningham, former Co-CEO
- Kimberly Ross, former CFO
- Eugen Miropolski, former President & COO, International

Overview & Compensation Strategy

WeWork was founded in 2010 with the vision to create environments where people and companies come together and do their best work. Since opening our first location in New York City, we've grown into a global space-as-a-service provider committed to delivering flexible office spaces, and an unmatched community experience. Today, we continue to reimagine the workplace and how it can help everyone, from Fortune 500s, thrive.

In the fall of 2019, we began the process of transforming WeWork from a founder-led organization, with bespoke and sometimes unique compensation arrangements, into a company with structured, market-based compensation programs that emphasized performance and long-term results. For years, WeWork had been focused on achieving hyper-growth and did so by recruiting individuals with entrepreneurial backgrounds who could help scale our real estate portfolio around the world as quickly as possible. As sustainable growth and profitability became more important, we shifted our hiring efforts and compensation approach to better align with the company's refreshed strategy.

To successfully navigate our turnaround, WeWork recruited a new CEO, Sandeep Mathrani, in February 2020 and brought together experienced executives to streamline our organization and cost structure,

* Due to changes in management structure in 2021, Messrs. Gidumal and Jahansouz are not expected to be executive officers of NewCo after the Business Combination.

and focus us more deeply on our core business of space-as-a-service. Following a brief period of transition, our former co-CEOs left the company in April of 2020.

As part of the company's turnaround strategy, WeWork undertook a downsizing of its global workforce and reassembled its leadership team in late 2019 and throughout 2020. As part of these changes, our former CFO and former President & COO, International left the company. Our new President & COO, Americas is Dunham and Anthony Yazbeck, respectively, promoted into these positions. Our 2020 NEOs also include Shyam Gidumal who joined the company in November 2020 as President & COO, Americas in February 2020 and Matt Jahansouz who was promoted to Chief People Officer in November 2020.

During 2020, we worked diligently to clean up historical compensation decisions that no longer aligned with our go-forward business model. This effort required us to execute on previously negotiated agreements for select executives who left the organization. At the same time, we established a new executive compensation program that was adopted consistently across the leadership team. Specifically, we entered into employment agreements with each of our NEOs, established a new annual cash bonus plan tied to key company goals, and implemented an Executive Performance Incentive Program that provided senior leaders with equity upside only upon the achievement of specific business metrics.

Compensation Strategy

We are committed to aligning our overall executive compensation philosophy and program with those of leading multinational companies, while retaining the flexibility to address our evolving business needs. Our goal is to provide a fair and competitive compensation program that will attract, retain and reward the extraordinary talent we need to serve our members and deliver strong results. Our cash incentive and equity incentive programs emphasize pay-for-performance, with payouts tied to the achievement of company-wide metrics. Four principles form the foundation of our compensation strategy:

- | | |
| 1. Purposeful | Be intentional about our compensation programs so that we can recruit and reward the talent we need to grow the business over both the short and long-term |
| 2. External Competitiveness | Align total compensation to comparable jobs within the relevant external labor market, while providing the necessary flexibility to attract and retain the best people |
| 3. Internal Comparability | Ensure that similar jobs and similar performance are paid equitably across the company |
| 4. Results Orientated | Tie short and long-term rewards to our business goals and financial achievements to ensure we are getting the right impact of each compensation dollar spent |

Compensation-Setting Process

Role of Board of Directors and Compensation Committee

WeWork's Compensation Committee and Board of Directors are responsible for our executive compensation program, including the amounts to be paid or awarded to executive officers, approving employment agreements, and establishing compensation packages for non-executive officers.

Role of Management

In setting compensation for 2020, our CEO and Chief People Officer worked closely with the Compensation Committee in developing the executive compensation program. From time to time, our CEO, Chief People Officer and other executive officers may receive compensation for services provided to the company.

Table of Contents

Officer, and Chief Legal Officer attend Compensation Committee meetings to present information on executive compensation and an executive officer participated directly in the final determinations regarding their own compensation package.

Role of External Compensation Consultants

Prior to the Business Combination, we have retained external compensation consultants to provide us services related to executive compensation including supporting the design and operation of aspects of our executive compensation program. Following the Business Combination, our compensation consultants will continue to support the design of our compensation program and, as needed, may attend Compensation Committee meetings to provide independent advice to the Committee. Our Compensation Committee will conduct periodic independence reviews of the consultant(s) that it retains.

Use of Market Data

While the Compensation Committee does not establish compensation levels based solely on the review of market data, such data is considered by the Committee and is an input to our compensation policies and practices in order to attract and retain qualified executive officers. The Compensation Committee also considers a number of other factors in making compensation determinations, including (but not limited to) impact on strategy, scope of current responsibility, future potential to take on additional responsibility, individual performance and leadership, and pay considerations.

Executive Compensation Program Components

The primary elements of our executive compensation program and relevant 2020 performance measures are summarized in the table below:

	Objective	Performance Period	Performance Measure
Base Salary	Attracts and retains talented executives, differentiates individual roles and responsibilities and provides stable income to executives	Ongoing	N/A
Annual Cash Incentive	Directly ties pay to key strategic company priorities, rewarding both company performance and individual achievement.	1 Year	Achievement of 2020 goals set by our CEO related to member satisfaction, committed memberships, reduced lease costs, increase in earnings, improved liquidity position of products to drive 2021 revenue

	Objective	Performance Period	Performance Metrics
Time-Based Option Awards	Reinforces the importance of long-term retention, an ownership culture, and creates alignment with our shareholders	3 Years	Increase, if any, in stock price
Performance-Based Option Awards		5 Years	Increase, if any, in stock price Also only vests if unlevered cash flow and/or share price

Our current executives participate in the same retirement and health and wellness benefit plans as our broader employee population. WeWork provides executives with tax gross-ups, enhanced change in control benefits, non-qualified retirement plans or excessive perquisites or corporate planes or physical security.

Base Salary

WeWork provides a base salary as a fixed source of compensation for employees' day-to-day responsibilities. When setting base salaries, we strive to be consistent with market data while also considering other factors including the individual's role, experience, impact and prior performance.

Base salaries are reviewed and, if appropriate to reflect changing roles and responsibilities, changes are approved during the first half of the year (other than in connection with a mid-year promotion, market adjustment, or material expansion of responsibilities). In collaboration with the People Team, our CEO recommends salaries for the NEOs other than himself. Our NEOs' compensation, including salary, are then approved by the Compensation Committee for NEOs other than the CEO and by the Board for the CEO.

Annual Cash Incentive

WeWork provides the opportunity to earn an annual cash incentive opportunity to our executives and other eligible employees under the Companies LLC Annual Cash Bonus Plan adopted in March 2020. Awards under the Bonus Plan are designed to create a direct link between achievement of key business performance measurements and 2020 amounts were determined based on the following formula:

$$\text{Base Salary} \times \text{Target Percentage}^* \times \text{Company Performance Multiplier} = \text{Annual Incentive Award}^{}$$

* Target percentages are reviewed and approved by the Compensation Committee for NEOs other than the CEO and by the Board for the CEO.

 The 2020 company performance multiplier could not exceed 150% and had a minimum of 50%.

In determining the company performance multiplier, our Compensation Committee reviewed WeWork's achievement against the CEO to drive 2020 business priorities, including employee and member satisfaction, committed memberships, reduction of operating costs, increase in earnings, improved liquidity position, and the launch of products to drive 2021 revenue. The company performance multiplier was determined to be 70% for our broader employee population below the Vice President level and 65% for those at the Vice President level (which includes our NEOs). Management recommended, and our Compensation Committee approved, a reduced multiplier for the broader group given our focus on cost control and to provide additional funding to the broader employee population. The annual incentive awards for 2020 performance are presented below in the "Executive Compensation—2020 Summary Compensation Table".

Starting in 2021, annual incentive awards will also be determined based on an individual performance multiplier to differentiate employees' individual contributions towards our goals, initiatives and culture. Key company performance objectives will continue to be evaluated on an annual basis by the Compensation Committee, with achievement against those metrics resulting in the company performance multiplier which determines company-wide bonus funding.

Retention Bonuses

From time to time, we may provide a bonus to attract talented and experienced employees or a retention bonus to retain critical employees who possess key institutional knowledge and/or are necessary to successfully operate our business. In the fall of 2019—given the significant changes happening to our business and workforce and the need to ensure business continuity—WeWork awarded retention bonuses to select employees who were deemed critical to our turnaround, including three of our NEOs; these bonuses were paid over a 1-year period. The amounts presented below in the “Executive Compensation—2020 Summary Compensation Table.”

Equity Grants

Equity compensation, provided in the form of stock options and RSUs, is designed to achieve a number of goals, including creating a culture, aligning employee and shareholder interests, and promoting long-term retention.

For our executives, equity awards are the most significant portion of their compensation and consist of time-based grants and performance-based grants.

2020 Performance-Based Grants

In 2020, we developed and the Compensation Committee approved a new performance-based equity program to further reward performance. A group of key leaders, including the current NEOs, were granted performance-based stock option awards that are each eligible for vesting based on the achievement of unlevered operating free cash flow (“unlevered operating FCF”)* or stock price metric. The Compensation Committee modified the previously established performance goals for the stock price metric to better align with our financial projections. We did not change the unlevered operating FCF metric as these remain consistent with our long-term financial Solely for purposes of this program, unlevered operating FCF means Adjusted EBITDA Excluding Non-Cash GAAP Straight-Line Lease Cost and Amortization less Net Capital Expenditures, in each case measured for the trailing four calendar quarters as of the measurement date. Operating Free Cash Flow is measured on a quarterly basis as of the last day of each calendar quarter. “Adjusted EBITDA Excluding Non-Cash GAAP Straight-Line Lease Cost and Amortization” means net loss before income tax (benefit) provision, interest and other (income) expense, depreciation and amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense, expense related to stock-based payments for services, consulting fees, income or expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets and liabilities remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, related to costs associated with mergers, acquisitions, divestitures and capital raising activities, legal, tax and regulatory reserves, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment charges and, to the extent applicable, any impact of discontinued operations, write-offs, restructurings, and other gains and losses on operating assets. This figure also excludes the impact of non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost and amortization of lease incentives. “Net Capital Expenditures” means the gross purchases of property and equipment, as reported in the statement of cash flows, less cash collected from landlords for tenant improvement allowances in the consolidated statements of cash flows, less cash collected from landlords for tenant improvement allowances in the “supplemental cash flow disclosures” schedules in the cash flow statement.

Performance Vesting: The awards may be earned as follows (with no linear interpolation between the achievements levels) by the two metrics below:

Metric	How Is It Measured	% of Award Amount
		16%	33%	66% (Target)
Unlevered Operating FCF	Measured on the last day of each quarter for the trailing four calendar quarters as of the measurement date.	—	$0.8 billion	$1.0 billion
Stock Price*	If WeWork is publicly listed, measured on a continuous basis during the period beginning on the first day after the nine-month anniversary of a public listing and ending on December 31, 2024, and defined as the volume-weighted average price of one share of WeWork Class A Common Stock over the 90 day period immediately before a measurement date. If WeWork is not publicly listed, measured on the closing date of qualifying capital raise transaction that occurs no later than December 31, 2024, and defined as the per share issue or purchase price of relevant WeWork securities.	$12.00	$15.00	$20.30

* Prior to the 2021 modification, the awards would have been earned 33%, 66% and 100% of target at a stock price of $20.30, $25.80 and $31.30, respectively, with no linear interpolation between the achievement levels, resulting in 16% of the award being earned.

Time Vesting: To fully vest into the awards, the grantee must also remain employed through the dates indicated below except for a resignation for good reason or termination without cause, any earned portion that is not fully vested, but would otherwise have vested such termination, will become immediately vested for the NEOs other than Messrs. Mathrani and Gidumal. For Messrs. Mathrani and Gidumal, the termination treatment described in the sections titled “Sandeep Mathrani Employment Agreement” and “Shyam Gidumal Employment Agreement” will apply, respectively.

When Metric is Achieved	% of Earned Award That Becomes Fully Vested*
On or before December 31, 2022	50% on December 31, 2022; 50% on December 31, 2022
In 2023	100% on December 31, 2023
In 2024	100% on December 31, 2024

The dates shown above apply to any earned portion resulting from achievement of the stock price metric. Because unlevered operating FCF performance cannot be measured until our financial statements are available, for any earned portion resulting from achievement of that metric, the relevant dates will be March 15, 2023 and March 15, 2024, respectively.

* Compensation Committee until our financial statements are available, for any earned portion resulting from achievement of that metric, the relevant dates will be March 15, 2023 and March 15, 2024, respectively.

 If the stock price metric is achieved at the $12.00 level, 100% of the earned portion of the award resulting from that achievement will vest on December 31, 2022.

2020 Time-Based Grants

During our annual compensation cycle in the first quarter of 2020, all eligible employees (including our current NEOs) received a time-based stock option grant. Other than for our CEO, these grants vest over 3 years from January 15, 2020, with 1/3 vesting on the one-year anniversary and in equal quarterly installments thereafter, subject to continued employment through each vesting date. For Mr. Mathrani, while the grant vests over 3 years from January 15, 2020, there is no incremental vesting during this three-year period and the entire amount would vest on January 15, 2023, subject to continued employment. In connection with his promotion to Chief Financial Officer in October 2020, Mr. Dunham also received a time-based stock option grant to reflect the increased responsibilities of the role and to align his long-term incentives with those of the other NEOs.

Table of Contents

other members of our leadership team. The additional award vests over three years from November 18, 2020, with 1/3 vesting on each anniversary and then in equal quarterly installments thereafter, subject to continued employment through each vesting date.

2020 Stock Option Repricing

All stock options granted to employees, including the applicable NEOs, in February and March 2020 had an exercise price equal to the fair market value of a WeWork share at the time of grant. In 2020, the fair market value of a WeWork share meaningfully decreased primarily due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. To help preserve their incentive and retentive value, in June 2020, the WeWork Compensation Committee approved a repricing of the options granted during the year to an exercise price of $2.10 per share (which was the fair market value as of the approval date). The repricing applied to all options that were employed as of the approval date, and no changes were made to any other terms and conditions of these awards. We believe that this repricing will provide our active employees with the ability to participate along with shareholders in the success we hope and expect in the future.

Other Employee and Retirement Benefits

In addition to the core components of our compensation program, we provide a range of benefits to meet the needs of our employees and their families. Our executive officers participate in the same health and welfare programs, as well as the same retirement programs, as other employees. In the United States, we provide a 401(k) plan, which is a tax-qualified defined contribution savings plan, for the benefit of all employees, including our NEOs. Employees may make contributions, including after-tax Roth contributions, and our 401(k) plan includes discretionary employer contributions. In 2020, we matched 100% of employee contributions to our 401(k) plan, up to a maximum contribution of $5,500. All employee contributions and employer contributions are at all times fully vested. We do not offer any defined benefit pension plans or deferred compensation plans to our employees.

(1) For Messrs. Yazbeck and Miropolski, all cash amounts were originally paid in British pounds and converted for purposes of this presentation at an exchange rate of £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.

(2) As required by SEC rules, the compensation awarded to or earned by or paid to Mr. Minson in 2018 and 2019 is also disclosed as he was a named executive officer. This is not applicable to any of the other named executive officers.

Salary. This column sets forth the base salary paid to each named executive officer during 2020. The salary amounts are prorated for Messrs. Mathrani and Gidumal who joined WeWork on February 18, 2020, and February 19, 2020, respectively. The salary amounts for Messrs. Minson, Gunningham and Miropolski and for Ms. Ross are through their respective departures on April 1, 2020, April 17, 2020, October 30, 2020, and October 30, 2020. In 2020, Messrs. Dunham and Gidumal received increases to their base salaries from $600,000 to describes how these awards were determined and earned. The 2020 target annual bonus percentage for our current NEOs was 100% of base salary for Messrs. Mathrani, Dunham, Yazbeck, and Jahansouz and 75% for Mr. Gidumal. In 2020, Messrs. Dunham and Jahansouz received increases to their target bonus percentages from 40% to 100% and 75% to 100%, respectively, to reflect increased responsibilities of the roles and to better align compensation with the other members of our leadership team. Mr. Gidumal's incentive amount was prorated based on his employment start date of February 18, 2021. In addition, for Messrs. Dunham, Yazbeck and Jahansouz, this column also includes retention bonuses in the amount of $400,000, $1,059,890 and $900,000 respectively.

Option Awards. The amounts reported in this column represents the aggregate grant date fair value of the stock options granted under our 2015 Equity Incentive Plan in 2020 as computed in accordance with FASB ASC Topic 718. The assumptions used in calculating the dollar amount recognized for financial statement reporting purposes of the equity awards reported in this column are set forth in Note 22 to our consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The amounts reported in this column reflect the accounting value for the equity award (with performance-based awards assumed to be earned at target) and do not correspond to the actual economic value that may be received by each named executive officer from the equity award. For example, none of the performance-based option awards have been earned at this time and the actual value of these awards will depend on our performance. In addition, the amounts do not reflect Mr. Jahansouz's subsequent forfeiture of his performance-based stock options (assuming maximum performance) in 2021 in connection with his termination of employment and Mr. Gunningham's subsequent forfeiture of all of his outstanding equity awards in connection with his separation package. In connection with their termination of employment, Ms. Ross and Mr. Miropolski also forfeited the equity awards granted to them in 2020.

Assuming the maximum level of performance achieved, the amounts reported in this column would be Mr. Mathrani ($5,669,105), Mr. Dunham ($1,748,111), ($1,558,876), Mr. Gidumal ($1,752,951), Mr. Jahansouz ($1,059,890), Ms. Ross ($2,003,176), and Mr. Miropolski ($900,000).

All Other Compensation. This column sets compensation that we could not properly report in any table. For our current executives as well as Ms. Ross, this column represents the standard company matching contribution U.S. 401(k) plan or the standard company contribution to basic salary under our U.K. pension plan, as applicable. For Mr. Minson, this amount also includes a cash payment in lieu of accrued vacation time of $25,431.

For our other former executives, this column represents for Mr. Minson, a cash severance payment of $8,125, payment in lieu of accrued but unused vacation time of 2020, and income from loan forgiveness in both 2019 and 2020, and for Mr. Gunningham, a cash severance payment of $2,223,801. For Mr. Miropolski, (a) an aggregate amount equal to $3,599,143 in tax-free income for loan forgiveness, (b) $10,277 paid by WeWork for taxes due in connection with the separation package; and (c) a cash severance payment (including payment in lieu of accrued but unused vacation time, as well as a company contribution of 3% of basic salary under the plan.

Estimated Future Payouts Under Non-equity Incentive Plan

Awards. This column includes the 2020 threshold, target and maximum opportunities under our annual cash bonus plan for participating named executive officers. The amount earned is reported above in the bonus column of the “Summary Compensation Table,” other than for Ms. Ross who resigned and as a result did not receive a bonus payout, and more information about these cash incentive awards can be found in the Annual Bonus Plan section of the Compensation Discussion and Analysis. For Mr. Mathrani, no threshold amount is shown as his employment agreement provided for the 2020 bonus to be paid at no less than the target amount. For Messrs. Yazbeck and Miropolski, the threshold, target and maximum cash incentive opportunities were originally denominated in British pounds and have been converted for purposes of this presentation at an exchange rate of USD $1.36 per GBP £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.

Estimated Future Payouts Under Equity Incentive Plan Awards.

These performance-based stock options vest based on certain free cash flow and/or valuation metrics to the extent achieved on or prior to December 31, 2024, subject to continued employment through certain dates depending on when the metric is met. These equity awards are also reported below in “Outstanding Equity Awards at 2020 Year-End”; for more information about these awards, see the Equity Grants section of the Compensation Discussion and Analysis above.

All Other Option Awards: Number of Securities Underlying Options.

For Mr. Mathrani, the stock option vests over a three-year period from January 15, 2020, with 100% vesting on January 15, 2023, subject to continued employment through the vesting date. For the other named executive officers, the stock option vests over a three-year period from January 15, 2020, with one-third vesting on January 15, 2021, and the remaining two-thirds vesting in eight substantially equal quarterly installments on each April 15, July 15, October 15 and January 15 thereafter until fully vested on January 15, 2023, in each case, subject to continued employment through the applicable vesting date.

Mr. Gunningham agreed to forfeit this grant in connection with his separation package. These equity awards are also reported below in “Outstanding Equity Awards at 2020 Year-End”; for more information about these awards, see the Equity Grants section of the Compensation Discussion and Analysis above.

Exercise Price of Option Awards.

Because WeWork does not have common stock publicly traded, the stock options shown in this table represent the fair market value of the stock held and there is no public market for our stock, the exercise price of the stock options shown in this table represent the fair market value of the stock held by WeWork’s Board of Directors or its Compensation Committee. The exercise price is determined by a third-party valuation report that considers factors including, but not limited to, the price at which recent equity was issued or repurchased by independent third parties or transacted between third parties. The exercise price is the projected financial results, risks, prospects, economic conditions, and estimates of weighted average cost of capital used for the options with an exercise price of $4.00 or $2.07. The exercise price is the fair market value as of the grant date. For the options with an exercise price of $2.10, the exercise price is the fair market value as of June 18, 2020, which is the date that the Compensation Committee approved the repricing of all outstanding employee stock options in 2020 prior to such date that were held by then-active employees at an exercise price of $4.12 to $2.10 per share with no other change to the terms and conditions of these awards.

Grant Date Fair Value of Option Awards.

The amounts reported in this column represent the aggregate grant date fair value of the options granted under our 2015 Equity Incentive Plan, computed in accordance with FASB ASC Topic 718. The grant date fair value is used in calculating the dollar amount recognized for financial reporting purposes of the equity awards reported in this table. See further in Note 22 to our consolidated financial statements and elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The amounts reported in this column reflect the aggregate grant date fair value of the equity award (with performance-based awards varying based on the probability that the metrics will be achieved at the target level) and may not correspond to the actual economic value that may be realized by the named executive officer from the equity award. Assumptions made in calculating the grant date fair value of the equity award include the level of performance conditions are

Executive Employment Agreements

Sandeep Mathrani Employment Agreement

Effective February 17, 2020, a WeWork subsidiary entered into an employment agreement with Sandeep Mathrani (the “Mathrani Agreement”). The Mathrani Agreement provides for (i) an annual base salary of $1,500,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork’s Board of Directors and Compensation Committee deems appropriate (but not before 2022), (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 100% of the annual base salary (for 2020, less than 100% of target and not to be pro-rated), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 1,500,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock and (iv) a performance-based option to purchase a target of 1,000,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Mathrani Agreement also provides that Mr. Mathrani would be expected to receive an annual equity award in the form of an option to purchase 750,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock in each of the 2021 and 2022 calendar years.

In the event of a termination by WeWork without “cause” or by Mr. Mathrani for “good reason” (each as defined in the Mathrani Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of base salary, (ii) a pro-rated bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination or until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage, whichever is earlier, (iv) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the last day of the public listing of WeWork Class A Common Stock or (y) the date of his termination.

WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date, (v) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been accelerated vesting of then-outstanding equity awards that vest solely based on time-based vesting conditions. In addition, with

Mr. Mathrani's performance-based options, if, and only if, WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow is greater than $0 as of the date WeWork achieves one of the performance goals provided in the award agreement, then he will be deemed to have earned and will vest with respect to the number of shares equal to the product of (i) the number of shares that would have vested upon achievement of such performance goal, multiplied by (ii) the ratio of (x) the difference between WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of the date of termination and WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of December 31, 2019, divided by the difference between WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of the Achievement Date and WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of December 31, 2019, and (y) the difference between WeWork's fair market value as of the date of termination and WeWork's fair market value as of December 31, 2019, divided by the difference between WeWork's fair market value as of the date of termination and WeWork's fair market value as of December 31, 2019. Mr. Mathrani would also be entitled to these separation payments and benefits for 12 months of base salary, if his employment were to terminate due to death.

If WeWork's common stock is not publicly traded on or before the earlier of (i) the second anniversary of termination and (ii) 6 months following the expiration date of the option grants made under the Mathrani Agreement, then at any time following such earlier date, Mr. Mathrani may elect for WeWork (or an assignee of WeWork) to purchase all then-vested and then-outstanding shares of common stock (including shares under other types of equity awards) at a per share price equal to the fair market value of a share of common stock on such election date. WeWork will have 6 months following such election to close such purchase of common stock. This provision will terminate upon a sale or public offering of WeWork which will include the consummation of the Business Combination.

Benjamin Dunham Employment Agreement

Effective October 1, 2020, a WeWork subsidiary entered into an employment agreement with Ben Dunham (the "Dunham Agreement"). The Dunham Agreement provides for (i) an annual base salary of $600,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork's Compensation Committee deems appropriate, (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 100% of the annual base salary (provided that for 2020, the target bonus will be the sum of (x) 100% of the base salary for the period commencing on October 1, 2020, and ending on December 31, 2020, and (y) 50% of the base salary in effect for the period commencing on January 1, 2020, and ending on September 30, 2020, with a minimum payout amount of $150,000 and a maximum payout amount of $300,000, based on the aggregate target bonus amount), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 300,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock, and (iv) a time-based option to purchase a target of 300,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Dunham Agreement also provides that Mr. Dunham will be expected to receive an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee. Mr. Dunham will not be eligible for an annual equity award in 2021.

In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without "cause" or by Mr. Dunham for "good reason" (each as defined in the Dunham Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of base salary, (ii) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following the termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for group health insurance coverage for any reason), (iv) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date and (v) any bonus for the year of termination that has not yet been paid. Mr. Dunham would also be entitled to these separation payments and benefits, other than base salary, if his employment were to terminate due to death.

The Yazbeck Agreements also provide that Mr. Yazbeck (i) would be expected to receive an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee, except that he will not be eligible for an annual equity award in 2022, or 2023 and (ii) will receive a one-time bonus of GBP £1.44 million within 30 days of the consummation of the Business Combination, his employment through the payment date.

Termination of Mr. Yazbeck’s employment (including due to resignation, but not for “cause” as defined in the Yazbeck Agreement) will result in a notice period of not less than six months. In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without “cause,” in addition to any payment of salary in accordance with the notice period, subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, Mr. Yazbeck will be entitled to receive: (i) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, payable in installments over 12-month period, (ii) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date and (iv) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been paid.

The Gidumal Agreement provides for (i) an annual base salary of $750,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork’s Compensation Committee deems appropriate, (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 75% of the annual base salary (provided that the minimum payout amount would be 50% of such target bonus amount, and that such bonus opportunity would increase to 100% if the target bonus is achieved in 2021), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 200,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock and (iv) a performance-based option to purchase a target of 500,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Gidumal Agreement also provides that Mr. Gidumal would be expected to receive an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee, except that he will not be eligible for an annual equity award in 2021.

In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without “cause” or by Mr. Gidumal for “good reason”(each as defined in the Gidumal Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of salary in accordance with the notice period, (ii) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following the termination date (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for coverage for any reason), (iv) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date, (v) any unmet service-based payments with respect to his equity awards will be deemed satisfied as of the termination date and (vi) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been paid. The Jahansouz Agreement also provides that Mr. Jahansouz would be eligible for an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee, except that he will receive an annual equity award in 2021.

In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without "cause" or by Mr. Jahansouz for "good reason" (each as defined in the Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of severance pay, (ii) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination, and (iv) a lump sum payment of $10,000.

Restrictive Covenant Agreements

Each of our named executive officers has entered into an invention, non-disclosure, non-competition and non-solicitation agreement. WeWork's confidential and other proprietary information and assigns to WeWork full right and title to inventions and other intellectual property developed by the employee that are related to the WeWork business. The agreement also contains confidentiality and (other than for employment purposes) non-disparagement obligations, which apply indefinitely, along with non-competition and customer and employee non-solicitation restrictions, during employment and for a period of 12 months (or 3 months for Mr. Yazbeck) following termination of employment for any reason.

Other Benefits

In addition to the cash and equity compensation, WeWork provides certain employee and retirement benefits as described above under Employee and Retirement Benefits in the Compensation Discussion & Analysis. In addition, in 2015, WeWork adopted an equity-based plan, the 2015 Equity Incentive Plan (the “2015 Plan”), authorizing the grant of equity-based awards to its management, employees, directors and other non-employee service providers. Following the adoption of the 2015 Plan, no further grants were made under WeWork’s plan adopted in 2013, the 2013 Stock Incentive Plan (the “2013 Plan”). WeWork has granted stock options under both the 2013 and 2015 plans, currently outstanding as well as restricted stock units under the 2015 Plan that are currently outstanding. Effective upon the Business Combination (subject to the approval of the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal), the 2015 Plan will no longer be available for use for the grant of future awards. The 2015 Plan and 2013 Plan will continue to govern the terms of awards that had been previously granted under the 2015 Plan and 2013 Plan, respectively, and that are still outstanding following the Business Combination. For more information about the new WeWork 2015 Equity Incentive Plan, see the section entitled “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal.”

Potential Payments Upon Termination or Change in Control

As described immediately above, Messrs. Mathrani, Dunham, Yazbeck, Gidumal and Jahansouz have provisions in their respective agreements providing for certain payments and benefits upon the termination of their respective employment by WeWork without cause for Mr. Yazbeck, due to resignation for good reason or upon their death. In addition, as described above in the Equity Grants

The table below quantifies the compensation and benefits that would have become payable to these named executive officers if they had terminated on December 31, 2020, (i) without cause or due to resignation for good reason or (ii) due to death. (1) The amounts in this column reflect 12 months of base salary (or, for Mr. Yazbeck, 6 months of base salary plus pay in lieu of 6 months' notice) in the event of an involuntary termination and a pro-rated bonus payment for the year of termination in the event of an involuntary termination or upon death.

(2) The amounts in this column reflect 12 months of continued health care coverage at active employee rates.

The amounts in this column reflect the incremental value that would have been recognized for accounting purposes as a result of an extension of the exercise period for the individual's vested and outstanding stock options as of December 31, 2020, until 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing. Neither Mr. Mathrani nor Mr. Yazbeck had any vested stock options as of December 31, 2020.

Although 1,500,000 time-based options to purchase shares of WeWork's Class A common stock at $2.10 per share would have become vested upon an involuntary termination or death, no amount is reported in this column because the fair value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock, as of December 31, 2020, was $2.09 based on the most recent report and, as a result, these options were all underwater. In addition, no incremental value would have been recognized for accounting purposes as a result of the conversion of these options to British pounds.

(5) For Mr. Yazbeck, the amounts above would have been paid or provided in British pounds and have been converted for purposes of this presentation at an exchange rate of GBP £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.

No amount is reported in this column, because Mr. Gidumal was not entitled to any accelerated equity vesting as of December 31, 2021. On August 2, 2021, Mr. Gidumal's employment agreement was amended to provide that, upon an involuntary termination, any unmet service-based vesting condition with respect to his equity awards will be deemed satisfied as of the termination date as described above.

Ms. Ross retired on October 30, 2020, and did not receive any termination pay or benefits.

Mr. Minson elected to terminate his employment via a voluntary resignation dated April 1, 2020. In connection with such voluntary resignation, Mr. Minson entered into an agreement and general release, dated April 1, 2020, with a WeWork subsidiary (the “Minson Agreement”) that provided him with, subject to his execution and non-revocation of the Minson Agreement, (i) a lump sum severance payment equal to $8.3 million, (ii) group health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health care coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason). The Minson Agreement also provided him with an extension of the exercise period applicable to certain of his vested stock options until the earlier of (x) 1 year following the date of termination date. In addition, a WeWork subsidiary entered into a consulting agreement with Mr. Minson pursuant to which he received an additional 96,586 options to purchase WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $7.28 per share.

Mr. Gunningham elected to terminate his employment via a voluntary resignation dated April 17, 2020. In connection with such voluntary resignation, Mr. Gunningham entered into an agreement and general release, dated April 17, 2020, with a WeWork subsidiary (the “Gunningham Agreement”) that provided him with, subject to his execution and non-revocation of the Gunningham Agreement, (i) a lump sum severance payment equal to $8.3 million, the after-tax amount of which would be applied towards repayment of his loans from WeWork, (ii) forgiveness of a loan amount of $1,134,805.56 and a payment to reimburse him for taxes paid in connection with the loan forgiveness and (iii) group health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health care coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason).

Mr. Miropolski’s employment was terminated on October 30, 2020, by mutual agreement. In connection with such termination, he signed a settlement agreement with a WeWork subsidiary containing a general release of claims (the “Miropolski Agreement”) that provided him with a lump-sum cash payment of $1,911,062 consisting of severance, pay in lieu of contractual notice entitlement and a prorated bonus. The Miropolski Agreement also provided him with an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 30 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date, the forgiveness of $4,916,422 under an outstanding loan, and a lump-sum cash payment of $6,856,509 to reimburse him for taxes paid in connection with certain obligations that were forgiven previously in 2020. On July 2, 2021, WeWork’s Compensation Committee approved a further extension of the exercise period to the earlier of (x) 30 days following the lock-up period (if any) after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date. This extension applied to all former employees who hold options that would otherwise expire 10 days following the lock-up period (if any). The compensation described in this paragraph would have been paid or provided in British pounds and have been converted for purposes of this prospectus using an exchange rate of USD $1.36 per GBP £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.

2020 Director Compensation Table

None of WeWork’s current non-employee directors received any cash compensation for their services in 2020, nor did we grant any options to them in 2020. Former non-employee directors, Alexander Dimitriev and Frederick Arnold, received a fee of $250,000 each for their services from January 1, 2020 to July 2020. Following the effectiveness of this registration statement, we intend to adopt, approve and implement a compensation program that consists of cash retainer fees and equity awards for our non-employee directors.

It is also anticipated that, following completion of the Business Combination, certain WeWork directors may be compensated for services provided prior to the Business Combination. As of the date hereof, no determination has been made with respect to whether and to what extent compensation will be provided.

BENEFICIAL OWNERSHIP OF SECURITIES

The following table sets forth information regarding (i) the beneficial ownership of BowX Common Stock as of September 14, 2021, and (ii) the expected beneficial ownership of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock immediately following consummation of the Business Combination (assuming a “no redemption” scenario and assuming a “redemption” scenario as described below) by:

- each person who is known to be the beneficial owner of more than 5% of BowX Common Stock or is expected to be the beneficial owner of more than 5% of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock post-Business Combination;
- each of BowX’s current executive officers and directors;
- each person who will become an executive officer or director of New WeWork;
- all executive officers and directors of BowX pre-Business Combination, as a group; and
- all executive officers and directors of New WeWork, as a group.

Beneficial ownership is determined according to the rules of the SEC, which generally provide that a person has beneficial ownership if he, she or it possesses sole or shared voting or investment power over that security or the right to acquire such power without limitation.

The beneficial ownership of BowX Common Stock pre-Business Combination is based on 60,375,000 shares of BowX Common Stock outstanding as of September 14, 2021, which includes an aggregate of 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding as of such date.

The expected beneficial ownership of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock post-Business Combination assumes:

- a “no redemption” scenario where (i) no public stockholders exercise their redemption rights in connection with the Business Combination extension proposal and (ii) New WeWork issues 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork Stockholders as consideration for shares of WeWork Common Stock held by WeWork Stockholders immediately prior to the Business Combination; and
- a “redemption” scenario where (i) all 48,300,000 outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination and (ii) New WeWork issues 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork Stockholders as consideration for shares of WeWork Common Stock held by WeWork Stockholders immediately prior to the Business Combination.

Based on the foregoing assumptions, assuming forfeiture of the 3,000,000 shares of Class B Common Stock held by Sponsor and other persons as required by the terms of the Sponsor Support Agreement and including the 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issued in connection with the PIPE Investment, we estimate that there would be 695,854,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock outstanding immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination in the “no redemption” scenario, and 647,554,267 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination in the “redemption” scenario. If the actual facts are different from the foregoing assumptions, ownership figures in the combined company and the colu... Business Combination in the table that follows will be different.

BowX Acquisition Corp.

Founder Stock

In May 2020, BowX issued Vivek Ranadivé 10,062,500 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock in exchange for a capital contribution (such shares, the “Founder Shares”). Prior to that initial investment of $25,000, BowX had no assets, tangible or intangible. The number of Founder Shares issued was determined based on the expectation that such stock would represent 20% of the outstanding shares upon completion of the public offering. In July 2020, Mr. Ranadivé transferred certain Founder Shares to the Sponsor, along with other individuals and entities that contributed to the price originally paid for such shares. In August 2020, BowX effected a stock dividend of 0.2 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock for each BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding, resulting in such parties holding an aggregate of 12,075,000 Founder Shares. Upon completion of the Business Combination, Mr. Ranadivé will also transfer up to an aggregate of 1,811,250 Founder Shares to certain funds managed by BowX at the same price originally paid for such shares.

On July 16, 2020, BowX, Vivek Ranadivé, Murray Rode and BlackRock Credit Alpha Master Fund, L.P. (“Alpha”), a fund managed by BlackRock, Inc., entered into a subscription agreement whereby Alpha agreed to purchase 1,071,656 founder shares and 1,427,100 private placement warrants. The closing of the purchase of the private placement warrants occurred at the closing of the IPO of BowX. The closing of the purchase of the founder shares from Mr. Ranadivé is to occur at the closing of the Business Combination. The price to be paid by BlackRock to Mr. Ranadivé is $0.002 per share. Subsequently, BowX issued a 20% dividend so the number of founder shares increased to 1,285,987.

On July 16, 2020, BowX, Vivek Ranadivé, Murray Rode and HC NCBR Fund (“NCBR”), a fund managed by BlackRock, Inc., entered into a subscription agreement whereby NCBR agreed to purchase 437,719 founder shares and 582,900 private placement warrants. The closing of the purchase of the private placement warrants occurred at the closing of the IPO of BowX. The closing of the purchase of the founder shares from Mr. Ranadivé is to occur at the closing of the Business Combination. The price to be paid by BlackRock to Mr. Ranadivé is $0.002 per share. Subsequently, BowX issued a 20% dividend so the number of founder shares increased to 525,263.

The Founder Shares (including the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise thereof pursuant to the Existing Compensation Plan, subject to certain limited exceptions, be transferred, assigned or sold by the holder. The Sponsor, Mr. Ranadivé and the other holders of Founder Shares, excluding funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc., have entered into agreements with the Company, under which they have waived their rights to participate in any redemption with respect to their Founder Shares in the event BowX does not complete a business combination within the required time period; provided however, that if such persons hold public stock, or acquire public stock prior to the completion of the Business Combination, they will be entitled to a pro rata share of the trust account upon the Company’s redemption or liquidation in the event BowX completes a business combination before August 7, 2022. In the event of such distribution, it is possible that the per share value of the Founder Shares may be less than the price per BowX Unit sold in the initial public offering. Certain of BowX’s directors and executive officers, including Mr. Ranadivé and Murray Rode, also have a direct or indirect economic interest in such private placement warrants and Founder Shares owned by them.

The 9,075,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock into which the 9,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock held by BowX will be converted following its forfeiture of 3,000,000 shares of Class B Common Stock in accordance with the Sponsor Support Agreement, will automatically convert into New WeWork Common Stock. practicable date prior to the date of this proxy statement/prospectus. However, given that such shares of New WeWork Common Stock certain restrictions, including those described above, BowX believes such shares have less value.

Private Placement Warrants

Simultaneously with the consummation of the initial public offering, BowX consummated the private placement of 6,933,333 of $1.50 per private placement warrant, generating total proceeds of $10.4 million and incurring offering costs of approximately $8,000 certain of BowX's officers and directors and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc. On August 7, 2020 simultaneously with the closing of the sale of additional units pursuant to the underwriters' exercise of its over-allotment option, an additional 840,000 private placement warrants to the initial stockholders and the BlackRock, Inc. funds ("BlackRock funds"). As of August 7, 2020, there were 7,773,333 private placement warrants issued and outstanding. The purchasers of the private placement warrants agreed not to transfer, assign or sell any of the securities purchased in the private placement, including the underlying shares of BowX (except to certain permitted transferees), until thirty days after the consummation of the Company's initial business combination. In the event that the Company does not complete a business combination before August 7, 2022, such private placement warrants will expire worthless. Certain of BowX's executive officers, including Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode, also have a direct or indirect economic interest in such private placement warrants owned by the Sponsor.

The 7,773,333 New WeWork warrants into which the 7,773,333 private placement warrants held by the Sponsor will automatically convert in connection with the First Merger, if unrestricted and freely tradable, would have had an aggregate market value of $ [REDACTED] million at the closing price of $ [REDACTED] per public warrant on Nasdaq on [REDACTED], 2021, the most recent practicable date prior to the date of this prospectus.

Related Party Loans and Indemnification

On May 26, 2020, Vivek Ranadivé agreed to loan BowX up to an aggregate of $150,000 pursuant to an unsecured promissory note to cover expenses related to the initial public offering. This loan was payable without interest upon the completion of the initial public offering. Mr. Ranadivé borrowed approximately $150,000 under the Note and received additional advances of approximately $45,000 of funds from Mr. Ranadivé, resulting in an outstanding loan of approximately $195,000. The Company fully repaid the Note and the advances to such officer on August 7, 2020.

In order to fund working capital deficiencies or finance transaction costs in connection with an intended initial Business Combination, the Company may issue Working Capital Loans to its stockholders, officers and directors and their affiliates may, but are not obligated to, loan the Company funds as may be required (the "Working Capital Loans"). Up to $1.5 million of such Working Capital Loans may be convertible into warrants of the post-Business Combination entity at a price of $1.50 per warrant at the option of the lender. Such warrants would be identical to the private placement warrants. Except for the foregoing Working Capital Loans, if any, have not been determined and no written agreements exist with respect to such loans to date. As of March 31, 2021, the Company has no outstanding borrowings under the Working Capital Loans. Except as described above, the terms of such loans, if any, have not been determined and no written agreements exist with respect to such loans. Prior to the completion of the Business Combination, BowX does not expect to seek loans other than the Sponsor and Sponsor Persons, or their affiliates.

Other Material Interests Relating to the Business Combination

Mr. Ranadivé, a current director of BowX, is expected to be a director of New WeWork after the consummation of the Business Combination. In such, in the future, Mr. Ranadivé may receive fees for his services.

service as a director, which may consist of cash or stock-based awards, and any other remuneration that New WeWork's board of directors may pay to its non-employee directors.

BowX's existing directors and officers will be eligible for continued indemnification and continued coverage under BowX's officers' liability insurance after the First Merger and pursuant to the Merger Agreement.

BowX's officers and directors, and their affiliates are entitled to reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses incurred by them in certain activities on BowX's behalf, such as identifying and investigating possible business targets and business combinations. However, to consummate a business combination by August 7, 2022, they will not have any claim against the trust account for reimbursement of any material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing. BowX and directors, and their affiliates, expect to incur (or guaranty) approximately $ [REDACTED] million of transaction expenses (excluding underwriting commissions being held in the trust account). Accordingly, BowX may not be able to reimburse these expenses if the Combination or another business combination, is not completed by such date.

BowX Policies and Procedures for Related Party Transactions

BowX's code of ethics requires us to avoid, wherever possible, all related party transactions that could result in actual or potential conflicts of interest, except under guidelines approved by the board of directors (or the audit committee). Related-party transactions are defined as those in which (1) the aggregate amount involved will or may be expected to exceed $120,000 in any calendar year, (2) BowX or any of its participants, (3) any (a) executive officer, director or nominee for election as a director, (b) greater than 5% beneficial owner of BowX Stock, or (c) immediate family member, of the persons referred to in clauses (a) and (b), has or will have a direct or indirect material interest solely as a result of being a director or a less than 10% beneficial owner of another entity. A conflict of interest situation can arise when a director or officer acts in his or her own best interests or has interests that may make it difficult to perform his or her work objectively and effectively. Conflicts of interest may also arise when a director or officer, or a member of his or her family, receives improper personal benefits as a result of his or her position.

BowX's audit committee, pursuant to its written charter, is responsible for reviewing and approving related-party transactions to the extent that they fall within the scope of its charter. The audit committee will consider all relevant factors when determining whether to approve a related party transaction, including whether the related party transaction is on terms no less favorable to BowX than terms generally available from an unaffiliated third party under similar circumstances and the extent of the related party's interest in the transaction. No director may participate in the audit committee's review of a related party transaction in which he is a related party, but that director is required to provide the audit committee with all material information about the transaction. BowX also require each of its directors and executive officers to complete a directors' and officers' questionnaire that asks about related party transactions. These procedures are intended to determine whether any such related party transaction impairs the objectivity of a director or presents a conflict of interest on the part of a director, employee or officer.

WeWork Stockholders' Agreement

WeWork has entered into a stockholders' agreement with certain holders of its capital stock. The WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement, dated as of February 25, 2021, (the "WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement"), provides for one member of the board of directors to be designated by Benchmark, one member of the board of directors to be designated by Hony Capital, five members of the board of directors to be designated by SBG (at least one of which may be designated by SVFE, two members of the board of directors to be designated by stockholders of WeWork, other than SBG and Mr. Neumann, and the remaining member to be Lew Frankfort until the consummation of the Business Combination. With respect to Mr. Neumann, February 2022, he will have the right to observe or designate an observer to attend meetings of WeWork’s board of directors pursuant to governing future observer rights entered into in connection with the Settlement Agreement described under “Certain Relationships and Transactions — WeWork — SoftBank Transactions — Tender Offer and Settlement Agreement.”

The WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders’ Agreement also grants to WeWork a ten-day right of first refusal over most shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock, allowing WeWork to purchase such shares on the same terms before the holder may sell the shares. In the event that WeWork declines to exercise its right of first refusal, the WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders’ Agreement also grants to holders of its senior preferred stock a similar fifteen-day right of first refusal, or the right to sell their own shares, on a pro rata basis, to WeWork.

Since January 1, 2020, WeWork has waived, on certain occasions, its right of first refusal in connection with the transfer by certain executive officers and holders of more than 5% of a class of its capital stock and members of their immediate families.

WeWork has also entered into agreements with certain holders of its securities, including Rhône Group L.L.C. and its affiliate WeCap Investment Group) (the “Rhône Group”), an entity affiliated with Steven Langman, a former director, J.P. Morgan Chase Bank and Mr. Neumann, granting these entities and this individual certain information and inspection rights with respect to WeWork’s business affairs and sending a designee as a non-voting participant to meetings of its board of directors and board committees, which terminate upon the closing of the Business Combination.

The WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders’ Agreement will terminate upon the closing of the Business Combination and the Stockholders Agreement. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — Stockholders’ Agreement.”

Registration Rights Agreement

In connection with the consummation of the Business Combination, New WeWork and certain of its stockholders, including certain holders of at least 5% of a class of its common stock and entities affiliated with certain of New WeWork’s current and former directors and executive officers, will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement. Pursuant to the Registration Rights Agreement, these parties will have customary registration rights, including demand and piggy-back rights, subject to cooperation and cut-back provisions. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — Registration Rights Agreement.”

Indemnification Agreements

The WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation provides that WeWork will indemnify its directors and officers to the extent permitted by law, and WeWork has entered into agreements with certain of its existing directors and all of its existing executive officers, certain former directors and executive officers of WeWork and its predecessors (including Adam Neumann and his affiliate We Holdings LLC, governing Mr. Neumann’s ceasing to serve as a director of WeWork and other transactions involving Mr. Neumann in relation to the 2019 Master Omnibus Agreement (the “2019 Omnibus Agreement”)), (ii) the agreement, dated October 22, 2019, by and among WeWork, SBG, SoftBank Ventures Asia and Mr. Neumann and his affiliate We Holdings LLC for additional equity and debt financing and a tender offer by an affiliate of SBG, as well as other changes to WeWork’s corporate governance, including changes to the voting rights associated with certain series of WeWork stock.

WeWork also has agreed to indemnify certain current and former directors and executive officers and shareholders in (i) the agreement, dated October 22, 2019, by and among WeWork and certain of its affiliates, Adam Neumann and his affiliate We Holdings LLC, governing Mr. Neumann’s ceasing to serve as a director of WeWork and other transactions involving Mr. Neumann in relation to the 2019 Master Omnibus Agreement (the “2019 Omnibus Agreement”), (ii) the agreement, dated October 22, 2019, by and among WeWork, SBG, SoftBank Ventures Asia and Mr. Neumann and his affiliate We Holdings LLC for additional equity and debt financing and a tender offer by an affiliate of SBG, as well as other changes to WeWork’s corporate governance, including changes to the voting rights associated with certain series of WeWork stock.

stock (the “2019 Master Transaction Agreement”), and (iii) the Settlement Agreement. WeWork has agreed to reimburse indemnified legal expenses incurred. In 2020, WeWork paid approximately $14 million in legal fees related to these indemnifications.

Directors and Officers

Mr. Neumann currently has a promissory note from SBG with an outstanding principal amount of $423.0 million as of December 31, 2020. On January 1, 2021, Mr. Neumann and SBG amended and restated the promissory note, such that the outstanding principal amount was increased to $431.5 million to reflect the interest accrued on the principal promissory note since its original issuance date of the promissory note. The promissory note is secured by a pledge of approximately 19,067,383 shares of WeWork Common Stock owned by Mr. Neumann’s affiliate We Holdings LLC and 24,081,668 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by the Partnership.

In April 2020, WeWork forgave certain loans for Sebastian Gunningham, WeWork’s former Co-Chief Executive Officer, and Adam Miropolski, WeWork’s former Chief Operating Officer, International, in connection with a former employment arrangement and severance arrangement, respectively. Each of Mr. Gunningham and Mr. Miropolski agreed to forfeit and cancel certain equity awards in exchange for full forgiveness.

SoftBank Transactions

Senior Secured Notes

In August 2020, WeWork Companies LLC and WW Co-Obligor Inc. entered into a senior secured note purchase agreement with SoftBank Corp. LP (the “Note Purchaser”), an affiliate of SBG, for up to an aggregate principal amount of $1.1 billion of senior secured debt in the form of senior secured notes (the “SoftBank Senior Secured Notes”). The agreement allows WeWork Companies LLC to borrow once every three months up to the maximum remaining capacity with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The SoftBank Senior Secured Notes will mature four years from the date of issuance. WeWork Companies LLC had the ability to draw for six months starting from the date of the senior secured note purchase agreement. WeWork Companies LLC extended this draw period for an additional six months by delivery of an extension notice to the Note Purchaser pursuant to the terms of the agreement. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, no draw notices had been delivered pursuant to the senior secured note purchase agreement. On August 11, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, WW-Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the senior secured note purchase agreement governing the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes, which (i) amends the maturity date of any remaining SoftBank Senior Secured Notes to February 12, 2023 and (ii) extends the expiration of the draw period from December 31, 2021 to September 30, 2021.

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser entered into a letter agreement pursuant to which WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser have agreed to amend and restate the terms of the senior secured note purchase agreement that governs the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (as amended and restated, the “A&R NPA”) on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The A&R NPA allows WeWork Companies LLC to borrow up to an aggregate principal amount of $550,000,000 of senior secured debt in the form of new 7.5% senior secured notes (the “Amended Senior Secured Notes”). It is a condition to the execution of the A&R NPA that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and canceled at a price of 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. The A&R NPA will allow WeWork Companies LLC to borrow once every 30 days with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The Amended Senior Secured Notes will mature no later than February 12, 2023, or, if earlier, 18 months from the closing of the Business Combination. On August 11, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the letter agreement pursuant to which WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser have agreed to enter into the A&R NPA on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) September 30, 2021.

Senior Unsecured Notes

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc., a co-obligor under our SoftBank Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement, entered into a master senior unsecured note purchase agreement (as amended from time to time and as supplemented by the First Amendment, dated as of July 7, 2020, the “Master Note Purchase Agreement”). Pursuant to the terms of the Master Note Purchase Agreement, WeWork Companies LLC may deliver from time to time to the Note Purchaser draw notices and accordingly sell to the Note Purchaser SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes having an aggregate original principal amount of $2.2 billion. As of June 30, 2021, WeWork had delivered draw notices in respect of $2.2 billion of the Master Note Purchase Agreement and an aggregate principal amount of $2.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser. The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes have a stated interest rate of 5.0%. However because the associated warrants option to issue shares in the future, the implied interest rate upon closing, assuming the full commitment is drawn, was approximately 11.69%.

Senior Unsecured Notes will mature in July 2025.

Company Credit Agreement and Reimbursement Agreement

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC entered into a credit agreement (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of April 1, 2020, and as further amended by the Second Amendment to the Credit Agreement and First Amendment to the Security Agreement, dated as of February 10, 2020, the “Company Credit Agreement”), among WeWork Companies LLC, as co-obligor, SBG, as co-obligor, Goldman Sachs International, as administrative agent, and the issuing creditors and letter of credit participants party thereto. The Company Credit Agreement provides for a senior secured letter of credit facility (the “2020 LC Facility”), which was made available on February 10, 2020, for the support of WeWork Companies LLC’s or its subsidiaries’ obligations. The termination date of the 2020 LC Facility is February 10, 2023. As of December 31, 2020, $143.7 million of stand-by letters of credit were outstanding under the 2020 LC Facility, of which $143.7 million has been utilized to secure letters of credit outstanding under WeWork Companies LLC’s previous credit facility (the “2019 Credit Facility”) and letter of credit facility (the “2019 Credit Facility”) which were terminated in 2020. As of June 30, 2021, there was $84.7 million in remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility.

The 2020 LC Facility is guaranteed by substantially all of the domestic wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Companies LLC (“Guarantors”) and is secured by substantially all the assets of WeWork Companies LLC and the Guarantors, in each case, subject to certain exceptions. The Company Credit Agreement and related documentation contain customary reimbursement provisions, representations and warranties, events of default and affirmative covenants (including with respect to cash management) for letter of credit facilities of this type. The covenants applicable to WeWork Companies LLC and its Restricted Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) are limited to non-financial covenants (subject to exceptions substantially consistent with the 7.875% Senior Notes due 2025), changes in line of business and disposition of assets, and restrictions on the use of all of the assets of WeWork Companies LLC.

In connection with the 2020 LC Facility, WeWork Companies LLC also entered into a Reimbursement Agreement, dated as of April 1, 2020 (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement”), with SBG and WeWork, pursuant to which (i) SBG agreed to pay substantially all of the fees and expenses payable in connection with the Company Credit Agreement, (ii) WeWork agreed to reimburse SBG for certain of such fees and expenses (including fronting fees up to an amount not to exceed 5.475% of the undrawn and unexpired amount of the letters of credit) as well as pay to SBG a fee of 5.475% on the amount of all outstanding letters of credit, and (iii) the Guarantors agreed to guarantee the obligations of WeWork Companies LLC under the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. For the year ended December 31, 2020, WeWork recognized $69.7 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG under the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement.

Table of Contents

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, the SoftBank Obligor and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Agreement”) pursuant to which SBG has committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from no later than February 10, 2024, (the “LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Termination Extension will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Warrants

In connection with the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes and the 2020 LC Facility, WeWork is obligated to issue shares to the future pursuant to the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant and the 2020 LC Facility Warrant (together with the SoftBank Warrant, the “Penny Warrants”) for 136,009,158 shares of Series H-3 Convertible Preferred Stock or Series H-4 Convertible Preferred Stock. Penny Warrants were subject to certain antidilution adjustments. The Penny Warrants became exercisable in April 2020 and expire in 2024. In February 2021, the SoftBank Obligor partially exercised the Penny Warrants for the issuance of 129,887,919 shares of Series H-3 Preferred Stock and WeWork received approximately $1.3 million in proceeds relating to the payment of the $0.01 per share exercise price. The Penny Warrants remain outstanding for 6,121,239 shares of Series H-3 Convertible Preferred Stock or Series H-4 Convertible Preferred Stock.

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW’s, and its affiliates’, support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees one or more warrants (collectively, the “LC Warrant”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to SoftBank Obligor as consideration for the SoftBank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-obligor on the existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable SoftBank Obligor to purchase 14,431,991 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (guarantee premium), which will be amortized over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable fashion to a commitment or access fee paid to the credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.20 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

2019 Master Transaction Agreement Payment

In the six months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork paid SBG $35.5 million of an up to $50.0 million expense reimbursement received under the Master Transaction Agreement upon the closing of the debt financing contemplated by such agreement.

Tender Offer and Settlement Agreement

In October 2019, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, WeWork entered into an agreement with SBG pursuant to which SBG made a tender offer in November 2019 to purchase up to $3.0 billion of WeWork's equity securities (including securities underlying various convertible securities, including restricted stock units, exercisable warrants and convertible notes) from eligible equity holders of WeWork, at a price of $19.19 per share (the "2020 Tender Offer").

The 2020 Tender Offer was scheduled to expire in April 2020. The closure of the 2020 Tender Offer was contingent on satisfaction of certain conditions as of the expiration date.

In April 2020, SBWW terminated and withdrew its offer to purchase the equity securities of WeWork because it asserted the 2020 Tender Offer did not satisfy certain conditions to its obligations to close the 2020 Tender Offer. The Special Committee, acting in the name of WeWork, filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware against SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund asserting claims in relation to SBG's withdrawal of the 2020 Tender Offer.

Separately, Mr. Neumann and WE Holdings LLC filed a similar lawsuit against SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund. On February 25, 2021, the parties entered into the Settlement Agreement, the terms of which resolved the 2020 Tender Offer litigation and resulted in the claims brought by the Special Committee, acting in the name of WeWork, and by Mr. Neumann and WE Holdings LLC being dismissed. The Settlement Agreement provided for the following:

- The launch of a new tender offer. Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, on March 10, 2021, SBWW launched a tender offer to purchase $921.6 million of WeWork's equity securities (including certain equity awards, exercisable warrants and convertible notes) from eligible equity holders of WeWork, at a price of $19.19 per share (the "2021 Tender Offer"). Mr. Neumann, his affiliate We Holdings LLC and certain of the other defendants in the 2020 Tender Offer litigation were excluded from the 2021 Tender Offer and could not tender shares. For more information about the agreements between Mr. Neumann and SBWW, see "Item 13. Certain Relationships and Related Party Transactions, Promotional Activities and Use of Management's Judgment" in the Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2020. For more information about the 2021 Tender Offer, see Note 27 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this document and the accompanying statement/prospectus. The 2021 Tender Offer closed in part on April 12, 2021, and in full on April 15, 2021, and SBWW acquired approximately 48,025,659 shares (including shares issued upon exercise and conversion of certain equity awards, exercisable warrants and convertible notes).

- Certain governance changes. The transactions contemplated by the Settlement Agreement also included the elimination of WeWork's dual-class voting structure. As a result of the WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation and the transactions contemplated by the Settlement Agreement, on February 26, 2021, all of the outstanding shares of WeWork's Class B Common Stock automatically converted into shares of WeWork's Class A Common Stock and the shares of WeWork's Class C Common Stock were adjusted to have one vote per share, instead of three votes per share ("the "Class B Conversion"). The WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation provides that if, following the WeWork Class B Conversion, new shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock are issued pursuant to (i) the exercise of options to purchase shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock outstanding as of the date of the WeWork Class B Conversion, (ii) securities convertible into shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock outstanding as of the date of the WeWork Class B Conversion, and (iii) other circumstances which are specified in the WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation, such new shares will be automatically converted into shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock immediately following the issuance of such new shares. These governance changes are relevant during the period prior to the closing of the Business Combination, and after the closing of the Business Combination, the Proposed Charter will apply to shares of capital stock held in Mr. Neumann's name. For additional information, see "Organizational Document Proposals."

• Mr. Neumann settlement payment. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG and its affiliates paid Adam Neumann $105.6 million. No expense was recorded in WeWork's consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021, to benefit WeWork.

• Mr. Neumann sale of stock to SBG. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG and its affiliates purchased 30,139,975

Common Stock of the Company from We Holdings LLC, which is Adam Neumann's affiliated investment vehicle, for a price per share representing an aggregate purchase price of $578.4 million. The Company recorded a $428.3 million expense, which represents the amount paid from a principal shareholder of WeWork to We Holdings LLC and the fair value of the stock purchased. WeWork recognized restructuring and other related costs in the consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021, with an increase in additional paid-in capital, representing a deemed capital contribution by SBG in its consolidated balance sheet.

• Mr. Neumann proxy and observer changes. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, Mr. Neumann's proxy and future rights of his financial obligations with and to SBG). Mr. Neumann's right to observe meetings of WeWork's board of directors was represented by an agreement governing future observer rights, which provides that beginning on February 26, 2022, Mr. Neumann, or if requested by Mr. Neumann's (who shall be subject to SBG's approval), shall have the right to observe meetings of WeWork's (or, after the Closing, New WeWork's) board of directors (and certain committees thereof) in a non-voting observer capacity. Pursuant to this agreement, Mr. Neumann's right to observe meetings of WeWork's board of directors will become the right to observe meetings of New WeWork's board of directors (and certain committees thereof) following the closing of the Business Combination commencing in February 2022 and will terminate on the date on which Mr. Neumann ceases to beneficially own equity securities of WeWork (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) representing at least 19,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock (on an as-converted basis and as adjusted for stock splits, dividends and the like). Mr. Neumann will receive copies of written materials provided to directors.

Although WeWork expects that Mr. Neumann or his representative may express views or may ask questions, there is no substantive entitlement beyond attending in a customary nonvoting observer capacity, and WeWork's (or, after the closing, New WeWork's) board meetings would be presided over by the relevant chairpersons and subject to such procedures governing conduct of the meeting as may be adopted by the board or relevant committee. The agreement governing the observer right does not entitle Mr. Neumann to participate in any committee of directors outside of formal meetings of the WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) board and its applicable committees. Similarly, the agreement does not give Mr. Neumann the right to influence decisions to be made or actions to be taken by the WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) board and its applicable committees. Mr. Neumann will participate in meetings of the WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) board and its applicable committees as a nonvoting board observer — not as a director.

The agreement governing the observer right requires that Mr. Neumann or his representative agree to hold in confidence all information under such agreement. WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) has also reserved the right under such agreement to withhold information to exclude Mr. Neumann or his representative from any meeting or portion thereof to the extent reasonably likely to adversely affect the attorney-client privilege between WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) and its counsel or result in disclosure of trade secrets or a conflict of interest. Any disclosure of information by Mr. Neumann or his representative that has been a violation of Mr. Neumann's restrictive covenant obligations to WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) will result in termination of the agreement.

• SBG proxy agreement. On February 26, 2021, WeWork entered into a proxy agreement with SBWW which will allow SBG to reduce the combined voting power of SBG and SVFE to less than 49.90%. Pursuant to the proxy agreement, any shares of WeWork’s stock owned by SBWW that, when taken together with the voting power of all other shares of WeWork Capital stock held by SBG or SVFE, result in a total voting power of WeWork in excess of 49.90%, will be voted in the same proportion as shares of WeWork Capital Stock not owned by SBG. The proxy agreement will be terminated upon the closing of the Business Combination.

• Profits interest amendments. In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0.00 and distribution thresholds for Mr. Neumann’s WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to initially be $10.00 and subject to downward adjustment based on trading price on the Closing Date of the Business Combination. For additional information, see “— Interest — Exchange.”

For information about the terms of the lease terminations and new non-compete agreement entered into in connection with the Settlement Agreement, see below under “— Real Estate Transactions – Mr. Neumann” and “— Non-Compete Agreement.”

In addition to the transactions and governance changes described above, the Settlement Agreement contains customary releases of parties, a commitment to continue existing indemnification arrangements and maintain insurance coverage for the benefit of Mr. Neumann to his former capacities at WeWork, provisions related to confidentiality, public announcements, media inquiries and publicity concerning the Settlement Agreement or Mr. Neumann’s tenure at WeWork, and provisions concerning the intended tax treatment of certain of the payments under the Settlement Agreement.

Creator Fund

During 2018, WeWork launched a venture capital fund (the “Creator Fund”) to promote its business through award programs (“Creator Awards”) and such other investments in its members as WeWork may determine. An affiliate of SBG, a 99.99% equity owner of the Creator Fund, committed up to $180.0 million to the Creator Fund.

In March 2019, WeWork also entered into an agreement pursuant to which an affiliate of SBG will reimburse WeWork up to $20.0 million for its performance of underwriting and production services for Creator Awards events between September 2017 and January 2021. An affiliate of SBG will reimburse WeWork $20.0 million during 2017 and an additional $40.0 million in 2019 related to the Creator Fund events that occurred during the period from September 1, 2017, through March 31, 2019.

In September 2020, WeWork agreed to transfer its rights as managing member and all of its other rights, titles, interests, options and commitments in respect of the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG and the Creator Fund was deconsolidated. As substantially all of the assets of the Creator Fund were previously allocated to the noncontrolling interests, no gain or loss was recognized on deconsolidation of the Creator Fund.

Creator Fund were previously allocated to the noncontrolling interests, no gain or loss was recognized on deconsolidation of the Creator Fund. In connection with this transaction, the parties also agreed, among other things, that WeWork would not be required to reimburse SBG for the reimbursement obligation payable to SBG as of December 31, 2019, as described in Note 24. WeWork’s consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus and that WeWork would record investment returns above a specified threshold. In connection with the Sound Ventures Transaction described below, in June 2021, the parties will increase the investment returns threshold. As SBG is a principal shareholder of WeWork, the forgiveness of this obligation was accounted for as a contribution and reclassified from liabilities to additional paid-in-capital during the year ended December 31, 2020.

Sound Ventures

In June 2021, an affiliate of SBG acquired WeWork’s limited partnership interest in Sound Ventures II, L.P. Such affiliate of SBG committed to remit approximately $2 million to Sound Ventures II, L.P. when and as called, and funded WeWork for its limited partnership interest based on already funded contributions of approximately $6 million (the “Sound Ventures Transaction”).

VistaJet

In May 2020, WeWork sold its unused flight hours with VistaJet, an aviation company offering private flight services, to an affiliate of SBG for a cost, through the cancellation of $1.5 million in debt.

WeWork Partnership

In July 2019, WeWork completed a reorganization into an “UP-C” structure. As a result of the reorganization, WeWork Inc. is the holding company for the subsidiaries WeWork uses to operate its business and hold its assets.

WeWork’s primary assets, held through wholly owned subsidiaries, are non-controlling “limited partner” interests and a controlling “general partner” interest in an operating partnership called the WeWork Partnership. Former members of WeWork’s senior management team issued non-controlling “limited partner” interests in the WeWork Partnership as part of WeWork’s compensation program described under WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units.”

As a result of its interests in the general partner of the WeWork Partnership, and subject to certain restrictions set forth in the Partnership Agreement, WeWork Inc. generally controls all of the affairs and decision-making of the WeWork Partnership. As such, WeWork Inc. controls all operational and administrative decisions of the WeWork Partnership and the day-to-day management of the WeWork Partnership. The general partner of the WeWork Partnership cannot be removed as the general partner of the WeWork Partnership without the approval of WeWork Inc.

Partnership interests do not have any direct voting rights with respect to WeWork Inc. However, each holder of partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership (other than direct and indirect subsidiaries of WeWork Inc.) holds one share of WeWork Class C Common Stock and one vote per share. The WeWork Class C Common Stock has no economic rights.

Subject to certain restrictions set forth in the Partnership Agreement, holders of partnership interests (other than direct and indirect subsidiaries of WeWork Inc.) may exchange their partnership interests for (at WeWork Inc.’s election) shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock or cash or more fully below under —WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units.” Upon the exchange of partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership for shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock or cash or the forfeiture of unvested partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership, the holder of the shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock will be redeemed.

The exchange of partnership interests as described above is taxable to the individual making such exchange and, to the extent that the individual has taxable gain on the exchange, results in a benefit to WeWork Inc. in the form of increased tax basis in WeWork’s assets and the ability to deduct depreciation deductions. However, unlike in many UP-C structures, no holder of a profits interest or other interest in the WeWork Partnership will receive a “tax receivable” payment or other similar payment by WeWork Inc. in respect of tax attributes that may accrue to it upon the exchange of the holder’s profits interest or other interest for cash or shares of WeWork Common Stock.

All of the partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership are subject to certain restrictions on transfer and exchange.

Any time a share of Class A Common Stock of WeWork Inc. is issued, redeemed, repurchased, acquired, canceled or terminated, one partnership interest indirectly held by WeWork Inc. will be issued or canceled, as applicable, by the WeWork Partnership so that the partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership held indirectly by WeWork Inc. at all times equals the number of shares of Class A Common Stock of WeWork Inc. outstanding, subject to customary conversion rate adjustments for stock splits, stock dividends and reclassifications.

Pursuant to the terms of the Partnership Agreement, except with respect to tax distributions, WeWork Inc. has the authority to make ordinary distributions. Ordinary distributions will be made to the holders of partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership and the amounts of any such distributions will be determined by the WeWork Partnership. WeWork Inc. authorizes an ordinary distribution by the WeWork Partnership, such distribution will generally be made first to the wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. until the aggregate distributions equal the “aggregate distribution threshold” (as discussed below under “WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units”), and then shared among all partners, including the holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (also discussed below under “WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units”). Like the other partners in the WeWork Partnership, WeWork Inc. will incur U.S. federal, and applicable state and local, income taxes on its wholly owned subsidiaries’ distributive shares of any net taxable income of the WeWork Partnership. Pursuant to the Partnership Agreement, cash distributions will be made to these subsidiaries and the other holders of partnership interests (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) in the WeWork Partnership in amounts intended to be sufficient for such partners to satisfy their respective U.S. federal, and applicable associated state and local, income tax liabilities with respect to such net taxable income. Such tax distributions shall reduce subsequent ordinary and liquidating distributions otherwise payable to these wholly owned subsidiary holders of partnership interests (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) in the WeWork Partnership.

WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units

As noted above, former members of WeWork’s senior management team were issued limited partnership interests in the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in 2019. These WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units are intended to qualify as “profits interests” for U.S. federal income tax purposes. WeWork Inc. no longer grants these types of awards.

Holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units may receive value from their awards in two ways—by receiving (a) cash distributions at the election of the holder, (b) converting their WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Stock or (c) exchanging (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) their WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units for WeWork Inc.’s shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for WeWork Class C Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value.

Distributions

When the WeWork Partnership makes distributions to its partners, the holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units are entitled to share in those distributions with the other partners, including the wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. that hold partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership. Once the aggregate amount of distributions since the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were issued equals the “aggregate distribution threshold” with respect to those WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. The “aggregate distribution threshold” with respect to a WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Unit equals the total value of the WeWork Partnership when the profits interest is issued, and such amount is generally determined based on the fair market value of the WeWork Partnership performed by a third-party valuation firm. Once a profits interest holder is entitled to share in distributions (i.e., distributions have been made in an amount equal to the aggregate distribution threshold), the holder is entitled to receive distributions equal to a “preference amount,” which is a set dollar amount per profits interest equal to the difference between the profits interest’s “aggregate distribution threshold” (which is the per-profits-interest equivalent of the aggregate distribution threshold, as determined by the third-party valuation firm) and its “catch-up base amount” (which is similar to an option exercise price), and thereafter shares pro rata in distributions within the WeWork Partnership.

Exchange

Holders can also, at the election of the holder, (a) convert their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Class B Common Units or (b) exchange (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) their WeWork Profits Interest Units for (at WeWork's election) shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically become WeWork Class A Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value. Similar to their entitlement to distributions, as described above, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units interests can receive value through such an exchange only if the value of the WeWork Partnership increased above the aggregate distribution threshold. This is measured by comparing the value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock of exchange to the per-unit distribution threshold for the exchanged profits interest. If, on the day that a profits interest is exchanged, the value of WeWork Class A Common Stock exceeds the per-unit distribution threshold for the exchanged profits interest, then the holder is entitled to that difference plus the preference amount for the profits interest (subject to certain downward adjustments for prior distributions of the WeWork Partnership).

A WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units holder is never entitled to receive any value for their "catch-up base amount," distributions or on exchange. A higher trading price and a lower catch-up base amount each generally results in more shares being issued by the exchanging holder, except that the number of shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically become WeWork Class A Common Stock) issuable upon exchange of each profits interest can never be greater than one.

See Note 22 of the notes to WeWork's annual audited consolidated financial statements and Note 14 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details on the WeWork Profits Interest Units and activity during the year ended December 31, 2020, and six months ended June 30, 2021, respectively.

In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann by the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. As a result, Mr. Neumann has 24,000 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. The per unit distribution thresholds for Mr. Neumann's WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units also amended to initially be $10.00 and may be subject to downward adjustment based on the closing trading price of New WeWork on the Closing Date.

In connection with the Business Combination, the Partnership Agreement will be amended at the Closing to implement mechanics to reflect the conversion of shares of capital stock of WeWork Inc. to shares of New WeWork Common Stock (including the conversion of WeWork Class C Common Stock into shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock). Specifically, the number of outstanding partners of the WeWork Partnership (including all WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann) will be adjusted to equal the number of shares of the corresponding class of common stock of New WeWork (which, for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, is the New WeWork Class C Common Stock), taking into account the Exchange Ratio in the Business Combination.

The per-unit distribution threshold and catch-up base amount for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units will also be equitably adjusted to maintain the pre-Business Combination economics of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. As described above, in addition to the number of outstanding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann taking into account the Exchange Ratio in the Business Combination, the per-unit distribution threshold for Mr. Neumann's WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units may be subject to further adjustment if the closing trading price of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock on the Closing Date is less than a price of $10.00 divided by the Exchange Ratio. Following the Business Combination, vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units ("PIUs") will be converted into shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock at the election of the holder of the PIUs, be

International Joint Ventures and Strategic Partnerships

Together with entities affiliated with certain of WeWork's directors and holders of more than 5% of a class of its capital stock, WeWork formed three international joint ventures, ChinaCo, JapanCo and PacificCo, to pursue international expansion and strategic partnerships. In September 2021, SBG affiliates, WeWork formed JapanCo and PacificCo and, together with SBG, Hony Capital, Trustbridge Partners and other investors, formed ChinaCo.

In April 2020, WeWork closed the PacificCo Roll-up transaction and issued 34,482,759 shares of convertible WeWork Series H Common Stock in exchange for all interests held by affiliates of SBG in PacificCo. Upon completion of the PacificCo Roll-up, PacificCo became a subsidiary of WeWork.

In September 2021, an affiliate of SBG and WeWork closed on the formation of a new joint venture ("LatamCo") to operate WeWork businesses in Brazil, Mexico, Colombia, Chile and Argentina under the WeWork brand. Upon formation of LatamCo, the Company will own 100% of the businesses in the countries listed above, committed to fund $12.5 million, and remains as guarantor on certain lease obligations and liabilities. The LatamCo Fund will be funded by the Latin America Fund committed to fund $80.0 million.

WeWork has entered into services agreements with each of these joint ventures where WeWork provides certain intellectual property rights, trademark rights and support services to enable the joint ventures to carry out their businesses in exchange for an annual fee.

In July 2020, a subsidiary of WeWork extended a $25.0 million bridge loan to ChinaCo, to fund ChinaCo's short-term working capital needs prior to the closing of the Trustbridge Transaction. WeWork also entered into a cooperation letter with ChinaCo and Trustbridge Partners whereby the parties will establish a joint committee to facilitate communication and cooperation regarding the operations and management of ChinaCo through the Trustbridge Transaction. The bridge loan was repaid on October 2, 2020.

In April 2018, WeWork, ChinaCo and PacificCo entered into an agreement to purchase naked Hub (the "Naked Hub Agreement"). The consideration for the acquisition was shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. ChinaCo subsequently provided WeWork a promissory note dated April 26, 2018, for an amount equal to the value of this stock consideration as set forth in the Naked Hub Agreement. This promissory note was convertible into shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock at a rate of 1.0 share for every $1.00 of principal plus accrued interest, repayable by ChinaCo in cash to WeWork on April 26, 2021. In October 2020, this promissory note was converted to equity in ChinaCo in connection with the ChinaCo financing.

In the first quarter of 2021, JapanCo entered into a management agreement with an affiliate of SBG pursuant to which a WeWork subsidiary will operate a floor in a building owned by such affiliate, with no rent or minimum monthly payments, in exchange for a fixed monthly fee of approximately $9,500 per month and a 15% incentive fee of building profits.

In September 2021, JapanCo intends to enter into a series of transactions with OfaaS Corp., an affiliate of SBG ("OfaaS"), pursuant to which the parties will agree to (i) a revenue sharing arrangement where JapanCo will pay OfaaS 5% of sales derived from JapanCo's strategic partnership with East Japan Station Work as compensation for OfaaS' role in brokering and negotiating such strategic partnership, (ii) a secondment arrangement pursuant to which OfaaS will provide JapanCo with personnel and other resources to perform certain sales services (including sales operations, reporting, enterprise strategy, broker relations and marketing support) for a period of six (6) months at a cost of JPY 14,500,000 per month, and (iii) terminate JapanCo's existing sales service agreement with OfaaS and enter into a new broker agreement pursuant to JapanCo's terms of service, with an exception to permit OfaaS (unlike JapanCo's other brokers) to refer, and receive referral fees from JapanCo for JapanCo's other affiliates.

Real Estate Transactions

WeCap Investment Group

In March 2017, together with Rhône Group, WeWork formed the WPI Fund. Steven Langman, who served as one of WeWork's Executive Officer and one of its directors until 2019, have each served on the management committees of the entities that currently administer the WPI Fund, and Mr. Langman continues to serve on those committees.

- In 2019, Mr. Langman was appointed by Rhône Group to the management committee of the investment adviser of the WPI Fund's investment vehicles, WeWork Capital Advisors LLC ("WeCap" (formerly known as "ARK Capital Advisors LLC")), as one of the members of the management committee of the Ark Master Fund and related parallel and related vehicles (the "Ark Master Fund") in addition to continuing to serve on the investment committee for the Ark Master Fund.

WeWork's general partner interests in Waller Creek Holdings LP, DSQ, WPI Fund and ARK Master Fund are held through the 424 Fifth Venture Partnership, in which Rhône Group also participates to the extent provided by the governing documents of the WeCap Holding Company.

WeWork funded two $25.0 million convertible promissory notes in 2018 in connection with securing a potential investment opportunity being evaluated by the WPI Fund. During 2019, WeWork converted this $50.0 million loan into an initial 17.4% interest in the 424 Fifth Venture, including $2.8 million of capitalized transaction costs. The WPI Fund was also an initial 39.1% owner in the 424 Fifth Venture. The 424 Fifth Venture was initially capitalized with the $50.0 million investment from WeWork, $112.5 million from the WPI Fund, $125.0 million of equity from investors and debt facilities (held by subsidiaries of the 424 Fifth Venture) of up to $900.0 million in the aggregate, of which $658.8 million was outstanding as of December 31, 2019. Such debt financing was provided by a group of lenders that included J.P. Morgan Chase Bank, N.A. The 424 Fifth Venture subsequently contributed an additional $35.9 million and WeWork subsequently contributed an additional $6.5 million during the period ending December 31, 2019. In March 2020, the 424 Fifth Venture property located in New York City was sold to a third-party buyer and the debt held by the 424 Fifth Venture from J.P. Morgan Chase Bank, N.A. was repaid.

Finally, WeWork has entered into operating lease agreements with landlord entities in which the WPI Fund and following the ARK/WPI combination, other real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group have an interest, on what basis will be commercially reasonable terms. During the 6 months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork had a contractual obligation totaling $28.0 million. WeWork recognized $23.0 million of lease cost expense related to these leases. Future minimum lease cost payments under these leases, including noncancelable clauses and exclusive of contingent rent payments, are approximately $687.5 million as of June 30, 2021. The future minimum lease payments disclosed are the gross amount payable and are not net of tenant lease incentive receivables of approximately $14.2 million as of June 30, 2021.

In August 2019, the Company reorganized its real estate acquisition platform (such platform, following the ARK/WPI combination, referred to herein, and inclusive of the investment vehicles sponsored, co-sponsored, managed, or co-managed by the WeCap Manager and the WeCap Investment Group). Through this reorganization (the "ARK/WPI combination"), the Company acquired from Rhône a controlling interest in the WeCap Manager, the management company for the WeCap Investment Group in exchange for a 20% noncontrolling interest in the WeCap Manager. The WeCap Manager is the surviving entity resulting from the merger of the legacy entity that previously managed WeCap Investors LP, including its parallel and related vehicles (collectively the "WPI Fund"), which was indirectly owned 50% by us and 50% by Rhône.

of Rhône and was unconsolidated prior to the ARK/WPI combination, and the wholly owned and consolidated legacy entity that previously controlled the WeCap Manager. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to Rhône's interest in the WeCap Manager is a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2020 and January 1, 2021.

See Notes 6 and 11 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement for additional details on WeWork's relationships with the ARK/WPI Fund.

Mr. Neumann

WeWork is, or was, also party to lease agreements for four commercial properties with landlord entities in which Mr. Neumann, chief executive officer, has an ownership interest. These leases, individually and in the aggregate, are not material to WeWork's operations. The termination of these lease agreements was duly approved by WeWork. As of June 30, 2021, future undiscounted minimum lease payments under these lease agreements represented approximately 0.5% of WeWork's total lease commitments. During the 6 months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork had a cash outflow totaling $6.4 million to the landlord entities under these leases. During the 6 months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork received no payments from the landlord entities in the form of tenant improvement reimbursements related to these leases.

Terms of the termination of two of these lease agreements were agreed in February 2021 and one of the two was formally terminated in 2021 upon receiving the necessary ordinary course approvals. The negotiations for the two lease terminations occurred in the ordinary course of business and with respect to the lease that was formally terminated, included the landlord entity's surrender and return of a letter of credit in exchange for payment of the corresponding amounts of the letter of credit, and the landlord entity's forgiveness of the amounts owed.

In addition, one of the other leases was assigned to Ampa in connection with the Israel Transaction and, therefore, WeWork is not responsible for the lease agreement.

Membership and Service Agreements

WeWork has entered into membership agreements and/or other agreements relating to the provision of services with affiliates of SoftBank Vision Fund and affiliates of Rhône Group. WeWork believes that all such arrangements have been entered into in the ordinary course of business and have been conducted on an arm's-length basis. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork earned $69.7 million from such agreements with affiliates of SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund and $0.9 million from such agreements with affiliates of Rhône Group.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork recognized expenses of approximately $10.0 million for services provided by affiliates.

Under the 2019 Omnibus Agreement, WeWork also provided healthcare, security and office space to Mr. Neumann until March 2022 at a cost of approximately $2.6 million.

Non-Compete Agreement

During the year ended December 31, 2019, SBG entered into a non-compete agreement with Mr. Neumann, WeWork's former chief executive officer, for a cash payment of $185.0 million, of which 50% was paid initially, with the remaining 50% payable in twelve equal monthly installments over a period of three years. Concurrent with the termination of the 2020 Tender Offer, this agreement was terminated and SBG ceased making payments under the agreement.

Table of Contents

During 2019, WeWork recorded this as an expense to be paid for by a principal shareholder as WeWork also benefitted from the arrangement restricting Mr. Neumann's ability to provide similar services to a competing organization. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, a non-compete agreement has been entered into by Mr. Neumann with both WeWork and SBG. WeWork also became a party to (rather than a beneficiary of) this new non-compete agreement. WeWork does not have any financial obligation to Mr. Neumann under this arrangement.

PIPE Investment

In connection with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX entered into separate Subscription Agreements with the PIPE Investors pursuant to which the PIPE Investors agreed to purchase, and BowX agreed to sell to the PIPE Investors, the PIPE Shares for a price of $10.00 per share and an aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000, in the PIPE Investment. The PIPE Investment will be consummated substantially concurrently with the closing of the Business Combination. For additional information, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — PIPE Subscription Agreements."

Bruce Dunlevie, who currently serves on our board of directors and is a director nominee for New WeWork's board of directors, has agreed to participate in the PIPE Investment through a family trust entity on the same terms and conditions as the other PIPE Investors for an aggregate price of $10,000,000. In addition, certain of WeWork's existing investors or their affiliates are participating in the PIPE Investment, which provides these investors the opportunity to materially increase the size of their investment in WeWork. None of these existing WeWork investors are owners of more than 5% of our capital stock or of New WeWork's capital stock, in each case, on an as converted to common stock basis.

FIRPTA Letter

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, SBWW, SVFE, BowX and WeWork entered into an agreement related to WeWork's potential current or future status as a USRPHC and related tax withholding matters in connection with the transaction contemplated by the Merger Agreement. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — FIRPTA Letter" for a full description of this arrangement.

Other Transactions

In August 2020, WeWork closed the sale of Flatiron to Carrick Capital Partners ("Carrick"). Arthur Minson, WeWork's former Chief Financial Officer, is an investor in the entity that Carrick used to purchase Flatiron. In connection with the sale, WeWork waived certain non-compete obligations for Mr. Minson to allow him to serve on the board of, and also invest in, Flatiron.

In August 2021, WeWork and Cushman entered into a non-binding exclusive strategic partnership to market both landlords and tenants' WeWork's management experience platform and on new jointly developed solutions. The partnership is intended to provide clients with office operations by combining WeWork's proprietary platform of workplace experience management software and hospitality expertise with Cushman's asset and facilities management services. Together, WeWork and Cushman will work to unlock opportunities to provide businesses with the ability to create a differentiated workplace experience for tenants and employees in the new hybrid world of work. The partnership remains at the forefront. In addition, Cushman, WeWork and BowX are in discussions regarding a potential transaction where Cushman will contribute up to $150,000,000.00 in a non-dilutive backstop equity facility (the "Backstop Facility") on mutually agreeable terms. The Backstop Facility is subject to required approvals and the expiration or termination of any applicable waiting periods under the HSR Act. The material terms of the partnership are non-binding and subject to finalization of definitive documentation.

WeWork Policies and Procedures for Related Party Transactions

WeWork's board of directors recognizes that transactions with related parties can present potential or actual conflicts of interest questions as to whether those transactions are consistent with our best interests and the best interests of our stockholders. Therefore, the directors has adopted a written policy on transactions with any related party, which is defined as any person who, since the beginning of the fiscal year, is, or at any time was, a director, executive officer or nominee for director, any beneficial owner of more than 5% of any stock, and any of their immediate family members.

Under the policy, a related party must promptly disclose to WeWork's chief legal officer, deputy chief legal officer, chief compliance officer, deputy chief compliance officer or other person designated by the audit committee of the board of directors (i) any transaction in which the related party is or will be a participant and that related party had, has or will have a direct or indirect interest and (ii) all material facts with respect to the transaction. WeWork's chief legal officer, deputy chief legal officer, chief compliance officer, deputy chief compliance officer or other person designated by the audit committee of the board of directors will make an initial assessment as to whether the transaction constitutes a related party transaction that may be reportable by WeWork pursuant to Item 404(a) of Regulation S-K, in which case the transaction would require approval by either the independent members of WeWork's board of directors who are disinterested with respect to such related party transaction or all of the members of WeWork's audit committee.

Any member of the audit committee who is, or whose immediate family member is, or whose household member (other than an employee) is, a related party with respect to a transaction under review will not be permitted to participate in the discussions or approval of the transaction.

After the closing of the Business Combination, New WeWork expects to implement a new policy for approving related party transac-

BowX Class B Common Stock Prior to the Business Combination

The shares of BowX Class B Common Stock are identical to the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock included in the units offered in the public offering, and holders of these shares have the same stockholder rights as Public Stockholders, except that (i) the Founder Shares are subject to certain transfer restrictions, as described in more detail below, (ii) our Sponsor, officers and directors, have entered into agreements with them in connection with a stockholder vote to approve an amendment to our Existing Charter (x) to modify the substance or timing of the completion of our initial business combination, (B) their redemption rights with respect to any founder shares and any shares of public stock held by them if we do not complete our initial business combination before August 7, 2022, or (y) with respect to any other provision relating to their rights or pre-initial business combination activity and (C) their rights to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to any public stock held by them if we fail to complete our initial business combination within 24 months from the initial public offering or during the period, although they will be entitled to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to any public stock they hold if we do not complete our initial business combination within such time period, (iii) the Founder Shares are shares of BowX Class B Common Stock that will convert into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock at the time of our initial business combination, or earlier at the option of the holder on a one-for-one basis, subject to adjustment pursuant to certain anti-dilution rights as described herein and (iv) the holders of Founder Shares have registration rights. The holders of the Founder Shares have agreed pursuant to the letter agreement to vote any Founder Shares and any shares held by them in favor of the Business Combination. Permitted transferees of the Founder Shares and private placement warrants and their component securities will be subject to the same restrictions described below as the holders of such securities.

The shares of BowX Class B Common Stock will automatically convert into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock at the time of the Business Combination, or earlier at the option of the holder, on a one-for-one basis (subject to adjustment for stock splits, stock dividends, recapitalizations and the like, and subject to further adjustment as described herein). In the case that additional shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or equity-linked securities, are issued or deemed issued in excess of the amounts issued in this offering and related to the closing of the Business Combination (including pursuant to a specified future issuance), the ratio at which shares of BowX Class B Common Stock shall convert into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock will be adjusted (unless the holders of a majority of the then-outstanding shares of BowX Class B Common Stock have agreed to waive such adjustment with respect to any such issuance or deemed issuance, including pursuant to a specified future issuance) so that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon conversion of all shares of BowX Class B Common Stock will equal, in the aggregate, 20% of the sum of the total number of all shares of common stock outstanding upon the completion of the initial public offering.

all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and equity-linked securities issued or deemed issued in connection with the Business Combination (excluding any shares or equity-linked securities issued or issuable to any seller in the Business Combination). The Sponsor and its principal stockholders have agreed to waive, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the ability to adjust the one-to-one initial conversion ratio pursuant to Section 3.1 of our Existing Charter in connection with the issuance of additional BowX Class A Common Stock in the Business Combination.

With certain limited exceptions, the Founder Shares are not transferable, assignable or salable (except to our initial stockholders, our directors or their affiliates, each of whom will be subject to the same transfer restrictions) until the earlier of (A) one year after the date of the initial business combination or (B) subsequent to our initial business combination, (x) if the last reported sale price of our BowX Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $12.00 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) for 20 consecutive trading days within any 30-trading day period commencing at least 150 days after our initial business combination, or (y) the date on which we complete a liquidation, merger, capital stock exchange, reorganization or other similar transaction that results in all of our stockholders having the right to receive their shares of common stock for cash, securities or other property.

Preferred Stock

The Existing Charter provides, and the Proposed Charter will provide, that shares of preferred stock may be issued from time to time in one or more series. Our board of directors is authorized to fix the voting rights, if any, designations, powers and preferences, the relative, participating or other special rights, and any qualifications, limitations and restrictions thereof, applicable to the shares of each series of preferred stock that it authorizes. Our board of directors is able to, without stockholder approval, issue preferred stock with voting and other rights that could adversely affect the voting power and other rights of the holders of BowX Common Stock and could have anti-takeover effects. The ability of our board of directors to issue preferred stock without stockholder approval could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change of control of BowX or the removal of management.

BowX has no preferred stock outstanding at the date hereof, and will have no preferred stock outstanding as of the effective date of the Proposed Charter.

Redeemable Warrants

Public Warrants

Each whole public warrant entitles the registered holder to purchase one whole share of our BowX Class A Common Stock at a price of $12.00 per share, subject to adjustment as discussed below, at any time commencing 30 days after the date of the initial public offering.

on the later of 12 months from the closing of the initial public offering or 30 days after the completion of our initial business combination, the warrants will expire five years after the completion of our initial business combination or earlier upon redemption or liquidation.

We will not be obligated to deliver any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock pursuant to the exercise of a public warrant until the obligation to settle such warrant exercise unless a registration statement under the Securities Act with respect to the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying the warrants is then effective and a prospectus relating thereto is current, subject to our satisfying our obligations described below.

With respect to registration, no public warrant will be exercisable and we will not be obligated to issue shares of BowX Class A Common Stock upon exercise of a public warrant unless BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon such public warrant exercise has been registered, qualified or exempted from registration under the securities laws of the state of residence of the registered holder of the public warrants. In the event that the conditions set forth in the immediately preceding sentences are not satisfied with respect to a public warrant, the holder of such public warrant will not be entitled to exercise such public warrant and such public warrant may have no value and expire worthless. In no event will we be required to net cash settle any public warrant and, if such public warrant is exercised, the purchaser of a unit containing such public warrant will be required to pay the amount paid by the holder of the public warrant to us, less the amount paid by the holder of the public warrant for the unit, plus interest thereon at the rate of 6% per annum, from the date of exercise to the date of payment, provided that the public warrant has been exercised prior to the date of payment. In the event that a registration statement is not effective for the exercised public warrant units, the purchaser of a unit containing such public warrant will be entitled to a refund of the amount paid by the holder of the public warrant to us, less the amount paid by the holder of the public warrant for the unit, plus interest thereon at the rate of 6% per annum, from the date of exercise to the date of payment, provided that the public warrant has been exercised prior to the date of payment.

We will not be obligated to deliver any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying such units until the public warrant has been exercised.

We have agreed that as soon as practicable, but in no event later than 15 business days after the closing of our initial business combination, we will use our reasonable best efforts to file, and within 60 business days following the initial business combination to have declared effective, a registration statement under the Securities Act covering the issuance of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the public warrants and to maintain the effectiveness of such registration statement and a current prospectus relating to those shares of BowX Class A Common Stock until the warrants expire or are redeemed; provided that, if the BowX Class A Common Stock is at the time of any exercise of a public warrant listed on a national securities exchange such that it satisfies the definition of a “covered security” under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, we may, at its option, require holders of public warrants who exercise their warrants to do so on a “cashless basis” in accordance with Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and, in the event the Company so elects, it will not be required to file or maintain in effect a registration statement, but will use its best efforts to register or qualify the shares under applicable blue sky laws to the extent an exemption is not available.

Once the warrants become exercisable, the Company may redeem the outstanding public warrants:

- in whole and not in part;
 - at a price of $0.01 per warrant;
 - upon a minimum of 30 days’ prior written notice of redemption; and
- if, and only if, the last reported sale price of the BowX Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $18.00 per share (as adjusted for stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) for any 20 trading days within a 30-trading day period commencing on the date the warrants become exercisable and ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which BowX sends the notice of redemption to the warrant holders.

If and when the public warrants become redeemable by us, we may not exercise our redemption right if the issuance of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock upon exercise of the public warrants is not exempt from registration or qualification under applicable state blue sky laws or if we are unable to effect such registration or qualification. We will use our best efforts to register or qualify such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock under the blue sky laws of the state of residence in those states in which the public warrants were offered by us in this offering.

We have established the last of the redemption criteria discussed above to prevent a redemption call unless there is at the time of exercise a significant premium to the warrant exercise price. If the foregoing conditions are not met, we will not be required to exercise our redemption rights.

satisfied and we issue a notice of redemption of the public warrants, each warrant holder will be entitled to exercise its public warrants on the scheduled redemption date. However, the price of BowX Class A Common Stock may fall below the $18.00 redemption trigger price (subject to stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) as well as the $11.50 warrant exercise price after the redemption date issued.

If we call the public warrants for redemption as described above, our management will have the option to require any holder to exercise its warrant to do so on a “cashless basis.” In determining whether to require all holders to exercise their public warrants on the redemption date, our management will consider, among other factors, our cash position, the number of public warrants that are outstanding and the dilutive effect of issuing the maximum number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon the exercise of our public warrants.

Stockholders of issuing the maximum number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon the exercise of our public warrants will receive the maximum number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock equal to the quotient obtained by dividing (x) the product of the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying the public warrants, multiplied by the difference between the exercise price of the Public Warrants and the “fair market value” (defined below) by (y) the fair market value. The “fair market value” shall mean the average last reported sale price of the Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the warrant holders. If our management takes advantage of this option, the notice of redemption will contain the information necessary to calculate the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be received upon exercise of the public warrants, including the “fair market value” in such cashless exercise in this manner will reduce the number of shares to be issued and thereby lessen the dilutive effect of a warrant redemption. This feature is an attractive option to us if we do not need the cash from the exercise of the public warrants after our initial business combination. If we call our warrants for redemption and our management does not take advantage of this option, our Sponsor and its permitted transferees will be entitled to exercise their private placement warrants for cash or on a cashless basis using the same formula described above that other warrant holders would have been required to use had all warrant holders been required to exercise their warrants on a cashless basis, as described in the prospectus.

Commencing ninety days after the warrants become exercisable, BowX may redeem the outstanding warrants:

- in whole and not in part;
- at $0.10 per warrant upon a minimum of 30 days' prior written notice of redemption provided that holders will be able to exercise their warrants on a cashless basis prior to redemption and receive that number of shares of Class A Common Stock to be determined by reference to the last reported sale price of the Class A Common Stock on the trading day prior to the date on which BowX sends the notice of redemption, based on the redemption date and the “fair market value” of the Company's Class A Common Stock;
 - if, and only if, the last reported sale price of the Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $10.00 per share (as adjusted for stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) on the trading day prior to the date on which BowX sends the notice of redemption to the warrant holders;
 - if, and only if, the Private Placement Warrants are also concurrently called for redemption on the same terms as the outstanding Public Warrants described above; and
- if, and only if, there is an effective registration statement covering the issuance of the shares of Class A Common Stock (or a security into which the Class A Common Stock has been converted or exchanged for in the event the Company is involved in a business combination) issuable upon exercise of the warrants and a current prospectus relating thereto available at least 30 days before the 30-day period after written notice of redemption is given.

The “fair market value” of the Class A common stock for this purpose shall mean the average last reported sale price of the Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of the warrants.

Placement Warrants” for further information on the terms of the Private Placement Warrants and “Risk Factors—Risks Related to Our Business, BowX and BowX Class A Common Stock—Your unexpired warrants may be redeemed prior to their exercise at a time that is disadvantageous to you and your warrants worthless.”

In the event BowX shall elect to redeem all of the outstanding warrants that are subject to redemption, then BowX shall fix a date for such redemption (the “Redemption Date”). A notice of redemption shall be mailed by first class mail, postage prepaid, by BowX not less than thirty (30) days before the Redemption Date to the registered holders of the outstanding warrants to be redeemed at their last addresses as they shall appear on the books. Any notice mailed in the manner herein provided shall be conclusively presumed to have been duly given whether or not the holder received such notice. At any time after notice of redemption was given by BowX but prior to the Redemptions Date, the outstanding warrants may be exercised, for cash or on a “cashless basis” pursuant to the terms in the Warrant Agreement between Continental, as warrant agent, and BowX. If BowX determines to require all holders of public warrants to exercise their warrants on a “cashless basis”, the notice of redemption shall include the information necessary to calculate the number of shares of Class A common stock to be received upon exercise of the warrants, including the “fair market value” in such case. On and after the Redemption Date, the record holder of the warrants shall have no further rights except to surrender of the warrants, the Redemption Price.

Beginning on the date the notice of redemption is given until the warrants are redeemed or exercised, holders may elect to exercise the warrants on a cashless basis pursuant to the Warrant Agreement. The numbers in the table below represent the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that a warrant holder will receive upon such cashless exercise in connection with a redemption by BowX pursuant to this redemption (assuming the “fair market value” of our BowX Class A Common Stock on the corresponding redemption date (assuming holders elect to exercise the warrants and such warrants are not redeemed for $0.10 per warrant), determined for these purposes based on volume weighted average price of a BowX Class A Common Stock during the 10 trading days immediately following the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holder).

A Common Stock during the 10 trading days immediately following the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holder, the number of months that the corresponding redemption date precedes the expiration date of the warrants, each as set forth in the table below. The prices set forth in the column headings of the table below will be adjusted as of any date on which the number of shares issuable upon exercise of a warrant or the exercise price of a warrant is adjusted as set forth below.

For example, if the average last reported sale price of our BowX Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the date prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of the warrants is $11 per share, and at such time there are 5 months until the expiration of the warrants, holders may choose to, in connection with this redemption feature, exercise their warrants for 0.255 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for each whole warrant.

Common Stock for each whole warrant. However, the exact fair market value and redemption date may not be set forth in the table above. In such case, if the fair market value is between two values in the table or the redemption date is between two redemption dates in the table above, the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued for each warrant exercised will be determined by a straight-line interpolation based on the number of shares set forth for the higher and lower fair market values and the earlier and later redemption dates, as applicable, based on a 36-month period as applicable. For an example where the exact fair market value and redemption date are not as set forth in the table above, if the average last reported sale price of our BowX Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading date prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of the warrants is $13.50 per share, and at such time there are 38 months until the expiration of the warrants, holders may choose to, in connection with this redemption feature, exercise their warrants for 0.284 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for each whole warrant. In no event will the warrants be exercisable in connection with this redemption feature for more than 0.361 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock per warrant.

A holder of a warrant may notify us in writing in the event it elects to be subject to a requirement that such holder will not have the right to exercise such warrant, to the extent that after giving effect to such exercise, such person (together with such person's affiliates), to the knowledge of such holder, would beneficially own in excess of 4.8% or 9.8% (or such other amount as a holder may specify) of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding immediately after giving effect to such exercise.

If the number of outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock is increased by a stock dividend payable in shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, or by a split-up of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or other similar event, then, on the effective date of such split-up or similar event, the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable on exercise of each public warrant will be increased in proportion to such increase in the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. A rights offering to holders of BowX Class A Common Stock entitling holders to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock at a price less than the fair market value will be deemed a stock dividend payable in the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock equal to the product of (i) the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding on the date of such rights offering (or issuable under any other equity securities sold in such rights offering that are convertible into or exercisable for BowX Class A Common Stock) and (ii) one (1) minus the quotient of (x) the price per share of BowX Class A Common Stock paid in such rights offering divided by (y) the fair market value. For these purposes (i) if the rights offering is for securities convertible into or exercisable for BowX Class A Common Stock, there will be taken into account any consideration received for such securities, including any additional amount payable upon exercise or conversion and (ii) fair market value means the volume weighted-average price of BowX Class A Common Stock as reported during the ten (10) trading day period ending on the trading day prior to the first date on which the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock trade on the applicable exchange or in the applicable market, regular way, without the right to receive such dividends or distributions.

In addition, if we, at any time while the public warrants are outstanding and unexpired, pay a dividend or make a distribution in cash or other assets to the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock on account of such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (or other shares of BowX Class A Common Stock into which the public warrants are convertible), other than (a) as described above, (b) certain ordinary cash dividends, (c) to satisfy the rights of the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with a proposed initial business combination, (d) to satisfy the rights of the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with a stockholder vote to amend our Existing Charter (i) to modify the terms of our obligation to redeem 100% of our BowX Class A Common Stock if we do not complete our initial business combination within 18 months of the closing of this offering or (ii) with respect to any other provision relating to stockholders' rights or pre-initial business combination, we will make a pro rata adjustment to the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the public warrants. public stock upon our failure to complete our initial business combination, then the warrant exercise price will be decreased, effective on the effective date of such event, by the amount of cash and/or the fair market value of any securities or other assets paid on each share of BowX Class A Common Stock in respect of such event.

If the number of outstanding shares of our BowX Class A Common Stock is decreased by a consolidation, combination, reclassification or similar event, then, on the effective date of such consolidation, combination, reclassification or similar event, the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable on exercise of each public warrant will be decreased in proportion to such decrease in outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock.

Whenever the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock purchasable upon the exercise of the public warrants is adjusted as set forth above, the warrant exercise price will be adjusted by multiplying the warrant exercise price immediately prior to such adjustment by (x) the numerator of which will be the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock purchasable upon the exercise of the public warrants prior to such adjustment, and (y) the denominator of which will be the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock so purchased thereafter.

In case of any reclassification or reorganization of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (other than those described above that solely affects the par value of such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock), or in the case of any merger or consolidation of us with another corporation (other than a consolidation or merger in which we are the continuing corporation and that does not result in any reclassification or reorganization of our outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock), or in the case of any sale or conveyance to another corporation of the assets or other property of us as an entirety or substantially as an entirety in connection with which we are dissolved, the holders of the public warrants will thereafter have the right to purchase and receive, upon the basis and upon the terms and conditions specified in the public warrant agreement, the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock immediately theretofore purchasable and receivable upon the exercise of the public warrants, thereby, the kind and amount of shares of stock or other securities or property (including cash) receivable upon such reclassification, merger or consolidation, or upon a dissolution following any such sale or transfer, that the holder of the public warrants would have received if the holder had exercised their public warrants immediately prior to such event. If less than 70% of the consideration receivable by the holder of BowX Class A Common Stock in such a transaction is payable in the form of BowX Class A Common Stock in the successor entity that is listed on a national securities exchange or is quoted in an established over-the-counter market, or is to be so listed for trading or quoted immediately following such event, and if the registered holder of the Public Warrant properly exercises the public warrant within thirty days following publication of the transaction, the warrant exercise price will be reduced as specified in the Warrant Agreement based on the Black-Scholes value (as defined in the Warrant Agreement) of the public warrant. The purpose of such exercise price reduction is to provide additional value to holders of the public warrants when an extraordinary transaction occurs during the exercise period of the public warrant pursuant to which the holders of the public warrants do not receive the full potential value of the Public Warrants in order to determine and realize the option value component of the public warrant. The formula is to compensate the public warrant holder for the loss of the option value portion of the Public Warrant due to the requirement that the warrant holder exercise the public warrant within 30 days of the event. The Black-Scholes model is an accepted pricing model for estimating the value where no quoted market price for an instrument is available.

The public warrants have been issued in registered form under the Warrant Agreement between Continental, as warrant agent, and the holders of the public warrants, review a copy of the Warrant Agreement, which will be filed as an exhibit to the registration statement of our initial public offering. The Warrant Agreement provides that the terms of the public warrants may be amended without the consent of any holder to cure any ambiguity or correct any defective provision, but requires the approval by the holders of at least 65% of the then outstanding public warrants to make any change that adversely affects the interests of the registered holders of the public warrants.

In addition, if (x) we issue additional shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or equity-linked securities for capital raising purposes with the closing of our initial business combination at a newly issued price of less than $9.20 per share of BowX Class A Common Stock, the issue price or effective issue price to be determined in good faith by our board of directors and, in the case of any such issuance to our affiliates, without taking into account any BowX Class B Common Stock held by our Sponsor or such affiliates, as applicable, prior to

(y) the aggregate gross proceeds from such issuances represent more than 60% of the total equity proceeds, and interest thereon, a funding of our initial business combination on the date of the consummation of our initial business combination (net of redemptions). value is below $9.20 per share, the exercise price of the warrants will be adjusted (to the nearest cent) to be equal to 115% of the higher value and the newly issued price, and the $18.00 per share redemption trigger price described above will be adjusted (to the nearest cent) to be equal to 180% of the higher of the market value and the newly issued price.

The public warrants may be exercised upon surrender of the public warrant certificate on or prior to the expiration date at the warrant agent, with the exercise form on the reverse side of the warrant certificate completed and executed as indicated, accompanied by the exercise price (or on a cashless basis, if applicable), by certified or official bank check payable to us, for the number of public warrants exercised. The warrant holders do not have the rights or privileges of holders of BowX Class A Common Stock and any voting rights will be terminated when the warrant holder exercises their public warrants and receive shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. After the issuance of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, the public warrant holder will no longer be entitled to any rights under the warrant agreement.

No fractional shares will be issued upon exercise of the public warrants. If, upon exercise of the public warrants, a holder would receive a fractional interest in a share, we will, upon exercise, round down to the nearest whole number the number of shares of Bow Stock to be issued to the warrant holder.

Private Placement Warrants

The private placement warrants (including the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the private placement warrants) will be transferable, assignable or salable until 30 days after the completion of our initial business combination (except, among other things, as described under the section of the IPO registration statement entitled “Principal Stockholders — Restrictions on Transfers of Four Private Placement Warrants,” to our officers and directors and other persons or entities affiliated with our Sponsor) and they will no longer be transferable, assignable or salable at any time thereafter unless held by our Sponsor or its permitted transferees. Our Sponsor or its permitted transferees, has the option to exercise the private placement warrants on a cashless basis. Except as described below, the private placement warrants have terms and provisions that are substantially identical to the terms and provisions of the public warrants sold as part of the initial public offering, including as to exercise price, exercisability and exercise period. If the private placement warrants are held by holders other than the Sponsor or its permitted transferees, the private placement warrants will be redeemable by the holders on the same basis as the public warrants included in the units being sold in the initial public offering.

If holders of the private placement warrants elect to exercise them on a cashless basis, they would pay the exercise price by surrendering warrants for that number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock equal to the quotient obtained by dividing (x) the product of the number of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying the warrants, multiplied by the difference between the exercise price of the warrants and the “fair market value” (defined below) by (y) the fair market value. The “fair market value” shall mean the average last reported sale price of the Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which the notice of warrant exercise is submitted to the agent. The reason that we have agreed that these warrants will be exercisable on a cashless basis so long as they are held by the Sponsoring Transferees is because it is not known at this time whether they will be affiliated with us following an initial business combination. If they are affiliated with us following an initial business combination, their ability to sell our securities will be significantly limited. We expect to have policies in place that prohibit insiders from selling our securities except during specific periods of time.

Even during such periods of time when insiders will be permitted to sell our securities, an insider cannot trade in our securities if the insider has possession of material non-public information. Accordingly, unlike public stockholders who could sell the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants freely in the open market, the insiders could be significantly restricted from doing so. As a result, allowing the holders to exercise such warrants on a cashless basis is appropriate.

Our Sponsor has agreed not to transfer, assign or sell any of the Private Placement Warrants (including the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of any of these warrants) until the date that is 30 days after the date we complete our initial business combination, except for:

other limited exceptions as described under the section of the initial public offering registration statement entitled “Principal Stockholders” and “Restrictions on Transfers of Founder Shares and Private Placement Warrants” made to our officers and directors and other persons controlling us, and to our Sponsor, whom will be subject to the same transfer restrictions.

BOWX SHARES ELIGIBLE FOR FUTURE SALE

Business Combination Shares

BowX will issue up to 655,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to WeWork Stockholders in connection with the Business Combination. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than $0.

Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock) and the WeWork Series C Consideration, respectively, at the Closing. As of September 14, 2021, the exchange ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock held by WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants, options, and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units). Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options, warrants, and options are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration will include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock.

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock Company at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW's, and its affiliates', support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees the LC Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to SoftBank Obligor as consideration for the SoftBank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-obligor on the existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable SoftBank Obligor to purchase 119,200 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (guarantee premium), which will result in interest expense over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable fashion to a commitment or access fee paid to the credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.20 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Table of Contents

All of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued in connection with the Business Combination, including the shares of Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the First Warrant and the LC Warrant, will be freely transferable by persons other than by “affiliates” without restriction or further registration under the Securities Act, subject to any lock-up restrictions. Sales of substantial amounts of BowX Class A Common Stock in the public market could adversely affect prevailing market prices of the BowX Class A Common Stock.

Lock-up Provisions

Pursuant to the Lock-Up Agreements, the Sponsor, certain of BowX’s officers and certain of WeWork’s officers and stockholders may not sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any Lock-Up Shares, (b) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any of such Lock-Up Shares, or (c) have any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (a) or (b), for the duration of the applicable Lock-Up Period. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal—Related Agreements—Lock-Up Agreement.”

Registration Rights

Pursuant to the Registration Rights Agreement, the Sponsor, certain other directors and officers of BowX, and related parties will have registration rights, including demand and piggy-back rights, subject to cooperation and cut-back provisions with respect to the shares of Common Stock and warrants held by such parties following the consummation of the Business Combination. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — Registration Rights Agreement.”

Rule 144

Pursuant to Rule 144 under the Securities Act (“Rule 144”), a person who has beneficially owned restricted BowX Common Stock for at least six months would be entitled to sell their securities provided that (i) such person is not deemed to have been an affiliate of BowX at the time of, or at any time during the three months preceding, a sale and (ii) BowX is subject to the Exchange Act periodic reporting requirements for the 12 months before the sale and have filed all required reports under Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act during the 12 months (or such shorter period as BowX was required to file reports) preceding the sale.

Persons who have beneficially owned restricted BowX Common Stock or warrants for at least six months but who are affiliates of BowX at the time of, or at any time during the three months preceding, a sale, would be subject to additional restrictions, by which such person would be limited to selling within any three-month period only a number of securities that does not exceed the greater of:

- 1% of the total number of BowX Common Stock then outstanding; or
- the average weekly reported trading volume of BowX Common Stock during the four calendar weeks preceding the filing of a notice of intent to sell with respect to the sale.

Sales by affiliates of BowX under Rule 144 are also limited by manner of sale provisions and notice requirements and to the availability of public information about BowX.

Restrictions on the Use of Rule 144 by Shell Companies or Former Shell Companies

Rule 144 is not available for the resale of securities initially issued by shell companies (other than business combination related shell companies) or issuers that have been at any time previously a shell company. However, Rule 144 also includes an important exception to this prohibition if the following conditions are met:

- the issuer of the securities that was formerly a shell company has ceased to be a shell company;

Table of Contents

- the issuer of the securities is subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act;
- the issuer of the securities has filed all Exchange Act reports and material required to be filed, as applicable, during the preceding shorter period that the issuer was required to file such reports and materials), other than Form 8-K reports; and
- at least one year has elapsed from the time that the issuer filed current Form 10 type information with the SEC reflecting its status not a shell company.

As a result, the Sponsor will be able to sell their Founder Shares and private placement warrants, as applicable, pursuant to Rule 144 registration one year after BowX has completed its initial business combination.

BowX anticipates that following the consummation of the Business Combination, New WeWork will no longer be a shell company and the conditions set forth in the exceptions listed above are satisfied, Rule 144 will become available for the resale of the above noted restricted shares.

(UNAUDITED)

Note 1. Organization and Business

WeWork Companies Inc. was founded in 2010. The We Company was incorporated under the laws of the state of Delaware in April 2010 as a wholly-owned subsidiary of WeWork Companies Inc. As a result of various legal entity reorganization transactions undertaken in June 2021, the Company became the holding company of our business, and the then-stockholders of WeWork Companies Inc. became the stockholders of the Company.

Effective October 14, 2020, The We Company changed its legal name to WeWork Inc.

WeWork Inc. holds an indirect general partner interest and indirect limited partner interests in The We Company Management Holdings LLC (“WeWork Partnership”). WeWork Inc., through the WeWork Partnership and WeWork Companies LLC, holds all the assets held by WeWork Companies Inc. prior to the legal entity reorganization and all the liabilities to which WeWork Companies Inc. was subject prior to the legal entity reorganization.

The legal entity reorganization was accounted for as a transfer among entities under common control and the assets and liabilities recorded based on historical cost and the financial statements are presented as if the transfer occurred at the beginning of the periods. The We Company is the predecessor of WeWork Inc. for financial reporting purposes.

Our core global business offering integrates space, community, services and technology in 763 locations around the world as of June 30, 2021. Our membership offerings are designed to accommodate our members' distinct space needs. The Company's operations are headquartered in New York.

All references to “we”, “us”, “our”, “WeWork” and the “Company” are references to WeWork Inc. and its subsidiaries on a consolidated basis. The Merger Agreement provides that, among other things and upon the terms and subject to the conditions thereof, the following will be done (in addition to the other agreements and transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, the Business Combination):

- at the closing of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (the “Closing”), upon the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement and in accordance with the Delaware General Corporation Law, as amended (the “DGCL”), Merger Sub will merge with and into the Company, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and the Company will be the surviving corporation and a wholly-owned subsidiary of BowX (the “Merger”);
 - as promptly as practicable following the Closing, the Company will merge with and into BowX Merger Subsidiary II, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and a direct wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (Merger Sub II and such transaction, the “Second Merger”), with BowX Merger Subsidiary II, LLC being the surviving entity of the Second Merger;

- as a result of the Merger, among other things, all outstanding shares of capital stock of the Company (other than shares of Class C the Company, treasury shares, shares held by stockholders who have perfected and not withdrawn a demand for appraisal rights DGCL and shares of Company stock subject to options, warrants and RSUs) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive issued shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX (“BowX Class A Common Stock”) determined using a ratio (the “Exchange Ratio”) which is determined based on a pre-money enterprise valuation of the Company of approximately $90 million price per share of BowX Class A Common Stock and the fully diluted equity capitalization of the Company immediately prior to the Merger (which is subject to change between signing and Closing), as described below;

- shares of Class C common stock of the Company will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a number of newly issued common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX (“Bow X Class C Common Stock”) determined using the Exchange Ratio;
 - outstanding options and warrants to purchase Company stock and RSUs will be converted into the right to receive options or warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or restricted stock units representing the right to receive shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, as applicable, on the same terms and conditions that are in effect with respect to such options, warrants or RSUs on the day of Closing, adjusted using the Exchange Ratio, as described below; and
 - BowX will immediately be renamed “WeWork Inc.” or such other name as agreed to by the Company and BowX prior to Closing.

The Merger Agreement is subject to the satisfaction or waiver of certain customary closing conditions, including, among others, (i) Business Combination and related agreements and transactions by the respective stockholders of the Company and BowX, (ii) effectiveness of the statement / registration statement on Form S-4 filed by BowX in connection with the Business Combination, (iii) expiration or termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, (iv) if a merger control filing is required by the Federal Economic Competition Commission (the “Comisión Federal de Competencia Económica, COFECE”), COFECE providing its approval to the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, (v) receipt of approval for listing on The Nasdaq Stock Market or The New York Stock Exchange, (vi) the absence of any injunctions or laws prohibiting the issuance of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued in connection with the Merger, (vii) that BowX have at least $5.0 million of cash and cash equivalents upon the Closing, (viii) the absence of any injunctions or laws prohibiting the Merger, (ix) the absence of a Company Material Adverse Effect, as defined.

The Merger Agreement contains additional covenants, including, among others, providing for (i) the parties to use reasonable best efforts to conduct their respective businesses in the ordinary course through the Closing, (ii) the parties not to initiate any negotiations or enter into any agreements for certain alternative transactions, (iii) the Company to prepare and deliver to BowX certain unaudited consolidated financial statements, (iv) BowX and the Company jointly to prepare, and BowX to file, a proxy statement / registration statement on Form S-4 and take certain actions to obtain the requisite approval of BowX stockholders of certain proposals regarding the Business Combination and (v) the parties to use reasonable best efforts to obtain necessary approvals from governmental agencies.

The Merger Agreement may be terminated at any time prior to the Closing (i) by mutual written consent of BowX and the Company, if certain approvals of the shareholders of BowX are not obtained, (ii) by the Company, if there is an Acquisition Recommendation (as defined in the Merger Agreement), (iii) by BowX if there is a Company Modification in Recommendation (as defined in the Merger Agreement) (iv) by BowX, if certain approvals of the stockholders of the Company are not obtained within certain time periods set forth in the Merger Agreement, including (a) if any Governmental Authority has enacted, issued, promulgated, enforced or entered any final and nonappealable Governmental Order (as defined in the Merger Agreement) that has the effect of making consummation of the Merger illegal or otherwise preventing or prohibiting consummation of the Merger and (b) in the event of certain uncured breaches by the other party or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, with an extension by sixty (60) days in certain circumstances (the "Agreement End Date").

Certain Related Agreements

Subscription Agreements

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX entered into subscription agreements (the "Subscription Agreements") with certain investors (collectively, the "PIPE Investors"), pursuant to, and on the terms and subject to the conditions of, the Subscription Agreements. The PIPE Investors have collectively subscribed for 80,000,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for $10.00 per share, for an aggregate investment of $800.0 million, (the "PIPE Investment"). The PIPE Investment will be consummated substantially concurrently with the Closing.

The Subscription Agreements will terminate with no further force and effect upon the earliest to occur of: (i) such date and time as the Subscription Agreement is terminated in accordance with its terms; (ii) the mutual written agreement of the parties to such Subscription Agreement; (iii) if any of the conditions to closing set forth in such Subscription Agreement are satisfied on or prior to the Closing and, as a result thereof, the transactions contemplated by the Subscription Agreement fail to occur by the Agreement End Date.

For two key anchor investors, each with an aggregate investment amount of $125.0 million (collectively, the “Key Anchor Investors”), the closing under the Subscription Agreements is further conditioned upon the total investment by the PIPE Investors equaling or exceeding the aggregate amount including (i) an investment of at least $125.0 million in the aggregate from the other Key Anchor Investor and its investment funds controlled by their affiliates, (ii) an investment of at least $15.0 million from investors identified, cultivated or referred to or otherwise associated with Bow Capital, and (iii) an investment of at least $10.0 million in the aggregate from The Obsidian Management Company and any investment funds controlled by its affiliates.

Sponsor Support Agreement

On March 25, 2021, the Company entered into a Sponsor Support Agreement (the “Sponsor Support Agreement”), with BowX Sponsor (the “Sponsor”) and other persons party thereto (the “Sponsor Persons”), pursuant to which the Sponsor and the Sponsor Persons agreed to certain things, (i) cause to be forfeited 3,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX held by the Sponsor and the Sponsor Persons and (ii) vote in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

Stockholder Support Agreement

On March 25, 2021, the Company entered into Stockholder Support Agreements (the “Stockholder Support Agreements”), with BowX stockholders of the Company (the “Key Stockholders”). Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreements, the Key Stockholders agreed to certain things, execute and deliver a written consent adopting the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination, with respect to the outstanding shares of the Company common stock and preferred stock held by the Key Stockholders on the terms and conditions set forth therein. The shares of the Company that are subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the voting power of the Company’s capital stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis) and a majority of outstanding securities held by stockholders other than SBG and its affiliates sufficient to approve certain transactions contemplated by the Business Combination, including certain Company charter provisions.

Transfer Restrictions and Registration Rights

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, BowX, the Company, the Sponsor, the Key Stockholders and certain of their affiliates will enter into an amended and restated registration rights Agreement (the Registration Rights Agreement), pursuant to which they will register for resale, pursuant to Rule 415 under the Securities Act, certain shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and other equity securities that are held by the parties thereto from time to time. In certain circumstances, various parties in the Registration Rights Agreement will demand up to nine underwritten offerings and will be entitled to piggyback registration rights, in each case subject to certain limitations of the Registration Rights Agreement.

Additionally, in connection with the Business Combination, the Sponsor and certain of the Company’s officers, directors and stockholders will enter into a lock-up agreement (the “Lock-Up Agreement”) pursuant to which they agreed not to (i) sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held by such persons immediately after the Closing or any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon the exercise of options, warrants, convertible securities to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held by such persons immediately after the Closing (“Lock-Up Period”), enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of Lock-Up Shares, or (iii) publicly announce any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (i) or (ii) (each such action, a “Lock-Up Action”) within one year or nine months, as the case may be, after the Closing (the “Lock-Up Period”).

The foregoing description of the Merger Agreement, Subscription Agreements, Sponsor Support Agreement, Stockholder Support Agreement, Registration Rights Agreement and Lock-Up Agreement, and the transactions contemplated thereby is not complete and is supplemental to the description contained in the prospectus filed with the SEC (as defined below).

Credit Support Letter (LC)

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, SBG and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Support Letter”) pursuant to which the Company and an affiliate of SBG committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the Credit Agreement from February 10, 2023 to no later than February 10, 2024 (“LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any LC Facility Termination Extension will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Credit Support Letter (SSN)

On March 25, 2021, the Company and an affiliate of SBG entered into a letter agreement pursuant to which the Company and an affiliate of SBG agreed to amend and restate the terms of the Master Senior Secured Notes Note Purchase Agreement that governs the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (as amended and restated, the “A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement”) on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The Amended and Restated Master Senior Secured Notes Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow up to an aggregate principal amount of $550.0 million in the form of new senior secured notes (the “A&R Senior Secured Notes”). It is a condition to the execution of the A&R Senior Secured Notes Note Purchase Agreement that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and cashed out prior to the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow once every 30 days with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The A&R Senior Secured Notes will mature no later than February 10, 2024, or earlier, 18 months from the Closing.

Warrants

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees one or more warrants (collectively, the “Warrants”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest cent). The Warrant will expire on the tenth (10th) anniversary of the Closing.

Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 class A common shares of the Company at an exercise price of $0.01.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to SBG or its designee warrants (collectively, the “LC Warrant”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole number) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth (10th) anniversary of the date of issuance.

We Company Partnership

Under the partnership agreement for the We Company Partnership, vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (“PIUs”) can, at the election of the holder of the PIUs, be (a) converted into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Units, or (b) exchanged (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) for (at WeWork’s election) shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock or cash of an equivalent value. The exchange value is determined based on the value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock exceeds the per-unit distribution threshold for these PIUs (which generally corresponds to the liquidation value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock on the date such PIUs were granted). The exchange value takes into account, among other things, the value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock and the catch-up base amount of the PIUs being exchanged. The catch-up base amount is similar to an option exercise price and represents, for each PIU exchanged, the value of a share of common stock that the holder would not receive upon exchange. A higher value and a lower catch-up base amount each generally results in more shares of class B common stock issued to the exchanging holder (except the number of shares of class B common stock issuable upon exchange of each PIU can never exceed one).

Under the Company’s amended and restated certificate of incorporation, following the threshold automatic conversion on February 20, 2021, issued shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock exchanged from vested PIUs will, immediately after such issuance, automatically convert into shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock.

In connection with the Business Combination, the partnership agreement for the WeWork Partnership will be amended at the Closing to make mechanical changes to reflect the conversion of shares of capital stock of the Company to shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (including the conversion of shares of class C common stock into shares of Class C Common stock of BowX). Specifically, the number of outstanding interests (including all PIUs) will be adjusted to equal the number of shares of the corresponding class of common stock of BowX (where the holder of the PIUs, is the Class C Common stock of BowX), taking into account the Exchange Ratio in the Merger. The distribution threshold for the PIUs will also be equitably adjusted to maintain the pre-Business Combination economics of the PIUs. The distribution threshold for Adam Neumann’s PIUs may be subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing of the Business Combination. Following the Business Combination, vested PIUs can, at the election of the holder of the PIUs, be (a) converted into WeWork Partnerships Class A Common Units, or (b) exchanged (along with the corresponding shares of BowX Class C Common Stock) for (at BowX’s election) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or cash of an equivalent value.

Note 2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Quarterly Presentation and Principles of Consolidation — The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements and notes to the condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (“GAAP”) for interim financial reporting. In accordance with such rules and regulations, certain information and accompanying note disclosures included in financial statements prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP have been condensed or omitted, although the Company believes that the disclosures included herein are adequate to make the information presented not misleading. In the opinion of management, the accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Company as of June 30, 2021, and the results of its operations for the period ended June 30, 2021, in accordance with GAAP.

financial statements reflect all normal recurring adjustments, which are considered necessary for the fair presentation of the financial Company at June 30, 2021 and the results of operations for the interim periods presented. The operating results for the periods presented are necessarily indicative of the results that may be expected for the year ending December 31, 2021. The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the audited consolidated financial statements and notes thereto for the year ended December 31, 2020, included in WeWork Inc.'s Annual Report for the year ended December 31, 2020.

Other than the changes described below, no material changes have been made to the Company's significant accounting policies disclosed in the Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, in its Annual report issued on March 19, 2021, for the year ended December 31, 2020.

The Company operates as a single operating segment. See Note 18 for further discussion on the Company's segment reporting.

The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company, its majority-owned variable interest entities ("VIEs") for which the Company is the primary beneficiary. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation.

The Company is required to consolidate entities deemed to be VIEs in which the Company is the primary beneficiary. The Company is the primary beneficiary of a VIE when the Company has (i) the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance and (ii) the obligation to absorb losses or receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the Company.

JapanCo, WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership (each as defined and discussed in Note 5) are the Company's only consolidated entities as of June 30, 2021. In March 2020, in connection with the sale of the property held by the 424 Fifth Venture (the "424 Fifth Venture Transaction"), redemption payments were made to the noncontrolling interest holders in the 424 Fifth Venture and the 424 Fifth Venture became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE. In April 2020, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company completed the sale of the noncontrolling interest in PacificCo (as defined in Note 5) and PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company. In September 2020, the Company transferred its variable interest and control over the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG and the Creator Fund was deconsolidated from the Company's financial statements. In October 2020, the Company restructured its ownership interests in ChinaCo (as defined in Note 5) such that the Company is no longer the primary beneficiary of ChinaCo and as a result, beginning on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo was deconsolidated (the "ChinaCo Deconsolidation") and the Company's remaining ordinary share investment represents an unconsolidated investment accounted for as an equity method investment. See Note 5 for further discussion of these transactions. See Note 6 for discussion of the Company's other non-consolidated VIEs.

A noncontrolling interest in a consolidated subsidiary represents the portion of the equity (net assets) in a subsidiary not attributable directly, to the Company. Noncontrolling interests are presented as a separate component of equity in the condensed consolidated statements of comprehensive loss, is modified to present earnings and other components of net income attributed to controlling and noncontrolling interests.

The Company's convertible preferred stock and noncontrolling interests that are redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is not within the Company's control of the Company are classified outside of permanent equity. As it is not probable that amounts will become redeemable, no remeasurement is required. The Company will continue to monitor the redemption. The Company's noncontrolling interests that have redemption features within the Company's control are classified within and are described further below.

The redemption value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (as discussed in Note 14) that were awarded to management upon the aggregate redemption value and takes into account the proportion of employee services rendered under the WeWork Partnerships Interest Units vesting provisions. The redemption value will vary from period to period based upon the fair value of the Company, where the intrinsic value (per-unit fair value of the Company is greater than the per-unit distribution threshold) will be reflected as noncontrolling interest in the section of the condensed consolidated balance sheets with a corresponding entry to additional paid-in-capital. The intrinsic value of the Partnership Profits Interests will be remeasured each period until the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests are converted to shares.

The Company's other noncontrolling interests represent substantive profit-sharing arrangements and profits and losses are attributed to the Company and noncontrolling interests using the hypothetical-liquidation-at-book-value method.

Use of Estimates — The preparation of the condensed consolidated financial statements in accordance with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities in the condensed consolidated financial statements, and the reported amount of revenues and expenses during the reporting period.

Estimates inherent in the current financial reporting process inevitably involve assumptions about future events. Actual results could differ from these estimates. Since December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus, referred to as the COVID-19 virus, has spread to countries in which COVID-19 has become a global pandemic. Authorities in jurisdictions where our locations are located have at times issued stay-at-home restrictions on certain activities such as travel and on the types of businesses that may continue to operate. As the pandemic has advanced, it may continue to adversely affect our revenues and expenditures, the extent and duration of these restrictions and overall macroeconomic conditions. The pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of financial statements. This includes the net operating income ("NOI") in our long-lived asset impairment testing, the ultimate collectability of accounts receivable due to the effects of COVID-19 on the financial health of our members, the timing of capital expenditures and fair value measurement changes for assets and liabilities that the Company measures.

Our liquidity forecasts are based upon continued execution of the Company's operational restructuring program and also includes management's estimate of the impact that the outbreak of COVID-19, including the Delta or other variants, may continue to have on our business needs; however, the extent to which our future results and liquidity needs are further affected by the continued impact of COVID-19 depends on the continued duration of closures, and delays in location openings, the success of ongoing vaccination efforts, the effect on our memberships, any permanent shifts in working from home, how quickly we can resume normal operations and our ongoing lease negotiations with landlords, among others. We believe continued execution of our operational restructuring program and our current liquidity position will help us mitigate the continued near-term uncertainty associated with COVID-19, however our assessment assumes a recovery in occupancy beginning in the second half of 2021 with a gradual return toward pre-COVID levels. If revenues continue to decline during 2021 and we do not experience a recovery consistent with our projected timing, additional capital sources may be required, the timing and source of which is uncertain. There is no assurance we will be successful in securing the additional capital infusions if needed.

Restricted Cash — Restricted cash consists primarily of amounts provided to banks to secure letters of credit issued under certain credit agreements as required by various leases. Transfers between restricted and unrestricted cash accounts are not reported within cash flows. Only restricted cash receipts or payments from restricted cash directly to third parties are reported in the statements of cash flows. An operating, investing or financing activity, depending on the nature of the transaction.

Allowance for Doubtful Accounts — The Company adopted ASU No. 2016-13, Financial Instruments-Credit Losses (Topic 326), Credit Losses on Financial Instruments (“ASU 2016-13”) on January 1, 2020. In accordance with the revised guidance, management determines an allowance that reflects its best estimate of the accounts receivable due from members, related parties, landlords and others that it expects to collect. Management considers many factors in considering its reserve with respect to these accounts receivable, including historical creditworthiness, income trends, as well as current and forward looking conditions. Recorded liabilities associated with members’ service receivables are also considered when estimating the allowance for doubtful accounts as we have the contractual right to apply members’ service retainers to receivables.

Receivables are written off when deemed uncollectible. Recoveries of receivables previously written off are recorded as a reduction of accounts receivable when received. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, the Company recorded $99.7 million and $107.8 million, respectively, of allowances for doubtful accounts on accounts receivable and accrued revenue.

Income Taxes — The Company calculates its quarterly income tax provision pursuant to Accounting Standard Codification (“ASC”)
Taxes — Interim Reporting, which provides that a Company cannot recognize a tax benefit in its annual effective tax rate for any jurisdiction where there is a pre-tax book loss and full valuation allowance (“excluded jurisdictions”). For the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded an income tax provision of $4.0 million and $7.3 million, respectively, resulting in effective tax rates of 0.44% and 0.24%, respectively. For the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recorded an income tax provision of $7.1 million and $16.1 million, respectively, resulting in effective tax rates of 0.64% and 0.98%.

The Company analyzed its various tax positions and did not identify any material uncertain tax positions for the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020.

The Company files U.S. federal, U.S. state and foreign income tax returns. Depending on the statute of limitation of the specific jurisdiction in which we operate, three to ten years of the Company’s income tax returns remain subject to examination. Globally, the Company is involved in various tax audit matters, and various annual filings in certain jurisdictions are under examination.

Stock-Based Compensation — Stock-based compensation expense attributable to equity awards granted to employees and non-employees is recognized at the grant date based on the fair value of the award. For employee awards, the expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the vesting period for awards that actually vest, which is generally the period from the grant date to the end of the vesting period. For non-employee awards, the expense for awards that actually vest is recognized based on when the goods or services are provided.

The Company generally estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes-Merton option-pricing formula (“the Black-Scholes Model”) and a single option award approach. This model requires various significant judgmental assumptions in order to derive a final fair value determination for each type of award, including the expected volatility, expected dividend yield, risk-free interest rate, and fair value of the Company's stock on the date of grant. The expected volatility for options granted is calculated using the "simplified method." This election was made based on the lack of sufficient historical experience upon which to estimate the expected term. The simplified method defines the expected term as the average of the vesting period. Estimated volatility is based on similar entities whose stock prices are publicly traded. The Company uses the historical data of similar entities due to the lack of sufficient historical data for the Company's common stock price. Dividend yields are based on the historical and expected future actions. The risk-free interest rate is based on the yield curve of a zero-coupon U.S. Treasury bond on the date the award was granted with a maturity equal to the expected term of the stock option award. All grants of stock options generally have an expected term equal to or greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant.

WEWORK INC.

In situations where the exercise price of a stock option is greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant, the Company estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the binomial model. The binomial model incorporates assumptions about anticipated employee exercise behavior, expected stock price volatility, dividend yield and risk-free interest rate. Anticipated employee exercise behavior and expected post-vesting cancellations over the contractual term used in the binomial model are primarily based on historical patterns. These historical exercise patterns indicate that exercise behavior between employee groups is not significantly different. For the price volatility assumption, the Company weights historical volatility and implied volatility and uses daily observations for historical data. Our implied volatility assumptions are based on actively traded options related to our common stock. The expected term is derived from the binomial model, based on assumptions incorporated into the binomial model as described above.

The Company estimated the fair value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units awards in connection with the modification of stock options using the Hull-White model and a binomial lattice model in order to apply appropriate weight and consideration of the distribution threshold and catch-up base amount. The Hull-White model requires similar judgmental assumptions as the Black-Scholes model for valuing the Company's options.

Because the Company is privately held and there is no public market for our stock, the fair value of the Company's equity is approved by the Board of Directors or the Compensation Committee thereof as of the date stock-based awards are granted. In estimating the fair value of the Company's equity, the Company uses a third-party valuation specialist and considers factors it believes are material to the valuation process, including but not limited to the price at which recent equity was issued by the Company to independent third parties or transacted between third parties, actual and projected results, risks, prospects, economic and market conditions, and estimates of weighted average cost of capital. The Company believes that these factors provides an appropriate estimate of the expected fair value of the Company and reflects the best estimate of the fair value of the Company's common stock at each grant date.

The Company has elected to recognize forfeitures of stock-based compensation awards as they occur. For awards subject to performance conditions, compensation cost will be recognized before the performance condition is probable of being achieved. Recognition of any compensation relating to stock grants that vest contingent on an initial public offering or "Acquisition" (as defined in the 2015 Plan detailed in Note 1) will be deferred until consummation of such initial public offering or Acquisition.

Fair Value Measurements — The Company applies fair value accounting for all financial assets and liabilities and certain non-financial assets and liabilities that are recognized or disclosed at fair value in the financial statements on a recurring and nonrecurring basis. Assets and liabilities measured at fair value every reporting period include investments in cash equivalents, available-for-sale debt securities, certain embedded derivatives, bifurcation, certain warrants issued classified as a liability in accordance with ASC 480, Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity (“ASC 480”), contingent consideration liabilities relating to business combinations. Other assets and liabilities are subject to fair value measurement in certain circumstances, including purchase accounting applied to assets and liabilities acquired in a business combination, impaired cost and investments and long-lived assets that are written down to fair value when they are impaired.

Fair value is defined as the price that would be received from selling an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. When determining fair value measurements for assets and liabilities that are required to be recorded at fair value, the Company assumes the highest and best use of non-financial assets by market participants and the market-based risk measurement that market participants would use in pricing assets or liabilities, such as inherent risk, transfer restrictions and credit risk. Assets and liabilities are classified using a fair value hierarchy, which prioritizes the inputs used to measure fair value according to three levels, and bases the fair value measurements within the hierarchy upon the lowest level of input that is available and significant to the fair value measurement.

Level 1 — Observable inputs that reflect quoted prices (unadjusted) for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.

Level 2 — Inputs that reflect quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in markets that are not active, quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities in active markets, inputs other than quoted prices that are observable for the assets or liabilities or inputs that are derived principally from observable market data by correlation or other means.

Level 3 — Unobservable inputs that the Company incorporates in its valuation techniques used to determine fair value. These assumptions are to be consistent with market participant assumptions that are reasonably available.

See Note 11 for additional discussion on the Company’s fair value measurements.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

In April 2020, the FASB issued interpretive guidance in response to questions it received about how to account for the concessions that lessors are providing or are expecting to provide to lessees in response to the operational and financial challenges lessees are facing as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. The question-and-answer document states entities can elect not to evaluate whether a concession provided by a lessor to a lessee in response to the COVID-19 pandemic is a lease modification. An entity that elects not to evaluate whether a concession is a modification can treat the concession as if it were contemplated in the existing contract. Entities may make these elections for any lessor-provided COVID-19 related concession (e.g., deferral of lease payments, cash payments, reduction of future lease payments) that does not result in a substantial increase in the obligations of the lessor or the obligations of the lessee.

The Company has elected to treat short-term COVID-19 related concessions or deferrals provided to our members whose contracts are modified in accordance with ASC 842, Leases (“ASC 842”) as if it were contemplated in the existing contract and member concessions and deferrals that are expected to extend greater than 12 months or terms of member leases are treated as modifications. The Company elected to treat short-term COVID-19 related rent concessions by landlords as variable lease expense and short-term lease deferrals as if there is no change in the contract. COVID-19 related concessions that are expected to extend greater than 12 months or change the other terms in the lease are treated as modifications and a full re-val of-use asset and liability is performed.

In December 2019, the FASB issued ASU 2019-12, Income Taxes (Topic 740)-Simplifying the Accounting for Income Taxes (“ASU 2019-12 simplifies accounting for income taxes by removing certain exceptions from the general principles in Topic 740 and clarify of the current guidance to promote consistency among reporting entities. The Company adopted ASU 2019-12 as of January 1, 2021, a material impact on its condensed consolidated financial statements.

Note 3. Restructuring, Impairments and Gains on Sale

In September 2019, the Company initiated an operational restructuring program that included a change in executive leadership and reductions that aim to improve the Company’s operating performance. representing an aggregate purchase price of approximately $578.4 million. The Company recorded $428.3 million of restructuring and other related costs in its consolidated statement of operations for the six-months ended June 30, 2021, which represents the excess between the amount paid from a principal shareholder of the Company to We Holdings, Inc. for the stock purchased. Also, in connection with the Settlement Agreement the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Adam Neumann in the WeWork Partnership were vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. The per unit distribution thresholds for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to $10.00 and may be subject to upward adjustment based on a third party valuation of fair market value and may be subject to downward adjustment based on closing price if a de-SPAC or initial public offering were to occur. WeWork has received a third party valuation of fair market value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and no upward adjustment is needed to be $10.00 per unit distribution threshold. As a result of this modification, the Company recorded $102.0 million of restructuring and other related costs in its consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021.

As of June 30, 2021, net restructuring liabilities totaled approximately $24.9 million, including $28.3 million in accounts payable and accrued expenses, $7.8 million in other liabilities, net of $11.2 million in receivables from landlords in connection with lease terminations, included in accounts receivable in the consolidated balance sheet. In connection with the operational restructuring program and related changes in the Company's leasing plans and planned or completed wind down of certain non-core operations and projects, the Company has also recorded various other non-routine write-offs, impairments of goodwill, intangibles and various other long-lived assets.

During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company also performed its quarterly impairment assessment for long-lived assets of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting declines in revenue and operating income experienced by certain locations as of June 30, 2021. We identified certain assets whose carrying value was now deemed to have been partially impaired. We evaluated our estimates and assumptions regarding our locations' future revenue and cash flows, and performed a comprehensive review of our locations' long-lived assets for impairment. We evaluated property and equipment and operating lease right-of-use assets, at an individual location level. Key assumptions used in estimating the fair value of location assets in connection with our impairment analyses are revenue growth, lease costs, market rental rates, changes in local real estate markets in which we operate, inflation, and the overall economics of the real estate industry. Our assumptions account for the estimated impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded $12.4 million and $31.5 million in asset impairments, primarily as a result of decreases in projected cash flows primarily attributable to the impact of COVID-19.

Note 5. Consolidated VIEs and Noncontrolling Interests

ARK/WPI Combination

WeWork Capital Advisors LLC (formerly known as “ARK Capital Advisors LLC”, the “WeCap Manager”) is a majority-owned subsidiary of the Company and its controlled affiliates. The WeCap Manager is also owned in part by Rhône Group L.L.C. and its affiliates (other than the Company) (“Rhône” and, together with the Company, the “Sponsor Group”), a global alternative asset management firm with assets under management across its private equity and real estate platforms.

In August 2019, the Company reorganized its real estate acquisition platform (such platform, following the ARK/WPI combination described below, inclusive of the investment vehicles sponsored, co-sponsored, managed, or co-managed by the WeCap Manager and Sponsor Group (“the Investment Group”). Through this reorganization (the “ARK/WPI combination”), the Company acquired from Rhône a controlling interest in the WeCap Manager, the management company for the WeCap Investment Group in exchange for a 20% noncontrolling interest in the WeCap Manager.

The WeCap Manager is the surviving entity resulting from the merger of the legacy entity that previously managed WeWork Properties LLC and its parallel and related vehicles (collectively the “WPI Fund”), which was indirectly owned 50% by us and 50% by affiliates of the WPI Fund unconsolidated prior to the ARK/WPI combination, and the wholly owned and consolidated legacy entity that previously managed the WPI Fund LP (the “ARK Master Fund”) including its parallel and related vehicles. Following the ARK/ WPI combination, the Company owns a 80% interest in the WeCap Manager. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to Rhône’s interest in the WeCap Manager is reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheets as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020.

Through its 80% equity ownership interest, the Company is entitled to a corresponding share of the income earned by the WeCap Manager in the form of customary management fees, subject to provisions of the governing documents of the WeCap Manager relating to funding by the WeCap Manager. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the WeCap Manager recognized $3.4 million and $1.8 million, respectively, in management fee income, classified as other revenue as a component of the total revenue.

revenue on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, Manager recognized $3.3 million and $7.7 million, respectively, in management fee income.

The post-reorganization WeCap Investment Group also includes the Company's general partner interests in Waller Creek, DSQ, WPI Master Fund (each as defined in Note 6), which are held through a limited partnership created as part of the ARK/WPI combination ("WeCap Holdings Partnership") in which Rhône also participates to the extent provided by the governing documents of the WeCap Holdings Partnership. The Company consolidates the WeCap Holdings Partnership. Net carried interest distributions earned in respect of the WeCap Investments are distributable to the Company and Rhône, indirectly through the WeCap Holdings Partnership, based on percentage ownership of the WeCap Investment Group vehicle and range from a 50% to 85% share to the Company of total net carried interest distributions received by the WeCap Holdings Partnership (after a profit participation allocation to certain personnel associated with the WeCap Manager). The portion of the net carried interest distributions attributable to Rhône's interest in the WeCap Holdings Partnership is reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the condensed consolidated balance sheets as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020.

Primarily because our investments through the WeCap Holdings Partnership in the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles generally represent a small percentage of the total capital invested by third parties, and the terms on which we have agreed to provide services and act as general partners consistent with the market for similar arrangements, the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles managed by the WeCap Manager are consolidated in our financial statements (subject to certain exceptions based on the specific facts of the particular vehicle). The Company reflects its share of the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles as unconsolidated investments under the equity method of accounting, and provides additional details regarding the holdings of WeCap Holdings Partnership.

424 Fifth Venture

In February 2019, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (the "424 Fifth Venture") closed on the acquisition of a $852.8 million investment located in New York City (the "424 Fifth Property"). The acquisition of real estate by the 424 Fifth Venture was accounted for as a business combination. The acquisition and the purchase price was allocated among the assets purchased, including land of $356.5 million and building of $496.3 million. As of December 31, 2019, the real estate was under development and as a result was included within the Company's construction in progress in the property and equipment table detailed in Note 5.

Just prior to the redemption of the noncontrolling interest holders in March 2020 described below, the consolidated 424 Fifth Venture was owned 51.2% by the Company, 44.8% by the WPI Fund and 3.8% by another investor. Prior to redemption, the portion of consolidated equity account of the 424 Fifth Venture's other investors was reflected as noncontrolling interests within the equity section of the accompanying balance sheet as of December 31, 2019. Upon completion of the redemption of the noncontrolling interest holders in March 2020, the 424 Fifth Venture became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company.

In March 2020, the 424 Fifth Property was sold by the 424 Fifth Venture to an unrelated third party for a gross purchase price of $978.1 million. Included in the sale was $356.5 million in land and $653.8 million in construction in progress associated with the 424 Fifth Venture. The $930.2 million in net cash proceeds received at closing were net of closing costs and holdbacks. Of the total consideration, $1.2 million was heldback at closing of which $10.0 million was received as of March 31, 2021. The Company recognized an impairment loss of $10.0 million, totaling $53.7 million, included in impairment/ (gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets on the accompanying condensed statements of operations during the three and six months ended June 30, 2020.

The underlying debt facility that secured the 424 Fifth Property since acquisition was extinguished upon the sale (see Note 6 for further details). In March 2020, in connection with the sale of the 424 Fifth Property, the Company also made a payment of $128.0 million to the 424 Fifth Venture. The 424 Fifth Venture made redemption payments to the noncontrolling interest holders totaling $315.0 million including a return of $272.2 million and a return on their capital of $42.8 million.

The sale and debt extinguishment also resulted in the termination in March 2020 of the Company's original development management agreement for the property, its 20 year master lease of the property, its $1.2 billion lease guaranty, various loan guarantees, various loan covenant requirements, various partnership guarantees and indemnities entered into in connection with the original acquisition.

Upon the sale of the property, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company entered into an escrow and construction agreement with the buyer for approximately $0.2 billion to finalize the core and shell infrastructure work of the property. These funds were held in escrow upon completion of the work and are available to pay construction costs, contingencies and cost overruns. The $0.2 billion is expected to be earned by the Company over a period of months as the development is completed. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recognized approximately $1.0 million and $22.9 million in revenue related to this development agreement, included as a component of other revenues. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recognized approximately $7.4 million and $11.0 million, respectively. At closing, WeWork Companies' obligations to the buyer under the escrow agreement were approximately $0.2 billion. The escrow funds held by the escrow agent are not sufficient to cover the required construction costs.

Creator Fund

During 2018, the Company launched a fund (the "Creator Fund") that previously made investments in recipients of WeWork's "Creator Awards" and other investments through use of a venture capital strategy. A wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company was the managing member of the Creator Fund.

As of September 17, 2020, the Creator Fund had received contributions from SoftBank Group Capital Limited totaling $72.4 million and 99.99% of the interest of the Creator Fund. No contributions were received during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021.

In September 2020, the Company agreed to transfer its rights as managing member and all of its other rights, titles, interests, obligations and commitments in respect of the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG. Accordingly, the Company no longer has a variable interest in the Creator Fund and it is no longer the primary beneficiary and the Company has deconsolidated the net assets of the Creator Fund and removed the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest from the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020. As substantially all of the net assets of the Creator Fund were previously allocated to the noncontrolling interests, no gain or loss was recognized on deconsolidation of the Creator Fund. In connection with this transaction, the parties also agreed that WeWork would not be required to reimburse SBG for the $21.6 million Creator Awards program reimbursement obligation payable to an affiliate of SBG as of December 31, 2019, as described in Note 17. ChinaCo

During 2017 and 2018, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (“ChinaCo”) sold to investors $500.0 million of Series A Preferred Stock at a price of $10.00 per share and a liquidation preference of $10.00 per share and $500.0 million of Series B Preferred Stock at a price of $18.319 per share and a liquidation preference of $18.319 per share, respectively. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to ChinaCo’s Series A and B shareholders were reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interests, within the mezzanine section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019. As of December 31, 2019, ChinaCo had also issued a total of 45,757,777 Class A Ordinary Shares in connection with the conversion of naked Hub Holdings Ltd. (“naked Hub”) that occurred during 2018 and an additional 2 million Class A Ordinary Shares to a consolidated subsidiary of the Company in Note 9. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to ChinaCo’s Class A Ordinary shareholders were reflected as noncontrolling interests, within the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019.

Pursuant to the terms of the shareholders' agreement of ChinaCo, as long as certain investors remain shareholders of ChinaCo, ChinaCo will be the exclusive operator of the Company's businesses in the "Greater China" territory, defined in the agreement to include China, Hong Kong and Macau.

In August 2020, a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Inc. made a short-term loan to ChinaCo totaling $25.0 million (the “China Note”). In connection with ChinaCo’s 2018 acquisition of naked Hub, as of December 31, 2019, ChinaCo also had a $191.1 million obligation to a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Inc. for WeWork Inc. shares issued to the sellers of naked Hub (the “Parent Note”). As ChinaCo repaid the Parent Note in full during the year ended December 31, 2020, the Parent Note was eliminated against the Company’s receivables in the Company’s consolidated financial statements.

In September 2020, the shareholders of ChinaCo and an affiliate of TrustBridge Partners (“TBP”), also an existing shareholder of ChinaCo, entered into a restructuring and Series A subscription agreement (the “ChinaCo Agreement”). Pursuant to the ChinaCo Agreement, TBP agreed to sell a series of ChinaCo shares for $100.0 million in total gross proceeds to ChinaCo, received in connection with the initial investment closing in September 2020 (the “Initial Investment Closing”) and an additional $100.0 million in gross proceeds to ChinaCo, with such additional shares intended to be received at the earlier of 1 year following the Initial Investment Closing or such earlier date as determined by the ChinaCo board if such funds are necessary to support the operations of ChinaCo (the “Second Investment Closing”). The ChinaCo Agreement also provides for a restructuring of the ownership interests of all other preferred and ordinary shareholders’ interests into new ordinary shares in ChinaCo in connection with the conversion of the $191.1 million Parent Note and certain other net intercompany payables totaling approximately $42.0 million, payable by various wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. into new ordinary shares of ChinaCo such that subsequent to the Initial Investment Closing, as of October 2020, and as of December 31, 2020, WeWork now holds 21.6% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo. The Company’s remaining interest in ChinaCo is scheduled to be diluted down to 19.7% in connection with the Second Investment Closing, assuming no other changes in the ChinaCo share structure. As of June 30, 2021, TBP now holds a total of 50.5% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo subsequent to the Second Investment Closing and is expected to hold 55.0% of the total shares after the Second Investment Closing.

Investment Closing. TBP's shares are preferred shares which have a liquidation preference totaling $100.0 million and $200.0 million at the First Investment Closing and the Second Investment Closing, respectively.

Upon Initial Investment Closing on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo received the $100.0 million in gross proceeds from TBP and a portion of the proceeds were used to repay WeWork $25.0 million for the ChinaCo Loan. In addition, pursuant to the terms of the ChinaCo Agreement, the ChinaCo shareholders were also amended such that upon the Initial Investment Closing, WeWork no longer retained the power to directly or indirectly appoint members of the ChinaCo board of directors that would most significantly impact the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance. As a result, WeWork was no longer the primary beneficiary of the VIE. ChinaCo was deconsolidated from the Company's consolidated financial statements on October 2, 2020 (the "ChinaCo Deconsolidation"). The Company's remaining 21.6% ordinary share investment was valued at $26.3 million upon deconsolidation and will be accounted for as an available-for-sale investment as the Company has retained rights that allow it to exercise significant influence over ChinaCo as a related party.

During the fourth quarter of 2020, the Company recorded a loss on the ChinaCo Deconsolidation of $153.0 million included in impairment losses on long-lived assets held for sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the consolidated statement of operations calculated based on the difference between the $26.3 million fair value of the Company's retained equity method investment in ChinaCo plus the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest in ChinaCo as of the date of deconsolidation, which was in a negative deficit position of $(22.6) million and (ii) the carrying value of ChinaCo just prior to deconsolidation of $156.7 million.

The remeasurement loss recognized on deconsolidation primarily relates to the remeasurement of our retained equity method investment in ChinaCo recorded at fair value upon deconsolidation, in comparison to the carrying value of the net intercompany receivables that were converted to ChinaCo in conjunction with the ChinaCo restructuring that ultimately resulted in the deconsolidation.

The net assets of ChinaCo that were deconsolidated on October 2, 2020, included a total of $344.3 million of goodwill related to the acquisition of naked Hub Holdings Ltd. As this goodwill was integrated into the Company's single reporting unit, upon deconsolidation of the reporting unit, the Company's total goodwill was reallocated among the Company and ChinaCo on a relative fair value basis with ChinaCo's goodwill retained by the Company with a corresponding increase to additional-paid-in capital and $28.7 million of ChinaCo deconsolidated.

See Note 17 for details regarding various related party fees payable by ChinaCo to the Company subsequent to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation.

JapanCo

During 2017, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company ("JapanCo") entered into an agreement with an affiliate of SBG for the subscription of a membership interest in JapanCo for an aggregate contribution of $500.0 million which will be funded over a period of time. As of December 31, 2020, JapanCo had received contributions totaling $300.0 million and during the year ended December 31, 2019, an additional $100.0 million was received. Pursuant to the terms of the agreement an additional $100.0 million was required to be contributed and was received during the third quarter of 2019. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to the outside investors' interests in JapanCo are reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interest in the mezzanine section of the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheets as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020. As long as the remaining shareholders of JapanCo, JapanCo will be the exclusive operator of the Company's WeWork branded space-as-a-service business. After July 13, 2024 and, prior to that date, in the event of default on the contributions to be made, the Company may elect to purchase all or a portion of the JapanCo membership interests held, other than any interests issued in connection with an equity incentive plan. The Company may make a buyout consideration in either cash, WeWork shares or a combination thereof.

PacificCo

During 2017, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company ("PacificCo") sold $500.0 million of Series A-1 Preferred Stock at a price of $10.00 per share and a liquidation preference of $10.00 per share to an affiliate of SBG. PacificCo is the operator of the Company's businesses in selected territories in Asia other than those included in the Greater China and Japan territories described above, including but not limited to Singapore, Korea, Thailand, Malaysia, Vietnam and Indonesia.

The initial closing occurred on October 30, 2017 and all of the PacificCo Series A-1 Preferred Stock was issued at that time, however, PacificCo received contributions totaling $200.0 million at the initial closing and an additional $100.0 million during the year ended December 31, 2019. Pursuant to the terms of the agreement an additional $100.0 million was required to be contributed in each of 2019 and 2020. The Company has $100.0 million in August 2019 and the remaining $100.0 million scheduled to be received in 2020 was canceled effective upon a definitive agreement providing for the completion of the PacificCo Roll-up (as defined below) in connection with the SoftBank Transaction.

In October 2019, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company, SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund agreed to use reasonable efforts to negotiate and finalize the final forms for the exchange of all interests held by affiliates of SBG in PacificCo for 34,482,759 shares of Series H-1 or H-2 Convertible Preferred Stock with a liquidation preference of $11.60 per share (the “PacificCo Roll-up”). On March 12, 2020, the Company signed the definitive agreements for the PacificCo Roll-up and in April 2020, the Company closed the PacificCo Roll-up and exchanged 34,482,759 shares of the Company’s Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock. Upon completion of the PacificCo Roll-up in April 2020, PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE.

The 34,482,759 shares of Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock issued in connection with the PacificCo Roll-up had a fair value of approximately $280.3 million as of April 2020. Upon issuance to affiliates of SBG in April 2020. As the share exchange represents an increase in the Company’s ownership of PacificCo, the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest was adjusted to reflect the change in the Company’s ownership of PacificCo and the Company accounted for the share exchange as an equity transaction with no gain or loss recognized on the acquisition of the noncontrolling interests.

Just prior to the PacificCo Roll-up, the PacificCo noncontrolling interest had a carrying value on the Company’s balance sheet of approximately $92.8 million, including $10.4 million in accumulated other comprehensive income previously allocated to the noncontrolling interest holders. Upon completion of the PacificCo Roll-up, the noncontrolling interest was reduced by the entire $92.8 million carrying value and the $10.4 million of accumulated other comprehensive income was allocated to the Company to adjust for the change in ownership of PacificCo through a corresponding change in paid-in capital. The difference between the $280.3 million fair value of the Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock issued as consideration and the $92.8 million carrying value of the noncontrolling interest was reflected as a charge to additional paid-in capital totaling $187.5 million.

Consolidated Variable Interest Entities

As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, JapanCo, WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership are the Company’s only consolidated variable interest entities (“VIEs”). The Company is considered to be the primary beneficiary as we have the power to direct the activities of the VIEs that most significantly affect their economic performance and the right to receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIEs. As a result, these consolidated subsidiaries of the Company and the interests owned by the other investors and the net income or loss and comprehensive income attributable to the other investors are reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interests and noncontrolling interests on our condensed consolidated balance sheets, statements of operations and statements of comprehensive loss, respectively.

subsidiary of WeWork Companies LLC and a co-obligor under our Senior Notes (defined in Note 14), and StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of the Note Purchaser (“Note Purchaser”), entered into a master senior unsecured note purchase agreement (as amended from time to time and as supplemented by a waiver dated as of July 7, 2020, the “Master Note Purchase Agreement”).

Pursuant to the terms of the Master Note Purchase Agreement, WeWork Companies LLC may deliver from time to time to the Note Purchaser draw notices and accordingly sell to the Note Purchaser SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes up to an aggregate original principal amount of $2.2 billion. A draw notice pursuant to the Master Note Purchase Agreement, may be delivered only if WeWork Companies LLC’s net liquidity immediately prior to the applicable closing is reasonably expected to be, less than $750.0 million, and the amount under each draw shall not be greater than (a) $250.0 million and (b) the remaining commitment (defined as the original principal amount of $2.2 billion less notes issued) and shall not be less than an amount sufficient to cause, or reasonably expected to cause, the net liquidity of WeWork Companies LLC to be equal to $750.0 million giving effect to receipt of proceeds from the issuance of the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had delivered draw notices in respect of $2.2 billion under the Master Note Purchase Agreement. An aggregate principal amount of $2.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser and reflected as unsecured related party debt on the condensed consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 2021. As of December 31, 2020, the Company had delivered draw notices in respect of $1.2 billion under the Master Note Purchase Agreement and an aggregate principal amount of $1.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser and reflected as unsecured related party debt on the condensed consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020.

Following the delivery of a draw notice, the Note Purchaser may notify WeWork Companies LLC that it intends to engage an investment bank to offer and sell the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes or any portion thereof to third-party investors in a syndication. Solely with respect to the first $200.0 million in draws (the “Initial Notes”), the Note Purchaser waived this syndication right and may not take any action to engage an investment bank to offer and sell the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes or any portion thereof to third-party investors in a syndication. The Note Purchaser may not take any action to engage an investment bank to offer and sell the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes or any portion thereof to third-party investors in a syndication.

The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes have a stated interest rate of 5.0%. However because the associated warrants obligate the Note Purchaser to purchase shares in the future, the implied interest rate upon closing, assuming the full commitment is drawn, was approximately 11.69%. The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes will mature in July 2025.

(UNAUDITED)

Due to the inherent uncertainty in the valuation process, the estimate of fair value of the Company's assets and liabilities may differ from the amount that would have been used had a ready market for the securities existed.

Nonrecurring Fair Value Measurements

Non-financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value in the condensed consolidated financial statements on a nonrecurring basis include investments, goodwill, intangibles and other long-lived assets on which impairment adjustments were required to be recorded during the year ended June 30, 2021. Assets and related liabilities held for sale which, if applicable, are measured at the lower of their carrying value or fair value less costs of disposal.

As discussed in Note 5, on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo was deconsolidated. The Company's remaining 21.6% ordinary share investment in ChinaCo had a fair value of $26.3 million upon deconsolidation and will be accounted for as an equity method investment. The initial fair value of the Company's investment in ChinaCo was determined using a combination of the market approach and the implied value of ChinaCo based on the Company's discounted cash flow valuation model that incorporated level 3 unobservable inputs relevant to the valuation of the Company's rights in its shares versus the preferred shares acquired by TBP.

As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, there were no assets or related liabilities held for sale included on the accompanying consolidated balance sheet. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded an impairment charge of no assets and liabilities previously classified as held for sale. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recorded an impairment charge of $17.0 million related to assets and liabilities previously classified as held for sale determined to be Level 2 within the fair value hierarchy primarily on respective contracts of sale.

The Company also recorded impairment charges and other write-offs of certain other long-lived assets, impairing such assets to a carrying value of $195.3 million and $438.1 million during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, respectively. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company also recorded impairment charges totaling $47.6 million and $104.3 million, respectively, related to right-of-use assets and property and equipment with an as adjusted remaining carrying value totaling $1,224.8 million as of June 30, 2021, on level 3 inputs representing market rent data for the market the right-of-use assets are located in.

Other Fair Value Disclosures

The estimated fair value of the Company's accounts receivable, accounts payable, and accrued expenses approximate their carrying values due to the short maturity periods. As of June 30, 2021, the estimated fair value of the Company's Senior Notes, excluding unamortized debt issuance costs, was approximately $699.6 million based on recent trading activity (Level 1). For the remainder of the Company's long-term debt, the fair value approximated the fair value as of June 30, 2021.

Remaining Performance Obligations

The aggregate amount of the transaction price allocated to the Company's remaining performance obligations that represent contract revenues that have not yet been recognized as revenue as of June 30, 2021, that will be recognized as revenue in future periods over customer contracts, in accordance with ASC 606, was approximately $2 billion. Over half of the remaining performance obligation as of June 30, 2021, is scheduled to be recognized as revenue within the next twelve months, with the remaining to be recognized over the remaining life of the contracts, the longest of which extends through 2031.

Approximate future minimum lease cash flows to be received over the next five years and thereafter for non-cancelable members accounted for as leases in accordance with ASC 842 in effect at June 30, 2021 are as follows:

(Amounts in thousands)	ASC 842 Revenue

2026 and beyond	41,743
Total	$ 1,301,453

The combination of the remaining performance obligation to be recognized as revenue under ASC 606 plus the remaining future minimum lease cash flows of the Company's member contracts that qualify as leases is comparable to what the Company has historically referred to as "Contract Backlog", which totaled approximately $3 billion and $3 billion as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, respectively. The Company has excluded from these amounts contracts with variable consideration where revenue is recognized using the right to invoice practical expedient.

Note 13. Leasing Arrangements

The real estate operating lease cost incurred before a location opens for member operations is recorded in pre-opening location expenses on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. Once a location opens for member operations, the entire real estate operating lease cost is included in location operating expenses on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. Real estate operating lease costs for the Company's corporate offices and relating to other offerings not directly related to our space-as-a-service offering, for the periods prior to acquisition and prior to disposal or wind down, are included in selling, general and administrative expenses on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. In connection with the restructuring described in Note 3, the Company has decided to strategically relocate certain locations and terminate certain leases. Any lease termination payments or other remaining lease costs under these leases, where a particular location has been closed in preparation for executing a lease termination and/or where a termination agreement has been reached without included in restructuring and other related costs on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. not associated with the restructuring described in Note 3, are classified consistent with the original classification of the lease cost prior to the restructuring. Real estate operating lease cost incurred during the period in which a workspace location has been closed for member operations and subsequently been relocated to a new workspace location, before management's decision to enter negotiations to terminate a lease is recorded in property expenses on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations.

"Lease cost contractually paid or payable" for each period presented below represents cash payments due for base and contingent rent, maintenance amounts and real estate taxes payable under the Company's lease agreements, recorded on an accrual basis of accounting at the timing of when such amounts were actually paid.

The non-cash adjustment to record lease cost "free rent" periods and lease cost escalation clauses on a straight-line basis over the lease term beginning on the date of initial possession is presented as "Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost" below. Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost includes the amortization of any capitalized initial direct costs associated with obtaining a lease.

The tenant improvement allowances and broker commissions received or receivable by the Company for negotiating the Company's lease are amortized on a straight-line basis over the lease term, as a reduction to the total operating lease cost and are presented as "amortized tenant incentives" below.

"Early termination fees and related (gain)/loss" for each period presented below includes payments due as a result of lease terminations on a straight-line basis over any remaining lease period as well as any gain or loss recognized on termination. When a lease is terminated, the right of use asset is derecognized and any difference is recognized as a gain or loss on termination.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations. Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with its ongoing restructuring efforts and will consider additional leases over the remainder of 2021.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company has also successfully amended over 150 leases for a combination of partial and full lease renewals, rent reductions, rent deferrals, offsets for tenant improvement allowances and other strategic changes. These full and partial lease terminations have resulted in an estimated reduction of approximately $2.9 billion in total future undiscounted lease cost payments that were scheduled to be paid over the life of the original executed lease agreements, including changes to the lease terms of ChinaCo which occurred during the period it was consolidated.

Profits Interest Units and Noncontrolling Partnership Interests in the WeWork Partnership — In July and August 2019, the Company modified 47,346,098 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership, at a weighted average per-unit distribution threshold of $64.36, to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19, to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount from $38.36 to $19.19, and to be immediately vested. The Company also came to a final agreement with Mr. Neumann regarding modification to the remainder of his WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units award and determined that (i) 7,685,165 a portion of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units would be modified to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19, to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19, and to be immediately vested, (ii) 15,609,963 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units would be modified to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $49.28 to $21.05, to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount from $38.36 to $21.05, and to be immediately vested, and (iii) 18,391,499 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were forfeited.

On September 24, 2019, in connection with the Company’s operational restructuring, Mr. Neumann resigned as CEO. Upon resignation, all of Mr. Neumann’s 24,081,230 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units became fully vested. At the time of resignation, it was the expectation of the parties involved that a mutual agreement would be reached regarding modification to the remainder of his WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, whose vesting were contingent on Mr. Neumann’s continued service as the Company’s CEO, would be renegotiated. Such agreement was not entered into until October 22, 2019, (which agreement became effective on October 30, 2019) in connection with the SoftBank Transactions. As the status of, and vesting conditions applicable to, the original portion of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were not reflected in a legally binding agreement prior to October 30, 2019, such unvested award was treated for accounting purposes as if it had been granted on September 24, 2019 and the modified award described below was accounted for as a new grant in the fourth quarter of 2019.

In October 2019, upon receipt of the $1.5 billion under the 2019 Warrant, the Company modified 786,540 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann which had vested prior to his resignation on September 24, 2019, to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19, to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount from $38.36 to $19.19. In October 2019, the Company also came to a final agreement with Mr. Neumann regarding modification to the remainder of his WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units award and determined that (i) 7,685,165 a portion of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units would be modified to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19, to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19, and to be immediately vested, (ii) 15,609,963 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units would be modified to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $49.28 to $21.05, to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount from $38.36 to $21.05, and to be immediately vested, and (iii) 18,391,499 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were forfeited.

In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, as defined in Note 16, the remaining 15,609,963 unvested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested. In addition, all of Mr. Neumann’s 24,081,230 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests were amended to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount to $0 and to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold (subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing if a de-SPAC or initial public offering occurs). As a result of this modification, the Company recorded $102.0 million of restructuring and other related costs in its consolidated statement of operations for the three months ended March 31, 2021.

NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
JUNE 30, 2021

As of June 30, 2021 and 2020, there were none and 1,045,002, respectively of unvested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units due to other former members of executive management which all contained time-based vesting conditions and would have vested over three years.

The economic terms of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units give the holder an economic interest in the future growth and Company's business and are intended to replicate, in certain respects, the economics of incentive stock options, while providing more favorable treatment for both the Company and the holder.

Holders can also, at the election of the holder, (a) convert their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Partnership Common Units, or (b) exchange (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units for (at WeWork's election) shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for WeWork Class A Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value. When the WeWork Partnership makes distributions to its partners, holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units are generally entitled to share in those distributions with the other partners, including wholly-owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. that hold partnership interests, once the aggregate amount of distributions since the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were issued equals the "aggregate distribution threshold" with respect to those WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. The "aggregate distribution threshold" with respect to any WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units issued equals the liquidation value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units when such WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units was issued, and such amount was determined based on a valuation of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units performed by a third-party valuation firm. Once a WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units holder is entitled to share in distributions, if the total distributions have been made in an amount equal to the aggregate distribution threshold, the holder is entitled to receive distributions equal to a "preference amount", which is a set dollar amount per WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units equal to the difference between the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units "per-unit distribution threshold" (which is the per-profits-interest equivalent of the aggregate distribution threshold, as determined by a third party valuation firm) and its "catch-up base amount" (which is similar to an option exercise price for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units pro rata in distributions with other partners in the WeWork Partnership).

Holders can also (a) convert their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Units (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class Common Stock) their vested WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Units for (at WeWork's election) shares of the WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for the WeWork Class A Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value. Similar to their entitlement to distributions, as described above, holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units can receive value through such an exchange only to the extent the value of the WeWork Partnership has increased above the aggregate distribution threshold. This is measured by comparing the value of a share of the WeWork Class A Common Stock on the day of exchange to the aggregate distribution threshold for the exchanged WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. If, on the day that a WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units is exchanged, the value of a share of the WeWork Class A Common Stock exceeds the per-unit distribution threshold for the exchanged WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, then the holder is entitled to receive that difference plus the "preference amount" for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (subject to certain downward adjustments for prior distributions by the WeWork Partnership).

Upon the exchange of WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership for shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock, the holder will forfeit their WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership.

Partnership, the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock will be redeemed. Shares of WeWork Class C Common transferred other than in connection with the transfer of the corresponding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeW

The redemption value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership are measured based upon the aggregate value and takes into account the proportion of employee services rendered under the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units vesting. The redemption value will vary from period to period based upon the fair value of the Company and are accounted for as a component of interests within the equity section of the consolidated balance sheet through reclassifications to and from additional-paid-in capital.

However, the overall redemption value of the outstanding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and the corresponding noncontrolling interest in the WeWork Partnership as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, as the fair market value of the Company's stock as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, exceeds the per-unit distribution threshold for the outstanding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. As the fair market value of the Company's stock above the distribution threshold, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units will be dilutive to the Company's ownership percentage in the Partnership.

securities exchange and a market condition tied to the Company's valuation, at three to four distinct threshold levels over a distinct period from 2020 through 2024. Stock options that have become eligible to vest will then vest at the end of a three to five-year service period. Options are subject to the risk of forfeiture until vested by virtue of continued employment or service to the Company.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company modified 14.7 million options held by 36 employees to purchase Class A Common Stock containing both service and performance-based vesting conditions (including a market-based vesting condition). The Company modified the performance-based condition to be based on the share price of the Company's Class A Common Stock: (i) after the Company becomes (or becomes publicly traded company with shares traded on the New York Stock Exchange, NASDAQ, or other similar national exchange, by entering into a public offering, or (b) a Public Company Acquisition (as defined in the agreement), or (ii) if the Company's Class A Common Stock is traded on any national securities exchange, the share price shall be measured only as of the closing date of a Capital Raise Transaction (as defined in the agreement). The Company applied modification accounting under ASC 718, which resulted in a new measurement of compensation cost. The original grant-date fair value of the award is no longer used to measure compensation cost for the award. The weighted-average fair value measurement date amounted to $2.64.

The following table summarizes the stock option activity during the six months ended June 30, 2021:

The fair value of the awards with a performance-based vesting condition was estimated using a two-step binomial option pricing model. The impact of the value of the underlying common stock based on the Company's complex capital structure and the post-vesting exercise of the subject awards, which were captured by applying a suboptimal exercise factor of 2.5-times the exercise price and post-vesting fair value of 10 percent.

The fair value of the awards with performance and market-based conditions was estimated using a Monte Carlo simulation to address the dependent nature of the market-based vesting conditions. Based on the award term, equity value, expected volatility, risk-free rate, and other random variables with a normal distribution, the future equity value is simulated to develop a large number of potential paths of the future equity value.

Each path within the simulation includes the measurement of the 90-trading day average future equity value to determine the fair value of the award.

They will be eligible to vest following the achievement of either: (i) the effective date of an initial public offering, (ii) the closing date of a Public Company Acquisition (as defined in the agreement), or (iii) the closing date of a Capital Raise (as defined in the agreement). RSUs that have not become earned as of the date of a Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement) will vest over a three-year service period. In April 2020, SBWW terminated and withdrew their offer to purchase the equity securities of WeWork Inc. because it asserted the conditions to its obligations to close the 2020 Tender Offer. The Special Committee, acting in the name of the Company, filed a complaint of Chancery of the State of Delaware against SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund asserting claims in relation to SBG's withdrawal of the tender offer. On February 25, 2021, all parties entered into a settlement agreement, the terms of which resolved the litigation. See Note 16 for details of the settlement agreement.

During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020 and in connection with the 2020 Tender Offer described below, the Company recorded none and $8.0 million of additional stock-based compensation relating to the 2020 Tender Offer, with none and $1.1 million recorded as a reduction of additional paid in capital. The additional expense was based on management's assessment of the likely consummation of the 2020 Tender Offer and management's estimate of the number of shares to be acquired from employees, former employees and contractors of the Company at a price per share of $19.19, which price was above the value of the shares. As of March 31, 2020, other current liabilities included a balance of $132.5 million relating to the 2020 Tender Offer.

SBWW terminated and withdrew their offer to purchase the equity securities of WeWork Inc. as described above. As such, during the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the total $132.5 million was reclassified to additional paid in capital.

2021 Tender Offer — In March 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, as described in Note 16, the Company entered into a tender offer with SoftBank pursuant to which, SBWW launched a tender offer to purchase $921.6 million of the Company's equity securities (including preferred stock, acquisition preferred stock and common stock, including shares underlying vested options, exercisable warrants and RSUs with respect to which the service-based vesting condition had been satisfied as of the determination date, and shares with an exercise or conversion price less than the purchase price, in each case outstanding as of the determination date, and shares with an exercise or conversion price less than the purchase price, in each case outstanding as of the determination date) from equity holders a price of $19.19 per share (the "2021 Tender Offer").

During the three months ended March 31, 2021 and in connection with the 2021 Tender Offer, the Company modified the liquidity event condition with respect to 594,097 restricted stock units (with respect to which the service-based vesting condition had been satisfied) held by 1,774 grantees, such that those restricted stock units became fully vested immediately prior to the closing of the 2021 Tender Offer and settled in Class A Common Stock that would have been able to be tendered in the 2021 Tender Offer. The Company accounted for the modification in accordance with ASC 718 and recognized $2.3 million of incremental compensation cost during the three months ended March 31, 2021.

The tender offer was completed in April 2021 and as a result 5.1 million shares of Class A Common Stock were acquired primarily from the Company at a price per share of $19.19, which resulted in approximately $45.7 million of additional stock-based compensation, $47.0 million recorded as a reduction of additional paid in capital during the three months ended March 31, 2021, and $92.7 million of liability within other current liabilities on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet as of March 31, 2021. The additional stock-based compensation expense was recorded as the shares were purchased from employees at a market value of the shares. The liability recorded as of March 31, 2021 was resolved through an increase to additional paid in capital upon completion of the tender.

2020 Option Repricing — In June 2020, the Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors of the Company approved a one-time modification of stock options granted during February and March 2020 from an exercise price of $4.00 per share to an exercise price of $2.10 per share. Under the Option Repricing, 5,690 grantees exchanged 36,727,519 stock options with an exercise price of $4.00 per share for 36,727,519 stock options with an exercise price of $2.10 per share. The Option Repricing was subject to modification accounting under ASC 718. Modifications to stock options are treated as an exchange of the original award for a new award with total compensation equal to the grant-date fair value of the original award plus the incremental value of the modification. The incremental value is based on the excess of the fair value of the modified award over the fair value of the original award immediately before the modification. In connection with this modification, the Company recorded an incremental stock-based compensation charge of $0.7 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021. As of June 30, 2021, the unrecognized stock-based compensation expense from the modification was approximately $2.1 million, expected to be recognized over a weighted average period of approximately 1.5 years.

2019 Option Repricing — In November 2019, in connection with and as part of the 2020 Tender Offer, the Board of Directors of the Company approved a one-time stock exchange offer (the “2019 Option Repricing Exchange”) to permit employees and certain non-employee service providers to exchange options to purchase shares of the Company’s common stock with a per share exercise price of $4.13 and above (“Eligible Options”) for options (“Repriced Options”) with a per share exercise price equal to $4.12 in accordance with predetermined exchange ratios ranging from 1.00 to 1.25, based on the exercise price of the Eligible Options. The exchange offer closed, and the Repriced Options were granted, effective on December 31, 2019. As a result of the 2019 Option Repricing Exchange, 4,210 grantees exchanged 15,485,869 Eligible Options with a weighted-average exercise price of $28.49 per share for 5,564,540 Repriced Options with a weighted average exercise price of $4.12 per share.

The 2019 Option Repricing Exchange was also subject to modification accounting under ASC 718.

Stock-Based Awards to Non-Employees — From time to time, the Company issues common stock, restricted stock or stock options to non-employee contractors for services rendered. The stock options and shares of common stock granted, vested, exercised and canceled during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 are included in the above tables together with the employee stock-based compensation expense.

Stock-Based Awards Issued by Consolidated Variable Interest Entities — The tables above do not include any grants issued by consolidated subsidiaries.

ChinaCo

In April 2017, the Company's previously consolidated subsidiary, ChinaCo, granted a shareholder, in connection with services to be provided by a consultant affiliated with such shareholder, the right to subscribe to 10,000,000 of ChinaCo's Class A ordinary shares which were originally granted to the consultant. The shares were granted at a value of $3.51 per share and were to vest annually over a five year period and had a grant date value of $3.51 per ChinaCo Class A ordinary share. The consultant is also entitled to receive compensation from the Company's and ChinaCo's Board of Directors; however, the services required per the terms of grant were greater in scope than those typically provided by a standard director. As of September 30, 2020, a total of 2.0 million of these shares were vested and issued. On October 2, 2020, the ChinaCo Deconsolidation was completed and immediately prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, an additional 2.0 million shares in ChinaCo were issued to the consultant and the remaining 6.0 million unvested ChinaCo ordinary shares were cancelled.

During the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 the Company recorded none and $4.5 million, respectively, of selling, general and administrative expenses, associated with the rights to subscribe to ChinaCo ordinary shares granted to non-employee contractors for services rendered. During the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 the Company recorded none and $9.0 million, respectively, of selling, general and administrative expenses, associated with the rights to subscribe to ChinaCo ordinary shares granted to non-employee contractors for services rendered. Prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, this expense was recorded as an increase in the equity allocated to noncontrolling interests on the Company's consolidated balance sheet.

In November 2018, ChinaCo adopted a long-term equity incentive plan (the "ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP"), authorizing the grant of equity awards (including restricted stock units and stock appreciation rights) to ChinaCo employees, officers, directors and consultants. As of December 31, 2019, there was a total of 467,157 and 747,331 respectively, in stock appreciation rights outstanding under the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP.

ChinaCo Deconsolidation on October 2, 2020 was an Exit Event as defined in the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP and resulted in the forfeiture of all stock appreciation rights for no consideration as their exercise price was in excess of the implied price per share in the ChinaCo Deconsolidation. Following the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP was terminated and no further awards may be made under the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP.

PacificCo

In May 2019, PacificCo adopted a long-term equity incentive plan, (the "PacificCo 2019 LTEIP"), authorizing the grant of equity awards (including restricted stock units and stock appreciation rights) to its employees, officers, directors and consultants. As of December 31, 2019, there was a total of 2,843,225 stock appreciation rights outstanding under the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP and there were 78,275 stock appreciation rights outstanding under the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP as of March 31, 2020. The PacificCo Roll-up transaction completed, in April 2020, was an Exit Event as defined in the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP and resulted in the then-vested stock appreciation rights which were in-the-money based on the implied price of the PacificCo Roll-up being settled in cash.

totaling payments of $1.3 million. As a result of the completion of the PacificCo Roll-up, the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP was terminated. awards may be made under the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP. There was no stock-based compensation expense recognized under the PacificCo during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020.

JapanCo

In November 2019, JapanCo adopted a long-term equity incentive plan, (the “JapanCo 2019 LTEIP”), authorizing the grant of awards of interests (including restricted interest units and interest appreciation rights, collectively “Employee Interests”) to its employees, officers, consultants. The maximum number of Employee Interests that may be granted under the JapanCo’s 2019 LTEIP is 4,210,568. Employee Interests are notional non-voting membership interests (mochibun) of JapanCo, where 1 Employee Interest shall be treated as equal to a 0.00001% interest (mochibun) of Japan. All awards under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP that vest will be settled in local currency of the participant in JapanCo. During the six months ended June 30, 2020, no awards had been granted under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP. During the three months ended June 30, 2021 there were a total of 434,232 interest appreciation rights granted under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP with a weighted-average price of $4.69 and a weighted-average grant date fair value of $1.84. The fair value of the interest appreciation rights was estimated using an option pricing model that incorporates post-vesting early exercise behavior with a sub-optimal exercise factor of 2.5-times the exercise price and a vesting forfeiture rate of 10 percent.

Payment in respect of any interest appreciation right is conditioned upon the occurrence of an Exit Event (as defined in the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP). In addition, awards will generally time-vest over a five year employment service period. Each interest appreciation right entitles the grantee to receive, if any, from the exercise price (fair market value) to the fair market value at the Exit Event in cash or shares of JapanCo. As of June 30, 2021, a total of 1,978,263 interest appreciation rights outstanding under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP. The unrecognized stock-based compensation expense associated with the outstanding interest appreciation rights awarded under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP was approximately $4.1 million as of June 30, 2021, provided that the other vesting conditions are met, will only be recognized when the Exit Event occurs. As a result, there was no stock-based compensation expense recognized during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 associated with the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP.

Note 15. Net Loss Per Share

We compute net loss per share of Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock under the two-class method required for multi-class common stock and participating securities. The rights, including the liquidation and dividend rights, of the Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock are substantially identical, other than voting rights. The shares of Class C Common Stock are deemed to be a non-equivalent class of stock. Accordingly, only the Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock share in our net losses.

On February 26, 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement (as defined in Note 16), all of the outstanding shares of Class C Common Stock were automatically converted into shares of Class A Common Stock and the shares of Class C Common Stock of the Company now represent one share, instead of three (the "Class B Conversion").

Our participating securities includes Series A, B, C, D-1, D-2, E, F, G, G-1, H-1, H-3 and Acquisition Preferred Stock, as the holders of these preferred stock are entitled to receive a noncumulative dividend on a pari basis.

passu basis in the event that a dividend is paid on common stock, and holders of certain vested RSUs that have a non-forfeitable right to receive dividends in the event that a dividend is paid on common stock. The holders of our Junior Preferred Stock are not entitled to receive dividends and are participating securities. The holders of Series A, B, C, D-1, D-2, E, F, G, G-1, H-1, H-3 and Acquisition Preferred Stock as well as the other vested RSUs with a non-forfeitable right to dividends, do not have a contractual obligation to share in our losses. As such, our net loss for the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, and 2020 were not allocated to these participating securities.

Basic net loss per share is computed by dividing net loss attributable to WeWork Inc. attributable to its Class A Common and Class B Common Stockholders by the weighted-average number of shares of our Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock outstanding during the period.

For the computation of diluted net loss per share, net loss per share attributable to common stockholders for basic net loss per share is adjusted for the effect of dilutive securities, including awards under our equity compensation plans. Diluted net loss per share attributable to common stockholders is computed by dividing the resulting net loss attributable to WeWork Inc. attributable to its Class A Common and Class B Common Stockholders by the weighted-average number of fully diluted common shares outstanding. In the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, options to purchase shares, such as stock options, restricted stock, RSUs, warrants, convertible notes, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and shares of Series A, B, C, D-1, D-2, E, F, G, G-1, H-1, H-3, Acquisition and Junior Preferred Stock were not included in the computation of diluted net loss per share as the effect of including these shares in the computation would have been anti-dilutive.

issuance fee on the letter of credit, the 0.125% fronting fee on the letter of credit and the interest on the discount note which will be paid back in September 2021. As of June 30, 2021, the outstanding principal of $349.0 million and accrued interest of $0.2 million are located within other current liability and accounts payable and accrued expenses, respectively, on the condensed consolidated balance sheet.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had capitalized a total of $0.5 million in debt issuance costs, as the nonrefundable engagement fees were amortized until February 10, 2023. Such costs were capitalized as deferred financing costs and included as a component of other assets, less accumulated amortization, on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded $0.04 million of interest expense relating to the amortization of these costs.

Construction Commitments — In the ordinary course of its business, the Company enters into certain agreements to purchase construction services related to the build-outs of the Company's operating locations that are enforceable and legally binding, and contain significant terms and the approximate timing of the purchase transaction. The Company's purchase orders are based on current needs of the vendors as needed in accordance with the Company's construction schedule. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, the Company had outstanding construction commitments of approximately $39.9 million and $108.2 million, respectively, in such outstanding construction commitments.

Legal Matters — The Company has in the past been, is currently and expects to continue in the future to be a party to or involved in various disputes, individual actions, putative class actions or other collective actions, U.S. and foreign government regulatory inquiries and investigations, and various other legal proceedings arising in the normal course of its business, including with members, employees, landlords and other partners, securityholders, third-party license holders, competitors, government agencies and regulatory agencies, among others.

The Company reviews its litigation-related reserves regularly and, in accordance with GAAP, sets reserves where a loss is probable and reasonably estimable. The Company adjusts these reserves as appropriate; however, due to the unpredictable nature and timing of litigation, the ultimate loss in any given matter could significantly exceed the litigation reserve currently set by the Company. Given the information it has as of today, the Company believes that none of these matters will have a material effect on the consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company is also party to several litigation matters and regulatory matters not in the normal ordinary course of business. These matters are described below. Management intends to vigorously defend these cases and cooperate with regulators in these matters; however, there is a reasonable possibility that the Company could be unsuccessful in defending these claims and could incur a loss. It is not currently possible to estimate the range of reasonably possible loss above the aggregated reserves.

Both complaints were filed in California state court and allege, among other things, that defendants breached fiduciary duties, aided and abetted breaches of fiduciary duties in connection with certain transactions. Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm To the Shareholders and the Board of Directors of WeWork Inc.

Opinion on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of WeWork Inc. (the Company) as of December 31, 2020 and 2019, and the related consolidated statements of operations, comprehensive loss, changes in convertible preferred stock, noncontrolling interests and equity for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2020, and the related notes (collectively referred to as the "consolidated financial statements"). In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company at December 31, 2020 and 2019, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2020 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) and are required to be independent with respect to the Company in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB and in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. The Company is not required to have, nor were we engaged to perform, an audit of its internal control over financial reporting. As part of our audits we are required to obtain an understanding of internal control over financial reporting, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we did not perform such an audit.

Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Critical Audit Matters

The critical audit matters communicated below are matters arising from the current period audit of the financial statements that were communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relate to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements; and (2) involved especially challenging, subjective or complex judgments. The communication of critical audit matters does not alter in any way the auditor's opinion on the consolidated financial statements, taken as a whole, and we are not, by communicating the critical audit matters below, giving separate opinions on the critical audit matters or on the accounts or disclosures to which they relate.

Impairment of Long-lived assets

Description of the Matter

As more fully described in Notes 2 and 3 to the consolidated financial statements, long-lived assets are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have been impaired. As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic the Company experienced declines in revenue at certain locations. In addition, the Company implemented its operational restructuring program, which termination of certain leases throughout 2020. Based on these events, the Company evaluated its long-lived assets and determined that certain assets were not recoverable and were impaired. As a result, the Company recognized impairment loss.

Auditing the Company's recoverability and impairment tests involved a high degree of subjectivity due to the significant assumptions used in the Company's estimates included, but were not limited to, revenue and related costs, market discount rates in local real estate markets in which the Company operates.

Our testing of the Company's recoverability and impairment tests included, among other procedures, evaluating assumptions and operating data used to assess recoverability and estimate fair value of the asset group. For example, significant assumptions used to estimate cash flows, including revenue and related costs, to historical results of that results of locations in the same geography, and assumptions around growth expected at the building and overall property. We assessed the historical accuracy of management's estimates and performed sensitivity analyses over significant cash flows to evaluate the change in the impairment analysis resulting from changing those specific assumptions. We also involved specialists to assist in our evaluation of the market rent and discount rates used in the fair value estimates for the overall property as well as the underlying operating lease right-of-use assets.

Valuation of the Company's equity instruments

As described in Note 16 to the financial statements, the fair value of the Company's convertible related party liability, 2019 Warrant, SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant, and the 2020 LC Facility Warrant, were linked to the unregistered shares of the Company's preferred stock equity instruments. These liabilities were characterized as Level III in the fair value hierarchy and totaled $419 million as of December 31, 2020. Management determined the fair value of its equity instruments based on the methodologies described in Notes 2 and 16 to the financial statements and using significant unobservable inputs. Determining the fair value of each equity instrument required management to make significant judgments, including the unobservable assumptions and estimates used in the measurements. In addition, as described in Notes 2 and 22, the Company used the fair value of its equity instruments as a significant assumption in the valuation of its equity awards. For the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company recognized stock-based compensation expense of $63 million, which is linked to the unregistered shares of the Company's preferred stock equity instruments.

Auditing the fair value of the Company's equity instruments involved complex judgment due to the estimations used in determining fair value. In particular, in estimating the fair value of stock, the significant assumptions utilized, including but not limited to, revenue and EBITDA growth expectations and the weighted average cost of capital.

How We Addressed the Matter in Our Audit

Our audit procedures included, among others, evaluating the valuation methodologies used by the Company and its assumptions and the mathematical accuracy of the Company's valuations. For each valuation, we independently performed calculations and compared them to the Company's estimates. We involved our valuation specialists to assist with these procedures. We compared significant assumptions and underlying data used in the Company's valuations to information from third-party sources and market data. Where applicable, we obtained projections utilized in supporting valuations and assessed the reasonableness of significant underlying assumptions such as revenue and EBITDA growth expectations. Our procedures also included assessing the historical accuracy of management's estimates and performing sensitivity tests on the underlying assumptions utilized in the projections.

WEWORK INC. NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DECEMBER 31, 2020

The Company is required to consolidate entities deemed to be VIEs in which the Company is the primary beneficiary. The Company is the primary beneficiary of a VIE when the Company has (i) the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact its economic performance and (ii) the obligation to absorb losses or receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIE.

JapanCo, WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership (each as defined and discussed in Note 6) are the Company's only consolidated VIEs as of December 31, 2020. In March 2020, in connection with the sale of the property held by the 424 Fifth Venture (the "424 Fifth Venture"), redemption payments were made to the noncontrolling interest holders in the 424 Fifth Venture and the 424 Fifth Venture became a subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE. In April 2020, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company completed the sale of the noncontrolling interest in PacificCo (as defined in Note 6) and PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company. In September 2020, the Company transferred its variable interest and control over the Creator Fund (as defined in Note 6) to a new entity, ChinaCo, and the Creator Fund was deconsolidated from the Company's financial statements. In October 2020, the Company restructured its ownership interest in ChinaCo (as defined in Note 6) such that the Company is no longer the primary beneficiary of ChinaCo and as a result, beginning in November 2020, ChinaCo was deconsolidated (the "ChinaCo Deconsolidation") and the Company's remaining ordinary share investment represents a VIE that is accounted for as an equity method investment. See Note 6 for further discussion of these transactions. See Note 11 for information regarding the Company's non-consolidated VIEs.

A noncontrolling interest in a consolidated subsidiary represents the portion of the equity (net assets) in a subsidiary not attributable directly, or indirectly, to the Company. Noncontrolling interests are presented as a separate component of equity in the consolidated balance sheet. The presentation of net income in the consolidated statements of comprehensive loss, is modified to present earnings and other comprehensive income attributed to controlling and noncontrolling interests.

The Company's convertible preferred stock and noncontrolling interests that are redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is not within the control of the Company are classified outside of permanent equity. As it is not probable that amounts will become redeemable, no reclassification is required. The Company will continue to monitor the probability of redemption. The Company's noncontrolling interests that have remained within the Company's control are classified within permanent equity and are described further below.

The redemption value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (as discussed in Note 22) that were awarded to management is based upon the aggregate redemption value and takes into account the proportion of employee services rendered under the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units vesting provisions. The redemption value will vary from period to period based upon the fair value of the Company, which is the value (per-unit fair value of the Company is greater than the per-unit distribution threshold) will be reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the section of the consolidated balance sheets with a corresponding entry to additional paid-in-capital. The intrinsic value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests will be remeasured each period until the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests are converted to shares.

The Company's other noncontrolling interests represent substantive profit-sharing arrangements and profits and losses are attributed to the Company and noncontrolling interests using the hypothetical-liquidation-at-book-value method.

Use of Estimates — The preparation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the consolidated financial statements, and the reported amount of revenues and expenses during the reporting periods.

Estimates inherent in the current financial reporting process inevitably involve assumptions about future events. Actual results could differ from estimates. Since December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus, referred to as the COVID-19 virus, has spread to countries in which COVID-19 has become a global pandemic.

Authorities in jurisdictions where our locations are located have at times issued stay-at-home orders and other restrictions on certain activities such as travel and on the types of businesses that may continue to operate. As the pandemic has advanced, it may continue to adversely affect our revenues and expenditures, the extent and duration of these restrictions and overall macroeconomic conditions. The COVID-19 pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of financial statements. This includes the net operating income ("NOI") in our long-lived asset impairment testing, the ultimate collectability of accounts receivable due to the effects of COVID-19 on the financial health of our members, the timing of capital expenditures, fair value measurement changes for assets and liabilities that the Company measures in our assessment of our ability to continue to meet our obligations as they come due.

Our liquidity forecasts are based upon continued execution of the Company's operational restructuring program and also includes making an estimate of the impact that the outbreak of COVID-19 may continue to have on our business and our liquidity needs; however, the exact timing and magnitude of future results and liquidity needs are further affected by the continued impact of COVID-19 will largely depend on the continued duration of the pandemic, the effectiveness of government and company-wide health and safety measures, the impact of potential delays in location openings, the success of ongoing vaccination efforts, the effect on demand for our memberships, any permanent shift in our members' work-from-home habits, how quickly we can resume normal operations and our ongoing lease negotiations with our landlords, among others. We are executing our operational restructuring program and our current liquidity position will be sufficient to help us mitigate the continued uncertainty associated with COVID-19, however our assessment assumes a recovery in our revenues and occupancy beginning in the second half of 2021 with a gradual return toward pre-COVID levels achieved by the end of 2021. If revenues continue to decline during 2021 and 2022, we may experience a recovery consistent with our projected timing, additional capital sources may be required, the timing and source of which are currently uncertain.

There is no assurance we will be successful in securing the additional capital infusions if needed.

Cash and Cash Equivalents — Cash and cash equivalents consist of highly liquid marketable securities with original maturities of three months or less at the time of purchase. Cash equivalents are presented at cost, which approximates fair value.

Restricted Cash - Restricted cash consists primarily of amounts provided to banks to secure letters of credit issued under certain of our leases and other credit agreements as required by various leases. Transfers between restricted and unrestricted cash accounts are not reported within cash flows. Only restricted cash receipts or payments from restricted cash directly to third parties are reported in the statements of cash flows as an operating, investing or financing activity, depending on the nature of the transaction.

Allowance for Doubtful Accounts — The Company adopted ASU No. 2016-13, Financial Instruments-Credit Losses (Topic 326) (Credit Losses on Financial Instruments ("ASU 2016-13")) on January 1, 2020, as discussed in "—Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements" below. In accordance with the revised guidance, management determines an allowance that reflects its best estimate of the accounts receivable that it expects will not be collected. Management considers many factors in considering the allowance, including historical data, experience, creditworthiness, income trends, as well as current and future economic conditions. Recorded liabilities associated with members' service retainers are also considered when estimating the allowance for doubtful accounts. We have the contractual right to apply members' service retainers to outstanding receivables.

Receivables are written off when deemed uncollectible. Recoveries of receivables previously written off are recorded as a reduction of the allowance for doubtful accounts when received. As of December 31, 2020 and 2019, the Company recorded $107.8 million and $16.7 million, respectively, as an allowance for doubtful accounts on accounts receivable and acr

Property and Equipment — Property and equipment are recorded at cost less accumulated depreciation. A variety of costs are construction of leasehold improvements including development costs, construction costs, salaries and related costs, and other costs in period of development. After a determination is made to capitalize a cost, it is allocated to the specific component of a project that Company capitalizes costs until a project is substantially completed and occupied, or held available for occupancy, and capitalizes associated with the portions under development. Subsequent expenditures that extend the useful life of an asset are also capitalized improvements are amortized over the lesser of the estimated useful life of the improvements or the remaining term of the lease using method. Furniture and equipment are depreciated over three to twenty years also using the straight-line method. Costs associated maintenance of property and equipment that do not extend the normal useful life of an asset are expensed as incurred and amounted $44.4 million and $25.0 million for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively.

Business Combinations — We include the financial results of businesses that we acquire from the date of acquisition. We determine assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on their estimated fair values as of the respective date of acquisition. The excess purchase fair values of identifiable assets and liabilities is recorded as goodwill. Determining the fair value of assets acquired and liabilities management to use significant judgment and estimates including the selection of valuation methodologies, estimates of future revenue discount rates and selection of comparable companies. Our estimates of fair value are based upon assumptions believed to be reasonably inherently uncertain and unpredictable and, as a result, actual results may differ from estimates. During the measurement period adjustments to the assets acquired and liabilities assumed, with the corresponding offset to goodwill.

Transaction costs associated with business combinations are expensed as incurred, and are included in selling, general and administrative our consolidated statements of operations.

Goodwill — Goodwill represents the excess of the purchase price of an acquired business over the fair value of the assets acquired assumed in connection with the acquisition. Goodwill is not amortized, but instead is tested for impairment at least annually at each reporting unit or more frequently if events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount may be impaired, and is required to be written off if impaired.

The guidance for goodwill impairment testing begins with an optional qualitative assessment to determine whether it is more likely than not that goodwill is impaired. The Company is not required to perform a quantitative impairment test unless it is determined, based on the results of the qualitative assessment, that it is more likely than not that goodwill is impaired. The quantitative impairment test is prepared at the reporting unit level. In performing the impairment test, management compares the estimated fair values of the applicable reporting units to their aggregate carrying amounts including goodwill. If the carrying amounts of a reporting unit including goodwill were to exceed the fair value of the reporting unit, the difference is recognized within our consolidated statements of operations in an amount equal to that excess, limited to the total amount of goodwill of the reporting unit.

The process of evaluating goodwill for impairment requires judgments and assumptions to be made to determine the fair value of the reporting unit including discounted cash flow calculations, assumptions market participants would make in valuing each reporting unit and the level of its own share price.

Intangible Assets, net — The Company capitalizes purchased software and computer software development costs for internal use when they have a useful life or contractual term greater than twelve months. Purchased software consists of software products and licenses which are amortized over the lesser of their estimated useful life or the contractual term. Internally developed software costs incurred in the preliminary stages of development are expensed as incurred. Once an application has reached the development stage, internal and external direct costs of the software are capitalized until the software is substantially complete and ready for its intended use. Capitalization ceases upon completion of substantial functionality. The Company also capitalizes costs related to specific upgrades and enhancements when it is probable that the expenditure will result in additional functionality. Internal use software is amortized on a straight-line basis over its estimated useful life, generally three years. Maintenance and support costs are expensed as incurred.

Acquired intangible assets are carried at cost and finite-lived intangible asset are amortized on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives. The Company determine the appropriate useful life of our intangible assets by measuring the expected cash flows of acquired assets. The initial estimates of the Company's finite-lived intangible assets range from one year to ten years.

The Company tests goodwill and indefinite-lived intangible asset balances for impairment annually in the fourth quarter of each year and more frequently if circumstances indicate that the value of goodwill may be impaired.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets — Long-lived assets, including property and equipment, right-of-use assets, capitalized software and other finite-lived intangible assets, are evaluated for recoverability when events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have been impaired. In evaluating an asset for recoverability, the Company considers the future cash flows expected to result from the continued use of the asset and its eventual disposition of the asset. If the sum of the expected future cash flows, on an undiscounted basis, is less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss equal to the excess of the carrying amount over the fair value of the asset is recognized. During the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018, the Company recorded $3.1 million, $63.1 million and $29.6 million, respectively, in routine impairment charges associated with equipment write-offs relating to excess, obsolete or slow-moving inventory of furniture and equipment, early termination of leases and other deals or projects occurring in the ordinary course of business. These impairment charges are included as a component of selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations. In connection with operational restructuring programs described in Note 3 and related changes in the Company's leasing plans and planned or completed disposition of certain non-core operations, as well as the Company's business as a result of COVID-19, the Company has also recorded various other non-routine write-offs, impairments and goodwill, intangibles and various other assets. These non-routine charges totaled $1,355.9 million and $335.0 million during the years ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, respectively, and are included as impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations.

Assets Held for Sale — The Company classifies an asset (or assets to be disposed of together as a group) as held for sale when management has authority to approve the action, commits to a plan to sell the assets, the assets are available for immediate sale in their present condition and terms that are usual and customary for sales of such assets, an active program to locate a buyer and other actions required to complete the sale have been initiated and it is probable the transfer of the assets are expected to qualify for recognition as a completed sale within one year. Events or circumstances beyond the Company's control extend the period of time required to sell the assets beyond one year. Prior periods are not reclassified. Assets classified as held for sale are being actively marketed for sale at a price that is reasonable in relation to their fair value and actions required to complete the sale plan indicate it is unlikely that significant changes to the plan will be made or that the plan will be abandoned.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

Assets that are classified as held for sale and the related liabilities directly associated with those that will be transferred in that transaction are measured at the lower of their carrying value or fair value less any costs to sell and depreciation and amortization expense is no longer recognized. The loss resulting from this measurement is recognized in the period in which the held for sale criteria are met.

The fair value of assets held for sale less any costs to sell is assessed each reporting period they remain classified as held for sale and changes are reported as an adjustment to the carrying amount of the assets, as long as the adjusted carrying amount does not exceed the fair value of the assets at the time it was initially classified as held for sale. Gains are not recognized on the sale of an asset until the date of sale.

During the fourth quarter of 2019, management approved the disposal through sale of certain assets and businesses. As of December 31, 2020 there are no assets classified as held for sale. See Note 8 for further discussion.

Deferred Financing Costs — Deferred financing costs consist of fees and costs incurred to obtain financing. Such costs are capitalized as interest expense using the effective interest method, over the term of the related loan. As of December 31, 2020 and 2019, the Company had $705.0 million and $883.6 million, respectively, of deferred financing costs, net of accumulated amortization, in other assets in the consolidated balance sheets related to the Company’s credit agreements (see Note 12). As of December 31, 2020 and 2019, the Company had $11.4 million and $31.0 million, respectively, of unamortized debt issuance costs as a reduction to the long-term debt, net (see Note 12). For the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, the Company recognized $172.1 million, $3.9 million and $3.2 million, respectively, in connection with relating to the amortization of deferred financing costs.

Income Taxes — The Company accounts for income taxes under the asset and liability method. Accordingly, deferred tax assets are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amount of existing assets and their respective tax bases, operating losses and tax credit carryforwards. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect of assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period the tax rates are enacted. The measurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities is reduced, if necessary, by a valuation allowance for any tax benefits for which future realization is uncertain.

The Company has elected to recognize earnings of foreign affiliates that are determined to be global intangible low tax income in the do not recognize deferred taxes for basis differences that may reverse in future years.

Revenue Recognition — The Company adopted Accounting Standard Codification (“ASC”) No. 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, effective January 1, 2019 (“ASC 606”) using the modified retrospective transition approach applied to those contracts that were not completed as of January 1, 2019. Prior period amounts were not adjusted and continue to be reported in accordance with ASC 605, Revenue Recognition. For contracts which do not qualify as leases in accordance with ASC 842, Leases (“ASC 842”) the Company recognizes revenue under the five-step model under ASC 606, which requires the Company to identify the relevant contract with the customer, identify the performance obligations, determine the transaction price, allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations identified and recognize revenue when each performance obligation is satisfied.

WEWORK INC. NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DECEMBER 31, 2020

The Company's primary revenue categories, related performance obligations and associated recognition patterns are as follows:

Membership and Service Revenue — The Company sells memberships to individuals and organizations that provide access to office space, shared internet connection, access to certain facilities (kitchen, common areas, etc.), a monthly allowance of conference room reservations, and copying and access to the WeWork mobile application. The price of each membership is based on factors such as the particular characteristics of the workspace occupied by the member, the geographic location of the workspace and the size of the workspace. The membership contract includes renewal options that may be exercised at the discretion of the member to extend the term beyond the initial term. All services included in the membership allowance that remain unused at the end of a given month expire.

Membership revenue consists primarily of fees from members, net of discounts for the access to office space provided. The majority of membership contracts are accounted for as revenue in accordance with ASC 606 and are recognized over time, evenly on a ratable basis throughout the agreement, as services are provided and the performance obligation is satisfied.

Certain of the Company's membership contracts with its members relate to "configured" workspaces which meet the definition of leases under ASC 842. The Company has elected not to separate non-lease components from lease components for all membership agreements relating to configured workspaces. The rental revenue recognized under ASC 842 is recognized evenly on a ratable basis over the term of the arrangement, using the same revenue recognition pattern for the membership services arrangements accounted for under ASC 606. We have also elected the practical approach of accounting for our membership contracts accounted for under ASC 842 to exclude sales and use taxes and value added taxes we collect from our members from consideration in the contract and from variable payments not included in the consideration in the contract. We recognize property taxes directly to taxing authorities and any reimbursement for such taxes from our members on a gross basis.

Service revenue consists of additional billings to members for the ancillary services they may access through their memberships in addition to allowances included in membership revenue, commissions earned by the Company on various services and benefits provided to members, and management fee income for services provided to Unconsolidated Locations subject to joint venture or other management arrangements. As of December 31, 2020 included locations in India ("IndiaCo") and Greater China (as defined in Note 6 ("ChinaCo")). Members may elect to add-on additional services at the inception of their agreement. Additional fees for add-on services are included in the transaction price if the member elects an add-on service subsequent to the commencement of a commitment period, the add-on fee will be added to transaction price at that point in time.

The Company's individual locations may include a combination of membership contracts for which revenue is recognized in accordance with ASC 606 and ASC 842 and the location operating expenses are incurred for the location as a whole and not segregated by individual members. As a result, when evaluating the cost of services for membership and service revenue, both contract types are combined to evaluate the performance of an individual location.

Other Revenue — Other revenue includes revenue generated from various other offerings and business lines, not directly related to the Company's core business. Other revenue is generated under our membership agreements through which we provide space-as-a-service. Other revenue primarily includes design and development fees, tuition for education programs, software and other subscription revenue, income generated from sponsorships and ticket sales from events and management and advisory fees earned.

Design and development services performed are recognized as revenue over time based on a percentage of contract costs incurred to the total estimated contract cost. The Company identifies only the specific costs incurred which contribute to the Company's performance obligation. Contracts are generally segmented between types of services, such as consulting contracts, design and construction and operate contracts.

Revenues related to each respective type of contract are recognized as or when the respective performance obligations are satisfied. When total cost estimates for these types of arrangements exceed revenues in a fixed-price arrangement, the estimated loss is immediately. The Company performs ongoing profitability analyses of its design and build services contracts accounted for using a critical assessment of progress in order to determine the accuracy of the latest estimates of revenues, costs and profit margins. Changes to total contract estimated cost or losses, if any, are recognized on a cumulative catch-up basis in the period in which they are determined and may result in decreases in revenues or costs. Significant judgment is required when estimating total cost including future labor and expected efficiency.

whether a loss is expected to be incurred on the project. Pre-contract costs are expensed as incurred unless they are expected to be recoverable by the customer. If the costs are recoverable, contract costs are capitalized and amortized over time consistent with the transfer of the service asset relates.

Income generated from sponsorships and ticket sales from WeWork branded events are recognized upon the occurrence of the event. Revenues are generally recognized over time, on a monthly basis, as the services are performed.

Billing terms and conditions generally vary by contract category. Amounts are billed as work progresses in accordance with agreed terms, either at periodic intervals (e.g., upfront, monthly or quarterly) or upon achievement of contractual milestones. For most of our memberships which are typically invoiced monthly, our payment terms are immediate. In most cases where timing of revenue recognition differs from the timing of invoicing, the Company has determined that its contracts do not include a significant financing component and elects the financing component practical expedient and does not adjust the promised amount of consideration in contracts where the collection and performance is less than one year.

Members' Service Retainers — Prior to moving into an office, members are generally required to provide the Company with a service retainer detailed in their membership agreement. In the event of non-payment of membership or other fees by a member, pursuant to the terms of the membership agreements, the amount of the service retainer may be applied against the member's unpaid balance. The Company records service retainers as a liability as the Company expects to refund some or all of that consideration to the member.

Contract Assets and Receivables — The Company classifies the right to consideration in exchange for solutions or services provided either a receivable or a contract asset. A receivable is a right to consideration that is unconditional as compared to a contract asset which is a right to consideration that is conditional upon factors other than the passage of time. Contracts that contain both contract assets and liabilities are measured on a net basis. Contract assets that are expected to be billed beyond the next 12 months are considered long-term contract assets and included in the balance sheet.

Deferred Revenue — Deferred revenue represents collections from customers for which revenue has not been recognized to date. Deferred revenue is classified as a current liability as it is expected to be recognized as revenue within the next twelve months.

Assets Recognized from the Costs to Obtain a Contract with a Customer — Incremental costs (e.g., member referral fees) of obtaining a customer are capitalized and amortized into expense on a straight-line basis over the life of the contract.

underlying contract period if the Company expects to recover those costs. The incremental costs of obtaining a contract include one-time costs that the Company incurs to obtain a contract that it would not have incurred if the contract had not been obtained. The costs associated with such referral fees are amortized over the underlying contract period, even if the contract term is less than twelve months.

Taxes collected from customers and remitted to governmental authorities are presented on a net basis.

Leasing Arrangements — The Company adopted ASC 842 and the related amendments during the three months ended June 30, 2019, using a modified retrospective approach, as if such adoption had occurred on January 1, 2019. The results as of and for the year ended December 31, 2020, are presented in accordance with ASC 842, while prior period amounts were not adjusted and continue to be reported in accordance with ASC 840 (“ASC 840”).

The Company has a significant portfolio of real estate leases entered into in connection with operating its business. The Company also has equipment and has service contracts, including warehouse agreements, where we control identified assets, such as warehouse space, which arrangements represent embedded leases under ASC 842. The Company determines whether an arrangement is a lease at inception.

The Company has made an accounting policy election to exempt leases with an initial term of 12 months or less from being recognized on the balance sheet. Short-term leases primarily relate to leases of office equipment and are not significant in comparison to the Company's overall portfolio. Payments related to those leases are recognized in the consolidated statement of operations on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

For leases with initial terms of greater than 12 months, the Company determines its classification as an operating or finance lease. At lease commencement, the Company recognizes a lease obligation and corresponding right-of-use asset based on the initial present value of the lease payments using the Company's incremental borrowing rates for its population of leases. The incremental borrowing rate represents the interest rate that the Company would have to pay to borrow over a similar term, and with a similar security, in a similar economic environment, an amount equal to the fixed lease payments. The commencement date is the date the Company takes initial possession or control of the leased premise or generally when the Company enters the leased premises and begins to make improvements in preparation for its intended use.

The Company's leases do not provide a readily determinable implicit discount rate. Therefore, management estimates the incremental borrowing rate used to discount the lease payments based on the information available at lease commencement. The Company utilized a model considering the credit quality for its outstanding debt instruments to estimate its specific incremental borrowing rates that align with applicable market rates.

Non-cancelable lease terms for most of the Company's real estate leases typically range between 10-20 years and may also provide for renewal options. Renewal options are typically solely at the Company's discretion and are only included within the lease obligation and right-of-use if the Company is reasonably certain that the renewal options would be exercised.

The Company's leases may include base rent payments and rent payments that include escalation terms on the amount of base rent versus the market with examples including fixed-rent escalations or escalations based on an inflation index or other market adjustments. Variations that depend on an index or rate are included in lease payments and are measured using the prevailing index or rate at lease inception or change in date. Changes to the index or rate are recognized in the period of change.

Most leases require the Company to pay common area maintenance, real estate taxes and other similar costs. Common area maintenance is a non-lease component whereas real estate taxes are not components of a lease as defined in ASC 842. The Company has elected not to separate components from lease components for all asset classes in our real estate portfolio. To the extent that such costs represent non-lease components, payments are fixed in the lease agreement, those costs are included in the lease payments used to calculate the lease obligation and are included in the total lease cost recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

The Company expends cash for leasehold improvements and to build out and equip its leased locations. Generally, a portion of the improvements is reimbursed to us by our landlords as a tenant improvement allowance. The Company may also receive a broker commission from the lessor for its role in identifying and negotiating certain of the Company's leases. The Company recognizes lease incentives receivable as a reduction of fixed lease payments. Improvement allowances and broker commissions receivable for its role in negotiating the Company's leases, as a reduction of fixed lease payments, are recorded as a component of the total lease cost. The Company considers receivables to represent a fixed future receipt due from the landlord, as our practice and intent is to spend up to or more than the full amount of the tenant improvement allowance that is contractually provided under the terms of the contract as well as to collect any broker commissions contractually due to the Company after lease commencement. The lease obligation recorded on the Company's balance sheet will include the amount of the lease incentives receivable that were included as a component of the total lease obligation at lease commencement. The Company receives collections on its lease incentives receivable that were included as a component of the total lease obligation at lease commencement.

The Company also incurs certain costs in connection with obtaining or modifying a lease. Initial direct costs, or incremental costs of a lease that would have been incurred if the lease had not been obtained, are included in the initial and subsequent measurement of the right-of-use asset ratably over the lease term as part of the total lease cost. Costs to negotiate or arrange a lease that would have been incurred regardless of whether the lease was obtained, such as fixed employee salaries are not initial direct costs and are expensed as incurred.

The Company evaluates its right-of-use assets for impairment consistent with our property and equipment policy disclosure described above.

Operating Lease Cost — In addition to base rent, a large majority of the Company's lease agreements contain provisions for free rent, rent escalations, common area maintenance charges, real estate tax reimbursements, tenant improvement allowances and brokerage commissions paid by the Company for negotiating the Company's lease. These costs, or benefits in the case of the lease incentives due to the Company, are included in the total lease cost.

For leases that qualify as operating leases, the Company recognizes the associated fixed lease cost on a straight-line basis over the lease term, beginning on the date of initial possession, which is generally when the Company enters the leased premises and begins to make its preparation for its intended use. Cash payments made to landlords reduce the Company's total lease obligation while the accretion of the lease liability, using the effective interest rate method, increases the liability over time. The difference between the total lease cost expensed on a straight-line basis and the accretion of the lease obligation over time using the effective interest rate method is recognized as a reduction to the lease right-of-use asset on the accompanying balance sheet.

Variable lease cost includes any contingent rent payments based on percentages of revenue or other profitability metrics as defined in the lease agreement, common area maintenance, the Company's share of real estate taxes, or similar expenses.

charges that are variable in nature. Variable lease costs are not included as lease payments in the calculation of the lease obligation as variable lease costs as incurred and when probable.

All cash payments for lease costs and cash receipts for lease incentives are included within operating activities in the statements of cash flows.

Finance Lease Cost — For leases that qualify as a finance lease, the right-of-use assets related to finance lease obligations are recorded as equipment as finance lease assets and are depreciated over the shorter of the estimated useful life or the lease term and the expense component of depreciation and amortization expense on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations. Payments made under leases are allocated between a reduction of the lease obligation and interest expense using the effective interest method.

In the statements of cash flows, cash payments associated with finance leases are allocated between financing cash flows, for the portion of the reduction of the lease obligation, and operating cash flows for the portion representing interest expense.

Lease Modifications/Termination Fees — When a lease is modified, the lease liability and right of use asset is remeasured as of the effective date on the reassessed remaining lease payments and prevailing incremental borrowing rate. Where the modification relates to a termination option where the new expiration date is in a future period, any termination fees to be paid out are included in the remaining lease payments over the remaining lease term. Where a lease is terminated and the effective date is immediate, the lease liability and right of use asset is derecognized and any difference is recognized as a gain or loss on termination. A termination penalty paid or received upon termination that was not included in lease payments is included in the gain or loss on termination.

Asset Retirement Obligations — Certain lease agreements contain provisions that require the Company to remove leasehold improvements at the end of the lease term. When such an obligation exists, the Company records an asset retirement obligation at the inception of the lease at its fair value. The associated asset retirement costs are capitalized as part of the carrying amount of the leasehold improvements and depreciated over their useful life. The asset retirement obligation is accreted to its estimated future value as interest expense using the effective-interest method.

Location Operating Expenses — Location operating expenses are expensed as incurred and relate only to WeWork and WeLive locations for member operations. The primary components of location operating expenses are real estate operating lease cost such as base rent and property taxes including the Company's share of real estate and related taxes and common area maintenance charges, personnel and related expenses such as compensation expense, building operational costs such as utilities, maintenance and cleaning, insurance costs, office expenses such as internet and printing costs, security expenses, parking expense, credit card processing fees, building events, food and other consumables required of operating our workspace locations. Employee compensation costs included in location operating expenses relate to the salaries, benefits and bonuses relating to the teams managing our community operations on a daily basis including facilities management. Sales incentive bonuses paid to employees as a means of compensating the community team members responsible for location level sales and member retention.

Pre-opening Location Expenses — Pre-opening location expenses are expensed as incurred and consist of expenses incurred before a location opens for member operations. Pre-opening location expenses also consist of expenses incurred during the period in which a location has been closed for member operations.

operations and all members have been relocated to a new workspace location, prior to management's decision to enter negotiations to

The primary components of pre-opening location expenses are real estate operating lease cost such as base rent and tenancy costs, Company's share of real estate and related taxes and common area maintenance charges, utilities, cleaning, personnel and related expenses incurred prior to generating revenue.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses — Selling, general and administrative expenses are expensed as incurred and consist of personnel and stock-based compensation related to corporate employees, member referral fees, technology, professional services including limited to legal and consulting, lease costs for our corporate offices and various other costs we incur to manage and support our business, public affairs and costs related to strategic events. During the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, the Company recorded $137.6 million and $91.2 million, respectively, of advertising expenses.

Selling, general and administrative expenses also includes cost of revenue in the amount of $248.8 million, $384.7 million and $164.1 million for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively, excluding depreciation and amortization of $0.2 million, $14.1 million and $1.1 million for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively, in connection with our Powered by We on-site office design, management solutions and costs of providing various other products and services not directly related to the Company's core space offerings, including but not limited to the products and services offered by Meetup, Inc., Flatiron School, Inc., Conductor, Inc. and Meebo, Inc. during the periods prior to their disposition as described in Note 7 and Note 8.

Also included are corporate design, development, warehousing, logistics and real estate costs and expenses incurred researching and developing markets, solutions and services, and other expenses related to the Company's growth and global expansion incurred during periods where the Company was focused on expansion. These costs include non-capitalized personnel and related expenses for our development, design, production, real estate, growth talent acquisition, mergers and acquisitions, legal, technology research and development teams and related professional fees and expenses incurred such as growth related recruiting fees, employee relocation costs, due diligence, integration costs, transaction costs and consideration fair value adjustments relating to acquisitions, write-off of previously capitalized costs for which the Company is no longer forward with the lease or project and other routine asset impairments and write-offs.

Restructuring and Other Related Costs — Costs that are incurred or will be incurred in connection with a plan of action that will change the scope of business or the manner in which a business is conducted are recorded in accordance with ASC 420, Exit or Disposal Costs. Certain costs associated with the Company's operational restructuring described in Note 3, including one-time employee termination benefits paid to employees that will be or have been involuntarily terminated, contract termination costs and other exit costs, are accounted for under ASC 420. Costs are recognized as expense when management has committed to a plan, the plan is sufficiently detailed in order to estimate the costs of the plan, the plan will significantly change, and the plan has been communicated or notice has been given.

Stock-Based Compensation — Stock-based compensation expense attributable to equity awards granted to employees and non-employees at the grant date based on the fair value of the award. For employee awards, the expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the vesting period for awards that actually vest, which is generally the period from the grant date to the end of the vesting period. For non-employee awards, the expense for awards that actually vest is recognized based on when the goods or services are provided.

The Company generally estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes-Merton option-pricing formula ("the Black-Scholes Model") and a single option award approach. This model requires various significant judgmental assumptions in order to derive a final fair value determination for each type of award, including the expected volatility, expected dividend yield, risk-free interest rate, and fair value of the Company's stock on the date of grant. The expected volatility for options granted is calculated using the "simplified method". This election was made based on the lack of sufficient historical exercise data to provide a reasonable basis upon which to estimate the expected term. The simplified method defines the expected term as the average of the contractual term and the vesting period. Estimated volatility is based on similar entities whose stock prices are publicly traded. The Company uses the historical volatility of these similar entities due to the lack of sufficient historical data for the Company's common stock price. Dividend yields are based on the historical dividend yields and expected future actions. The risk-free interest rate is based on the yield curve of a zero-coupon U.S. Treasury bond on the date the stock option award was granted with a maturity equal to the expected term of the stock option award. All grants of stock options generally have an expected term equal to or greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant.

In situations where the exercise price of a stock option is greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant, the Company estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the binomial model. The binomial model incorporates assumptions about anticipated employee exercise behavior, expected stock price volatility, dividend yield and risk-free interest rate. Anticipated employee exercise behavior and expected post-vesting cancellations over the contractual term used in the binomial model are primarily based on historical exercise patterns. These historical exercise patterns indicate that exercise behavior between employee groups is not significantly different. For the stock price volatility assumption, the Company weights historical volatility and implied volatility and uses daily observations for historical options prices. Our implied volatility assumptions are based on actively traded options related to our common stock. The expected term is derived from the binomial model, based on assumptions incorporated into the binomial model as described above.

The Company estimated the fair value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units awards in connection with the modification of stock options using the Hull-White model and a binomial lattice model in order to apply appropriate weight and consideration of the distribution threshold and catch-up base amount. The Hull-White model requires similar judgmental assumptions as the Black-Scholes model for valuing the Company's options.

Because the Company is privately held and there is no public market for our stock, the fair value of the Company's equity is approved by the Board of Directors or the Compensation Committee thereof as of the date stock-based awards are granted. In estimating the fair value of stock-based awards, the Company uses a third-party valuation specialist and considers factors it believes are material to the valuation process, including but not limited to the price at which recent equity was issued by the Company to independent third parties or transacted between third parties, actual and projected financial results, risks, prospects, economic and market conditions, and estimates of weighted average cost of capital. The Company believes that these factors provides an appropriate estimate of the expected fair value of the Company and reflects the best estimate of the fair value of the common stock at each grant date.

The Company has elected to recognize forfeitures of stock-based compensation awards as they occur. For awards subject to performance conditions, compensation cost will be recognized before the performance condition is probable of being achieved. Recognition of any compensation cost relating to stock grants that vest contingent on an initial public offering or "Acquisition" (as defined in the 2015 Plan detailed in Note 1) is deferred until consummation of such initial public offering or Acquisition.

Equity Method and Other Investments — The Company accounts for equity investments under the equity method of accounting if the requirements for consolidation are not met, and the Company has significant influence over the investee.

influence over the operations of the investee. When the requirements for consolidation and significant influence are not met, the Company uses the equity method of accounting to account for investments in limited partnerships and investments in limited liability companies that have ownership accounts unless the Company's interest is so minor that the Company has virtually no influence over partnership operating policies. Equity method investments are initially recorded at cost and subsequently adjusted for the Company's share of net income, contributions and distributions and are included in equity method and other investments in the accompanying consolidated balance sheet. Investments that do not result in consolidation and are not accounted for under the equity method are measured at fair value, with any change in value recognized in net income. For any such investments that do not have readily determinable fair values, the Company elects the alternative to measure the investments at cost minus impairment, if any, plus or minus changes resulting from observable price changes in transactions for the identical or a similar investment of the same issuer.

Equity method investments are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount may not be recoverable. If it is determined that a loss in value of the equity method investment is other than temporary, an impairment loss is measured as the excess of the carrying amount of an investment over its estimated fair value. Impairment analyses are based on current plans, intended use and available information at the time the analysis is prepared.

Certain of the Company's investments in convertible notes are designated as available-for-sale debt securities and remeasured at fair value. Unrealized gains or losses reported as a component of accumulated other comprehensive income (loss). Interest income is accrued as interest income on the consolidated statements of operations.

When the fair value of an available-for-sale ("AFS") security is less than its amortized cost, the security is considered impaired. The Company adopted ASU 2016-13 on January 1, 2020, on a modified retrospective basis, upon adoption, we modified our impairment model for AFS debt securities by discontinuing using the concept of "other than temporary" impairment on AFS debt securities. On a quarterly basis, the Company evaluates declines in fair value below amortized cost are due to expected credit losses, as well as our ability and intent to hold the investment until recovery occurs. Allowance for credit losses on AFS debt securities are recognized in our consolidated statements of income, and unrealized losses, net of taxes, are included in accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) in stockholders' equity. Prior to adoption, the Company evaluated its securities for other-than-temporary impairment ("OTTI"). If the Company intended to sell an impaired security and it was more-likely-than-not that the Company would be required to sell an impaired security before its anticipated recovery, then the Company recognized OTTI through a charge to earnings equal to the entire difference between the investment's amortized cost and its fair value at the measurement date. If the Company did not intend to sell an impaired security and it was not more-likely-than-not that it would be required to sell an impaired security before recovery, the Company must further evaluate the security for impairment due to credit losses. The credit component of OTTI was recognized and the remaining component is recorded as a component of other comprehensive income. Following the recognition of an OTTI the new amortized cost basis is established for the security. Subsequent differences between the new amortized cost basis and cash flows collected were accreted into income over the remaining life of the security as an adjustment to yield.

Foreign Currency — The U.S. dollar is the functional currency of the Company's consolidated and unconsolidated entities operating in the United States. For the Company's consolidated and unconsolidated entities operating outside of the United States, the Company generally selects the local currency as the functional currency as the local currency is generally the principal currency of the economic environment.

which the foreign entity primarily generates and expends cash. The Company remeasures monetary assets and liabilities that are not functional currency at exchange rates in effect at the end of each period. Gains and losses from these remeasurements are recognized gain (loss) on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations. Foreign currency transactions resulted in net gains (losses) $29.7 million and $(78.6) million, for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively, and relate primarily to transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature. At each balance sheet reporting date, the Company translates the assets and non-U.S. dollar functional currency entities into U.S. dollars using exchange rates in effect at the end of each period. Revenues and entities are translated using rates that approximate those in effect during the period. Gains and losses from these translations are accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) as a component of equity.

Fair Value Measurements — The Company applies fair value accounting for all financial assets and liabilities and certain non-financial liabilities that are recognized or disclosed at fair value in the financial statements on a recurring and nonrecurring basis. Assets and liabilities measured at fair value every reporting period include investments in cash equivalents, available-for-sale debt securities, certain embedded derivatives, bifurcation, certain warrants issued classified as a liability in accordance with ASC 480, Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity (“Level 1”), contingent consideration liabilities relating to business combinations. Other assets and liabilities are subject to fair value measurement in certain circumstances, including purchase accounting applied to assets and liabilities acquired in a business combination, impaired cost assets, investments and long-lived assets that are written down to fair value when they are impaired.

Fair value is defined as the price that would be received from selling an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. When determining fair value measurements for assets and liabilities that are required to be recorded at fair value, the Company assumes the highest and best use of non-financial assets by market participants and the market-based risk measurements that market participants would use in pricing assets or liabilities, such as inherent risk, transfer restrictions and credit risk. Assets and liabilities are classified using a fair value hierarchy, which prioritizes the inputs used to measure fair value according to three levels, and bases the fair value measurements within the hierarchy upon the lowest level of input that is available and significant to the fair value measurement.

Level 1 — Observable inputs that reflect quoted prices (unadjusted) for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.

Level 2 — Inputs that reflect quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in markets that are not active, quoted prices for similar assets in active markets, inputs other than quoted prices that are observable for the assets or liabilities or inputs that are derived principally from or corroborated by observable market data by correlation or other means.

Level 3 — Unobservable inputs that the Company incorporates in its valuation techniques used to determine fair value. These assumptions are consistent with market participant assumptions that are reasonably available.

See Note 16 for additional discussion on the Company’s fair value measurements.

Contingent Consideration — The fair value measurements of contingent consideration liabilities established in connection with business combinations are determined as of the acquisition date based on significant unobservable inputs, including the discount rate, the price of the Company's stock, estimated probabilities and timing of achieving specific milestones, and the estimated amount of future sales. Contingent consideration liabilities are remeasured to fair value at each subsequent reporting date until the related contingency is resolved. Changes to the fair value of the contingent consideration liabilities can result from changes to one or more of the inputs used in the measurement model, including discount rates, the probabilities of achieving the milestones, the time required to achieve the milestones and estimated future cash flows. Judgment is employed in determining the appropriateness of these inputs. Changes to the inputs described above could have a material impact on the Company's financial position and results of operations in any given period.

Cash paid soon after the close of an acquisition is classified as a cash outflow from investing activities, while cash payments made within one year of the acquisition date are classified as cash outflows from either financing or operating activities, depending on whether the amount paid is in excess of the amount of consideration recognized during the measurement period.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

In June 2016, the FASB issued ASU No. 2016-13, Financial Instruments-Credit Losses (Topic 326): Measurement of Credit Losses on Financial Instruments (“ASU 2016-13”). ASU 2016-13, along with subsequently issued updates and amendments, changes how entities will measure credit losses for most financial assets and certain other instruments that are not measured at fair value through net income. The guidance replaces the ‘incurred loss’ model with an ‘expected loss’ approach. Additionally, a subset of the guidance applies to available-for-sale debt securities. The Company adopted ASU 2016-13 on January 1, 2020, on a modified retrospective basis, with a cumulative-effect adjustment to the opening balance sheet. The adoption did not have a material impact on the Company's consolidated balance sheet, consolidated statements of operations or consolidated statements of cash flows.

In October 2018, the FASB issued ASU No. 2018-17, Consolidation (Topic 810): Targeted Improvements to Related Party Guidance for Variable Interest Entities (“ASU 2018-17”). ASU No. 2018-17 amends the guidance for determining whether a decision-making fee is a variable interest. The guidance requires organizations to consider indirect interests held through related parties under common control on a proportional basis rather than on a direct basis. The Company adopted ASU 2018-17 on January 1, 2020 and the adoption of this guidance did not have a material impact on the Company's consolidated balance sheet, consolidated statements of operations or consolidated statements of cash flows.

In April 2020, the FASB issued interpretive guidance in response to questions it received about how to account for the concessions that lessors are providing or are expecting to provide to lessees in response to the operational and financial challenges lessees are facing as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. The question-and-answer document states entities can elect not to evaluate whether a concession provided by a lessor to a lessee in response to the COVID-19 pandemic is a lease modification. An entity that elects not to evaluate whether a concession is a modification can account for the concession as if it were contemplated in the existing contract. Entities may make these elections for any lessor-provided COVID-19 related concession (e.g., deferral of lease payments, cash payments, reduction of future lease payments) that does not result in a substantial increase in the obligations of the lessor or the obligations of the lessee.

The Company has elected to treat short-term COVID-19 related concessions or deferrals provided to our members whose contracts are in accordance with ASC 842 as if it were contemplated in the existing contract and member concessions and deferrals that are expected to extend greater than 12 months or change the other terms of member leases are treated as modifications. The Company has elected to treat short-term rent concessions received from our landlords as variable lease expense and short-term lease deferrals as if there is no change in the contract and related concessions and deferrals that are expected to extend greater than 12 months or change the other terms in the lease are treated as modifications and a full re-valuation of the right-of-use asset and liability is performed.

Recently Issued Accounting Pronouncements

In December 2019, the FASB issued ASU 2019-12, Income Taxes (Topic 740)-Simplifying the Accounting for Income Taxes (“ASU 2019-12”) simplifies accounting for income taxes by removing certain exceptions from the general principles in Topic 740 and clarifies the current guidance to promote consistency among reporting entities. ASU 2019-12 is effective for public companies for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2020, including applicable interim periods. The Company anticipates that the adoption of ASU 2019-12 will not have a material impact on its consolidated financial statements.

Note 3. Restructuring, Impairments and Gains on Sale

In September 2019, the Company initiated an operational restructuring program that included a change in executive leadership and reductions that aim to improve the Company’s operating performance. Throughout 2020, the Company has made significant progress toward operational restructuring goals including divesting or winding down various non-core operations not directly related to our core strategic offering, significant reductions in costs associated with selling, general and administrative expenses, the successful termination of leases at a total of 82 consolidated pre-open locations (including seven associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that were consolidated) and we also strategically closed 24 previously open Consolidated Locations (including nine associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that it was consolidated) as part of our efforts to right-size our existing portfolio to better match demand in certain markets and to help improve overall operating performance.

During 2021, the Company anticipates there will be additional restructuring and related costs consisting primarily of one-time employee benefits, lease termination charges and other exit costs, as the Company is still in the process of finalizing its operational restructuring plan. The Company anticipates all such activities will be substantially complete by the end of 2021.

During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company incurred a total of $206.7 million of expense included in restructuring and other costs on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations. The $206.7 million of expense consists of $191.6 million of one-time employee benefits, offset by $(37.4) million of net gains on lease terminations and $52.5 million of legal and other exit costs.

During the year ended December 31, 2019, the Company incurred a total of $329.2 million of expense included in restructuring and other costs on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations. We evaluated our estimates and assumptions related future revenue and cash flows, and performed a comprehensive review of our locations' long-lived assets for impairment, including equipment and operating lease right-of-use assets, at an individual location level. WeWork Capital Advisors LLC (formerly known as “ARK Capital Advisors LLC”, the “WeCap Manager”) is a majority-owned subsidiary of the Company and its controlled affiliates. The WeCap Manager is also owned in part by Rhône Group L.L.C. and its affiliates (other than the Company) (“Rhône” and, together with the Company, the “Sponsor Group”), a global alternative asset management firm with assets under management across its private equity and real estate platforms.

In August 2019, the Company reorganized its real estate acquisition platform (such platform, following the ARK/WPI combination described above, inclusive of the investment vehicles sponsored, co-sponsored, managed, or co-managed by the WeCap Manager and Sponsor Group (“the ARK/WPI combination”). Through this reorganization (the “ARK/WPI combination”), the Company acquired from Rhône a controlling interest in the WeCap Manager, the management company for the WeCap Investment Group in exchange for a 20% noncontrolling interest in the WeCap Manager.

The WeCap Manager is the surviving entity resulting from the merger of the legacy entity that previously managed WeWork Properties, Inc. and its parallel and related vehicles (collectively the “WPI Fund”), which was indirectly owned 50% by us and 50% by affiliates of Rhône unconsolidated prior to the ARK/WPI combination, and the wholly owned and consolidated legacy entity that previously managed the WPI Fund LP (the “ARK Master Fund”) including its parallel and related vehicles. Following the ARK/WPI combination, the Company owns a 20% interest in the WeCap Manager. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to Rhône’s interest in the WeCap Manager is reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2020 and 2019.

Through its 80% equity ownership interest, the Company is entitled to a corresponding share of the income earned by the WeCap Manager in the form of customary management fees, subject to provisions of the governing documents of the WeCap Manager relating to funding of the WeCap Manager. During the year ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, the WeCap Manager recognized $24.9 million and $19.7 million, respectively in management fee income, classified as other revenue as a component of the total revenue on the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

The post-reorganization WeCap Investment Group also includes the Company’s general partner interests in Waller Creek, DSQ, WPI Holdings Partnership and the ARK Master Fund (each as defined in Note 11), which are held through a limited partnership created as part of the ARK/WPI combination (“the WeCap Holdings Partnership”) in which Rhône also participates to the extent provided by the governing documents of the WeCap Holdings Partnership. Net carried interest distributions earned in respect of the WeCap Investment Group investments are distributable to the Company and Rhône, indirectly through the WeCap Holdings Partnership, based on percentage ownership in the WeCap Investment Group vehicle and range from a 50% to 85% share to the Company of total net carried interest distributions received by the WeCap Holdings Partnership (after a profit participation allocation to certain personnel associated with the WeCap Manager). The portion of the net carried interest distributions attributable to Rhône’s interest in the WeCap Holdings Partnership is reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2020 and 2019.

As of December 31, 2019, there was also a 67% noncontrolling interest in the Company’s investment in WW Caesar Member LLC (“WW Caesar Member LLC”), originally issued for total consideration of $6.5 million. During

July 2020, the $6.6 million share of the net assets of WeWork Waller Creek attributable to noncontrolling interests was distributed to interest holders and the Company sold its share of the investment in WeWork Waller Creek for total proceeds of $8.6 million, including reimbursement of legal fees paid by the Company, and the Company recognized a $5.0 million gain on the sale of its investment including (loss) from equity method and other investments on the consolidated statement of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020.

Primarily because our investments through the WeCap Holdings Partnership in the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles generally represent a small percentage of the total capital invested by third parties, and the terms on which we have agreed to provide services and act as general partners are consistent with the market for similar arrangements, the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles managed by the WeCap Management Company are consolidated in our financial statements (subject to certain exceptions based on the specific facts of the particular vehicle). The Company does not consolidate its share of the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles as unconsolidated investments under the equity method of accounting, but discloses additional details regarding the holdings of WeCap Holdings Partnership.

424 Fifth Venture

In February 2019, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (the “424 Fifth Venture”) closed on the acquisition of a $852.8 million investment located in New York City (the “424 Fifth Property”). The acquisition of real estate by the 424 Fifth Venture was accounted for as a purchase. The purchase price was allocated among the assets purchased, including land of $356.5 million and building of $496.3 million. As of December 31, 2019, the real estate was under development and as a result was included within the Company’s construction in progress, property and equipment table detailed in Note 5.

Just prior to the redemption of the noncontrolling interest holders in March 2020 described below, the consolidated 424 Fifth Venture was owned 45.4% by the Company, 44.8% by the WPI Fund and 38.0% by another investor. Prior to redemption, the portion of consolidated equity attributable to the interest of the 424 Fifth Venture’s other investors was reflected as noncontrolling interests within the equity section of the accompanying balance sheet as of December 31, 2019. Upon completion of the redemption of the noncontrolling interest holders in March 2020, the 424 Fifth Venture became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company.

In March 2020, the 424 Fifth Property was sold by the 424 Fifth Venture to an unrelated third party for a gross purchase price of $978.1 million. Included in the sale was $356.5 million in land and $653.8 million in construction in progress associated with the 424 Fifth Property. Net cash proceeds received at closing were net of closing costs and holdbacks. The Company recognized an impairment loss on assets sold totaling $53.7 million, included in impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets on the accompanying statement of operations during the year ended December 31, 2020.

The underlying debt facility that secured the 424 Fifth Property since acquisition was extinguished upon the sale (see Note 15 for further details). In addition, in connection with the sale of the 424 Fifth Property, the Company also made a payment of $128.0 million to the 424 Fifth Venture. The 424 Fifth Venture made redemption payments to the noncontrolling interest holders totaling $315.0 million including a return of $272.2 million and a return on their capital of $42.8 million.

The sale and debt extinguishment also resulted in the termination in March 2020 of the Company’s original development management agreement for the property, its 20 year master lease of the property, its $1.2 billion lease guaranty, various loan guarantees, various loan covenant agreements, various partnership guarantees and indemnities entered into in connection with the original acquisition.

WEWORK INC. NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DECEMBER 31, 2020

Upon the sale of the property, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company entered into an escrow and construction agreement with approximately $0.2 billion to finalize the core and shell infrastructure work of the property. These funds were held in escrow upon completion and are available to pay construction costs, contingencies and cost overruns. The $0.2 billion is expected to be earned by the Company over months as the development is completed. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company recognized approximately $61.6 million related to this development agreement, included as a component of other revenues. At closing, WeWork Companies LLC provided the Company a guarantee of completion for the core and shell construction work of the property and the Company is obligated for any overruns if the amounts are insufficient to cover the required construction costs.

Creator Fund

During 2018, the Company launched a fund (the “Creator Fund”) that previously made investments in recipients of WeWork’s “Creator” program and other investments through use of a venture capital strategy. A wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company was the managing member of the Creator Fund.

As of September 17, 2020, the Creator Fund had received contributions from SoftBank Group Capital Limited totaling $72.4 million, or 99.99% of the interest of the Creator Fund, including $0.2 million and $27.4 million received during the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018, respectively. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to the interest of the Creator Fund’s investors in the Creator Fund is reflected as noncontrolling interests, within the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2020.

In September 2020, the Company agreed to transfer its rights as managing member and all of its other rights, titles, interests, obligations and commitments in respect of the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG. Accordingly, the Company no longer has a variable interest in the Creator Fund and is no longer the primary beneficiary and the Company has deconsolidated the net assets of the Creator Fund and removed the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest from the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020. As substantially all of the net assets of the Creator Fund previously allocated to the noncontrolling interests, no gain or loss was recognized on deconsolidation of the Creator Fund. In connection with this transaction, the parties also agreed that WeWork would not be required to reimburse SBG for the $21.6 million Creator Awards program reimbursement obligation payable to an affiliate of SBG as of December 31, 2019 as described in Note 25. As SBG is a principal shareholder of the Company, the forgiveness of this obligation was accounted for as a capital contribution and reclassified from liabilities to additional paid-in capital during the year ended December 31, 2020.

ChinaCo

During 2017 and 2018, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (“ChinaCo”) sold to investors $500.0 million of Series A Preferred Stock at a price of $10.00 per share and a liquidation preference of $10.00 per share and $500.0 million of Series B Preferred Stock at a price of $18.319 per share and a liquidation preference of $18.319 per share, respectively. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to ChinaCo’s Series A and B preferred shareholders were reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interests, within the mezzanine section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019. As of December 31, 2019, ChinaCo had also issued a total of 45,757,777 Class A Ordinary Shares in connection with a transaction with naked Hub Holdings Ltd. (“naked Hub”) that occurred during 2018 and an additional 2 million Class A Ordinary Shares to a consultant as described in Note 24. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to ChinaCo’s Class A Ordinary shareholders were reflected as noncontrolling interests, within the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019.

WEWORK INC. NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DECEMBER 31, 2020

Pursuant to the terms of the shareholders' agreement of ChinaCo, as long as certain investors remain shareholders of ChinaCo, ChinaCo will be the exclusive operator of the Company's businesses in the "Greater China" territory, defined in the agreement to include China, Hong Kong, and Macau.

In August 2020, a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Inc. made a short-term loan to ChinaCo totaling $25.0 million (the "ChinaCo Loan"). In connection with ChinaCo's 2018 acquisition of naked Hub, as of December 31, 2019, ChinaCo also had a $191.1 million obligation to a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Inc. for WeWork Inc. shares issued to the sellers of naked Hub (the "Parent Note"). As ChinaCo repaid the Parent Note in August 2020, the Parent Note was eliminated against the Company's receivables in the Company's consolidated financial statements.

In September 2020, the shareholders of ChinaCo and an affiliate of Trustbridge Partners ("TBP"), also an existing shareholder of ChinaCo, entered into a restructuring and Series A subscription agreement (the "ChinaCo Agreement"). Pursuant to the ChinaCo Agreement, TBP agreed to subscribe for a series of ChinaCo shares for $100.0 million in total gross proceeds to ChinaCo, received in connection with the initial investment closing on October 2, 2020 (the "Initial Investment Closing") and an additional $100.0 million in gross proceeds to ChinaCo, with such additional shares issuable at the option of TBP to be received at the earlier of 1 year following the Initial Investment Closing or such earlier date as determined by the ChinaCo board if such funds are necessary to support the operations of ChinaCo (the "Second Investment Closing"). The ChinaCo Agreement also provided for a restructuring of the ownership interests of all other preferred and ordinary shareholders' interests into new ordinary shares in ChinaCo, the conversion of the $191.1 million Parent Note and certain other net intercompany payables totaling approximately $42 million, payment in kind to various wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. into new ordinary shares of ChinaCo such that subsequent to the Initial Investment Closing, WeWork would own 21.6% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo. The Company's remaining 21.6% interest in ChinaCo was scheduled to be diluted down to 19.7% in connection with the Second Investment Closing, assuming no other changes in the ChinaCo capital structure. On October 2, 2020, and as of December 31, 2020, WeWork now holds 21.6% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo. The Company's remaining 21.6% interest in ChinaCo was scheduled to be diluted down to 19.7% in connection with the Second Investment Closing, assuming no other changes in the ChinaCo capital structure. As of December 31, 2020, TBP now holds a total of 50.5% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo subsequently to the Initial Investment Closing and is expected to hold 55.0% of the total shares after the Second Investment Closing. TBP's shares are preference shares with a liquidation preference totaling $100.0 million and $200.0 million as of the Initial Investment Closing and the Second Investment Closing.

Upon Initial Investment Closing on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo received the $100.0 million in gross proceeds from TBP and a portion of the proceeds were used to repay WeWork $25.0 million for the ChinaCo Loan. In addition, pursuant to the terms of the ChinaCo Agreement, the rights of the ChinaCo shareholders were also amended such that upon the Initial Investment Closing, WeWork no longer retained the power to direct the management of ChinaCo that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance. As a result, WeWork was no longer the primary beneficiary of the VIE.

ChinaCo was deconsolidated from the Company's consolidated financial statements on October 2, 2020 (the "ChinaCo Deconsolidation"). The Company's remaining 21.6% ordinary share investment was valued at $26.3 million upon deconsolidation and will be accounted for as an equity method investment as the Company has retained rights that allow it to exercise significant influence over ChinaCo as a related party.

During the fourth quarter of 2020, the Company recorded a loss on the ChinaCo Deconsolidation of $153.0 million included in impairment losses on assets held for sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the consolidated statement of operations calculated based on the difference between the $26.3 million fair value of the Company's retained equity method investment in ChinaCo plus the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest in ChinaCo as of the date of deconsolidation, which was in a negative deficit position of ($22.6) million and (ii) the carrying value of ChinaCo just prior to deconsolidation of $156.7 million.

WEWORK INC. NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DECEMBER 31, 2020

The remeasurement loss recognized on deconsolidation primarily relates to the remeasurement of our retained equity method investment recorded at fair value upon deconsolidation, in comparison to the carrying value of the net intercompany receivables that were converted by ChinaCo in conjunction with the ChinaCo restructuring that ultimately resulted in the deconsolidation.

The net assets of ChinaCo that were deconsolidated on October 2, 2020, included a total of $344.3 million of goodwill related to the acquisition of naked Hub Holdings Ltd. As this goodwill was integrated into the Company's single reporting unit, upon deconsolidation of the reporting unit, the Company's total goodwill was reallocated among the Company and ChinaCo on a relative fair value basis with ChinaCo's goodwill retained by the Company with a corresponding increase to additional-paid-in capital and $28.7 million of ChinaCo deconsolidated.

See Note 25 for details regarding various related party fees payable by ChinaCo to the Company subsequent to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation.

ChinaCo contributed the following to the Company's consolidated results of operations prior to its deconsolidation on October 2, 2020, excluding amounts that eliminate in consolidation:

JapanCo

During 2017, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company ("JapanCo") entered into an agreement with an affiliate of SBG for the purchase of a membership interest in JapanCo for an aggregate contribution of $500.0 million which will be funded over a period of time. As of December 31, 2020, JapanCo had received contributions totaling $300.0 million and during the year ended December 31, 2019, an additional $100.0 million was contributed. Pursuant to the terms of the agreement an additional $100.0 million was required to be contributed and was received during the third quarter of 2019. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to the outside investors' interests in JapanCo are reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interests in the mezzanine section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2020 and 2019. As long as the investors remain shareholders of JapanCo, JapanCo will be the exclusive operator of the Company's WeWork branded space-as-a-service businesses until July 13, 2024 and, prior to that date, in the event of default on the contributions to be made, the Company may elect to purchase the JapanCo membership interests held, other than any interests issued in connection with an equity incentive plan. The Company may make a buyout consideration in either cash, WeWork shares or a combination thereof.

PacificCo

During 2017, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (“PacificCo”) sold $500.0 million of Series A-1 Preferred Stock at a price of $10.00 per share and a liquidation preference of $10.00 per share to an affiliate of SBG. PacificCo is the operator of the Company’s businesses in selected countries in Asia other than those included in the Greater China and Japan territories described above, including but not limited to Singapore, Korea, Malaysia, Thailand, Vietnam and Indonesia.

The initial closing occurred on October 30, 2017 and all of the PacificCo Series A-1 Preferred Stock was issued at that time, however, the Company received contributions totaling $200.0 million at the initial closing and an additional $100.0 million during the year ended December 31, 2017. Pursuant to the terms of the agreement an additional $100.0 million was required to be contributed in each of 2019 and 2020. The Company contributed $100.0 million in August 2019 and the remaining $100.0 million scheduled to be received in 2020 was canceled effective upon the execution of a definitive agreement providing for the completion of the PacificCo Roll-up (as defined below) in connection with the SoftBank Transaction.

In October 2019, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company, SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund agreed to use reasonable efforts to negotiate and finalize the final forms for the exchange of all interests held by affiliates of SBG in PacificCo for 34,482,759 shares of Series H-1 or H-2 Convertible Preferred Stock with a liquidation preference of $11.60 per share (the “PacificCo Roll-up”). On March 12, 2020, the Company signed the definitive agreements for the PacificCo Roll-up and in April 2020, the Company closed the PacificCo Roll-up and exchanged 34,482,759 shares of the Company’s Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock. Upon completion of the PacificCo Roll-up in April 2020, PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE.

The 34,482,759 shares of Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock issued in connection with the PacificCo Roll-up had a fair value of approximately $92.8 million as of April 2020. The fair value of the shares was determined based on the fair value of the shares upon issuance to affiliates of SBG in April 2020. As the share exchange represents an increase in the Company’s ownership of PacificCo, the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest was retained, the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest was adjusted to reflect the change in the Company’s ownership of PacificCo and the Company accounted for the share exchange as an equity transaction with no gain or loss recognized on the acquisition of the noncontrolling interests.

Just prior to the PacificCo Roll-up, the PacificCo noncontrolling interest had a carrying value on the Company’s balance sheet of $10.4 million, including $10.4 million in accumulated other comprehensive income previously allocated to the noncontrolling interest holders. Upon completion of the PacificCo Roll-up, the noncontrolling interest was reduced by the entire $92.8 million carrying value and the $10.4 million of accumulated other comprehensive income was allocated to the Company to adjust for the change in ownership of PacificCo through a corresponding change in paid-in capital. The difference between the $280.3 million fair value of the Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock issued as consideration and the $92.8 million carrying value of the noncontrolling interest was reflected as a charge to additional paid-in capital totaling $187.5 million.

Consolidated Variable Interest Entities

As of December 31, 2020, JapanCo, WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership are the Company’s only consolidated VIEs. As of December 31, 2019, the 424 Fifth Venture, PacificCo, ChinaCo, WeWork Waller Creek and the Creator Fund were also consolidated VIEs. The Company is considered to be the primary beneficiary as we have the power to direct the activities of the VIEs that most significantly impact the VIEs’ economic performance and the right to receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIEs. As a result, the Company consolidates these entities.

The assets of consolidated VIEs will be used first to settle obligations of the VIE. Remaining assets may then be distributed to the Company, including the Company, subject to the liquidation preferences of certain noncontrolling interest holders and any other preferential distributions contained within the operating agreements of the relevant VIEs. Other than the restrictions relating to the Company's Asia JVs discussed below, third-party approval for the distribution of available net assets is not required for the Company's Other VIEs as of December 31, 2020. Common Stock of the Company. ChinaCo was required, pursuant to the terms of the Parent Note, to reimburse the Company for a Company issued on ChinaCo's behalf in connection with the acquisition. The Company determined the fair value of the contingent consideration based on the likelihood of reaching set milestones. Each period, the contingent consideration was remeasured to fair market value through operations. During the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, the Company recorded gains of none and $61.7 million and $80.6 million, respectively, related to the remeasurement of the contingent consideration payable in stock, included as a reduction in administrative expenses on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. The change in fair value of the contingent consideration is driven by changes in the Company's projected obligation to issue additional ChinaCo Class A Ordinary Shares based on the anti-dilution provision in the acquisition agreement, changes in the likelihood of achieving certain milestones, and changes in the fair market value of the Class A Ordinary Shares and the Company's Class A Common Stock during the period. During the year ended December 31, 2019, the Company released $68.1 million of the contingent consideration payable in Class A Common Stock of the Company. As of December 31, 2019, there were $0.4 million in cash holdback and $0.4 million in contingent consideration payable in a combination of Class A Ordinary Shares of ChinaCo and Class A Common Stock of the Company included in other current liabilities on the accompanying consolidated balance sheet, which was released from the year ended December 31, 2020. NH Holdings was deconsolidated during the year ended December 31, 2020 as a part of the Deconsolidation. See Note 6 for further details.

There were no acquisitions during the year ended December 31, 2020. All 2019 acquisitions, other than the real estate asset investments described in Note 6, were accounted for as business combinations and the total consideration was allocated to the identifiable assets acquired and recognized based on their fair values (using primarily Level 3 inputs) as of the closing date of each acquisition, with amounts exceeding the fair value recognized as goodwill. The goodwill is non-tax deductible and primarily attributable to expected synergies from the integration of the acquired companies and WeWork. Preliminary purchase price allocations are finalized upon post-closing procedures. These business combinations were not material to our consolidated financial statements, either individually or in the aggregate. Accordingly, proforma results of these business combinations have not been presented.

During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company released acquisition holdbacks of $39.7 million of cash, $2.4 million of common stock representing 32,337 shares of Series AP-4 Preferred Stock, and $0.2 million of common stock, representing 129,239 shares of Class A Common Stock relating to acquisitions following the satisfaction of requirements per the terms of the relevant acquisition agreements. As of December 31, 2019, the following non-core entities were classified as held for sale: Meetup, Inc. (a web-based platform that connects people who want to meet up together for face to face interactions acquired in 2017) ("Meetup"), Managed by Q (acquired in 2019), Space IQ (acquired in 2019) and Teem Technologies, Inc. (a software-as-a-service workplace management system acquired in 2018) (“Teem”). As a result, the assets and related liabilities directly associated with those assets that were expected to be sold in future sale transactions were reclassified as held for sale as of December 31, 2019 on the accompanying consolidated balance sheet.

During the third quarter of 2019, prior to its held for sale classification, Management had committed to a strategy of disposition of Conductor (a software company focused on enterprise content marketing, customer engagement and digital experience optimization) and Managed by Q (a value added software company focused on enterprise content marketing solutions software company acquired in 2018) and Managed by Q at a value substantially less than the value the Company had recently paid to acquire such assets, which resulted in indicators of impairment of certain acquired intangible assets associated with those operations. In addition, as Managed by Q had not been fully integrated into the Company’s reporting unit during the third quarter of 2019, this also triggered a quantitative fair value assessment of the associated asset group, including the Managed by Q goodwill component of impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statement of operations for the year ended December 31, 2019.

In December 2019, the Company entered into a definitive agreement to sell Conductor and the sale was consummated on December 31, 2019. The proceeds were $3.5 million in cash and the Company recorded an impairment of $2.6 million on the assets held for sale, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statement of operations for the year ended December 31, 2019.

During the fourth quarter of 2019, the Company also decided to wind down certain other recently acquired non-core businesses, including Teem Technologies Inc., Prolific Interactive LLC and Waltz Inc. As these businesses had not yet been fully integrated into the Company’s reporting unit, the decision to wind down operations, this resulted in an additional impairment of the recently acquired goodwill totaling $69.5 million. The goodwill component of impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statement of operations for the year ended December 31, 2019.

In January 2020, the Company sold Teem for total cash consideration of $50.5 million. The Company recorded a gain on the sale of $2.6 million, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020.

In March 2020, the Company sold Managed by Q for total cash consideration of $28.1 million. Of the total consideration, $2.5 million was held back until the closing and is included as a disposition proceeds holdback receivable within other current assets on the accompanying consolidated statement of cash flows for the year ended December 31, 2020. The Company recorded a gain on the sale in the amount of $9.8 million, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020. The gain on the sale was recognized after a $20.7 million impairment of intangible assets and a $145.0 million impairment of goodwill associated with Managed by Q, which was recorded during the year ended December 31, 2019 as discussed above.

In March 2020, the Company also sold 91% of the equity of Meetup for total cash consideration of $9.5 million and the remaining 9% interest in Meetup was sold to the Company. Upon closing, Meetup was deconsolidated and the Company’s 9% interest in the equity of Meetup is reflected within other investments on the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020. Prior to the sale, the Company recorded an impairment loss of $1.5 million on the investment in Meetup.

In March 2020, the Company completed the sale of the real estate investment held by the 424 Fifth Venture and recognized an impairment loss of $23.1 million on the assets held for sale, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations during the year ended December 31, 2020. See Note 6 for further details.

In May 2020, the Company sold SpaceIQ for a total cash consideration of $9.6 million. Prior to the sale, the Company recorded an impairment loss of $23.1 million on the assets held for sale, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020.

In July 2020, the Company sold certain non-core corporate equipment for total cash consideration of $45.9 million. Prior to the sale, the Company recorded an impairment loss of $14.3 million on the assets held for sale, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020.

In August 2020, the Company sold Flatiron LLC, Designation Labs LLC, SecureSet Academy LLC, Flatiron School UK Limited and Flatiron Australia Pty Ltd (collectively “Flatiron”) to Carrick Capital Partners (“Carrick”), for total cash consideration of $28.5 million. Prior to the sale, the Company recorded an impairment loss of $3.0 million and then recorded a gain on the ultimate sale of $6.0 million, each included as a component of the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020. Arthur Minson, WeWork’s former Co-Chief Executive Officer, is an investor in the entity that Carrick used to purchase Flatiron. In connection with the sale, the Company waived certain non-compete obligations for Mr. Minson to allow him to serve on the board of Flatiron.

During 2020, the Company sold the assets of two other non-core companies for total cash consideration of $2.0 million and a promissory note receivable of $3.0 million. The promissory note receivable is included within equity method and other investments on the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020. Prior to the classification as held for sale, the Company recorded an impairment loss on certain of these assets of $18.3 million and then recorded a gain on the ultimate sale totaling $3.1 million, both included as a component of the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020.
